Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

FARLEY IS COMMITTED.

For Trial for the Murder of the Indian Simon Elijah.

On Monday James F. Farley was brought before the P. M. to answer to the charge of killing the Indian Simon Elijah, on the market square on Sunday, June 24th. He He pleaded not guilty and was remanded until this morning.

When the court opened to-day the room was filled with an anxious, eager crowd. County Attorney Wood appeared for the Crown and Mr. John O'Meara for the defence.

The witnesses sworn were Dennis McMartin, Sid Martyn, Robert Fanning, John Burns, George Stephenson, John Barclay, John Mason, Dr. R. W. Bell, Nixon Harris, Theodore Mulcahy, Fred Dolan and Chief Constable Roszel.

The evidence was to the effect that prisoner and deceased had a row in a hotel on the morning of the shooting, that the prisoner said he would kill deceased, and that when the two met on the market square Farley deliberately shot the Indian as already detailed in our columns.

The prisoner was committed to stand his trial at the assizes on September 11th and the witnesses were bound over to appear.

No medicine is more conscientiously prepared, more powerful, or more highly concentrated, than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Its standard of excellence is the result of careful study. This preparation is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

COBOURG.

DROWNED.—Miss Myra Reynolds was drowned in the Mississippi River at Carleton Place on Monday afternoon last. About half-past four o'clock, Miss. Reynolds and a companion,—Miss Kate Campbell, went down to the river and decided to go in for a bath. They had got been in long before Miss Reynolds was either seized with cramps or else was choked with saw dust; the current took her body down and she was drowned before her friend's eyes. The body was recovered in about 30 minutes, but too late to restore life. Deceased was a resident of Cobourg until about a year ago. She was the favorite of many friends. Her remains were interred in St. Peter's cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.—World.

Bricklayers' and Masons' Union

No. 12, Peterborough.

To the Architects and Builders of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—The members of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, No. 12, Peterborough, have decided to take no sub-contracts after the 1st day of June, 1888. We take this step believing it to be to the interest of Architects and Proprietors of buildings, to deal directly with us, and not, as heretofore, letting our branch of work to Carpenters, and then have them sub-let it to us, frequently at a loss to owners of buildings through inferior material being used to secure the carpenter a profit. We therefore consider it would be to the interest of all concerned, to have each trade control its own line of work.

Signed on behalf of the Union,

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"She is earlier than I expected," was her mental comment as she glanced at the clock. "It is barely half past three."

Voices were heard speaking in the hall, and Mona rose intending to go out and meet her friend, when the door opened, and Lisle entered unannounced, his hat in his hand, looking bright and brown. Mona colored in spite of herself.

"Good-morning," he cried, cheerily. "I hope you will forgive a change of plans. Lady Finistoun finds she must drive in to Kirktoun to meet Major and Mrs. Menteith—Finistoun's sister, you know—so I offered myself and my dog-cart to convey you to the Lodge. I hope you will forgive the change."

"Oh! I have nothing to forgive," she said, smiling. "If you do not mind taking me and my dress basket, I am ready to start."

"Well said," cried Lisle, exultingly. "As it is a fine clear afternoon, and we have plenty of time, I will take you round by Balmuir; the views are splendid nearly all the way."

"Very well," said Mona, who had now recovered herself, and in a few minutes she was perched beside her charioteer, her light dress basket hoisted up and confided to the care of the groom—who sat behind—and they were off.

"I hope there are not many very steep hills," she said, after a few moment's silence; "I am not too courageous."

"No, the road is safe and easy! I know the country; I was here for a whole season with Finistoun a few years ago, the autumn before you were presented. That is a sort of epoch to me."

"Much more so to me!" she returned, laughing. "I well remember the heart-sinking with which I looked forward to making my courtesy under the eye of royalty. Do you know I sometimes think all that must have been a dream!"

"If fear the waking cannot have been very pleasant," said Lisle, bending his eyes upon her.

"I have nothing to complain of. There is not so much difference between one style of life and another, as a man like you would think."

"As a man like me!" said Lisle. "What am I like?"

"Like your fellows, I suppose. Life to you and to your peers, without horses and dogs, shooting and hunting, clubs, races, and, for the more ambitious, politics, would be something intolerable. Now, a regular occupation, by which you earn your bread, and slowly but surely improve your position, answers all the purposes of those costly amusements; but I will not bore you by prosing—"

"Suppose I enjoy listening to the tones of your most sweet voice, will you not indulge me by a little more."

"Oh, I have lost the thread of my discourse. I only want to say that now time has accustomed me to the loss of poor, dear grannie, I think I am very happy."

"But there is one piece of your life about which I am profoundly interested, and would like to inquire into, if you would permit me."

"Yes, I do not mind telling you anything of that kind."

"There was a period after your grandmother's death, when you had left the Everards', and had not yet disinterred your uncle. How did you get through that time?"

"A dear good soul took me in—a lady who had been my music mistress, and she showed me how to earn my living under her guidance. I attained to the proud eminence of earning about seven pounds a month. It was very nice, I assure you, to feel the money was my own."

"Great heavens!" ejaculated Lisle. "And you preferred this to marrying a man of wealth!"

"You must know how delicious the sense of independence is. Do you think a woman cannot feel it too?"

"And does love count for nothing.

Mona laughed.

"Yes, I suppose with the real upper class of human beings, it counts for a good deal. It is part of the sum, however, I have not yet worked out. Tell me something of your Indian life. You see I reciprocate the interest you take in my history."

"I do not think you reciprocate at all," returned Lisle, with a wistful look, which she met steadily, a slightly mocking smile in her own.

Lisle's brow contracted; but he had a good deal of tact and self control, and he immediately started a light amusing sketch of his life, so far as society, traveling, and hunting went, and time flew pleasantly.

She listened with evident interest to all he said, often questioning him, and so they drew near the end of their journey—of the tete-a-tete which Lisle had schemed to secure; and he had not moved her pleasant, friendly ease by one instant of hesitation or confusion. His most unmistakable insinuations, his most killing glances, only produced half-amused, half-kindly smiles.

Lisle was furious, mortified, and more in love than he ever was since his boyish days. Should he have to tell her in so many words that he adored her, and sought her for his wife, in order to extract any recognition from her? If she were cold, if she shrunk from him, or repelled him, he could understand it, and he would know how to act; but this frank, charming kindness, this readiness to be with him! It was an invisible, impassable fence which he did not seem capable of breaking down.

"If I could but ascertain whether I have a rival or no," he thought, "I should know what to do. I suspect she is playing a part. What is her object? To be Lady Lisle? That would be object enough to most women; but, though I have long ceased to believe in angels, Mona is something different, or she never would have chosen poverty in preference to Waring. Well, I'll try what cool friendship will do, with a dash of flirting in other directions."

"There is the Lodge," he said, pointing to a long, low building, or collection of buildings, which lay in a hollow beneath them, the wild moorland round it, and some huge gray rocks behind. "The position is not comparable to Craigdarroch, and it must be cold and bleak enough in winter. But I suppose no one stays here in winter."

"I fancy my uncle will," said Mona, "and I cannot say I like the prospect. But—" as the sound of a rapidly approaching carriage made her turn, and she interrupted herself to exclaim—"Here is Lady Finistoun and her visitors!"

"So glad I have overtaken you!" cried Lady Finistoun, saluting with her whip. "I wanted to be at home to receive you. Let us pass, Sir St. John."

Lisle drew to one side, and whipping up her ponies, Lady Finistoun dashed on at a rapid pace.

At the door were assembled Miss Morton, Bertie Everard, and Herr von Oetzen, one of the attaches to the German Embassy. The rest of the party were still in the forest, and Lord Finistoun had gone deer-stalking.

Lady Finistoun had alighted, and stood on the steps to welcome Mona, which she did very cordially, kissing her more than once, and presenting her to Mrs. Menteith as her "dear cousin."

"So," said Everard, advancing to shake hands with her, "you have been assigned to Lisle's care, on revient toujours, eh!"

"Oh, my mission is to take care of myself," returned Mona, smiling. "I did not know you had arrived."

"Came last night. Had I known that Uncle Sandy's lair was between this and Kirktoun, I should have paid you a visit en route. Well, Mona, and have you recovered the Fitzallan episode? The poor fellow has had a desperate affair since. We have had to buy off the lady! How, is my uncle? Are you the acknowledged heiress of Craigdarroch?"

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1888

THE O'DONNELL-TIMES CASE.

Mr. Parnell Accused of Having Crossed the Sea to Collect Funds.

LONDON, July 4.—When the trial of the O'Donnell-Times libel suit was resumed yesterday, Mr. Lucy of The Daily News was further cross-examined, with a view to showing that O'Donnell and Parnell were chiefs of the Irish party when Gladstone denounced the League Counsel called Joseph Cowen, formerly M. P. for Newcastle-on-Tyne, for the purpose of obtaining certain evidence, but the Lord Chief Justice refused to allow its introduction. Mr. Bain, M. P. for Morpeth, gave testimony, and then the case for the plaintiff was closed.

Attorney-General Webster opened for the defence. He animadverted upon the non-appearance of Mr. Parnell and prominent members of the League in the witness-box, and declared that The Times' articles on "Parnellism and Crime" referred to the whole League and not to Mr. O'Donnell personally. He taunted Mr. Reugg (plaintiff's counsel) with failing to prove his client's case. He (Webster) intended to prove The Times'. Mr. O'Donnell, he said, was formerly the editor and controller of United Ireland, of Dublin, and he did not dare to go into the witness-box because of the fear of being questioned concerning incidents damaging to the League. Mr. Webster said seven persons were murdered between January, 1880, and March, 1882, who had been guilty of no crime except that of offending the League. When these murders were mentioned in Parliament the Irish members neither made an explanation nor repudiated them. He would prove that remittances were made to the League from America by men of the worst possible character. He asked where the books of the League were, and expressed the belief that they had been removed to Paris. If the acts of the League had been lawful the books would have been produced. The Attorney-General then read extracts from speeches made by members of the League, which advocated boycotting and violence. Sometimes, said Mr. Webster, murder followed these speeches. He said that American money supported the Leaguers. Mr. Parnell had especially crossed the Atlantic to collect funds.

Mr. Parnell, entering the court at this moment, heard the Attorney-General's allusion to him. The court at this point adjourned.

Hungary's Attitude.

PESTH, July 4.—Count Apponyi, in a speech yesterday said: "Foreign papers again predict that we will be forced to yield to Russia in regard to Bulgaria, but the whole Hungarian nation insists that it cannot allow even a hair breadth's infringement of the treaty rights of its Balkan neighbor. We do not arrogate to ourselves any special rights in the Balkans but neither can we allow other Powers to assume greater rights than are accorded them by the Berlin Treaty. We want peace. It is our firm conviction that resolution means peace, while vacillation means a long-continued war.

The French Government Sustained.

PARIS, July 4.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday discussed an interpellation regarding the action of the Minister of Justice in removing an assistant procureur at Carcassonne for enforcing a sentence of imprisonment upon the Mayor of that town, who had been convicted of corrupt practice at an election. M. Floquet explained that the Mayor was seriously ill at the time of the election and could not have been guilty of the charge made against him. The Chamber by a vote of 326 to 176 declared its confidence in the Government.

Gen. Sheridan's Voyage.

LEWES, Del., July 4.—Gen. Sheridan stood the run from Hampton Roads well, though he is somewhat fatigued. His pulse is good, but his respiration and appetite are less favorable.

A bulletin issued last evening states that the General had an attack of pulmonary congestion this morning, which was, however, more easily controlled than on any previous occasion. He had several refreshing naps during the afternoon and is resting quietly.

A MONTREAL BIGAMIST.

Who Sought the Seclusion of Boston—The Harbor Improvement Bonds.

MONTREAL, July 4.—Mrs. Hudson, a respectable milliner of this city, was a passenger by the train from Boston yesterday, where she had been instituting proceedings for bigamy against her husband, who she alleges deserted her and her two young children some years ago and married a Miss Alice Hall of Sherbrooke in Boston, with whom he has been residing ever since.

The Harbor Commissioners at their meeting yesterday had tenders for their bonds ($150,000) from 94 up to par. They accepted a tender for the entire issue at par.

The tender of 60 cents on the dollar made by Mr. Henry Hamilton for the Balmoral Hotel estate has been accepted. The entire assets of the estate will barely pay privileged claims for rent, wages and taxes.

A Perilous Voyage.

MONTREAL, July 4.—A young Belgian named Arthur Liessens, living at Lachine, borrowed a boat on Friday last and went for a row, but never having handled an oar he was soon carried down by the current. When the rapids came in sight he abandoned the oars and lay down in the bottom of the boat. From wave to wave the boat was tossed, but strange to say he came through safely and reached the Jacques Cartier wharf, having been five hours in making the trip.

Sudden Death at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 4.—Rev. Father Marrgan, parish priest of Fournierville, Prescott county, fell dead from heart disease while walking in his garden on Sunday morning.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE LATEST GOSSIP ABOUT THE CABINET VACANCIES.

Probability that the Postoffice Portfolio will not be Awarded at Present—Probable Position for Dr. Montague.

OTTAWA, July 4.—There was a meeting of Council yesterday, at which it is understood only what Sir John calls "Paris work" was done. It is rumored that all that is to be done for the present in the way of appointments has been done and only the return of the orders-in-council signed by the Governor are awaited before making the announcements.

Whether a new Postmaster-General has been appointed to succeed Hon. Mr. McLelan is somewhat doubtful and it will not be surprising to find that the portfolio is left vacant until the fall. This view is supported by the fact that Hon. Mr. Chapleau, whom rumor points to as the coming Postmaster-General, leaves to-day or to-morrow for Sherbrooke from whence he will start on Monday for Boston on his way to the Maritime Provinces. He will be accompanied by Dr. Montague, M. P., and other friends.

Apropos of the Doctor, there is a whisper that when that reconstruction takes place and the Minister of Trade and Commerce is appointed, with Comptroller of Customs and Inland Revenue, the member for Haldimand will get one of the minor positions.

Sir Hector Langevin will leave to-morrow morning for Montreal, where he will remain a few hours and then proceed to Rimouski for a three weeks' vacation.

Gen. Middleton left yesterday to inspect the camps at Sherbrooke and Three Rivers. He will afterwards visit the Maritime provinces.

Sanford Fleming has received a letter from Principal Grant, dated Cape Town, in which he states that his health was greatly improved by the sea voyage.

These customs ratings were given during June: Acid phosphate powder for making baking powder, starch being usually one of the largest component parts, is subject to duty as such except it can be shown that it contains no starch in any particular case, 2c per lb; bronze wire as copper or brass, free; building plans as drawings, 20 p.c.; clinical thermometers in board or rubber cases, 25 p.c; French capers in vinegar under item 364 and 365; granulated silver, not further manufactured, free; imitation leather gimp, 30 p.c; inside sliding window blinds, 25 p.c; land plaster, ground, 10c per 100 lbs; patent turpentine, a compound of petroleum spirit, 75c per gallon; porcelain opaque ware 35 p.c; resin oil, 20 p.c; wire window screens, 25 p.c.

In spite of the pressure brought to bear on the Government it has been decided to adhere to the close season for lobsters, which commenced July 1.

It is expected that Fisheries Inspector Mowat and party of British Columbia will leave about July 15 on a prospecting cruise for black cod.

The question of appealing the Ayer case is still under consideration. The Minister of Customs is having the evidence and judgment prepared to submit to the Minister of Justice.

The Body Identified.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., July 4.—A body found in the river here has been fully identified by friends and papers on his person as that of Dr. J. G. Payne, who boarded on the east side and suddenly disappeared ten days ago. The body will be sent to Collingwood, where his family reside.

CONVICTED BY PERJURY.

A Sensational Development in the Doyle Murder Case.

HALIFAX, July 4.—The case of William Preeper, convicted a short time ago of the murder of Peter Doyle, has assumed a sensational aspect by reason of the receipt of two letters by Mrs. Doyle, the murdered man's wife who is now in jail awaiting a new trial as an accessory, from her sister Emily Dillman, on whose evidence Preeper was convicted. One of the letters was sent by post and fell into the hands of the authorities, creating no small astonishment, as it admitted that Emily's evidence at the trial was false. The other was brought to the jail by a sister of Mrs. Doyle and corroborated the statements in the former letter.

Hamilton Notes.

HAMILTON, July 4.—Edward Bernard was before the Police Magistrate charged with assaulting Mrs. Nancy Wheeler with intent to commit a felony. Mrs. Wheeler swore that she was aroused from her sleep by feeling someone put a hand upon her neck. She distinguished Bernard, whom she had known for some time, and who was about her place about five weeks before. He was found guilty of common assault and fined $10 or 40 days.

T. B. Fairchild's hotel was broken into Monday night and the safe partially drilled. The thieves made off with $2 from the till and a bottle of gin and one of whisky.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING.

The Minister of Education Returns from His American Tour.

TORONTO, July 4.—The Minister of Education has decided to ask his colleagues to allow him to establish, in the coming autumn, a lectureship in mechanical engineering in connection with the School of Practical Science. The aid in this step is to afford Canadian mechanics an opportunity to qualify themselves for high positions in their own line of business.

He has come to this conclusion on visiting in company with Professor Galbraith of the School of Practical Science, the principal universities of the New England States, Cornell University, Lehigh University, Hoboken Technical School and the Boston School of Technology. In some of the schools the young men were required not only to take their course of lectures in mechanical engineering, but they were required to do the practical part as well. Shops for the purpose, fitted with blacksmith's tools, lathes, are attached to the schools. In others the same line was followed, but in place of using the school's shop the students had access to others. Most of the schools had sufficient endowment to allow of almost any scheme their respective senates thought fit to advance. In the Cornell University there is a department for the study of architecture, in which the history of architecture is taught in addition to designing, ventilation and all details of the subject.

During the past fiscal year $959,175 was collected in the Inland Revenue office at Toronto.

Real estate in Toronto is much quieter than it has been for a long time. At the Real Estate Exchange yesterday every property offered at auction yesterday, with one exception, had to be withdrawn.

The examination for junior matriculation into Toronto University began yesterday. In all 235 pupils are writing. Of these 47 present their second class certificates pro lanto, 10 are candidates for the partial or local examinations, and 7 for matriculation in medicine. Twenty-six ladies and 75 men write at the University in Toronto and the others at the High Schools they attend. In all 39 ladies write.

THE PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

Proceedings of the First Day's Session at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 4.—The National Prohibition Convention opened here yesterday, about 200 delegates being present. Senator Vidal, President of the Dominion Alliance, was in the chair and made a brief address. The Executive Committee of the Dominion Alliance presented a report giving a brief review of the history of the movement since the former Montreal convention in 1885.

Ex-Mayor Howland of Toronto was elected Permanent President; S. A. Fisher, M.P., and John Parsons, Vice-Presidents; and J. H. Laud and Rev. James Kines joint Secretaries.

Most of the day was occupied in discussing the question whether the Scott Act was a failure, and several resolutions were offered, including one expressing confidence in the Scott Act, a second in favor of forming a prohibition party, a third in favor of more advanced legislation than the Scott Act, and a fourth in favor of the formation of a third party, but all were referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

A Partial Prohibition Scheme.

TORONTO, July 4.—James Beaty, jr., Q.C., has prepared a draft of an act which he suggests as a substitute for the Scott Act, recently repealed in so many places where it has been in force. His proposed bill aims at the prohibition of the manufacture and importation of all ardent spirits, such as brandy, rum, gin and whisky, or combinations thereof, also the adulterations of ales, beers or wines, and the adding thereto of ardent spirits in any form. By this means he hopes to accomplish a large measure of the results prohibitionists are aiming at, and he urges all temperance men and temperate people to unite in pressing for its adoption.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1888.

A SITE TO BE PURCHASED FROM MR. GEO. A. COX.

A Short Meeting of the Board of Education, but Considerable Business is Transacted After Much Talk.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held at the Institute on Tuesday evening.

Mayor Stevenson, Chairman, presided and the others present were Messrs. Dumble, Denne, Hughes, A. Rutherford, O'Meara, Weir, Burnham, Wrighton, English, Kendry, T. Rutherford and Stratton.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

INQUIRIES.

In answer to Mr. Dumble the Secretary said that Mr. Rowan had accepted $50 in full of all claims against the Board.

The CHAIRMAN said that complaints had been made to him that the Principal had ordered paper from a person other than the person who had the contract.

Principal LONG explained that a few quires of special paper had been procured.

Mr. HUGHES asked if the receipts for Institute fees were increasing.

The SECRETARY said that they were.

NORTH WARD SCHOOL.

Mr. KENDRY read a report recommending the purchase of a lot from Mr. Geo. A. Cox, for $1600, on Barnardo avenue, when the road is made 66 feet wide, for the purpose of erecting a school in the North Ward.

Mr. HUGHES asked if the lot was satisfactory to the residents of the north end?

Mr. KENDRY said it was about the centre of the Ward and in every way suitable.

Mr. DUMBLE thought the lot was "dirt" cheap.

Mr. A. RUTHERFORD thought the price was too high and the lot, three quarters of an acre, too small for a school and play grounds.

Mr. KENDRY said that the committee had considerable time to look after the matter, and it was the unanimous conclusion that a better site than the one chosen could not be found in the ward.

Mr. WEIR had seen the lot chosen and felt confident that a finer location could not be found in the ward.

Mr. STRATTON had no objections to the proposed site, but he would like to have something definite before him regarding the kind of building, etc., that it was intended to erect. He referred to the Institute matter and asked for further information. He proposed that a committee be appointed to consider the matter and report at a special meeting, to be held in a week.

Mr. DUMBLE said the proposed school was a necessity and the lot was one of the finest in town. In fact he thought the lot was too good for a common school site. The matter had been before the Board for a long time and it was high time that it was settled.

Mr. T. RUTHERFORD said that the lot was a good one and the whole place should be purchased.

Mr. HUGHES wanted the board to make haste slowly. He favored Mr. Stratton's motion to defer the matter for week.

Mr. STRATTON did not oppose the site or the expenditure, nor in any way did he want to burk the scheme.

Mr. DENNE thought the time had come for a school in the North Ward. In a short time the trustees of the Auburn school will notify the Board that they cannot receive town pupils any longer. The site chosen was a good one and could not be bettered.

Mr. KENDRY said that a large number of children in the North Ward could not go to school at present as they had too far to go. The school had been promised for years and it should be erected as soon as possible.

Mr. STRATTON desired to know how much the school will cost.

The report was adoped.

Moved by Mr. STRATTON, seconded by Mr. HUGHES.—That the erection of a public school in the North Ward and the improvements of the Collegiate Institute be referred to a special committee, consisting of Messrs. Kendry, Dumble, English, Weir, Denne, Wrighton, O'Meara, T. Rutherford, Stratton and Hughes.—Carried.

MORE MAPS.

Moved by Mr. STRATTON, seconded by Mr. O'MEARA.—That the chairman of the School Supervision Committee procure maps of Africa and India for the Institute.—Carried.

ABOUT ORDERS.

Moved by Mr. DENNE, seconded by Mr. KENDRY.—That no orders be accepted by the Board, unless they are given by the chairman of the Board or the chairman of the different committees.—Carried.

SALARIES.

Mr. HUGHES read a motion to the effect hat the salary of no teacher be increased during the year and that the question of increasing salaries be considered only once a year.

The CHAIRMAN said that a similar motion was already on the books.

The motion carried.

BORROWING MONEY.

A by-law was passed authorizing the Chairman and Treasurer to borrow the sum of $12,000 from the Ontario Bank.

The Board then adjourned.

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

The Central.

A meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society was held today. Some slight work was done at the prize list and then all started out on to the war path to solicit prizes from the merchants and others. They were successful in securing a good number of prizes.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

At this season many Housekeepers are replenishing their supplies of Tableware and China. City folk are furnishing summer cottages; country folk are filling up the dressers and cupboards of the old homestead; town's folk are picking and choosing here and there. Many would be glad to know of a place whose special business is to meet these wants and desires; that aims to furnish essentially good wares at consistently low prices; that offers the choice of many different dinner services, and yet does not compel you to take an entire set of any pattern, but allow you to select each course of a new design, or buy any portion of the set you may need; that does not try to impose ideas or wares upon purchasers, and yet is ready to advise which of the many wares is most desirable and suitable; and, if wished, will make a careful selection of pattern. When you want Tablewear will you give us the opportunity to serve you.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh south and south-west winds; mostly fair, with a few local thunderstorms, and stationary or higher temperatures.

For Picnics or Excursions.

To enjoy an outing one requires to be properly clad. Nothing will tend to make a holiday trip more enjoyable to a lady than to wear one of the handsome and stylish grenadines, new bright prints or cowns sold at the golden lion. The supply is large and prices very low.

Remember

the Baptist Sunday School excursion per Steamer Golden Eye to Jubilee Point, on Thursday the 5th inst. This will be a delightful trip, and all who can should take advantage of it. Fare, adults 35 cents, children 15 cents. Boat leaves the Peterborough wharf at 8.30 in the morning. 2d1

July Fourth.

To-day, July fourth, is the anniversary of the American Declaration of Independence, and our Yankee cousins are enjoying themselves. Quite a number left for Rochester and other neighboring places. A majority of the employees of the Lock Company are citizens of the United States and they are taking a holiday.

Acknowledgement.

The Lady Superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital thankfully acknowledges the following donations to the Hospital in June:—Mrs. Morrow, milk; Mrs. T. Rubidge, jelly and apples; Mrs. G. A. Smith, papers; a friend, a roll of butter and two empty bottles; Mr. Jas. Mann, rhubarb; a friend, one dozen china egg cups and two oranges; Mrs. Minore, flowers; Mr. Salisbury, papers; Mr. Minore, papers; C. W. Hawley, numbers of Grip; Miss Hamilton, marmalade.

Beautiful Property.

The Roman Catholic Park Lot which for so long a time has been looked at with hungry eyes, is at last being put in the market. It lies between two of the best streets in Peterborough, Gilmour-st. especially is the fashionable street of the town. The lots will be sold off at low prices, as money is needed for church purposes. As soon as building operations are begun on this property there will be a rapid advance in value. The sale will afford a good investment for all who desire a safe thing and a chance for a little speculation. 6d151-1w26

Cricket.

A team of colts played at Port Hope on Saturday and were badly defeated. The Peterborough players only mustered eleven and four men were borrowed from Trinity College School. The score tells the tale:—

Personal.

Dr. A. M. Rosebrugh, of Toronto, will be at the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on Saturday next, the 7th inst. 1d1-1w27

Mr. Fred Armstrong of Belleville, formerly with Messrs T. Dolan & Co., has been spending a few days in town.

Mr. William Flavelle, of Lindsay, an old Peterborough boy, is in town to-day.

Mr. R. P. Rogers, son of Col. Rogers, of Grafton, a pupil of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, has passed the matriculation examination at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Mr. John Stirling, headmaster of the West Ward school, the energetic Secretary of the cricket club, has returned from a flying trip to his native land, Scotland. He is in the best of health and spirits.

In the recent examinations at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Sergt. Harry S. Rogers, son of Col. Harry C. Rogers, won the class prize in the third year class given for the highest total of marks obtained during the year, and also won the artillery prize. Sergt. Rogers stood highest in six subjects and is entitled to wear two stars. This is a very creditable pass indeed, and gives him the position of senior Com. Sergt.-Major.

Ladies go into ecstacies over the new perfume, "Lotus of the Nile."

The Collegiate Institute.

The report of Inspector Hodgson, who visited the Collegiate Institute on June 12th and 13th, has been received. He repeats in his report regarding the building what he said to the Board while here. In regard to the equipment he places the library and apparatus in the highest rank. He also places in the highest rank the organization and discipline. In the classification of the character of teaching, seven out of eight departments are graded in the highest and one in the second. This certainly speaks well for Mr. J. H. Long, the Principal, and the staff. The Inspector adds this note:—"As regards accommodations, however, I have to call attention to the following defects:—1 There is no gymnasium; 2, the science class room is not fitted up with tables for practical work by the pupils; 3, the internal arrangement of the building is such that no adequate provision is made for (a) hall, (b) cap-rooms, (c) waiting rooms, and (d) very little for ventilation. The removal of these defects, and especially 1, 2 and a and d of 3, should be a condition of the retention of Collegiate Institute standing. I therefore recommend that the special Collegiate Institute grant be withheld until the regulations regarding accommodations have been complied with."

Found At Last.

On the third day of November, 1887, Mr. John A. Fowler, jr., a son of Mr. John A. Fowler, of North Monaghan, mysteriously disappeared from Alpena, Michigan. Search for him was unsuccessful until June 26th, when the body was found floating in the river, near where he resided. It is impossible to ascertain how the young man came to his sad end. His funeral was conducted by the Oddfellows, of which body he was an esteemed member. Mr. Fowler, sr., went to the scene and efforts are being made to clear up the mystery.

At Port Perry.

A race meeting took place at Port Perry on Monday and Tuesday. About a dozen went up from Peterborough and all agree that the meeting was a great success. Mr. H. Wilch's Sleepy Dan captured first place in the 3 minute and 2.40 classes, winning each in three straight heats. A protest was entered against him, but it was afterwards withdrawn. In the open race Dan secured third place against Maud S and Billy-Go-Easy. The track was soggy and the time made was not as fast as any of the horses can go.

Heard From.

Some weeks ago we mentioned the fact that a young man named Geo. D. Sprake, formerly employed in this office, had mysteriously disappeared from Portland, Oregon. He was known to have had considerable money on him at the time and foul play was suspected. The fears were groundless, however, as the secretary of the Sons of England Lodge here, of which Sprake is a member, has received word that Sprake is alive and well and is working in Valparaiso, South America.

No injurious effects can follow the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. It contains an unfailing antidote and specific for miasmatic poisons together with remedial agents which purify and reinvigorate the system.

The Burglar's Visit.

Complaints have been made to the Review that the Chief of Police and none of the force visited the scene of the burglar's visit on Monday night at Mrs. Burritt's or made any enquiries about it. It certainly looks odd, especially as a "clue" awaited them in the form of the burglar's hat, and as the midnight visitor was seen at close quarters by more than one, Chief Roazel was spoken to and replied that he did not know anything about the attempted burglary until he saw it in the evening papers. The query is, was it reported to the police, and if so to what member of the force?

The "Royal" Flavoring Extracts are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality.

A Successful Business.

With the beginning of this half year Mr. W. H. Hill has had added to his Central Ontario agency of the Sun Life company the counties of Lennox and Addington. Mr. Hill's agency now embraces seven counties and is one of the most important, in point of business, of any of the Sun Life's general agencies in the Dominion. Six years ago Mr. Hill began business for the Sun Life with one county—that of Peterborough—and he has now the management of the Central Ontario district with a staff of six men. The business he sent in for the company in 1887 was over seven times that sent in from the same agency in 1882, and the business, in both the life and accident departments, thus far in 1888 (the first six months) far surpasses that of any previous year. The Sun's leading place among the life companies of Canada makes it an easy company to work for. Its showing as per its printed report puts it second to none in profitable business. Mr. Hill is an energetic agent who could scarcely fail to make a success of his business, and the great success of the agency is therefore not surprising.

VICTORY FOR THE Y.M.C.A.

The Local Team Defeat the Port Hope Team by Three Straight Games.

The Y. M. C. A. team left town by the 6 a. m. train on Monday morning and were accompanied by a number of their friends. At Port Hope they were met by Secretary King and others and escorted to the Queen's Hotel where they were entertained. At 9.15 o'clock the teams marched from the hotel to the park, and at 20 minutes to ten the teams lined up on the field as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH.		PORT HOPE.
Manning	Goal	Nattrass
Metheral	Point	C. Hamley
Connal	Cover Point	Kelly
Henderson	3rd Defence	W. Patterson
S. Rubidge	2nd "	E. Patterson
Davidson	1st "	N. Hamley
Mooney	Centre	Stephens
Stevens	3rd Home	C. Toms
P. Rubidge	2nd "	W. Ross
Foote	1st "	R. Corbett
Hendricks	Inside "	B. Hamley
Armstrong	Outside "	King
Pakenham	Field Captain	J. Hamley
Umpires		Robinson and Squires
Referee		A. G. Duncan, Millbrook

In the face the ball was scrimmaged, drawn out by Stevens and lobbed on the Port Hope flags, where a vigorous attempt was made to score. The home team were kept on the defensive by the visitors throughout this whole game.

Peterborough's home, consisting of Armstrong, Hendricks, Foote, P. Rubidge and Stevens played well together, but Nattrass, Kelly and Hamley, on Port Hope's defence, worked like Trojans to prevent Peterborough from scoring. However, after 18 minutes play Foote secured the rubber, lobbed on Port Hope's flags and Stevens passed it through.

After ten minutes rest the second game was started. Mooney and Davidson, in centre, kept feeding the home and the Port Hope's were again on the defensive throughout. For 15 minutes the ball was kept hovering near the Port Hope goal and shot after shot was sent in, but the greatest difficulty was experienced in scoring, owing to Nattrass being an expert goal keeper and the other defence players keeping right in front of the flags where the ball would strike them every time it was sent in.

During this game the ball was sent in the neighborhood of Peterborough's flags, but Manning in goal was like a stonewall and stopped two or three dangerous shots made by King and Hamley. Metheral, Connal and Henderson on the defence were too much for Port Hope's home, as they checked them and secured the ball from them almost invariably. After twenty-five minutes play the ball was dropped in front of Port Hope's goal and scrimmaged through. The umpire's hand went up declaring game. The Port Hope captain denied it and the referee being called overruled the umpire's decision. The boys vigorously protested his action as according to lacrosse laws the umpire's decision is always final.

The third game was started and after five minutes play the ball was secured by Percy Rubidge and sent flying through Port Hope's flags.

After a short rest the ball was again faced. The Port Hopes were at the outset placed on the defensive and kept so throughout this game. The game lasted twenty minutes when time was called neither sides having scored. The usual cheers were indulged, which concluded the match. Mr. Frank Pakenham acted as captain and discharged his duties admirably.

REVIEWS.

Scribner's Magazine.—The July number of Scribner's opens with a splendid paper, the second of the series, on Feats of Railway Engineering, by John Bozard. The matter is one of great interest and the series is rapidly enlarging the circulation of the magazine. Life and travel in modern Greece, is a capital paper of travel well illustrated. An Astronomers Summer trip deals with features of the American Eclipse Expedition of 1887. The second part of Henry James's story—"A London Life"—contains some interesting contrasts between English and American ideas. F. J. Stimson's serial, "First Harvests," presents an amusing picture of a certain phase of life at Long Branch and Ocean Grove, and describes a Wall Street speculation.

No medicine is more conscientiously prepared, more powerful, or more highly concentrated, than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Its standard of excellence is the result of careful study. This preparation is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"Alas, no! There is a cousin in the way. You must assist me to poison him."

"With pleasure. We will arrange the terms of the desperate deed after dinner."

"Come, Mona, the dressing-bell will ring in a few minutes. You shall have a cup of tea in your room."

The dinner was pleasant—even noisy, as most of the men were young and inclined to discuss their adventures eagerly. Mona was taken in by an honest-looking naval captain, who made himself very agreeable; and Lisle fell to the lot of a frisky widow, with whom he flirted gayly. Everard and Miss Morton quarreled audibly.

The young heir was paraded, and his health drank; and after dinner Lady Finistoun and her sister-in-law went up to look at him in his cot. Then Mona was reminded that she used to sing, and was sent to the piano, where she was surrounded by some of the gentlemen as soon as they came in from dinner. The attache complimented her on her rendering a Volkslied, and talked to her for a few moments in German.

"Then Lisle, who had not been near her since they had arrived, came close behind her, and said, in a low tone—

"May I ask you for Tosti's 'Good-bye, Summer?' It is the last song I heard you sing."

"Was it?" said Mona. (How well she remembered that last happy evening at the Chase!) "I am afraid I can hardly manage it without the music, but I will try."

She succeeded in singing it sweetly and correctly, but she might have put more expression in it.

"Thank you," said Lisle, shortly.

"I don't think you sing as well as you did. You used to give that in a much more melting style formerly!" cried Everard.

"Sorry I have deteriorated," said Mona, good-humoredly, as she took up her gloves and left the piano.

The German attache sat down uninvited, and after rattling off a brilliant morceau, glided into an inspiring waltz.

After tapping her foot for a minute or two, Miss Morton boldly invited one of the younger men, a boyish Northumbrian squire, to dance with her, and they were soon gyrating in the hall, the floor of which was polished oak, the open door permitting the music to be distinctly heard. Lady Finstoun followed with her brother-in-law, and Lisle, who had been talking with his host, ceased to speak, after listening for a few minutes, and crossing to the door-way where Mona was standing, said—

"Shall we follow this wild example? I have scarcely danced since we waltzed together at the Chase. Will you trust yourself with me?"

"Yes," returned Mona, in a low voice.

So Lisle put his arm round her, holding her to him more closely than was absolutely necessary, and they swung round in time to the music. Mona, however, soon declared that it was so long since she had danced, that she felt tired and giddy almost immediately, and disengaging herself from her partner, sat down beside Mrs. Mentieth, a plain, pleasant-mannered woman, with a degree of military decision in her tone. She had married a light dragoon of moderate means, and had never regretted it.

Lisle stood by her for some time watching for an opportunity to talk to her unheard by others, but none offered.

"If you can spare Sir. St. John Lisle!" cried Miss Morton, suddenly standing before Mona. "I have suffered enough at the hands and feet of an incompetent partner, and I want a few really good turns before that delightful waltz stops."

"My dear Miss Morton, it is nearly four years since I bounded on the light fantastic toe," said Lisle, coolly, "and I am not, Miss Craig will tell you, equal to conduct you through the mazy dance. I am going to have a cigar in the garden," and he strolled away.

"I really think Captain—I mean Sir St. John Lisle—can be frightfully rude! He was always one of the most conceited and heartless of men! You remember that affair of Lady Marchmont; he really threw her over scandalously!"

"I think Lady Marchmont was quite capable of taking care of herself. Lisle is just an ordinary man of the world—a little above the average in intelligence," said Mrs. Mentieth.

"Well, I would not have any young person put much trust in him," she returned, significantly. "You ought to have brought over that handsome cousin of yours, Miss Craig. He might have taught us some reel steps; I want very much to learn the Highland Fling."

"I never saw Kenneth dance," said Mona.

"Kenneth! What a charming name! He has the most superb figure in the Highland costume you can imagine, Mrs. Mentieth. A young Roderick Dhu. Are you not in love with him, my dear Miss Craig? Living in the same house day after day, I don't see how it is to be avoided."

Mona laughed, and said Kenneth was very handsome. Then Miss Morton declared her intention of going over to Craigdarroch for the express purpose of improving her acquaintance with the "braw John Highlandman."

Later, and shortly before the party broke up for the night, Lisle strolled up to where Mona was standing with Lord Finistoun, who moved away to ask his wife some question about to-morrow.

"There is such a splendid moon," he said; "I think you would be delighted with the effect of the silvery light streaming o'er moor and mountain. A walk down to the river would be charming."

"I wish I could go!" exclaimed Mona, frankly.

"Do come!" he cried. "You would not be missed for half an hour."

"No, no! 'I shall,' as my uncle says, 'gang awa' to my bed,' and have a peep at the beauty you describe from my window."

"It is a moon worthy of the warmest lovers!" exclaimed Lisle, in a tone of regret.

"Is the moon worthy of warm lovers?" said Mona, glancing at him with an arch smile; "because it is, astronomers tell us, a region of extinct volcanoes—of exhausted fires."

Lisle looked at her sharply, and his brows contracted.

"What matter," he said, "if they were heavenly-while they lasted?"

"Ah! fire does not belong to heaven—rather to the other place. Good-night!"

"Mona!" he exclaimed, in a low tone.

"Good-night," she repeated. "Good-night, Sir St. John Lisle."

CHAPTER XXI.—DIVERS OPINIONS.

Although Mona yielded to Lady Finistoun's earnest request, and remained over the following day, she was really anxious to return home. The passing contact with the social strata from which she had been divorced, showed her how deep was the gulf that yawned between her present and her past. She could not return to Lady Finistoun's set, neither would they that belonged to it pass from thence; she had thrown in her lot with Uncle Sandy, and with Uncle Sandy she must abide.

During the day and evening which succeeded that last recorded, Lisle had no chance of speaking to Mona except before witnesses—and he grew very ill-tempered as time went on.

At dinner Miss Morton cleverly captured Lisle, whose face, under the infliction, was a source of amusement to Mona whenever she looked at him. There was no attempt at dancing—the German attache sang some duets with Mona, and Miss Morton, who had a shrill, clear voice—trained to perform extraordinary gymnastics—treated the company to some French comic songs—a performance which so disgusted Lisle, that, with an expressive glance at Mona, he disappeared and was seen no more.

FOOLHARDY FLACK FAILS.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF THE NIAGARA MAELSTROM.

The Fate of the Phantom and its Solitary Occupant—The Tragic Voyage Viewed by Thousands of Spectators.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 5.—True to his announcement, Robert William Flack of Syracuse, with his life-saving boat the Phantom, attempted to shoot the rapids yesterday afternoon, and his foolhardy trip cost him his life. The Phantom was taken down to the old Maid of the Mist landing on the American side and launched in the river just above the Cantilever Bridge. Flack left the hotel at 2.15 o'clock and at 2.45 he was seated all ready for the start. Above the sides of the boat from above the hips to the top of his head he could be seen by the thousands of spectators that lined both sides of the river. At 2.25 he commenced to turn the crank and the Phantom began to move out into the river under the Cantilever Bridge. By the time he passed under the Cantilever Bridge the craft was in the centre of the river in the swift current and moved faster and faster, Flack throwing kisses to the spectators.
When it reached the railway suspension bridge it dashed under it like an arrow from a bow, Flack doing his utmost to steer it towards the Canadian side, and when it reached the first rapids one struck it broadside and turned it in a complete summersault, after which she righted herself and Flack was seen working the paddles, and the little craft soon righted herself and rode the other large rapids gracefully until it reached the whirlpool rapids observation pavilion, where the waters roll mountains high. Here a large wave struck and swelled over the boat, completely submerging it and its occupant for fully thirty seconds. When she emerged from the breaker Flack was seen to shake his head and wave both his hands.
The Phantom then rode all right until it reached the maelstrom of the Whirlpool, at the place known as Capt. Webb's point. At this point the little craft was struck broadside by a large breaker and turned upside down. It remained that way sailing into the Whirlpool, and undoubtedly Flack was unable to right it, and the weight of his body keeping it in that position drowned him. The Phantom made five trips around the pool upside down before anyone could reach her. It took about one hour for her to make these circles.
Aleck Percy, the young man who successfully navigated the rapids last summer by means of his air-tight boat, and was to race Flack through the rapids provided he was successful yesterday, was present as a spectator at the American side of the whirlpool, and knowing there would be no opportunity to secure Flack and his boat from the pool before passing out of the whirlpool and down the lower rapids, he engaged a hack, drove across the bridge and down to the Canadian side of the whirlpool, and when Flack, under his boat, was making the usual last circle around the pool he jumped into the river and swam out and towed the boat ashore.
When the Phantom was turned over there was Flack dead and the pin in the buckle of the belt out. Undoubtedly Flack seeing he was unable to right the boat attempted to extricate himself from the fastening and failed. His body was brought up to the top of the river bank and brought up to the bridge where Coroner Lewis viewed it and allowed his friends to take it across to the American side of the river.

THE PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

Compensation Denounced—A Vote of Confidence in the Scott Act.

MONTREAL, July 5.—At the National Prohibition Convention this resolution was adopted: "That, whereas the question of compensation to those engaged in the liquor business in case of prohibition has engaged the attention of Parliament, this convention utterly denies that they are in any wise entitled to such compensation."
A report of the Committee on Law Enforcement, holding the constitutional authorities responsible for the due enforcement of all liquor laws and deprecating in strong terms any attempt to take away from citizens the right of private prosecution was adopted.
Another report expressing confidence in the Scott Act, and calling upon friends in Scott Act counties to stand loyally by it, was adopted.
A resolution in favor of the formation of a third party was negatived—109 to 60.

The Pan-Presbyterian Council.

LONDON, July 5.—The Pan-Presbyterian Council opened yesterday, Lord Cairns presiding. Mr Matthews of Quebec presented a statistical report, showing that there were 4,000,000 communicants, equivalent to 20,000,000 adherents. Respecting missions, 60,000 communicants had been gathered into the Presbyterian Church from heathenism. Over 500 ministers had been sent to preach the Gospel to the heathen. The report was adopted.
Mr. Drury of New York read a paper on the influence of elders and deacons in the working of the Presbyterian system.
Dr. Cavan of Toronto read a paper on the importance of fostering the spiritual life of congregations, dwelling upon the need of episcopal oversight by the Presbyters. He advocated greater use of laymen in church work.

Dominion Day in England.

LONDON, July 5.—The twenty-first anniversary of Confederation will be celebrated by a banquet on the twelfth. The Mayor of Ottawa will preside. Lords Knutsford, Colonial Secretary, Lansdowne and Lorne, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Edward Blake and Hon. O. Mowat have promised to attend, and a large muster of Canadians is expected.

EXTENSIVE BUSH FIRES.

Discouraging Reports of the Root Crop in Ontario.

TORONTO, July 5.—The new steamer Greyhound has reached the city. She will run to Grimsby daily. It is said she can make 20 miles an hour without difficulty. Her licensed carrying capacity is 50.
Alfred Packham, the letter carrier who was arrested for robbing her Majesty's mails, was unable to establish his innocence at the Police Court yesterday. Further evidence was put in, to the effect that the decoy letter which Packham was alleged to have taken was in the box before he went to it, and disappeared afterwards. Packham was committed for trial for stealing the money which was found upon him.
Bush fires are ravaging the northern parts of Victoria County. For the past three or four days the whole population has been fighting fire. During Sunday and Monday and Tuesday Mr. George Laidlaw, of Balsam Lake, had twenty-eight men battling against the flames. In that neighborhood the fire has cut a swath through the forest half a mile in width and three miles in length. At night the whole country round about is grandly illuminated by the flames of the burning forests. Many shanties and outbuildings and several farm dwellings have been destroyed. The general loss of property is very serious.
John Grelish, the brutal ruffian who was given 50 lashes in the Central Prison for indecently assaulting a school girl, made his appearance in the Police Court yesterday in a new role. He was arrested with a quantity of stolen plasterers' tools in his possession, for which he was unable to satisfactorily account. He was remanded for sentence.
The Toronto detectives are rejoicing in the capture of four men whom they believe to have been interested in the numerous burglaries which of late have been making the citizens so uncomfortable. They are Michael Graney, Michael O'Neil, Thomas Thornton, and Charles Fitzgibbons. Graney, O'Neil and Thornton have all served various terms in the different prisons of the country, and are said to have graduated into full fledged burglars in the East End. The men were captured shortly after attempting to commit a burglary at the house of Mr. H. W. Greer early yesterday morning. Fitzgibbons was up before the Police Magistrate yesterday and remanded. The other members of the quartette will interview His Worship to-day.
William Hackett, an old pensioner, was choked to death last night while eating his supper, by a large piece of beef which stuck in his throat.

MANITOBA NOMINATIONS.

Ten Government Supporters and One Independent Returned by Acclamation.

WINNIPEG, July 5.—Nominations yesterday resulted in the return of eleven members by acclamation, ten being supporters of the Government and one Independent.
Greenway and Martin are both returned.
Morris is also elected, owing to his opponent missing the train and being too late for nomination.
Other acclamations were Gelley for Cartier, Mickle for Birtle, Young for Killarney, Winram for Manitou, Colcleigh for St. Andrews, Laurence for Morden, Roblin for Dufferin and Smith (Independent) for Springfield.
Russell nomination takes place July 7.

A Blaze at Nepanee.

NAPANEE, July 5.—A farmhouse occupied by William Edgar on the South side of the river opposite Napanee was discovered on fire about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The house and contents were a total loss. No insurance on either. Loss about $1,000.

An Incorrigible London Lad.

LONDON, July 5.—Fred. J. Glenn, a little son of respectable parents, has been arrested by Detective Graham at his father's request as incorrigible. He was sent to the Reformatory yesterday by Police Magistrate Noble for five years.

The Glorious Fourth.

BUFFALO, July 5.—Despatches from all over the Union indicate that the customary amount of gunpowder was burnt yesterday, with the usual number of accompanying fatalities and accidents. Prices of business were generally closed.

A Missing 14-Year-Old Girl.

ST. THOMAS, July 5.—Alice Bushby, a 14-year-old girl brought out by Miss Rye, who had been living at Mr. Rock Bailey's, Yarmouth, left the house before daybreak on June 23 and has not since been seen. She was apparently as cheerful as usual the night before, but on her bedroom being visited next morning it was found she had disappeared. The girl was attired in her ordinary working clothes and left everything else behind. She is described as small in stature for her age, of slim build and light complexion.

Struck by Lightning.

MACLEOD, July 5.—During a severe thunder storm on Monday at the upper agency of the Blood Reserve, the lightning struck and killed a Blood Indian, and also struck a white man named Hughes. Two horses were also killed and another Indian, and a mule received severe but not serious shocks. Hughes and the Indian were hauling wood for the agency, and at this time they were near the house and about 100 yards apart. No one knew just how the thing happened, but Hughes seems to have been struck on the top of the head, the fluid passing down his left side, burning off his whiskers and tearing his clothes off on that side. His left boot was ripped off, and not a vestige of it could be found. The Indian, 100 yards away, was killed. One of Hughes' horses was killed, and then, the lightning skipping the next two horses, killed the farthest one away in the Indian team. The other horses escaped injury, being only slightly stunned. Jos. Healey, another Indian, was stunned, but came around all right. Dr. Girard, who was at the lower agency, was sent for, and did all in his power for Hughes, but his recovery is doubtful.

THE TIMES LIBEL SUIT.

AN EXTREMELY SHARP MOVE BY A JUNIOR COUNSEL.

More News About Stanley—The House of Commons to Remain in Session till September—A Buoyant Feeling in Berlin.

LONDON, July 5.—The decision of Junior Counsel Reugg to put his client, Mr. Frank Hugh O'Donnell, in the witness box, was an extremely sharp move in the libel suit which he brought against The Times, since it prevents Mr. O'Donnell's cross-examination upon political matters and practically kills The Times' scheme contemplating a gigantic onslaught upon the National League and Parnellism, and confines the case to two points, the first one being the question whether Mr. O'Donnell was a prominent Parnellite and the second whether The Times' articles applied to him.
A great deal of fun has been had by The Times' partisans at the expense of Mr. Reugg, whose insignificant appearance beside the imposing presence of some of The Times' counsel, together with his inexperience at the bar, has led his opponents to hold him very cheaply as an antagonist, but his conduct of the case thus far has certainly shown the opinions of his critics to be unwarranted. As far as the case has gone Mr. Reugg unquestionably has had the best of it. Among the Irish witnesses for The Times in court yesterday were Col. Forbes and Capt. Plunkett, of the Irish police, and the daughters of Farmer Curtin, who was killed by moonlighters a year or so ago. The Times' counsel was palpably irritated at the Lord Chief Justice's exclusion of extraneous questions and plainly showed that their case was greatly weakened thereby.
When the trial was resumed yesterday Attorney-General Webster for the defence quoted from speeches in favor of boycotting made by Parnellite members of parliament. He said the defence intended to prove the genuineness of the documents published in The Times, but they would not reveal who disclosed them, even though such action should result in a verdict for the plaintiff. He then read letters with a view of showing that the League instigated the Phœnix Park murders.
The reported intention of Emperor William to propose that the powers greatly reduce their armaments has created a decidedly buoyant feeling in Berlin. If the Emperor really does make such a proposition, and it is agreed to by the Czar, all of the powers outside of the triple alliance will be compelled to follow the example set. It is believed, however, that France would resist such a move on the ground that it was merely a device on the part of Germany to impair the military strength of a supposed enemy, and perhaps Russia would not accede to the proposition if France strenuously and reasonably objected to it.
The report comes from an excellent source and is probably correct, that the House of Commons is likely to remain in session until September. The slowness with which the Local Government Bill moves toward final action is due chiefly to technical objections based on the wretched draughting of the measure, which defective construction may possibly lead to its defeat at the hands of its friends.
The Emin Pasha Relief Committee in London has received letters from Major Bartellot and Messrs. Troup and Ward, by which it appears that the stories of Stanley being wounded and his expedition in peril are alleged to have come from deserters from his force who reached an Arab camp thirteen days' march from Yambuga. No white men had seen the deserters, and the three writers said they did not believe the rumors.

A SORROWFUL MEETING.

The Mother of Maxwell, the Condemned Murderer, Visits Him.

ST. LOUIS, July 5.—Mrs. S. N. Brooks, mother of Hugh M. Brooks, alias Maxwell, the chloroformer, and her daughter Annie, arrived here on Tuesday from Hyde, Eng., and later in the day had an interview with young Brooks at the jail. They were not permitted to enter the cell department of the prison, that being contrary to the rule, but they held a long and earnest conversation with the son and brother through the wire screen or netting which separates the jail proper from the cage in which friends or relatives are allowed to see and talk with prisoners. The meeting was tearful and affectionate and continued for more than two hours, but the particular nature of the conversation is not known.
When it was learned that the ladies were in the jail a crowd congregated in the halls leading to the cage, but the doors were closed and nobody was permitted to intrude upon the privacy of the visitors. Mrs. Brooks is stopping at the house of one of the attorneys of her son, and will remain here at least until it is decidedly known whether her boy's sentence will be commuted. She will be at Jefferson City on July 8, when Governor Morehouse will hear an appeal for commutation of sentence by Brooks' attorneys, and she and her daughter will make personal pleas for the life of their son and brother, and present letters and documents in his behalf.

Gone to Live with No. 2.

BELLEVILLE, July 5.—Rosa Arabella McDonald, convicted of bigamy, was discharged from custody yesterday. She served just one week from the time of her arrest. At the trial Saturday afternoon witnesses were called to prove her marriage to both husbands. At the first wedding the story of the girl that she was drunk before the minister arrived was denied by several witnesses. The whisky was brought out after the ceremony was over. Husband No. 1 who has a cork leg gave Rosa $200 as a wedding present but he took it away from her again. He was seeking alms about the city at the time, while from the evidence it would appear he had plenty of money. When Rosa was discharged to-day she went to live with her husband No. 2.

PARKS AND PARKLETS.

A CORRESPONDENT in another column advocates the purchase of Inverlea by the town for a public park. Inverlea has already been laid out in lots by the syndicate that brought it and several of the lots have been sold and the deeds registered. Under these circumstances it seems like a waste of time to discuss the purchase of the property. At the same time the REVIEW does not see the force of the statement that a much larger park than those the town possesses is needed. It may safely be presumed that if a large park were purchased no more land for similar purposes would be bought, for a long time at least, and one park, even though a large one, situated at one side of the town, would be of little or no use to a majority of the people. Our correspondent slightingly refers to the present parks as "parklets," yet the Court House park serves the purpose for all who are able to reach it and make use of it. It is a pleasant and beautiful place that no one would like to see again closed up, and more such places, even though not so well kept or so beautifully supplied with flowers, would be of more benefit to the people than one large park in the north, south or west.

The money that would be required to purchase Inverlea or similar property would buy a smaller park, or parklet, in the south, west and north parts of the town. A recreation ground that can only be reached after half an hour's walk, or a ride in a street car, at some future time, is of little use to persons living at such a distance from it. A nurse who goes out with a child or a mother who takes her children out in the afternoon or evening cannot, in most cases, travel a mile or two to reach a breathing spot wherein to rest; but parklets scattered through the town would be a blessing to all. With several such parks no one of them would need to be large. From two to four acres would be enough for each. There are about three acres in the Central Park and a little more in the Court House Park. Of course, if the town owned a large park it would be a pleasant thing to have, but if it has money to invest for such a purpose, say sufficient to acquire Inverlea, we think the people would be better served by only a portion of it being expended in that quarter and the remainder used to procure parks in other sections of the town.

Property has rapidly risen in value in Peterborough and vacant land is becoming scarcer and dearer each year. Although there are other matters requiring attention, especially the question of sewerage, it would be well for the Town Council to give the subject of parks consideration. If it is the intention to buy property for this purpose—and the parks would be for the benefit of the public and appreciated by all—the present is the time to do it, for they would be appreciated as much now as in a few years and each year will, it is highly probable, see the value of land increase. A portion of Inverlea, which our correspondent covets, could, we assume, be procured for a park and in other parts of the town there is vacant land, as, for instance, the Roman Catholic lot on Charlotte-st. In a very short time these lots will not be available and although other suitable land might be procured, this shows how rapidly the vacant land is being withdrawn from the market.

A Public Park.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The prosperity of any town depends on the proper combination of a good many attractions, and one of these is plenty of recreation ground. We have two parklets in the centre of the town, one of which may be enlarged by the wise liberality of your Roman Catholic fellow citizens, a consummation more wished than expected by the owners of the half of the block forming the Central Park. But a much larger park is needed and might have been provided at a comparatively small cost if the beautiful estate of Inverlea had been secured. Now it has passed into the hands of speculators who have obtained a by-law to divide it into blocks, and it appears that the best opportunity ever offered of securing a fine park in a most convenient situation has been let slip, and it is almost, if not altogether, too late to obtain it for that purpose. Still, I think an earnest effort should be made in the interest of the town to get the property, even if it should be done at a considerable advance on the price paid by the present proprietors. A very large number of our citizens are in favor of the park, and no doubt in a few years street cars will be running on George-st., thus making it easy of access from the south end of the town. Should such a scheme succeed Peterborough would have almost ready to hand a beautiful recreation ground worthy of a prosperous town soon to be a city, which would add to the fame of the metropolis of Central Ontario and sends us ahead of all competitors in the Dominion.

Yours truly,
PUBLIC PARK.

A MALIGNED POLYGAMIST.

Aldrich Brown Says He Has Only Seventeen Wives, Not Twenty-three.

DETROIT, July 5.—John Wellington Aldrich Brown, the much-wanted polygamist, was brought here from Chicago by Detective Myler yesterday. The Chicago police were loath to part with Brown, who had added to the long list of his wives at the Garden City recently. His latest victims were Kate Sautelle and Belle Brownell of Chicago. After his arrest by the Chicago officers Brown had taken a cup of laudanum, as he said, and he was sick when he arrived here. Detective Myler says that Brown will plead the insanity dodge. The detective said to-day:

"Before we left Chicago a despatch was received by the police from some place in Iowa where Brown is wanted for bigamy. He is also wanted in Baltimore, Md., Niagara Falls, N.Y., and in almost every town in this State. Brown was very nervous when we passed through Battle Creek and Marshall. He made every effort not to be seen. Evidently he was afraid of someone. Brown spoke of Annie M. Hagel of Pontiac, one of his victims, and said he feared her brother, who had threatened to kill him.

"'The Hagel family was my ruin,' Brown said to me. 'When I married Annie I resolved to quit my bigamistic career and to be a good man and husband. But the members of her family poisoned my wife's mind against me and drove me into the old rut.' Brown claims that seventeen is the number of his wives, and not twenty-three, as has been reported."

Detective Myler is now looking for Annie Winters, the German girl who was married to Brown on March 24 in this city by Rev. K. L. Moll. She is said to be employed in a laundry. Her report to the police led to the discovery of Brown's polygamistic proclivities.

Resigned His Seat.

MONTREAL, July 5.—The stock board has received a letter from Lawrence Hague stating that he could not meet his liabilities and resigning his seat. He owes little or nothing to the board, and his liabilities are, evidently, all outside.

PICNIC.—At the picnic held at Hiawatha on Monday, the Keene Junior Lacrosse team challenged the Corners team. Though three of the Corner's best players were off on excursion trips, the Corners accepted and the game was played and resulted in a victory for the Corners. Both played well. After the game the picnickers treated both sides to a jolly good tea and were so kind and good to all, the players tender them their warmest thanks.

In brief and to the Point:

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

At this season many Housekeepers are replenishing their supplies of Tableware and China. City folk are furnishing summer cottages; country folk are filling up the dressers and cupboards of the old homestead; town's folk are picking and choosing here and there. Many would be glad to know of a place whose special business is to meet these wants and desires; that aims to furnish essentially good wares at consistently low prices; that offers the choice of many different dinner services, and yet does not compel you to take an entire set of any pattern, but allow you to select each course of a new design, or buy any portion of the set you may need; that does not try to impose ideas or wares upon purchasers, and yet is ready to advise which of the many wares is most desirable and suitable; and, if wished, will make a careful selection of pattern. When you want tablewear will you give us the opportunity to serve you.

Thrown from a Waggon.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. George Wainwright met with an accident that will keep him from work for some time. He was seated on the front of one of the large ice delivery wagons, when one of the wheels suddenly sank and Mr. Wainwright was thrown heavily to the ground, with the result that one of his arms, while not broken or dislocated, was badly bruised and injured. It was fortunate that he escaped with his life, as the call was a close one indeed.

They Picnic at Inverlea.

The committee have secured the use of the Inverlea property for the day and the picnic will be held on the grounds. The excursion promises to be well attended, and it is expected that between 600 or 700 Port Hopers will participate. If possible—and it is likely—that Mr. Brundrette the obliging agent here, will arrange to have the train run as far north as the Smith-st. bridge on the west side of the river where excursionists can easily cross to Inverlea. Our citizens will join in welcoming as large an instalment of Port Hope people as can be spared from business for the day, and hope that the occasion will be pleasantly spent.

The Street and Bridge Committee are bound to see that the Grand Trunk leaves Smith-st. in a passable condition when they finish ballasting the new railway. The crossing will be a level one the streets being filled up to the full height of the new track, culverts will have to be put in and Smith-st. filled out to the full width of 66 feet.

Two Upsets.

On Tuesday afternoon a young man while sailing in a canoe on the Little Lake, upset and received a good ducking. On Wednesday afternoon another one upset and this time three persons were thrown into the Lake. On the same day a young man took two ladies out with him and managed to to get wedged in among a lot of saw logs. The wind was high and the whole party were well soaked before a good Samaritan went to their aid and succeeded in freeing them from their predicament, but not without considerable difficulty.

New Bridges.

A meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee was held at the office of the Town Clerk, this morning, for the purpose of considering the tenders received for the erection of bridges over the creek on Charlotte and King-sts. Some half dozen tenders for the stonework were received and four or five for the wooden superstructures. After considering the matter for some time it was agreed to erect wooden bridges at both places and that the work be done by the day under the superintendence of Street Inspector Pope. Work will be commenced at once and pushed ahead as rapidly as possible.

Personal.

Mr. "Dod" Clementi, of Florida, is visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mr. Frank Clarke, now in business at Warkworth, is spending his holidays in Peterborough.

Mr. W. G. Scott, of Hamilton, is here on a business trip. He is much impressed wit the town.

Mr. R. P. Rogers, of Grafton, who has recently passed the entrance examination to the Royal Military College, Kingston, has been since last September a boarder in Mr. Duff's private school, and has received regular instructions from Mr. Duff in all the subjects of his examination.

Mr. W. H. Law has returned from a business trip to Toronto, where he was looking after the interest of the Central Bridge Works.

—The REVIEW was favored with a call today from Messrs. Ed. Peplow and N. Hockin, of Port Hope, a pair of portly and handsome scouts sent to spy out the land for the Methodist picnic from that town. Mr. Peplow enjoys the distinction of being a graduate of the REVIEW, having worked at the business here some thirty years ago. Mr. Peplow was young then. He retired from the profession, went into milling and has gained—it is reported—a satisfactory fortune.

The many friends of the lady in Peterborough will be pained to learn from the Port Hope Guide that Mrs. Thos. Ambrose is very ill in England. We sincerely hope that she will soon recover her usual health. Mr. Ambrose did intend to sail for home on the 11th of July, but will be prevented on account of the illness of his wife.

Mr. F. Brooks, traveller for the Bradley Mfg. Co., of Meridan, Con., is in town and will remain during the week on a visit to his father, Mr. Thos. Brooks, Manager for the Lock Works Co. Mr. Brooks—the younger Mr. B.—wears the badge for Harrison, of Tippecanoe and Morton too, and is confident that the Republican ticket will be victorious in November next.

FRESH Strawberries ever morning from this time on, at The Pantry.

THE LINDSAY-SELDON CO.

A Visit to their Commodious Factory in Ashburnham.

There is always a genuine hum to be heard around the furniture factory of the Lindsay-Seldon Co. This young but enterprising firm are pushing business for all it is worth and as a consequence, the staff of thirty men are taxed to turn out the goods fast enough to supply the demand, and it is the intention if business keeps on increasing as it has in the past, to double the staff and work night and day.

The premises occupied were built specially for this firm and are admirably adapted for their purpose. They are large, roomy and splendidly situated for shipping purposes. A switch of the G. T. R. passes close to the factory and by means of a short bridge, the goods are carried from the packing room, over the raceway and loaded directly into the cars.

They confine themselves to the manufacture of a special line bedroom sets, and the woods used are walnut and mahogany only. Of these they turn out two hundred sets per month, and that number are always under way.

Their customers comprise all the principal furniture dealers in Ontario and Quebec and the goods turned out are of such a high standard that they always meet with a ready sale.

They have recently commenced the manufacture of a combination bedroom set, of which they are the patentees. It consists of a bedstead, wire mattrass, dressing case, bureau, washstand and sideboard all combined. It is one of the handiest pieces of furniture ever devised and already a large number of orders have been received. For hotels, boarding houses and in fact any place where room is in demand, it is just the thing. In the day time it stands up against the wall and does not take up any more room than an ordinary sideboard. At night it is turned around on large casters, a hook is unfastened and the bed, already made-up is let down. In the lower door is washbasin, bucket, etc., are all hidden from sight and anyone not knowing the secret would regard the elegant piece of furniture simply as a dressing case. One will be on exhibition in the window of Mr. D. Bellegheim's store in a few days and all should make it a point to see and inspect it.

The machinery used is of the latest and best patterns procurable. In addition to the usual saws, etc., a sand papering machine, worked on the same principle as a planer, which leaves the lumber ready for finisher to the extent of about four thousand feet per day, is a useful novelty.

The shavings are all blown away from the planers, etc., by fans and they serve a useful purpose as fuel for the boiler.

The kiln for drying lumber is also worth mentioning. A coil of some hundreds of feet of pipe are kept heated by steam from the boiler and the heat from this is blown through large tin tubes through the floor of the kiln, which is kept at a great heat, sufficient to dry thoroughly green lumber in twenty-four hours.

The "Royal" Flavoring Extracts are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality.

Coming Home.

A letter has been received from Mr. Alderman Cahill, stating that he expects to reach Peterborough, on his return from the Pacific coast, on or about July 12th.

At the Point.

The farmers of Otonabee will hold their annual picnic at Jubilee Point to-morrow. They will go down on the Goldon Eye. A number from town will attend.

Ladies go into ecstacies over the new perfume, 'Lotus of the Nile."

More Cars.

Twenty-three freight cars from the Crossen Works, Cobourg, came up on the Grand Trunk on Wednesday afternoon for the Canadian Pacific. They are about as fine a specimen of a box car as has been seen here yet.

Farley.

The young man Farley, confined in gaol for murder, apparently shows no change in his demeanor. He complained of a headache on Wednesday. At times he laughs and jokes and at other times he sits and mopes. His fellow prisoners are of the opinion that Farley is a crank.

The New Temple.

The carpenter work on the Salvation Army's large new building on Simcoe-st. is about completed and the painters are pushing forward their work. It will be a handsome structure. The building will all be completed, except, perhaps, the basement, in time for the opening celebration, which will begin on July 14th.

The Central.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the West Riding Agricultural Society Directors yesterday. The prize list was gone over and the Directors then started out on the warpath to solicit prizes. They met with great success and are highly pleased with their day's work. The large bills were ordered and the meeting adjourned.

No injurious effects can follow the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. It contains an unfailing antidote and specific for miasmatic poisons together with remedial agents which purify and reinvigorate the system.

OUR customers always speak when they pass by, and say "Xamine these Xcellent, un-Xcelled T's at The Pantry."

Down.

A big slice of the Brock-st. bridge on the east side has fallen into the creek, and the remainder of the bridge is in such a condition that it is dangerous to cross it with vehicles of any weight. A new bridge will be erected as soon as possible and tenders will be asked at once for the stonework. There is probably no bridge in town that is as much used as this one and done that will be more difficult to erect to give satisfaction.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Brevities.

—The police court calendar this morning was a blank.

—The weather continues to be of the scorching variety.

—The Rev. M. L. Pearson has been in Toronto attending the funeral of a nephew.

—The regular weekly shoot of the Rifle Association will take place this afternoon at the butts.

—The Balmoral hotel looks much improved since it was tuck pointed.

—The police were applied to last night to recover some goods detained by one woman from another. They secured a tin pail.

No medicine is more conscientiously prepared, more powerful, or more highly concentrated, than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Its standard of excellence is the result of careful study. This preparation is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

REVIEWS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—Everything in the July number merits careful attention and will get it from a literary and artistic point of view, as well as in the matter of mechanical execution. The first article describes life at the United States Academy at Annapolis, as seen by Lieutenant Kelley, and is illustrated handsomely from Drawings by R. F. Zogbaum. "A Midsummer Trip to the West Indies," a splendidly illustrated article, by Lafcadio Hearn, describes the writer's summer trip through the the tropical Caribbean or Windward Islands, which separate the Caribbean Sea from the broad Atlantic. The Great American Desert, by Frank H. Spearman, is an article devoted to a description of the fertility and charms of the States of Kansas and Nebraska—once supposed to be about as barren spots as could be found in North America. Now they blossome like the rose, and flourish like the green bay tree. In "Maiwa's Revenge," H. Rider Haggard introduces old Allan Quatermain to the public once more in a glorious elephant hunt in Africa, with other romantic adventures thrown in, which furnish an excuse for much fascinating fighting. Part II. (and the end) of this story is reserved for the August number. "In Far Lochaber," by William Black, and "Annie Kilburn," by W. D. Howells, do not contain a dull line. The charmingly tender dialect story, "Old Miss' and 'Sweetheard," is by H. S. Edwards. Other articles of great interest are found between the covers.

FROM modest efforts, honest goods, high quality, square dealing, small profits, and small profits, on to grand achievements in the way of Satisfying Bargains is the motto of The Pantry.

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

AN EXPLANATION.—Your correspondent being in Western Ontario all last week, no items of news appeared in the Lakefield column. A number of items which should have been written up therefore did not appear.

MASONIC.—The march out of the Masonic Lodge, A. F. and A. M. in a body on Sunday 24th, June, St. John's day in the evening, to listen to a sermon preached in St. John church by the Rev. J. Farncomb, was quite an event in the history of the Lodge. The members of the Lodge listened with marked attention to the reverend brother's discourse. On the following Tuesday the Masons had an excursion and picnic to Stoney Lake, landing at Juniper Island, where boating, fishing bathing and fun generally was the order of the day. A large turnout of the members of the fraternity and friends enjoyed the outing of the day. The steamer Cruiser was chartered for the occasion. Your correspondent was very sorry to have missed so enjorable and pleasant a time with A. F. and A. M. gentlemen, but will be looking forward we hope to a simalar occasion in 1889.

COUNCIL MEETING.—A special meeting of the Council was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening, 27th June. Present, the Reeve and Councillors Nelson and Moore. Moved by Councillor Nelson, seconded by Councillor Moore,—That the reading of the minutes be dispensed with at this meeting.—Carried. The Council then went into committee of the whole, Councillor Nelson in the chair. The waterworks by-law was the business in hand, and after considerable discussion, received its several readings. A vote will be taken on the by-law on Tuesday, July 31st. The Council then adjourned.

AN EXCELLENT PASS.—Mr. J. V. Cox, late with Mr. S. Henderson, went over to Rochester to write on the Pharmaceutical examinations, and not only passed but headed the list of the successful candidates.

DOMINION DAY.—There were two largely attended excusions on Monday. Foresters Court, Lakefield, had chartered the steamer Cruiser for the day to take a run up to Stoney Lake. The steamer was filled to its uttermost capacity. On leaving the wharf the Foresters band struck up a good live tune and also did a great deal of playing during the day, which greatly added to the day's pleasure. The steamer Mary Ellen was chartered by the Presbyterian Sunday school, which left the wharf with a full compliment of little ones, all being full of life and ready for any good thing that might turn up. Their destination was Juniper Island, Stoney Lake, where both steamers landed their passengers safely. A pleasant day was spent and all returned home satisfied with their trip.

PASSED THROUGH.—St. Paul's Church choir, Peterborough, passed through our village on Tuesday to enjoy a pleasure trip on the steamer Cruiser to Stoney Lake.

THERE is a great demand for pure Paris Green, which has been going off like hot cakes at Henderson's Pharmacy, and still plenty in stock and to spare.

BARN RAISING.—Two heavy days were spent last week in erecting Messrs. Greystocks and Dicksons barns. It being almost as good as a pic-nic for the boys and the contractors deserved great credit for their work, the latter being of the latest style.

EXPECTED EXCURSION.—A couple of the northern schools are going to join and have a picnic to Jubilee Point on the sixth. There being every expectations of a large crowd and no doubt a very pleasent time will be spent.

LACROSSE AT HIAWATHA.—On the second of July, a very fine game was played between the Keene and the Paralyzers from the north. The latter took the first three straights, that gaining the medal, so what ever you do don't attempt to beat the Paralyzers.

HAY.—To the farmers regret there is going to be a very light harvest.

GOT LEFT.—Some of the boys that went to Jubilee Point on the second, forgot that the boat was to return that evening, and was left on the point.

PICNIC AND PRESENTATION.—On Tuesday, the 26th ult., the Sunday School in connection with the Wesley Church, 16th con. Smith, held their annual picnic in Montgomery's Grove. A large crowd was present. Games and amusements were indulged in until tea was served. It was a grand spread. After tea Mr. J. R. Craft, superintendent of the Sunday school, was called to the chair, and a programme, consisting of music, readings, and speeches, was rendered, to the satisfaction and delight of all. Towards the close, the pastor, Rev. A. L. Adam, solicited subscriptions for the Sunday school fund and $22 were raised. Afterwards he made a short address, in which he referred to the progress of the work during the past two years, which he attributed to the faithful work of his predecessors, and the zeal that the people had manifested throughout the mission for the cause of God. The following address was then presented to Mr. Adam:

REV. MR. ADAM, DEAR SIR,—We, the members of Wesley Sunday School together with a few friends, desire to convey to Mrs. Adam through you, an expression of our sorrow and regret at her departure from our midst. During her short sojourn among us she has won the good-will of all. As Sunday school teacher and church organist, she filled her place with more than ordinary ability. We now request her acceptance of this ten dollar gold piece, as a slight token of our esteem. We are sorry she is unable to be present on this occasion and trust she will soon be restored to her usual health. In conclusion, we take the opportunity, on this, the eve of your departure, of wishing yourself and your estimable and amiable family all the blessings of life and trust that your pathway may be illumined by the sun of prosperity and happiness and that we may all meet in the upper and better world to part no more.

Signed on behalf of the Sunday School and friends:

J. R. CRAFT,
STEPHEN HARRISON.

Mr. Adam made a suitable reply, referring to the kindness of the people throughout the circuit during his pastorate. Mr. Craft, Superintendent of the Sunday School, was also the recipient of a handsome teachers' Bible. On the preceding Thursday Mr. Adam was kindly presented a purse of about $14 by his Bible class in Buckhorn.

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in place of this stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Every one admires them, and just half the price I was asked for the same things in Toronto; but still, father dear, I must have the lamp."

Bricklayers' and Masons' Union

No. 12, Peterborough.

To the Architects and Builders of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—The members of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, No. 12, Peterborough, have decided to take no sub-contracts after the 1st day of June, 1888. We take this step believing it to be to the interest of Architects and Proprietors of buildings, to deal directly with us, and not, as heretofore, letting our branch of work to Carpenters, and then have them sub-let it to us, frequently at a loss to owners of buildings through inferior material being used to secure the carpenter a profit. We therefore consider it would be to the interest of all concerned, to have each trade control its own line of work.

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

THURSDAY, JULY 5, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

The next morning was gray and soft, and Lisle, with Lord Finistoun, started early to stalk deer. Lisle was in a very bad temper. He was enraged at the smiling ease with which Mona kept him at bay, and mortified at being held in check by the fair woman who so comparatively short a time before had changed color when he spoke to her—whose hand trembled when he took it in his own. Moreover, he was furious with himself for having lost the reins of his self-control, and fallen so much deeper in love than he had been.

Lady Finistoun expected more guests, and was unable to accompany Mona on her return home. Miss Morton offered to drive her back to Craigdarroch in the pony carriage, and some time after luncheon they started. Various important nothings had delayed their setting out, and it was nearly tea-time when Miss Morton drew up the ponies at Mr. Craig's door.

The old gentleman had evidently been asleep over a volume of "Metaphesics," which he frequently took up after dinner.

"Here I am, uncle, back again on your hands," said Mona, going into the library.

"Aweel, I am glad to see your face!" said Uncle Sandy, cheerfully, "though you did outstay your leave. Eh, you are looking bonny! You'll be finding it dull and hamely here after yon grand hoose, and a' the fine doings."

"I am very glad to come home, I assure you."

"That's right; it's kindly said."

"Miss Morton is in the drawing-room, uncle—may I ask her to tea?"

"Ay, to be sure. Is Lady Finistoun no with you? She is a bonny bird!"

Mona explained, and ended by ringing and ordering tea to be prepared forthwith.

"I'm glad to see you, mem," said Uncle Sandy, shuffling into the drawing-room with the help of his stick, and holding out his hand to Miss Morton, who rose up tall, thin, and somewhat masculine-looking, to greet him. "You'll stay and tak' a bite and a cup o' tea." Here he tumbled into a chair. "There has been a touch of east in the wind yesterday and to-day, and my back and limbs have been just aching fearfu'. You'll feel it far keener ower in Strathairlie—we are weel sheltered here."

"Oh, it is a wretched climate everywhere," returned Miss Morton, with decision. "In another month I suppose all civilized people must quit these latitudes."

"Ceevilized!" repeated Uncle Sandy, in a sharp key. "Why, Scotland is the most ceevilized country upon earth!"

"Oh, indeed! I never heard that before," said Miss Morton, removing her hat and re-settling the feather.

"Then it is time you did! Whaur will ye find a people so well edicated, and so intelligent? Whaur will ye find so much thrift, so little crime, such a God-fearin', self-respectin' population—"

"So extensive a consumption of whisky, and so large an illegitimate birth-rate!" interrupted Miss Morton, with strong emphasis.

Uncle Sandy gasped. That a woman—a young woman, or a woman who posed as young—a spinster, a fine lady, should have unhesitatingly uttered such a word—absolutely stunned him.

"Aweel, aweel, that's easy said. 'Gie a dog a bad name.' A' that is no proven," he returned, feebly; for he knew little of statistics, nor was he much given to believe what he did not like.

"I don't know if you ever read the graver magazines," said Miss Morton, with an intolerable air of superiority, "so perhaps you have not seen Professor Macgrubber's paper on the comparative morality of the Celtic races. He brings out some curious facts."

"Facts!" angrily. "Are ye sure they are facts? I woul na be so keen to believe what a mon says against his ain country—(I suppose by his name he's Scotch?)—it's an ill bird that fouls its ain nest."

"Oh! he is a perfectly reliable scientific man, and he says the illegitimate—"

"It's no becoming to argue such a like subject wi' a young leddy," interrupted Uncle Sandy, hastily and severely. "At ony rate, we are ceevilized enough to ken that."

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed Miss Morton, with some contempt. "It is evident you are more moral in talk than in action."

Before Mr. Craig could gather his forces to reply, Mona came to the rescue.

"I am sure tea must be ready. Shall we go into the dining-room? I am quite longing for a sup."

"So am I. It is past my usual tea-time," cried Miss Morton. "What a lovely view you have here! I have rarely seen anything more beautiful, and I have knocked about a good deal."

"I am surprised ye find any good in the country at a'," remarked Uncle Sandy, with withering sarcasm, as he took his seat.

"The country, the rocks and mountains, and burns and sea, are well enough. In short, all save the spirit of man, and the climate are divine," remarked Miss Morton, with cheerful disregard of what anyone else thought.

This was so very evident, that Uncle Sandy instinctively felt that he had better leave her alone.

"Mona and me—we have wandered a bit oursel's," he resumed, to change the subject. "It's varra divertin' to see the differences betwixt diverse nations."

"It used to be," corrected Miss Morton; "but they are all growing horribly alike. When I was last at Jerusalem," she continued, helping herself to a cream scone, while Uncle Sandy's eyes looked big with amazement, as seen over a huge cup of tea he had just lifted to his lips—"when I was last at Jerusalem, a very enterprising German was just going to start a threepenny 'bus, from the Temple to Tophet—convenient but vulgar."

It is much to the credit of Uncle Sandy's national caution and self-control that he swallowed his tea in silence, and even helped himself to a spoonful of marmalade before he replied dryly in the interrogative form—

"And how many times might you have been in the Holy City?"

"Twice. First when I joined Lord and Lady Huntover's party, and I was awfully bored. That determined me to travel on my own hook ever after; and then the year before last, when I went down the Danube and by the Black Sea to Constantinople, and so on by Smyrna and Damascus to Jerusalem. I only took my maid, and a dragoman from Smyrna. I enjoyed that tour. I met some very good-looking American naval officers; they were shrewd and amusing. Apropos, where is your nephew, Mr. Craig?"

"He is awa' to the loch wi' Mary Black to fish. He never does much, though, wi' the rod. Hielanders have no patience—they want to be aye bang-banging at birds. I doubt but Kenneth will have taken the nets. They will be here soon. The girlie canna want her tea."

"I like to hear you talk, Mr. Craig," said Miss Morton, sending in her cup for replenishing. "I fancy your Scotch is pure and unadulterated."

"My English, you mean," he said, angrily. "It is weel known that the Scotch speak better, and more grammatical English than the English themselves."

"I am learning a good deal to-day," said Miss Morton, coolly.

Mona hastened to turn the subject.

"I have always had a great wish to see Damascus," she said. "Is it very beautiful?"

"Yes, very lovely. The most picturesque place. It is completely encircled by hills. The site is something like—oh, like a frying-pan! The city, with its gardens and abundant trees, lies at the bottom, and a straight white road sloping up slightly looks like the handle, and leads to Beyrout."

Suicide in Haldimand.

CAYUGA, July 5.—John Coates, a wealthy retired blacksmith of this place, worth $30,000, committed suicide by hanging himself. His wife left on a visit to the lake shore and the deceased, after taking breakfast, walked to his shop, stood on a box while fastening the rope, and then jumped off. His body was found suspended half an hour afterwards. No cause is assigned for the act. He was 65 years of age.

A Bad Cut.

BOWMANVILLE, July 5.—A young man, son of Mr. W. Thickson, 4th con. Hope, was sitting on the step of the barn door sharpening his scythe yesterday, when a gust of wind blew the door to, striking the snath and sending the scythe with such force that it cut the left arm between the elbow and shoulder to the bone. A surgeon had to put in eight stitches to close the wound.

The promoters of the artificial lake scheme at Orangeville will shortly apply for incorporation, about $2500 having been already subscribed.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1888

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

ANOTHER MEETING OF COUNCIL HELD YESTERDAY.

No Appointments Announced—It is Said that Big John Haggart Will Get the Postoffice Portfolio.

OTTAWA, July 6.—There was a meeting of Council yesterday, but no announcement of appointments was made. There will be no meeting again until Saturday, which will probably be the last for some time, as Sir John is expected to leave on Monday or Tuesday for the Maritime Provinces, and nearly all the other Ministers who have not already gone will be off in a few days.

Although no official announcement has been made it is generally understood that Mr. Dewdney has been appointed Minister of the Interior and Mr. John G. Haggart, M. P. for Lanark, Postmaster-General. The latter has been in town and left for home in good spirits after an interview with Sir John.

Mr. Patterson of Essex has been here for a couple of days and had a long talk with Sir John after Council. He assured your correspondent that there was no truth in the rumors that he was about to enter the Ministry, but gave no hint as to what may happen later in the year.

It is generally understood that Major-General Cameron, son-in-law of Sir Charles Tupper, has been appointed to succeed Col. Oliver as Commandant of the Kingston Military College. General Cameron acted as official secretary to Sir Charles on the Fisheries Commission at Washington.

It is understood that it has been definitely decided that when the new Departmental Building is finished and the attic occupied by the model room, the patent office will be entirely divided from the Department of Agriculture and made a branch of the Department of the Secretary of State.

It has been decided that in future traffic on all the St. Lawrence canals and Welland Canal shall only be discontinued on Sunday between the hours of 8 in the morning and 9 in the evening.

Sir Adolphe Caron and Hon. Mr. Thompson contemplate a trip to the Saguenay next week. Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine will probably not come to Ottawa until after the Cumberland election.

Painful Accident to Mr. Trow, M.P.

STRATFORD, July 6.—A painful accident occurred to Mr. Trow, M.P., on Monday. Anxious to spend part of the holiday with his friends in Mitchell he arrived in town by the noon train, and after dinner was induced to visit the driving park where horse races were in progress. In the park he was invited to a seat on the judges' stand, and while chatting with those around him the plank on which he and others were sitting slipped off its support, and in falling Mr. Trow's leg was caught under it and severely bruised.

Stratford's New Locomotive Shops.

STRATFORD, July 6.—Mr. Herbert Wallis, mechanical superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, Montreal, has been in town examining the new locomotive shops, which are now about complete. The machinery is being put in place, and will be ready by the middle of August.

The Milton Bonanza.

MILTON, July 6.—The analysis of the red clay found at Milton shows that it is largely impregnated with lime. This will prevent it from being used for terra cotta ware or even the better kinds of pottery, so the Terra Cotta Company of Milton has a bonanza on a par with the Smithville coal find.

Close of the Prohibition Convention.

MONTREAL, July 6.—At the closing meeting of the Prohibition Convention last night addresses were delivered by Mrs. Youmans, Mrs. Keefer, Senator Vidal, J. S. Robertson of Toronto, W. H. Rogers of Nova Scotia and James Baylis of Montreal.

Seeking Instructions.

Addresses were delivered by Pressense of Paris, Ellinwood of New York, and others. There was a dinner in the afternoon, at which Dr. Campbell, M. P., presided.

THE TIMES LIBEL SUIT.

A VERDICT RETURNED FOR THE DEFENDANT.

The Assertion that the Bringing of the Action was Suggested by Mr. Parnell Denied.

LONDON, July 6.—The trial of the suit for libel brought by Mr. O'Donnell against The Times was resumed yesterday. Attorney-General Webster continued his presentation of the case for the defence. In the course of his remarks he said no man was libelled to a greater extent than Mr. Parnell, yet O'Donnell was put forward to meet The Times' charges.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge intimated that the plaintiff had presented no case for The Times to answer.

Mr. Reugg, counsel for O'Donnell, said he thought the case might go to the jury on the note in which O'Donnell's name was mentioned.

The Lord Chief Justice remarked, "Very well, if you go on you take the responsibility."

Mr. Reugg then asked the court to give him a half hour for the purpose of consulting his client. Mr. Reugg subsequently announced that he had decided to address the jury on the two instances in which O'Donnell was named in The Times' articles, and that all the other charges embodied in the complaint would be abandoned.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Reugg's address, the Lord Chief Justice charged the jury. His charge was strong against O'Donnell. He said: "If O'Donnell intended his letter to The Times to vindicate his character, it was difficult to conceive a weaker protest."

The jury returned a verdict for The Times.

Mr. O'Donnell's assertion that his conduct in bringing the action against The Times was suggested or arrived at after consultation with Mr. Parnell, is contradicted. Mr. Parnell will make a personal explanation on the subject in the House of Commons to-day.

DYNAMITE IN A SATCHEL.

TORONTO, July 6.—Mr. Peter Clark, mechanical superintendent of the Northern & North-Western Railway, has been appointed mechanical superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway between Toronto and Kingston.

The striking plumbers were cheered yesterday by the surrender of another employer, and five of the strikers started work for him. The cigarmakers' strike is in no way changed.

Hanrahan & Co. think they have devised a way to evade the Bucket Shop law and their office on Toronto-street which has been closed since the day the Governor-General fixed his signature to the bill will reopen at 10 o'clock to-day. The office on Toronto-street will be merely a private telegraph office. Hanrahan & Co.'s head office is in Buffalo, N. Y. Messages referring to transactions in stocks, grain or petroleum will be sent free of charge. The agent here is called a "correspondent." Continuous quotations from Chicago and New York will be posted on the blackboard.

Yesterday morning Mr. John Whitehead, discovered a small black satchel lying under the bridge at the corner of Shaw and College-streets. Taking the satchel out into the light he opened it and found it to contain a number of mysterious looking articles. Distrusting them from their appearance he carried bag and contents down to the Dundas-street police station and delivered them to the sergeant in charge. An investigation immediately held showed that in the satchel were eight dynamite cartridges and a long piece of fuse neatly coiled. Each of the cartridges is a foot in length and about three-quarters of an inch in diameter.

A street-car driver named Skinner was knocked down, kicked and robbed of $15 in silver and bills and tickets to the amount of $10, just after changing his horses at the Woodbine terminus last night.

A CONFIDENCE OPERATOR.

A So-Called Circus Agent Fails to Secure Victims.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 6.—On Tuesday a young man giving the name of H. L. Vanderbilt, and describing himself as the contracting agent for an immense circus which would exhibit in Victoria, introduced himself to the newspaper men of the city. He related a big story about the size of the show, which was represented to have 30 elephants and 200 people, and said it was the intention of the proprietors to sail from Victoria for Australia on the steamship Nicaragua early in August. He was a little, dapper dude, closely shaven, with a light summer suit and white hat, and generally had the appearance of a lemonade vendor at a circus. Inquiry at several places of business revealed the fact that he had made contracts for supplies, and afterwards asked for a percentage on the amount of the order, or a loan of fifty dollars. Finding that he was suspected, he left the city this morning, having purchased a new suit of clothes and leaving his old duds in the room of his hotel. As far as we have been able to learn he failed in his game and departed no richer than he came.

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1888.

WITH NATURE.

In recent numbers of the Toronto Week there is an article by Mr. T. Arnold Haultain, M.A., entitled "With Nature in May," which is written in Mr. Haultain's usual beautiful style and which shows what an eye and mind, trained to studying nature can see in what is generally considered common place. The article is of considerable length, and we only have space for enough to give an idea of it. Speaking of how to enjoy nature Mr. Haultain says:—

"Nature is a jealous mistress. Fully to enjoy her one must enjoy her alone. She tells not her secrets, she reveals not her hidden charms to such as woo her not whole-heartedly. She will have your whole heart or she will have none of it. Single-eyedly, and with a determination to forsake all other pursuits during your courtship, you must watch here, or she will elude you and spurn you, show you nothing of her matchless beauties. But if you give her all your heart, in return she gives—what? All her heart? Ah, no, she cannot. But that is your fault, not hers. She cannot, though she would. How can the small, one-chambered human heart house the palace of Nature? Especially as into that one chamber we crowd, too many of us, a mass of lumber: mercenary habits, low-thoughted cares—furniture which Nature abhors. How into a part compress the whole? Still, sought in earnest, I say, of herself Nature will reveal much. But to seek her in earnest one must sacrifice much. One's pet hobbies of thought and action must be laid aside. Home comforts and town luxuries must be spurned; brambles, mosquitoes, flies, sunburn, prickly-heat, dish-washing, porridge-boiling, bacon-frying, blanket-airing, and such camp-life discomforts and drudgery, must be joyfully undertaken and borne. A companion also is not permissible."

For change of thought and relaxation of attention he recommends a pocket volume of Isaiah. The observer will, he says, crave scientific treatises, but these should be studied in the laboratory. Then follows a description of what may be seen—and we may be permitted to say that the description is of a scene on the Otonabee a few miles below Peterborough, where, indeed, the whole article was written. "What will you see? "asks the writer, and proceeds:—

"It is indescribable. Far overhead, the delicatest vapoury cirri flock the purest blue; in the distance, bold, rounded, white cumuli rise above a misty haze of gray, against which as a background rise in points and curves and lines dark-green firs and round-topped birches and emerald hillsides; and below these, and nearer, comes the water, and this is as indescribable as the clouded sky, in no two spots the same—ruffled and unruffled, wavy and still, dark blue and lead gray, in eddies and in currents; here dimpled, there like a mirror; now dazzling you as with a thousand dancing, flashing, moving, twinkling, floating stars, there sullenly bearing up the reflections and shadows of the great, dark trees above it—at one moment thus, and while you say it, otherwise. For a symbol of God—serene, shapeless, profound, in eternal repose, unchanging, all-embracing, majestic—give me the blue sky; for a symbol of Man—tossed, shapen, ever at strife, changeful, unresting, evanescent, with dark depths and foul weeds, sombre and woful when deprived of the light of heaven, and beautiful only when beautified by skyey tints—give me the water. And after the water, and closer, comes my foreground—tufted grass and brown soil, with dandelions and clover and mullein, and here and there a piece of glistering granite or a quaint-shaped, rotting tree trunk. Amongst these, hops fearless, while I sit still and silent with half-closed eyes, the robin or the graybird, chasing insects a few feet from my foot; while above me, on the very stump against which I lean, perches the various-coloured high-holder. Truly, it seems as if Nature had taken me to be one with her, recognized me as part of her manifold immensity, looked upon me as a consort, a co-mate. And am I not a part of her? It needs not to comprehend the harmonious workings of mighty natural laws to perceive the unity of all things, each minutest spot on this earth verifies the truth."

From the charms of nature the writer is led into a philosophical speculation, but returns again to his subject:—

"I see the graceful trillium, the most simply graceful of Canadian wood flowers. Did you never notice its stem? Wherein lies its beauty? In gradations, I think, gradations both of form and colour. It is not a straight line nor yet a curve, but rather a series of curves imperceptibly gliding one into the other. Its colours, too, shade off from a red-brown where the stem springs from the ground to a shining green at the calyx. I see the dandelion, a glorious flower despite its commonness. Why should commonness destroy beauty? I deny that it does, any more than repetition destroys wonderfulness. But I can see hundreds of dandelions without leaving home, you say. Yes; but do you ever examine or admire them when they grow in your back yard? I trow not. Only when you are in love with Nature do you love her most insignificant manifestations. Not until a maiden is loved are her finger tips worshipped. Have you ever looked carefully at a dandelion? It will repay you. Botanists tell us it is many flowers compounded into one. From its beauty I can well believe it. What a blaze of yellow those many petals enkindle, and how superbly that yellow is variegated by the shadows of those petals and stamens,—simply by the shadows. It is a flower of one single colour, and that not a delicate one, and of no peculiar beauty of form, and yet by its miraculous manipulation of the light it receives it becomes beautiful. I see the birds' nests. Not fifty yards from my tent is a dear little ground bird sitting on three eggs. A more exquisite picture, a picture perfect to repletion in its feeling, pathos, tenderness, and, yes, thought, to say nothing of composition and tone, than that little hen sitting on that nest I know not. The combination of helplessness, trustfulness, and hopefulness in the expression of the bird, and reflected in every part of the picture it is useless to attempt to describe. I see the woods just bursting into leaf, one of the most glorious sights in the country in May, as seen in an afternoon sun on a clear day in the middle distance of your landscape. The light green feathery topmost branches of the rounded birch and maple and oak and elm, as the light falls on them and through them, form shadows and shades of green no pigment can truly imitate; the deep toned pines quite black in the shadows, rise high above the wealth of buoyant green masses towering over one another, rolling away into the distance, swell upon swell, the edges here distinct and clear against the shadows beyond, here lost melting into innumerable other edges; and beneath all and in the near distance the delicate-hued aspens show their white slim branching stems, and in one low corner there is a faint hint of the ochreous catkins of the willow. Suddenly a cloud obscured the sun; at once the shadows deepen, the greens are changed, the feathery edges through which the light was transmitted lose their clearness of outline, and each tree with the loss of light seems to nestle closer to his fellow. But it is vain trying to describe Nature's pictures. To be felt they must be seen. And in pictures that can be felt Nature is inexhaustible. Her every square inch, as her every square league, is a scene provocative of an emotion which we cannot explain, cannot name."

Other descriptions, as clear in detail and as rich in coloring, are given until a mosquito has hurled at him some heavy words, while philosophical musing creep in at times, but we must refrain from giving more.

RUSSIA WON'T INTERFERE.

She Will Soon Wash Her Hands of Bulgaria—A Matrimonial Project.

LONDON, July 6.—Official despatches from St. Petersburg state that M. de Giers, the Russian Prime Minister, has informed Sir R. D. Morier, the British Ambassador, that after Dec. 17 the Bulgarians may do anything and everything they please, from cutting each other's throats to declaring their country an empire. Russia, M. de Giers declared, will not move a finger to prevent them from following their own inclinations, and will wash her hands of the whole concern. The Ambassador is of opinion that Russia does not intend to provoke war.

The Standard's St. Petersburg despatch says it is reported that a marriage is being arranged between the Czarewitch and one of Emperor William's sisters. General Von Pape, during his visit here, broached the subject to the Czar, who gave his entire approval. Prince Bismarck is in favor of such a match, and this was his main reason for opposing the Battenburg-Victoria match, which would have rendered impossible a match between Victoria's sister and the Czarewitch.

An Alleged Conspiracy.

BERLIN, July 6.—There is much talk now of an alleged conspiracy to oust Prince Bismarck during the brief reign of Emperor Frederick, some persons professing to have ascertained upon unquestionable authority that the Chancellor's dismissal was actually signed by the Kaiser, but for some reason withheld and finally destroyed. It is also asserted that several highly important political papers belonging to Emperor Frederick's series of state documents are missing. These, it is asserted, would shed much light upon the true relations existing between the Emperor and the Chancellor, but no theory is advanced to account for their disappearance.

A Clever Arrest.

SARNIA, July 6.—Frederick Stise, who kept a small grocery in the woods about half way between Oil Springs and Dawn Centre, learned the art, it is said, of manufacturing intoxicants for himself, and was making quite a business of supplying shanty men and mill men with the "crather," when an information was laid against him by Inspector Palmer some time in March last. He was accordingly summoned to appear before Police Magistrate Campbell at Oil City, but failed to put in an appearance. On proof of service of summons upon him by Constable Noah Waffle of Dresden, the police magistrate imposed a fine of $50 and costs or fifty days. Stise thought to take a short way of paying demands and removed to parts unknown. Thinking all had been buried and forgotten he returned to the same shanty on Friday evening last, when to his great surprise and chagrin, before he had time to unload his goods from the wagon on which they had been conveyed thither, Constable Waffle accompanied by the chief of police from Dresden were upon him, and although strenuously assisted by his brother-in-law they succeeded in placing the manacles upon him, and on Saturday last he was safely landed at "Fort Allen" to spend fifty days of the heated season.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

At this season many Housekeepers are replenishing their supplies of Tableware and China. City folk are furnishing summer cottages; country folk are filling up the dressers and cupboards of the old homestead; town's folk are picking and choosing here and there. Many would be glad to know of a place whose special business is to meet these wants and desires; that aims to furnish essentially good wares at consistently low prices; that offers the choice of many different dinner services, and yet does not compel you to take an entire set of any pattern, but allow you to select each course of a new design, or buy any portion of the set you may need that does not try to impose ideas or wares upon purchasers, and yet is ready to advise which of the many wares is most desirable and suitable; and, if wished, will make a careful selection of pattern. When you want Tablewear will you give us the opportunity to serve you.

Why the Scugog is Stumpy.

The Scugog is Lindsay's pet river. In fact its the only river Lindsay has got. Time was when the Scugog was a pretty little stream. Now its a perfect canal of stumps. And why? Because the building of the Bobcaygeon dam raised the height of water on Sturgeon Lake, obliterated the original and only Scugog and drowned thousands of acres of bush along the banks. During succeeding winters the timber was cut off close to the ice. The stumps remain. They are used by the natives as fishing posts and to tack game law notices upon. Those who go to Sturgeon Point with the Methodist Sunday School excursion on Tuesday next will see Lindsay, the Scugog and the stumps. The river serves a useful purpose as a means of navigation to reach the lake and beautiful Sturgeon Point, the brightest, breeziest, coolest, healthiest summer outing place in Canada. Five hours of fun at the Point if you go with the excursion.

A Household Need Supplied.

Splitting kindlings has been a household chore within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Who is there among us who has not shirked this particular part of duty, on occasions, and hoped that brighter days would come when inventive ingenuity would supply some everlasting article that would take the place of the antique lumber slab or venerable shingle block. That want has been supplied by an invention that needs only to be known to be appreciated. In the interests of wood splitting humanity the facts may be stated that the fire cartridge sold by W. G. Bain & Co., of this town, is the article referred to. A quantity of asbestos fibre is enclosed in an iron and wire case. To use it soak the article in coal oil in the can supplied for the purpose. When soaked place your cartridge in the cook stove, adjust the dampers, drop on the kettle and cooking things, apply a match and presently a strong and steady heat is available. By actual experiment a trifle less than one pint of Canadian oil cooked a dinner of fish, vegetables, boiled the kettle for coffee and heated water enough to clear up after dinner. It is a convenience that will save labor, ease the temper, avoid heating up the house, and is cheap and economical. Try it. It is a first class boon to perspiring humanity that no household should be without.

S. S. Excursion.

The Golden Eye this morning was well filled with scholars, teachers and friends of the Murray-st. Baptist Sunday School, on their way to Jubilee Point, for their annual outing. The weather has been all that could be desired and no doubt a pleasant day was spent. The excursionists are expected to reach home about eight o'clock.

A Monument Erected.

The Empire says that the many friends in Canada of the late Mr. David Kennedy, who, with his talented family, delighted his countrymen in all lands by his gifts of Scottish song, may be interested to know that a massive stone has been erected over the grave in the Grange cemetery, Edinburgh, a little to the east of the resting place of Dr. Guthrie. The stone bears the following inscription: "David Kennedy, the Scottish singer: born at Perth, April 15th, 1825; died at Stratford, Canada, October 13th, 1886.

For Sidewalks.

Mayor Stevenson has received from England some patent bricks such as are used for sidewalks, stables, floors, etc., in that country. They are made in Staffordshire and are composed of ground glass and old retorts. They are larger than our ordinary brick and are cast in moulds like iron. It is claimed that when properly bedded that they cannot be broken with a sledge and they will last a lifetime. They are black in color and samples may be seen at the Mayor's office. They cost about $40 a thousand delivered in Peterborough.

It is probable that the Lindsay and Peterborough Y. M. C. A. lacrosse clubs will play on the P. A. A. A full attendance is requested....A regatta under the joint auspices of the Otonabee Canoe Club and the Lansdowne Rowing Club, will be held on the Little Lake on Monday evening.... Master Carpenters.

A meeting of the master carpenters of the town was held in the hall in the Snowden House block on Thursday evening. Mr. Arthur Rutherford was voted to the chair and Mr. Thomas Rutherford acted as Secretary. Among the others present were Messrs. A. Douglas, W. Langford, T. McKee, D. Gamble, W. Fitzgerald and Wm. Roberts. Only a temporary organization was made. Matters of interest to the trade, particularly with regard to the action of the bricklayers and stone masons who object to the builders tendering for their work, were discussed for some time and every member present gave his views on the subject. It was decided to adjourn for one week to allow time for the preparations of resolutions and to perfect some plan whereby they would protect their own interests.

Successful Social.

The social and tea under the auspices of the ladies of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral, held on the Murray-st. Separate school grounds on Thursday evening was, as such events under the same auspices always are, a huge success. The grounds were brilliantly lit up by electric light and the fact that the receipts reached upwards of $80, of which amount over $39 was taken in at the gates, amply testifies that the attendance was large. A spacious platform was provided for dancing and to the excellent music provided by Prof. Doucet and his assistants, a large number enjoyed themselves for several hours. The ladies of numbers 2 and 3 wards had a refreshment table, where were served to all comers at modest rates, strawberries, ice cream and other delicacies of the season. Councillor Kelly and market clerk Doharty, with their partners, opened the dancing. Mr. Doharty has not tripped the light fantastic for many years and his old fashioned courtesying and steps caused much amusement. We understand that it is the intention to continue these pleasant events during the season at regular intervals.

Sanitary Convention.

A sanitary convention and meeting of the Executive Association of Health Officers, will be held at Lindsay, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 14, 15 and 16. A large attendance is looked for.

Cricket.

The International cricket match at Toronto resulted in a sweeping victory for the Yankees, who won handily with an innings to spare. Secretary Stirling and several others from Peterborough withessed the game. The wicket was a poor one and favored the bowlers. The Yankee trundlers sent in a peculiar ball that the Canadians could not do anything with, but the opinion was expressed by more than one that Sam Ray, Rutherford or Stratton could have played them to the Queen's taste, in the same manner that they collared the Belmont bowling on the P. A. A. A. grounds last year. Three of the Belmont team that played here played with the Americans at Toronto.

A Reception Festival.

A strawberry festival was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte-st. Methodis Church on Thursday evening. The object of the festival was to give the new pastor, the Rev. S. J. Shorey, an opportunity of meeting a number of his people and getting acquainted. The lawn was illuminated with Chinese lanterns, and refreshments, consisting of strawberries, ice cream and cake, were served in tents by an attentive and efficient committee. There was a good attendance, there being about two hundred persons on the grounds. The Fire Brigade Band was present and added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion by rendering a number of selections in excellent style. The intervals were filled in with conversation and social enjoyment. The festival was a very successful one and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The Baptist Picnic.

The Baptist Sunday school picnic to Jubilee Point on Thursday, was the largest that left Peterborough for that place this season. The Golden Eye and a large scow were required to carry the three hundred and four persons who went down. Good time was made to the picnic grounds, which were reached about the dinner hour. Baskets, parcels, hampers and other receptacles for good things were soon unloaded. The tables provided on the grounds and the many shady nooks, that abound, were soon occupied, while some preferred to dine at the hotel. For a time the prattle ceased and the sound of the knife and fork and the rattle of plates and cups and saucers prevailed. All being satisfied exploration parties set out to view and inspect the spacious and beautiful grounds. Many enjoyed paddling or sailing and fishing. For the boys, races, baseball and other games furnished amusement, while the girls enjoyed themselves singling, playing croquet and in other ways. The elder people were content to sit and watch the youngsters and enjoy the cool breeze from the lake and by strolling around and seeing what was to be seen. The Rev. Mr. Parker was here, there and everywhere, and deserves great credit for the success of the picnic. After lunch the boat was taken for home, but owing to the scow, the heavy load and the fact that there were many logs met, home was not reached until about ten o'clock, when all departed for their respective homes highly pleased with the day's outing and enjoyment.

For The Point.

The Golden Eye this morning carried down quite a number from town and vicinity bound for Jubilee Point, to take part in the annual picnic and excursion of the Otonabee farmers. This is always one of the largest and most successful picnics of the season, and judging from all appearances that of to-day will be fully equal to any of its predecessors.

Lacrosse.

According to the schedule the Riverside Lacrosse club was to play in Bradford, on the 12th of July, but owing to the fact that the trip will take two days, more time than some of the boys can spare, the Riversides have notified the opponents that the game will have to be declared off, unless they entertain a proposition, to play during August, in which month the Riversides have no games, owing to the fact that Beaverton has dropped out. If the Bradford boys do not accept the proposition made, the Riversides will have to drop out of the series altogether, according to the rules of the association.

Retraction and Apology.

A short time ago we referred to remarks made by the Barrie Gazette in reference to Mr. LeBrun, who was an umpire in the Peterborough-Barrie lacrosse match. These remarks were untrue and libellous, and Mr. LeBrun, whose reputation in sporting circles, as well as in business and social circles, is that of a gentleman, instructed his solicitor, Mr. John O'Meara, to demand an apology or to take action against the Gazette. The Gazette, however, has retraced its statements and apologized, its retraction being as follows:—

"In a report of the Peterborough v Barrie lacrosse match which appeared in the Gazette on the 13th instant, and which was furnished by one of the players (not connected with the Gazette office) to one of our office hands and by accident published without our knowledge until our attention was drawn to it after publication, there appeared the following statements: "These "drawbacks however were trivial to others "their opponents presented, viz: the crowd "and an umpire by name LeBrun, whose "decisions of a most partial and unmanly "nature won what the Peterborough papers "truly state 'a remarkable victory.'

"Also: "Another face, another throw, and "another game allowed by Mr. LeBrun, a"though the ball did not go within 2 feet of "the flags. LeBrun it was afterwards as"certained had money on the match hence "his extraordinary zeal."

We retract these statements as they are wholly false and untrue Mr. LeBrun is a gentleman we have no acquaintance with and certainly have no ill will towards him. We regret that any untrue statements should have appeared reflecting on he reputation as umpire in the Peterborough v Barrie lacrosse match."

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"Here comes your nephew, Mr. Craig, and the young lady," cried Miss Morton, interrupting herself—her seat was opposite one of the windows. "There is another gentleman with them. I seem to know him. Why, it is Bertie Everard, and he has a rod in his hand. I thought he had gone with the deer-stalkers. Now he will expect me to drive him back. What a bore!"

In a few moments Miss Black came in, blushing brightly from pleasure at seeing Mona, as well as from habitual shyness. She came straight to her, and kissed her with quiet cordiality. Kenneth, too, had no eyes for anyone but Mona, until he had greeted her.

"Then Miss Morton called out—

"How goes it, Mr. Macalister? Come here and sit by me. What a provoking creature you are to be out, when I have taken the trouble to drive over here."

Kenneth colored crimson, and explained to her and to his uncle that he was not fit to sit down to table, after dragging a net, until he had changed his clothes. Then he made his escape.

Everard went up to Mr. Craig.

"Very glad to see you, sir," he said, with unusual civility. "I have been coming to call on you two or three times. Now I have made my way here at rather an unsuitable time, which I hope you'll excuse."

"Sit ye doon, sit ye doon!" cried Uncle Sandy. "All times are suitable—'specially when food is ready. Bring mair cups and cookies. We are nae denuded, though the housewife has been awa'."

"I thought you had gone with the deer-stalkers," said Mona.

"I intended going, but Lisle was in such a beastly bad temper I thought I wouldn't venture. We would have been sure to quarrel. This place looks uncommonly well—ever so much better than when Fitzallan had it. That's partly your doing, eh, Mona? Thank you," as she handed him his tea. "I must say women can be of use in making the inside of a house bearable, if in nothing else."

"I believe men would do it better if they put their minds to it," said Miss Morton.

"You ought not to say so, even if you think it," returned Everard. "It isn't good form for a woman to run down woman."

"But I don't run them down!" cried Miss Morton. Then interrupting herself, as Mary was about to take the seat beside her—"No, no! that is Mr. Macalister's place."

Poor Mary fled to Mona's side of the table.

"Come by me, dearie," said Uncle Sandy, "hurstling" nearer the end of the table to make room for her.

"Why, you never do anything else," continued Everard, speaking to Miss Morton.

"You bully all the women up at the Lodge to no end."

"Why do they let me, then? They are so weak, I cannot help it."

"The apostle says—" began Uncle Sandy, with some solemnity, intending to convey a dignified rebuke, and to say a word in season.

"Which apostle?" asked Everard, quickly. "The Apostle Paul was a man of the world. He might have an idea or two on the extremely complicated question of female character, but the rest are nowhere on such a subject."

"You are really the most contradictory creature I ever met, Bertie!" exclaimed Miss Morton. "You are always railing at women yourself, but if I say a word against them, you are up in arms."

"In arms! Whose arms? Yours? I am afraid you would give me more of a bear's hug than a loving squeeze."

"Well!" cried Kenneth, who had returned clothed in his very best kilt and plaid, hastily swallowing a lump of short-bread, and reddening vehemently with the effort, as also at the sound of his own voice, "I say that no man is good for much who thinks the world would be worth living in were it not for the ladies."

"Bravo, Kenneth!" said Mona, while Mary clapped her hands, and Uncle Sandy again essayed to express his views.

"The mon wha has na a kindly thocht for the mither that watched over him, and—"

"Oh! mothers don't count in Mr. Everard's world," interrupted Miss Morton. "He is so devoid of human feeling, that he must have been hatched by some patent incubator, like the funny little fluffy chickens one sees in that window in Regent Street."

"Thank you," said Everard. "I am largely in your debt. When," turning to Uncle Sandy, "are you going to let Mona come back to us?"

"Oo! when she likes, when she likes!"

"I am not going from home again, thank you," said Mona. "I am conceited enough to think that I am of more use here than anywhere else."

"And so you are, my lassie, so you are!"

"Why we will all be inconsolable, and Lisle will be tearing his hair! Come, Miss Morton, if you have done deluding that son of the mountains; it is time to drive me back to the Lodge."

"Why, are you not going to walk?"

"Not if I can help it.

"Then I suppose we must go," to Kenneth. "You will be sure to tell me what day it will suit you to guide me to this cleugh at Balmuir! Good-evening, Mr. Craig. I wish you would let your cook teach Lady Finistoun's how to make those cream scones. If I can find that article of Macgrubber's I'll send it to you. It will enlighten you a good deal."

"You need not fash yourself," stiffly. "It's a kind o' enlighteenment I dinna want."

"That is sinning against light, Mr. Craig. Good-evening."

Kenneth was very attentive in arranging Miss Morton's wraps, and she was flatteringly coquettish. Mary could hardly hide her laughter; then Everard jumped in, and they were off.

"That's a varra remarkable woman," said Uncle Sandy, when they all re-assembled in the library where a wood fire was crackling. "But I canna say that she seems to me a wiselike ane. There's just naething she will na put her tongue to; neither is there onything that is respeckit by her. She is ay interrupting an' moidering aulder and wiser folk than hersel'. She has wandered to and fro and seen a walth of places; but it has no improved her intelligence, for when a's said an' dune, she is just a haverin' taupy!"

"Eh, Mr. Craig, but you are cruel to speak so of a leddy that Kenneth is so pleased with, and who is so taken up with him," said Mary, with a pretty, saucy smile.

"I wish to hear nae mair aboot her," said Uncle Sandy, drawing an arm-chair near the fire, and tumbling into it, while his stick, catching under the fire-irons, upheaved them with a huge clang. "If you stay here, just bide still, for I want a little sleep to mak up for what that stormy woman broke in upon, and if ye canna, just gang in the other room."

The young people readily took the hint, and in the drawing-room held high council.

The topic under discussion was Mary's return home. She thought she had been away long enough. But Mona strongly urged her remaining.

"You are rapidly becoming a prime favorite with my uncle, and you must rivet your chains before we venture to broach the question of your marriage. Let me write to your mother begging an extension of leave."

This advice prevailed, Mary adding to her consent with a soft sigh—

"I am just too happy here."

The fine weather which had prevailed for some weeks naw broke up, and October presented itself in gloomy guise, with wild winds and driving rain, which permitted but little out-door exercise to the girls.

GIVES SATISFACTORY RESULTS.

Dr. O. W. Weeks, Marion, O., says:—"Its use is followed by results satisfactory both to patient and physician."

CONTENT—DISCONTENT,

This world is not a bad world,
But just as people make it;
You can be calm or tempest whirld,
You have your choice; then, take it.
The man who always thinks the world
At sixes and at sevens,
Is one who never feels the good
Nor sees the bad it leavens.

The bearded man who backward looks,
And thinks he speaks the truth,
Says "Oh, that I but had again,
The springtime of my youth,"
Is one, who, playing at the ball
Would always think and plan,
Of all the things that he would do
When he became a man.

The miser hoarding up his wealth,
With many an anxious groan,
Still grumbles at his lack of health
Nor deems the fault his own.
The student who has spent his life
Acquiring precious lore,
Is not content with what he knows,
But 'plains the lack of more.

The peasant who in simple garb,
His simple "lares" enjoy;
Is happier far then men of wealth,
Whose treasures h id alloy.
Contentment is a blessing which
Coeval with man's birth,
Is deemed a fallacy by him
Who never knew its worth.

MR. PARNELL'S DENIALS.

THE IRISH LEADER'S STATEMENT IN THE COMMONS.

He Denounces as a Forgery the Letter said to have been Smuggled from Kilmainham Jail to Egan.

LONDON, July 7.—On the assenting of the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Parnell rose to make an explanation concerning certain statements made in connection with the O'Donnell-Times trial. He declared that he never saw Patrick Egan's letter of Feb. 24, 1881, which was read at the trial with the view of showing that the League instigated the Phœnix Park murder. He was convinced it was a forgery. The imputation against the O'Learys was false. In regard to his letter dated simply "Tuesday" and saying "I see no objection to your giving the amount asked for. There is not the least likelihood of what you apprehend happening." Mr. Parnell said it might be genuine, but he could not recollect it. As to Egan's letter of Oct. 25, 1881, to Carey, saying, "I sent you £200. When you get to work give us the value of our money," and which Attorney-General Webster stated the police found in Carey's house, Mr. Parnell said that doubtless genuine letters from Mr. Egan were found there, but Mr. Egan had never been legally charged, and he had sent a cablegram denying the authorship of the letters attributed to him. Mr. Parnell denounced as an absolute forgery the letter which it was alleged he wrote, and which, it was claimed, was smuggled from Kilmainham Jail to Egan, urging him to immediate action, and to make it hot for "old Forster." He never wrote, signed, saw, nor authorized the communication.

Mr. Parnell then reiterated his assertion that he had neither signed nor authorized the letter dated May 15, 1882, which bore what was alleged to be his signature and which was published a year ago. He said he had not used a signature similar to the one attached to to this letter since 1879. He had then adopted a different style of signature. ("Oh!" from the Ministerial benches.) The letter of June 16, 1882, was also a forgery. The Byrne letter was doubtless genuine, but he had never sent Byrne any money. He had subscribed a small amount to the Byrne testimonial.

"The great majority of the letters read at the trial," Mr. Parnell continued, "are palpable forgeries. If they are credited it must be supposed that I deliberately put myself in the power of murderers,—that I was accessory to the Phœnix Park murder before and after the fact, and that I entered Kilmainham jail desiring to assassinate Mr. Forster. The absurdity of the whole series of letters, with a few exceptions, shows them to be forgeries."

Mr. Justin McCarthy followed Mr. Parnell with an explanation of the statement that he had given Byrne a cheque for £100. He acknowledged that he gave the cheque to Byrne, but said that he had never suspected Byrne to be anything but a hard-working servant of the societies devoted to winning Home Rule for Ireland by constitutional means.

The Lanark Mine.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 7.—The Selkirk Mining Company have made the last payment of $8,000 due upon the Lanark mine. The report of the committee sent last week by the directors of the company to inspect the mine is very satisfactory. The ore body in the 100 feet level has widened to 20 feet, a part of which is composed of lead carbonates, similar in appearance to the Louisville and Eureka ores. They are slightly richer than the galena hitherto found, assaying nearly 90 ounces of silver to the ton, and 65 to 70 per cent. of lead. The vein seemed to extend in the direction of the Red Fox ground. A purchase of the latter ground was made while the inspecting committee were there for the Selkirk Company. It now seems highly probable that the Lanark mine will become one of the famous mines of the Pacific coast.

The Canadian Packers' Association.

HAMILTON, July 7.—At the meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association Mr. Boulton reported that in the Bay of Quinte district the strawberry crop is a complete failure and that the crop of tomatoes and peas will also be poor owing to the drought. It was reported that in the Niagara district the outlook for tomatoes and corn is not as favorable as was expected owing to the ravages of a grub that attacks the young plants. The next meeting will be held in September in Toronto during exhibition week. Officers will then be elected. J. B. Maclean of Toronto was elected secretary-treasurer pro tem.

The Massett Extradition Case.

DETROIT, July 7.—United States Commissioner Davison's office was thronged with a crowd of people from Huron County, Ont., who were present to attend the extradition proceedings of a marble-cutter named Henry Massett. Massett's alleged offence is that of forging the name of a man named John Price to a note for $45. Commissioner Davison gave the defence more time to procure witnesses.

A Jockey's Fatal Experiment.

ST. THOMAS, July 7.—David Adams, an employee in Shaw's livery stable, Ridgetown, on the advice of one Graveline, took five doses of epsom salts in succession to lighten his weight while acting as jockey for Dr. Lumley in the Ridgetown races. He was found on Tuesday morning on the Benton House steps asleep and overcome by the treatment, and has since died.

Fire at Oshawa.

OSHAWA, July 7.—At 1.45 yesterday afternoon a fire broke out in the engine house of Heap's cabinet factory. Considerable damage was done as a good deal of lumber was being dried in the kiln attached to the engine house, but the loss is covered by insurance.

THE EDUCATIONAL CENTRE.

A Law Faculty to be Established at Toronto University.

TORONTO, July 7.—The Minister of Education has almost perfected the plan for the formation of a law faculty in connection with Toronto University and entirely independent of the Law Society. It is expected that the faculty will be completed before the opening of the University in October. Arrangements are now making with a number of distinguished men for a course of lectures in all departments required for the degree of LL.B.

It is expected that Mr. W. J. Ashley, M.A., who has been appointed to the chair of political science in Toronto University, will sail for Canada in September.

It is understood that Hon. G. W. Ross will ask the Legislature for a grant of money to provide accommodation at the Normal School buildings for a department of manual training and for carpenters' benches and tools and other necessary equipment. In its inception it is proposed that experiments shall be made in wood only, and that instruction shall be confined to the senior form of the Model School. The primary and correct purpose of manual training is not to teach a trade but to encourage habits of observation, to afford muscular exercise, and to give the benefit which is derived from change of occupation.

The annual meeting of the Stock Exchange was held yesterday, when the following officers were elected for the coming year:—President, H. L. Hime; Vice-President, W. S. Cassels; Treasurer, C. S. Gzowski; Secretary, J. W. Beatty. Committee, R. S. Cassels, H. C. Hammond and J. Stark.

The remains of R. W. Flack, the rash adventurer who lost his life while attempting to navigate the whirlpool rapids at Niagara Falls, on the anniversary of Independence Day, will be interred this afternoon in St. James Cemetery. The body will arrive at the Union depot at eleven o'clock this morning, and will be taken in charge by the brethren of Mystic Lodge, R. of P., of which lodge the deceased was a member in good standing at the time of his death. His widow will receive $1,000 from the Endowment Fund of the Order.

Judge Robertson yesterday gave his long-expected decision on the application for an injunction to restrain Judge McDougall from proceeding further with the investigation into the civic Board of Works department. His lordship in effect holds that Judge McDougall had no power to go outside of Inspector Lackie's dealings with the Board of Works, and therefore enjoins him from further doing so. This will practically shelve the investigation.

THE KING COUNTERFEITER.

Charles Johnston Arrested by the Toronto Detectives.

TORONTO, July 7.—At an early hour yesterday morning the Toronto detectives, assisted by Dominion Detective O'Leary, arrested Charles Johnston, who is credited with being the King counterfeiter of the new world. The charge on which he was arrested is that he has engraved plates of the currency of the Bank of British North America, and it is from these plates that the bogus bills of this institution with which Canada, and more particularly Ontario, was flooded, were printed.

Three weeks ago Johnston was arrested in Michigan, but succeeded in making his escape. To elude the U.S. detectives he came to Canada, but the detectives here were on the look-out for him and found him last night. When arrested he was in bed at the house of the Johnston family in this city. He was taken to Sarnia last night, where an indictment for counterfeiting awaits him.

Collingwood's Natural Gas and Salt.

COLLINGWOOD, July 7.—Mr. E. R. Carpenter bagged a quantity of the natural gas the other night and lit it alongside a gasoline jet. The lights were almost identical, with the difference in favor of the natural gas, inasmuch as it burns without smoke. It gives a clear white light, of great brilliancy.

Mr. C. E. Stephens also launched out as an experimentalist and secured a pitcher full of salt water from the bottom of the well in No. 1 ward. The water is exceedingly briny, and has salt in large quantities. There is evidently salt, as well as gas, in No. 1 ward, though whether in paying quantities or not remains to be seen. One experimentalist obtained a quantity of salt by boiling a pot full of water.

A Big Lot of Logs Adrift.

RAT PORTAGE, July 7.—Lumbermen, in cutting logs on the Rainy Lake and tributary rivers to the Rainy river, place the logs in booms and leave them until they get the number out ready for towing to the mills. This season the water in the river has risen to an unusual height, and has raised the booms over the guards, letting all the logs in booms loose, to float promiscuously over the lake. As near as can be ascertained, the following is a correct amount of the logs which have got loose: Keewatin Lumbering and Manufacturing Company, 10,000,000; Dick & Banning, 2,000,000; H. F. Holmes, 300,000; Minnesota and Ontario Lumber Company, 5,000,000; Rainy Lake Company, 4,500,000; Hughes & Kennedy, 100,000.

A School Mistress' Pluck.

BROCKVILLE, July 7.—Byron Loverin, of Greenbush, fell from a vehicle in which he was riding the other night near Bellamy's station, and the horses becoming frightened dragged him for a considerable distance while they were running at a high rate of speed. The alarmed steeds were brought to a standstill by Miss Webster, who teaches in that vicinity, and Mr. Loverin was rescued from his perilous position. He was quite seriously bruised, but miraculously escaped fatal injuries.

Attempted Suicide.

MEAFORD, July 7.—Geo. Tomlinson, one of the sureties for the late bailiff, A. Watt, attempted suicide by wading into the river. He was noticed in time, and his son went in and brought him out. It is believed his mind has been affected by thinking of his responsibility for the amount of the late bailiff's shortage, and also the loss of money loaned him prior to his departure.

The Laudanum Route.

GRAVENHURST, July 7.—William Rorke, formerly of Kingston, procured an ounce of laudanum at a drug store early yesterday morning and drank the entire quantity. Physicians were immediately summoned and made every effort to save his life, but he died about noon. Rorke was much addicted to drink and has been on a protracted spree for some time.

Jumped and Broke His Leg.

LONDON, July 7.—While engaged at work on the new Graham-road bridge recently, Mr. David Watterworth, brother of the young man who lost his life in the late accident, was drawing on a rope, which slipped, and seeing he was about to fall he jumped to the ground, a distance of ten feet, breaking his leg at the ankle.

A Singular Death.

ORILLIA, July 7.—Last week a little son of Mr. Madden had a tooth pulled and on the day following the operation he went out barefooted and caught cold. The gum inflamed, and the result was that the boy died from blood poisoning.

A massive stone has been erected in the Grange Cemetery, Edinburgh, over the grave of the late David Kennedy, known through Scotland and Canada for his gift of Scottish song. The stone bears the inscription: "David Kennedy, the Scottish singer; born at Perth April 15, 1825, died at Stratford, Canada, Oct. 13, 1886."

THE GOSSIP OF LONDON.

MR. PARNELL AND THE LIBEL SUIT AGAINST THE TIMES.

Grave Charges against the Irish Leader—Points from the New Life of Mr. Forster—Phyllis Broughton Gets £2,000.

LONDON, July 7.—The verdict for the defendant in Mr. O'Donnell's action against The Times satisfies nobody, except perhaps those, if any there be, who had reason to dread coming disclosures. Lord Coleridge practically stopped the case, and is sharply criticised for doing it. The Times gets a verdict which is no consolation. Mr. O'Donnell's reputation remains what it was. Nor is Mr. O'Donnell's reputation a matter of prime interest to the English public. Everything pales in importance when compared with the new charges brought by The Times against Mr. Parnell.

The statements made on Wednesday by the Attorney-General are admitted by both sides to be of the gravest character. The question is whether they can be proved. The main points alleged by the Attorney-General are in substance that Mr. Patrick Egan, during the year before the Phœnix Park murders, was in correspondence from Paris with the Invincibles and with Mr. Parnell; that Mr. Egan told Harris that Mr. Parnell was for prompt, decisive action; that Mr. Egan was sending Carey, one of the assassins, money and asking when they should get value for their money. Then early in 1882, comes a letter from Mr. Parnell written in Kilmainham jail to Mr. Egan in Paris beginning, "Dear Egan," and saying, "What are these fellows waiting for? They undertook to make it hot for old Forster. Why don't they?"

The body of Mr. Parnell's letter from Kilmainham is admittedly not in his handwriting, nor is it known who wrote it. The signature is alleged to be genuine. How it came into the hands of The Times is not disclosed. Nor, said the Attorney-General, would they, even if the refusal cost them a verdict, say how they got it. But they expected to prove by experts and otherwise that the signature was really Mr. Parnell's. He, of course, denies it, as he denied and still denies the signature to that alleged facsimile letter which has been so long before the public. Many other things are denied, and everything would have been for the jury. But on the issue now raised all men are agreed. If these letters are genuine and these accusations true, Mr. Parnell will be driven from public life in England. If the letters are forged, and the Egan and Byrne stories not proved to the satisfaction of the public when occasion offers, The Times will have to step down and out and the reaction in favor of Home Rule may even bring Mr. Gladstone back into power. Failure to make good The Times' case would, in short, be regarded here as evident that these charges were the result of conspiracy, but now nobody can say what steps will next be taken. The situation is equally difficult for The Times and for Parnell. The Irish leader, though repeatedly challenged, has steadily refused to bring an action for libel. He could not, as Mr. O'Donnell has done, refuse to enter the witness box. Once in questions would be put to him which he would have either to answer or to decline to answer, and either alternative would be damaging. He is not protected by privilege as a minister or ex-minister would be. Such Gladstonians as I have seen since the verdict say that they presume Mr. Parnell will content himself, as he has done hitherto, with a blank denial of the authenticity of the letters.

Mr. Forster's life just published supplies Unionist journals with a text from which they one and all preach anti-Home Rule sermons. This book brings suddenly to life those life and death issues in which Mr. Forster as Irish Secretary bore so great a part. His letters were admirable. They are the man, simply manly, frank and true as steel. The stories of his escape from assassination read like so many romances. Their literal truth is now conceded. But what the Unionists most dwell upon is the contrast here seen between the Gladstone of 1881 and the Gladstone of to-day. His letters to his own colleague, now published, show the eager advocate of that very policy which he condemns wholly as practised by the present Ministry. He denounces the League, upholds coercion and condemns not only boycotting, but combination. If the existing law did not make it illegal he is for amending the law—nay, he wanted in 1881 to hold an autumn session to put down the League, his own fancy, as he says, against the opinion of the Cabinet. Many are the points of contrast now brought into relief. It is pleasant to find how loyally Mr. Gladstone for a time stood by his colleague, nor when he sacrificed him did he do it without deep reluctance. Putting politics and controversies of every kind aside, the excellently written life abounds in interest. Mr. Wemyss Reid has done his work well and has done justice, so far as I can judge thus early, to one of the best Englishmen of his time. Mr. Forster's private letters show him to even better advantage than did his public life. His utter sincerity, his unflinching courage, his high aims, his readiness at all times to sacrifice himself to a cause he had at heart, his perfect independence, his astonishing ability, and his still more astonishing power of work—these, and many other fine traits and qualities, are now more than ever clearly visible.

Phyllis Broughton's suit for breach of promise against Lord Dangan has been withdrawn. I am told that her former lover sent her his autograph to smoothe her ruffled feelings, and that unless she keeps it as a memento it is good for £2,000. G. W. S.

BISHOPS AT LONDON.

The Successor to the Late Archbishop Lynch Discussed Yesterday.

LONDON, July 7.—A conference of Bishops of the Catholic Church was held here yesterday at the residence of Bishop Walsh, there being present among others Bishop Cleary, of Kingston, and Bishop Dowling of Peterboro'. It is understood that the object of the meeting was to take some steps towards having a successor to the late Archbishop Lynch recommended to the holy office.

To Meet at Toronto.

LONDON, July, 7.—The Pan-Presbyterian Council has accepted an invitation to hold its next meeting at Toronto.

The Committee on Foreign Missions submitted a report on the question of co-operation with other churches. Dr. Murkland supported the report. Dr. McMaren, of Toronto, advocated encouraging native churches to assume an independent position. Dr. Fraiser, of New York, argued that if divisions in the Church continued missionaries could hardly be expected to act in a different spirit while laboring among the heathen.

The Need of a Canada-Australian Cable.

LONDON, July 7.—The complete breakdown of the Eastern Telegraph Company's system between Java and Port Darwin is creating a strong feeling among the commercial public in favor of a Pacific cable from Vancouver and Australia. The opinion is expressed that the Imperial and Colonial Governments should hasten the proposed survey of the route.

While Mrs. John Hickmoth, on the fourth concession, Raleigh, was milking a cow, the cow became frightened at something and started to run. Mrs. Hickmoth picked up the milk pail and stool and was starting off, when a hog which was frightened at the cow ran between her feet, throwing her to the ground with such force that her left hip was broken.

OUR CANADIAN ANNIVERSARY.

THE Toronto papers, we are pleased to see, are discussing the best method of celebrating Dominion Day. As Canadians have been in the habit of celebrating the anniversary, nothing is done to call attention to its origin, to the great work of confederation, or to the natural greatness and progress of our country. This is an ommission that should not be allowed to continue. The people of the United States know the value of addresses on the 4th of July in inspiring and developing patriotism, and Canadians would not make a mistake in copying, to some extent at least, this feature of their celebrations. There need be no dread of prosy speeches that would be an infliction to listen to. Proper management would see that interesting speakers would be procured, who would entertain as well as instruct. The theme the orators would be expected to deal with is a great and almost inexhaustible one—the Dominion of Canada. Addresses need not be the sole celebration, but what the Toronto papers point out—at least several of them do—is that they should be a feature of the celebration, in order that the event commemorated should not be lost sight of. If there is any better way of attaining this object, well and good; but bright, forcible, able and short speeches is a good way of doing so. A year ago the REVIEW called attention to this matter and it is pleased to see it being widely discussed. Those who undertake the management of Dominion Day celebrations next year should bear in mind these suggestions.

NO THIRD PARTY.

THE Montreal temperance convention decided by a vote of two to one against organizing a third political party. This vote had a further result than simply checking the organization of a politica party at that meeting; it killed the young party which was formed at Toronto with the Rev. Dr. Sutherland at its head. The convention decided in favor of prohibitionists voting for candidates who would support prohibition, and only such candidates, while rejecting the third party proposition. Dr. Sutherland, who was present at Montreal, moved that the action of the convention be made unanimous—that is, that the minority accept the opinion of the majority and all work together—and his motion was carried. Therefore, we presume, the party organized at Toronto drops out of existence, being wounded in the house of its friends and abandoned by its guardians.

At the time the Toronto convention organized the third party the REVIEW expressed the opinion that it would not succeed. Political parties are not easily formed with a ready-made platform of several planks, and a party with only one plank, and its members divided on other questions, would not possess stability.

REVIEWS.

THE CENTURY.—July number of The Century is a grand one, with varied and interesting contents. It is safe to say that the reading public of the continent await with expectation and peruse with interest the splendid series of papers contributed by Geo. Kennan on Siberia. The paper in the July number is on "The Steppes of the Irtisk," beautifully illustrated, giving in outline the details of a journey of 900 miles through southern Siberia. "Sinai and the Wilderness" deals with the scenes and prominent geographical features of the land where the Israelites received the law and ten commandments. "Lichfield Cathedral" is a breezy and delightful paper on one of the famous English cathedrals. The career of the confederate ram, "Albermarle," is a thrilling episode of the naval side of the Civil War. The literary matter of the number is good and in plenty. "The Graysons" approaches completion and depicts the trial scene where Abraham Lincoln makes his debut as successful counsel in a criminal case. Other features of the magazine are fully up to the mark. —The Century Company, Publishers, New York, or for sale by booksellers.

ST. NICHOLAS.—The July number of St. Nicholas is a rich text for any reader, boy or girl. Its dainty pages are full of nice thoughts and merry incident of a tone so good that reading St. Nicholas is a moral education itself. Thousands of parents all over the land owe the publishers a debt of gratitude for placing in reach a work so thoroughly reliable and one so acceptable on all grounds. From first to last the number is admirably made up. No finer birthday gift can be made to a child than a year of St. Nicholas, with its ever fresh and beautiful illustrated features. The Century Coy., publishers, New York.

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Moit, Brentwood, Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable. Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

LINDSAY.

A DASTARDLY ACT.—On Wednesday forenoon some miscreant cut and damaged with a knife about 100 yards of dress goods, which were on display in front of Ritchie's dry goods store. There were about 15 pieces in all that were cut. Mr. Ritchie has offered a reward of $25 for any information that will lead to their conviction, and it is hoped the guilty parties may be brought to justice.

ACCIDENT.—An accident that nearly resulted in death happened at Rodd's new saw and shingle mill on Wednesday last. Mr. J. F. Miller was hewing a stick of timber when the axe slipped and cut him in the instep severing an artery. A fellow workman tied it up temporarily and stopped the bleeding until Dr. Coulter arrived and dressed the wound.—Warder.

NORWOOD.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.—The first annual meeting of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held on Friday. President F. Birdsall, the Register says, gave a short address, briefly explaining the objects of the Institute and the advantages to be derived by the members—not only from the very valuable information imparted by the professors, who, at the expense of the Government, deliver lectures in places where these Institutes exist—but by relating their own experience in the various branches of the agricultural industry. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer, which showed the Institute to be flourishing both financially and otherwise, were received and on motion adopted. During the present year twenty-seven new members have been enrolled. The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

PRESIDENT.—F. Birdsall, Esq.

VICE PRESIDENT.—T. Blezard, Esq., M. P.P.

SECRETARY.—J. W. Clark, Esq.

TREASURER.—W. Doherty, Esq.

DIRECTORS.—Messrs. R. Burgess, James Moore, John Knox, J. Murphy, H. Humphries, T. M. Grover, C. O'Rielly, C. Nicoll, E. G. Perry, G. English, A. Scott, G. Howson, R. Comstock, W. J. Miller and W. Paterson.

AUDITORS.—Messrs. J. Knox and H. Humphries.

Messrs. F. Birdsall and R. Burgess were appointed delegates to the Central Institute.

The Secretary was instructed to write to Prof. Mills and ascertain if Thursday or Friday in the second week in January would be a suitable date for holding a meeting in Norwood. He was also instructed to communicate with Mr. Drury, Minister of Agriculture, and Prof. Saunders, of Ottawa, and secure their attendance.

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

GIVES SATISFACTORY RESULTS.

Dr. O. W. Weeks, Marion, O., says:—"Its use is followed by results satisfactory both to patient and physician."

BOBCAYGEON.

DROWNED.—On Wednesday morning, little Aleck Lacombe, aged about five years, went down to the Grist Mill to fish. He was accompanied by a companion, and how it happened is not exactly known, but he fell off the boom into the river. His companion, who was about his own age, when he saw the little fellow go down, ran off and met George Lacombe, a year or so older, who went home and told his elder sister, and it was not until this little girl ran screaming down the street that the alarm was given. A rush was made for the mill, and Sidney Hetherington without a moment's hesitation made a fine dive from the boom. Several plunged in, and when the little fellow who saw the accident, pointed out the place, T. Montgomery went down and brought the child to the surface. Drs. Bounell and Thorne immediately took all measures for restoration, but their efforts were of no avail, for the vital spark had flown.—Independent.

ANOTHER PEST.—The pea bug has returned in some parts of the country and has done so much damage that farmers have ploughed their fields that looked promising, and sown them in something else. The pest has not made its appearance in this locality so much as to effect the crop.

"NOT GUILTY."—The young man Clarke who was recently sent to Cobourg on a charge of alleged theft of $10 from a fellow boarder in Campbellford, stood his trial before the judge on Thursday last, and was discharged, the evidence being insufficient to convict him. Four witnesses were summoned from here.—Herald.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

At this season many Housekeepers are replenishing their supplies of Tableware and China. City folk are furnishing summer cottages; country folk are filling up the dressers and cupboards of the old homestead: town's folk are picking and choosing here and there. Many would be glad to know of a place whose special business is to meet these wants and desires; that aims to furnish essentially good wares at consistently low prices; that offers the choice of many different dinner services, and yet does not compel you to take an entire set of any pattern, but allows you to select each course of a new design, or buy any portion of the set you may need that does not try to impose ideas or wares upon purchasers, and yet is ready to advise which of the many wares is most desirable and suitable; and, if wished, will make a careful selection of pattern. When you want tablewear will you give us the opportunity to serve you.

Mr. G. S. Bean, B. A., B. Mr. Bean is an excellent mathematician and teacher of mathematics and will bring strength to the staff of the College, in which he takes the position of Vice-Principal. We are pleased that, though leaving the Collegiate Institute, Mr. Bean will remain in Peterborough, as he is a gentleman whose departure would have been deeply regretted.

On His Muscle.

In front of the fire station this morning, a horse was tied to a telephone pole. Several persons were standing close by at the time, when suddenly the animal reared up, struck out with its fore feet and made desperate efforts to break loose. A by-stander grabbed the bridle and held on with great grit until the horse quieted down. Quite a crowd had gathered by the this time and the horse again went through the same manœuvres. Two men this time caught the lines. Both were nearly knocked down, but they held on manfully until the horse was got under control, when he drove off quietly enough.

A Pioneer of Peterborough.

Mr. Thos. Fletcher, sr., of Keokuk, Iowa, is in town for a few days visiting his son-in-law, Mr. H. B. Meharry. Mr. Fletcher left Peterborough fifty years ago and has in the western states achieved a good position and gained a competence, among other work building a large number of bridges on the Illinois Central railroad. He worked side by side with Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, building the fortifications at Kingston in '37, and in the troublous times of the year made the distance on foot between Kingston and Toronto. He was occupied for sometime in building the lock at Chisholms rapids, the first of the Trent Valley Canal series. Mr. Fletcher went up and had a look at the Burleigh lock, which he pronounces splendid work, the equal of the best in the States. Leaving Peterborough so long ago Mr. Fletcher noticed the progress of the town and causully remarked that it has much improved.

Street Watering.

Loud complaints are heard from the north end regarding the exceedingly poor manner in which the streets are watered and it is probable that a communication regarding the matter will soon be sent in to the Council. To-day the dust was flying in clouds. It is claimed by the drivers that they cannot give good satisfaction and cover the amount of territory that they are required to water.

Scared.

A bicyclist coming down street from dinner to-day rode his silent steed on the middle of the road. A horse coming up was scared by the machine and for a time an interesting runaway and smash up loomed up, but the driver was a man of muscle and held on to the lines firmly for fully five minutes, while the horse reared up and cavorted all over the street, but at last the animal ceased his prancing and trotted off as if nothing had occurred.

Farmers' Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Ottonabee farmers was held at Jubilee Point on Friday. The attendance was the largest of the season. About twenty-five from Peterborough went down. At the Point the large dancing pavilion was occupied all day and to the music of an excellent string band, the merrymakers danced themselves tired. Games of various kinds, tugs-of-war, etc., made up an interesting programme. The committee of management evidently knew their business and in consequence the day's proceedings passed off without a hitch. The steamer reached her wharf at a seasonable hour. All who were down speak in the highest terms of the courtesy of Captain McDonald, of the Golden-Eye, and his crew.

Orange Sermon.

To-morrow afternoon, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, pastor of the George-st., Methodist church, will preach a sermon to the Orangemen of Peterborough and vicinity at St. Paul's Presbyterian church. The body of the church will be reserved for the members of the order.

The Market.

The market this morning was one of the largest that has been seen for some time. The supply of butter, eggs, poultry, meats, vegetables, etc., appeared to be fully equal to the demand, and prices ruled about the same as former quotations. Nothing worth speaking of was done in grain.

FROM modest efforts, honest goods, high quality, square dealing, good treatment, small profits, on to grand achievements in the way of Satisfying Bargains is the motto of The Pantry.

I.O.O.F.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., District Deputy Grand Master, accompanied by Bro. D. H. Moore, went to Norwood last night for the purpose of installing the officers of Norwood Lodge, I.O.O.F. After the ceremony the visitors were hospitably entertained and a pleasant evening was spent.

St. Andrew's Picnic.

Here we have the opportunity afforded for a pleasant day down the river and on Rice Lake, and in enjoyable company. St. Andrew's Sunday school picnic will take place on Wednesday next, July 11th, by steamer Golden-Eye, to Jubilee Point. Steamer leaves the wharf at 8.30 a.m. Tickets, adults 25 cts., children 15 cts. 3i5

Military Change.

The following changes in military circles are gazetted:—

"3rd Provisional Regiment of Cavalry, C. Troop, Peterborough.—To be Lieutenant provisionally, Staff-Sergeant Herbert W. Trent, vice Morrow, resignation accepted. To be second Lieutenant, provisionally, D'Arcy Edward Strickland, vice Hammond, deceased."

Fraud.

Hugh Stevenson was charged with obtaining with intent to defraud, one load of hay from John Little. The evidence of the complainant was that he delivered a load of hay at the defendant's house. The defendant insisted him to unload it and promised to pay him that afternoon. He had not done so yet and he could not get his money. The case was enlarged until Monday next.

Forestalling.

A woman who keeps a small grocery at the west end of the town, was before the Police Magistrate this morning, charged with forestalling by Officer Adams. The offence was purchasing potatoes on the market square before the hour permitted by the by-law. She pleaded guilty and said she did it through ignorance of the law. She was allowed to go with a warning.

No injurious effects can follow the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. It contains an unfailing antidote and specific for miasmatic poisons together with remedial agents which purify and reinvigorate the system.

Once More.

The sewer from the town buildings has been nothing else but a bill of expense and a great nuisance ever since it was laid down. It has been torn up twice already and as the smell around the Clerk's office is as bad as ever, the connecting pipes are to be taken up once more, with a view to finding out the source from which the intolerable stench, that at times pervades the atmosphere, comes from. The work will probably commence on Tuesday next.

The Coming Game.

The baseball game to take place on the P.A.A.A. grounds, on Tuesday afternoon next, between a Cobourg-Port Hope nine and the Peterboroughs promises to be an exciting one. Woods and Mulhall of Cobourg, will probably form the battery for the visitors, while Cameron and Billings will be in the points for the local nine. The game will be called at 3.30 sharp and a large crowd should be present to give the boys encouragement.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

Graduation Exercises at the Peterborough Business College.

Diplomas of graduation were presented to sixteen students of the Business College on Friday evening and there was a large attendance at the exercises connected with the commencement. Mayor Stevenson, M. P., occupied the chair.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the proceedings, said that when Mr. Sawyer came here three years ago to establish the college there were doubts as to whether it was required in a town with the educational facilities Peterborough possessed. But there were complaints of our schools in regard to the very branches taught here. The Principal felt that the town would sustain the college, and it had been a marked success. The students, many of whom came from a distance, had succeeded well and many of them were filling very important positions. The College had been a benefit to the town and to the students. There was every prospect that it would be successful in the future and would continue to benefit students and the town, and he hoped it would benefit the Principal and Mr. G. S. Bean, who was a valuable addition to the staff.

The College Glee Club then sang "The Festal Day" and were loudly applauded.

The reading of essays on "Success" by student followed. A prize was offered for the best essays, and Messrs. Earl Bean and Colbeck were appointed judges. Essays were read by Mr. J. A. Marshall and Misses Martyn, Montgomery and Collings. The judges reported that all the essays were very good, and awarded the prize to Miss Collings and made special mention of Miss Martyn's essay.

Exercises were then given in typewriting and shorthand. Principal Sawyer explained the working of the type writers and caligraph and the differences in the machines. Miss Robinson and Messrs. Pratt and Matthews wrote on the machines from dictation, and also wrote shorthand in the same way at the rate of 100 words a minute.

Miss Collings sang a song in good voice, which was well received.

The PRINCIPAL presented the graduates with their diplomas. In doing so he congratulated them on their success and added words of good counsel. The following students received diplomas:—

Misses Ipsa Martyn, M. Montgomery, B Morgan, Maggie Halliday, Bessie Allen, Flora Rutherford, and Messrs. John C. Anderson, W. H. Bradburn, Josiah A. Allen, Fred J. Pratt, Arthur R. Cook and James Cummings. Miss Grace Robinson and Messrs. Silas W. Carter, W. G. Matthews and Arthur Stewart, who had graduated before and who had remained in the College, were presented with diplomas of a higher grade.

Mr. G. S. BEAN, Vice-Principal, said that the motto of the College, "Courage and Faith," fitted the occasion. The attendance showed the popularity of the College and the necessity for such an institution. He spoke of the importance of the work done by business colleges and said there was no classing between them and the other schools and colleges. They had a different curriculum and field.

Refreshments, in the form of ice cream and cake, were then served and enjoyed by all.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE gave a very interesting address. He said that the business college put the students in a position to use their education and did a work it was impossible for the public and high schools to do. While they should prepare themselves for business, they should not neglect to cultivate their minds in other ways so as to enjoy art and literature.

The PRINCIPAL said that the third year of the College had just been completed and the third year was the best. He was pleased with having Mr. Bean associated with him, as he knew he would be a valuable addition to the College. He thanked the people for their presence and attention. He then announced the names of the prize winners, as follows:—

General Proficiency—Miss Belle Griffith, town.

Essay on Success—Miss Annie Collings, Cobourg.

Penmanship—Mr. J. A. Marshall, Orangeville.

Typewriting—Miss Grace Robinson, Bobcaygeon.

Shorthand—Mr. Fred J. Pratt, Ottawa.

The CHAIRMAN returned thanks to the Principal on behalf of those present.

The proceedings were concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

The College hall was handsomely decorated for the occasion with evergreens, plants and flowers. Flowers and plants were loaned by Mr. J. Long, confectioner, and bouquets by Misses Martyn, Rombough and Richardson.

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day and known the merits of Ayer's Pill, as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. L. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly, and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

Uncle Sandy himself was a little complaining and cranky; but, on the whole, music and reading, the state of the stocks, and book-keeping, with Kenneth's help, kept them tolerably amused during this period of imprisonment.

Lisle made no sign. Mona was not sorry. His presence, without having a distinctly disturbing effect, awoke painful memories, and obliged her constantly to think before she spoke. At length a fairly bright morning broke upon the deluged country, and Mona undertook to drive into Kirktoun to execute divers commissions.

Uncle Sandy objecting to be left alone, Mona departed with only "the boy" in attendance.

Having finished her business, she turned the horse's head homeward, and had alighted to walk up the steep road which led from the loch to Craigdarroch, when a sportsman, with dog and gun, suddenly emerged from a small wood which filled a sheltered hollow, and approached her. She recognized Lisle, and paused to speak to him.

"It is more than a fortnight since I saw you!" he exclaimed, in an aggrieved tone, while his keen light eyes sparkled with the joy of seeing her, and his hard mouth relaxed into a pleasant smile.

"I suppose it is," returned Mona, smiling.

"It is a delightful day for walking. Will you not tell your servant to take the trap home, and let me have the pleasure of escorting you by the short way to the house."

Mona thought for a moment, and then said—"I will."

Directing the boy to go on, she walked on beside Lisle, and they turned off almost immediately by a path to the left, that led by a steeper and more direct line to the house.

Lisle opened the conversation by saying—

"You are not bound here for the term of your natural life, are you?" looking eagerly into her eyes. "That unspeakable bore, Miss Morton, mentioned some absurd report of your uncle intending to marry you to his wild Highlander of a nephew. It cannot be true!"

"Why!" asked Mona, demurely.

"Why! A creature like that!"

"He is very good-looking, and most amiable in disposition."

"But one knows how an amiable disposition may fare at your hands," he returned somewhat bitterly. "Tell me, for God's sake, is it possible you can contemplate such a sacrifice? Do you really think of linking yourself with a mere respectable farmer?"

"Pray remember, if you please, that Kenneth Macalister is my near kinsman; he cannot be socially beneath me."

"I dare say you think me an ill-bred brute, but you know how profoundly interested I have always been in you, and once in a crisis in your fate, you permitted me to advise you—"

"I do not think you waited for permission!" said Mona, with an arch smile.

"I think I never made such a mistake in my life! I am always burning to implore your forgiveness for my idiotic suggestion."

"What is there to forgive?" she returned gently. "On the contrary, I ought to be grateful to you for breaking through the principle of non-intervention, which, of course, would have prevented a man of the world doing anything so quixotic as to offer a way of escape to a damsel in distress."

"May I tell you what my own state of mind was at that unhappy juncture?"

"No, no! There is no use in looking back! Let us thank Heaven for the present."

"I do not," said Lisle, gloomily: "But do not be enigmatic. You are not going to marry this—this cousin of yours?"

"No, Sir St. John!" returned Mona, assuming an air of sadness. "I cannot, seeing that he has rejected me."

"What!" cried Lisle; "rejected you?"

"Yes. I hope you sympathize with me in the shock I have received? But Kenneth prefers not to marry me."

"Then old Craig wanted to arrange a marriage?"

"He did; but his purpose has been frustrated!" returned Mona, with tragic emphasis.

Lisle laughed.

"I understand, I think," he said. "Imagine any man refusing you! I did not think you had so much quiet sarcasm."

"I am unaware of it," returned Mona.

"And you will not listen to my explanation?"

"I do not see what you have to explain; and, were any explanation necessary, there is no time; we are close to the house, and I suppose you will come in and see Uncle Sandy?"

"Most certainly. But, Miss Craig, I must insist—I mean, I must implore you to hear the explanation I wish to make."

"I really want none!—perhaps I understand more than you think."

"I fear you may understand in a wrong way."

"Well, here we are at the house, and here comes Uncle Sandy and Mary. If, in a paroxysm of hospitality, my uncle asks you to supper, do not stay. I know the menu, and you would not like it."

Then hastening to meet them, she exclaimed—

"I have brought you each a letter, but there is none for me from Madame Debrisay. I fear something must be the matter with her."

CHAPTER XXII.—THE BIRD HAS FLOWN.

Lisle had never before been so piqued and frustrated as he was by Mona's mode of receiving his advances.

"Had she shown coldness or resentment, he could have understood his position. But her sweet friendliness was utterly baffling.

His impatience, the eager fire that quickened his pulses, urged him perpetually to seek her; while pride and his habitual reluctance to commit himself, held him back.

It was a running fight between these two forces, through the couple of weeks which succeeded Mona's visit to Strathairlie, but the strongest finally prevailed, and telling himself he really ought to let that old boor at Craigdarroch know that the right of fishing question was settled, he started in wonderfully good spirits for his morning's sport, intending to end the day in Mona's society. It was an especial stroke of luck, he thought, to have a tête-a-tête walk with her, but when he reviewed their conversation in the morning, while his friend and partner slumbered, he was obliged to confess that he had made very little way.

Did she—or did she not resent his throwing her over, as he undoubtedly had, when her grandmother came to grief?

She was so young and inexperienced at the time that she could hardly realize the impossibility of a man like himself risking marriage, even with a richly dowered girl—a more enlightened, a more mature woman, would have seen and understood the difficulty, nor loved him the less for being ready to give her up to a richer rival. Women are awfully selfish and unreasonable! Now that Mona had seen more of life—the seamy side of it too—she ought to appreciate the motives which actuated him; perhaps she did, for she never avoided him, or said sharp things, only she was so infernally calm and frank! It was quite possible she might have fallen in love with someone else in the interim. Who could it be?—some brute of a foreigner?

Bricklayers' and Masons' Union

No. 12, Peterborough.

To the Architects and Builders of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN:—The members of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, No. 12, Peterborough, have decided to take no sub-contracts after the 1st day of June, 1888. We take this step believing it to be to the interest of Architects and Proprietors of buildings, to deal directly with us, and not, as heretofore, letting our branch of work to Carpenters, and then have them sub-let it to us, frequently at a loss to owners of buildings through inferior material being used to secure the carpenter a profit. We therefore consider it would be to the interest of all concerned, to have each trade control its own line of work.

During the month of May just past applications have been received at the head office for about $080,000 insurance, a result we venture to affirm never before attained by any life insurance company in one month in the middle of their fiscal year. This enormous business is being done without any undue pressure.

"The liberality of its contracts and eminent fairness of its plans, no less than the substantial names appearing on its lists of officers and directors, contribute to its wonderful growth. It is confidently believed that its business this year will be, not only larger than that of any company in Canada, but larger by far, than has ever been secured by any company in the world in the same time in proportion to the population. This is something for a home company to be able to say. It is a credit to the Dominion, as well as to the far-sighted business men, who have stood at the helm of its affairs since its organization."

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

A MYSTERY OF TORONTO BAY WHICH BAFFLES INVESTIGATION.

A Deadly Blow Dealt in Sport—Manitoba Matters—A Detroit Stabber Seeks Refuge in Windsor.

TORONTO, July 9.—At 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon Mr. Thomas Ackroyd, proprietor of a boat house at the foot of York-street, dragged up from the bottom of Toronto Bay the body of a young girl, about 18 years of age, and apparently as pretty as she was young. The circumstances which caused him to drag the bay were as follows: Early on Saturday morning a laborer in the employ of the Conger Coal Company found a hat and parasol on the company's dock, just west of Lorne-street. Shortly after, a handkerchief, 7 cents in money and a pair of gloves were discovered on some piling immediately to the east of Hick's boat house. These two circumstances caused suspicion to be aroused that some woman had committed suicide. Esplanade Constable Williams was informed, and he spent all the morning in the neighborhood of the Conger dock, but not finding anything to reward his efforts he gave up the search.

The body was attired in a dark brown dress of corded material, closely fitting. The hair was dark and long, the complexion somewhat sallow. The cheek bones were prominent, and the eyelashes black and long. There was nothing to indicate violence and the features wore a tranquil expression. The only article which might serve to establish identity was a small gold ring with four white stones in the shape of a cross, which the unfortunate girl wore on her left hand. So far her identity remains shrouded in mystery.

On Friday night a gentleman who said he was from Orangeville, inquired at the Union Sation amongst the hackmen whether they had seen a girl answering the description of the deceased. He refused to give his name, but it is thought he may be able to clear up the mystery. An inquest will be held.

Another descent by the police Saturday afternoon on the various hotels at the Island resulted in the seizure of eleven kegs of lager at Heber's.

Mary McGinley, Thos. Downs and Sarah Downing, alias O'Hara, appeared in the court on Saturday to answer to the charge of having feloniously wounded Samuel Downey by stabbing him in the head. They were remanded till Tuesday. Downey is expected to recover unless inflammation sets in.

The remains of R. W. Flack, who was drowned while attempting to navigate the Niagara whirlpool rapids, were interred in the St. James Cemetery on Saturday.

Thos. Kenny, who jumped from the second story window of his house in a delirium caused by illness, has died from his injuries.

Dr. Wild preached the annual sermon to the Orange Order yesterday afternoon. There were over 3000 members of the various lodges in the procession.

Thomas Norman Gilding, aged 15, was drowned yesterday morning near the waterworks. He was playing at the wharf and fell into the water.

A 13-year-old colored lad named Jackson fell on a sharp pointed stick which entered the calf of his leg, forcing in with it a portion of his sock. The dye from the sock poisoned the blood and he died on Saturday night in terrible agony.

SUICIDE AT WINNIPEG.

The Knights of Labor and the Red River Valley Railroad.

WINNIPEG, July 9.—Work on the Manitoba Central has been discontinued, and it is said that there will be nothing done till after elections, when a caucus of Government supporters will be held and some policy decided upon.

The Knights of Labor warn Greenway of the alarming rumors afloat regarding the non-prosecution of the Red River Valley Railway, and want to know if it is to be built this summer to Winnipeg, and if so, by Government money, and if it is to be under Government control. The chances are that there will be lively times between the friends and opponents of the Manitoba Central.

Robt. A. Haskins jumped out of the third story window of the Leland House and was instantly killed. He was an old resident and was at one time worth $100,000.

A BLOW STRUCK IN FUN

Causes the Death of an Inmate of the Hamilton Asylum.

HAMILTON, July 9.—Saturday afternoon a number of the inmates of the Asylum for the Insane were engaged assisting the gardener, when one of them named Joseph Burns struck another named David Moore in sport with the flat part of spade on the head. The blow left no mark on Moore's head and nothing was thought of the affair until the men were taken into the institution for supper, when Moore began to complain of his head. Shortly afterwards he became stupid. His breathing and other symptoms indicated apoplexy. In an hour the man died, despite all that could be done for him. Burns is a quiet sort of a man, and the officers of the institution are quite sure that he had no intention of doing any harm.

Word was received here this morning that Conductor A. Manners of this city was killed at Tottenham, on the Northern and Northwestern Division of the Grand Trunk Railway while coupling cars.

A STABBER IN WINDSOR.

Frank Gardner of Detroit is not apt to Find a Safe Asylum.

DETROIT, July 9.—Saloonkeeper John Daley, who was stabbed about 11 o'clock Friday night by a teamster named Frank Gardner, is reported to be in a fair way to recover. Gardner fled immediately after inflicting the wounds. Detectives Connolly and Downey traced him to Windsor and procured his arrest. Gardner, upon refusing to return to Detroit, was arraigned before Magistrate Bartlett on a charge of assault with intent to kill and murder, and remanded until July 16. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Barlow, who lodged the complaint, will immediately begin extradition proceedings; but it is thought Gardner will weaken before July 16 and return of his own volition.

The Glengarry Election Case.

MONTREAL, July 9.—F. S. Maclennan, Donald McMaster's partner, received a cablegram yesterday bringing the news that the Privy Council had refused leave to appeal the case of Kennedy v. Purcell (the Glengarry election case) on the ground that it was not within the province of the Crown to interfere in election cases which belong solely to the jurisdiction of the Canadian courts.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

Four Persons Burnt to Death in a Sault Ste Marie Farm House.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 9.—The farm house of George Dobbs, located seven miles from here on the Canadian side of the river, was burned early Friday morning. George Dobbs, aged 72; David Merrifield, 21; Alice Thomson, 9, and another child perished in the flames. The fire started from a smudge, and when discovered by Mrs. Dobbs, who is 70 years old, was beyond control. Mrs. Dobbs quickly awoke her husband and Mr. Merrifield and descended to the lower floor. While groping about in the stifling smoke she stumbled and fell through a trap door into the cellar, and from there made her escape to the open air. The two men, unable to find any exit, fell back into the flames and were consumed. The children were asleep in another part of the house and were suffocated. The woman, who had no time to put on any clothing, lay exposed to the chilly air till the morning, when her cries attracted the attention of a neighbor. There is little hope for her recovery.

No Insurance.

CAMILLA, July 9.—The shingle mill of Mr. James Smith, Elba, was destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock Saturday morning. How the fire originated is not known. The loss is estimated at $1,000. No insurance.

Serious Fire at Bowmanville.

BOWMANVILLE, July 9.—Fire Saturday afternoon totally destroyed the Alma Hotel, Trinity Congregational Church, the residence of Mrs. Shaw and the outbuildings of David Fish. There was an insurance of $4,000 on the church.

PITCHER'S BOODLE.

All the Union Bank's Stolen Securities Recovered in London.

PROVIDENCE, July 9.—The Union Bank officials have received word by cable that the whole bundle of securities, bills receivable and other property, stolen by Charles A. Pitcher, the defaulting teller, have been received in London. Pitcher had mailed them to "J. A. Roberts," his assumed name, and believed them safe from the bank and that it was in his power to keep their hiding place a secret until the bank would be ready to compromise and come to terms on a basis of Pitcher's holding out for $50,000 cash. His stealings aggregated $700,000.

The Examination at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 9.—The preliminary investigation in the Pitcher case was continued on Saturday when the evidence of officials of the bank as to Pitcher's sudden departure and the abstraction of the funds and securities of the bank was heard. A number of letters written by Pitcher confessing his crime were also read.

Capital Notes.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Sir John Macdonald leaves for Dalhousie this afternoon, where he will spend a few days and then proceed to the Beach and afterwards to Halifax and some other points in the Maritime Provinces; being absent probably about a month.

Dr. Montague, M.P., was here Saturday on departmental business. The doctor finds that he will not be able to spare the time to accompany Hon. Mr. Chapleau to the Maritime Provinces.

Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is not expected here till near the end of the month.

With the approval and sanction of the Minister of Militia and the Major-General commanding the Militia, a garrison artillery competition will be held at Quebec on September 10 and following days, under the auspices of the Dominion Artillery Association. Transport will be provided from local headquarters to Quebec and return, for not more than four detachments from the Halifax and Montreal Brigades, and three detachments from the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Brigades, and for not more than one detachment from each other affiliated battery.

At Saturday's Cabinet meeting it was decided to grant $5,000 towards the relief of the sufferers by the Hull fire.

THE CZAR AND THE KAISER.

A Russian Protectorate to be Proposed for Bulgaria.

BERLIN, July 9.—The Czar has asked in an autograph letter to Emperor William that Prince Bismarck accompany the Emperor to St. Petersburg, where M. de Giers will formally present a proposal for a nominal Russian protectorate in Bulgaria.

The Pan-Slavist party of Russia does not approve the Czar's rapprochement with Germany. A Warsaw paper, the acknowledged organ of Gen. Gourko, asserts that the National party, with whom the Czar must reckon, is determined to reap the fullest results for the blood and money expended in the wars with Turkey.

The report of the doctors concerning the late Emperor Frederick's disease will be published this week. Each doctor is to give his individual opinion, dealing with the nature of the disease alone.

The Emperor in receiving the resignation of Gen. von Caprivi conferred upon him the Grand Cross of the Red Eagle and assigned him to the command of an army corps at the autumn manœuvres. The Emperor appears to attach the greatest importance to these manœuvres.

The South Pole expedition, planned several years ago by Dr. Neumeyer of the Marine Observatory of Hamburg, is likely to start in the spring. The Imperial Government has been asked to defray part of the expenses. Emperor William has made a favorable response, and has referred the question of the expedition to a committee of the Admiralty.

The Meinengen Company will start for the United States on Sept. 1 on a four months' tour. They will take all the properties and scenery of the Meinengen Theatre. The material will be insured for 1,000,000 marks.

Mr. O'Donnell writes to a news agency that his counsel adopted the mode of procedure taken at the trial of his libel suit at the instigation and on the unasked advice of two eminent Gladstonian members of the House of Commons.

HONEST BUT PREJUDICED.

MR. PARNELL'S FRIENDS SATISFIED WITH HIS DENIAL.

His Opponents do not Consider it Conclusive of his Innocence—Davitt Challenges the Government to Try Him.

LONDON, July 9.—The press on the O'Donnell trial is not very instructive. The views expressed are on both sides partisan; honest no doubt, but prejudiced. All the Unionist papers consider a strong prima facie case against Mr. Parnell made out. All the Home Rule papers are confident that the letters on which the prima facie case rests are forged. Mr. Parnell's statement in the Commons convinces, so far as I can see, only those who were convinced before. His denials covered the whole ground. He spoke coldly and contemptuously, amid silence hardly broken except by Irish cheers. The Liberals observed in the House an attitude of reserve which they certainly do not in private or the Gladstonian press. Mr. Parnell's speech was the result of a conference with his English allies, who profess entire confidence in his innocence.

The Times retorts upon him with two long articles, and makes its points sharply enough. Mr. Parnell based his denial in part upon the theory that Mr. Egan's letter to Carey was admittedly found by the police in Carey's house, and the police evidence is worthless. No, says his accuser, that was not alleged and is not admitted. Mr. Parnell says that his "Dear E." letter about "making it hot for Forster," is alleged to be in the handwriting of his secretary, Mr. Campbell. It was not so alleged, answers The Times; the Attorney-General expressly said that he did not know whose handwriting it was. Mr. Parnell told the House that he had been two days in court, ready to give evidence. "Yes," replies The Times, "you were there on a subpœna and would have to go to jail if you had not obeyed the summons of the court." "The signature of the fac-simile letter," says Mr. Parnell, "is one I have used since 1879." "But you told the House last year," cries The Times, "that that signature was an audacious fabrication, containing only two letters which bore any resemblance to any letters in your own signature!" And The Times winds up with a fresh challenge to Mr. Parnell to bring an action for libel. Other Unionist journals think that in no other way can the issue be fairly tried.

You may judge of the heat generated by this controversy from Mr. T. P. O'Connor's remarks. Nobody would think of calling Mr. O'Connor, to use an expression which this trial has made classical, mealy-mouthed, even in ordinary matters. He now observes that Sir Henry James told a deliberate falsehood in court in order to gain an advantage over his political opponents; that the Attorney-General, who is the head of the English bar, was guilty of a scandalous violation of all the decencies and of all the traditions of his profession; and that Mr. Walter, the proprietor of The Times, uses the foulest weapons ever employed since—note the phrase—since the well-merited death of Titus Oates. Yet I think that Sir Henry James continues to practise in court, the Attorney-General is still Attorney-General and The Times comes out as usual.

The Daily News follows Mr. O'Connor's lead, and pronounces the charges against Mr. Parnell absurd and the documents produced in support of them mere rubbish. Then this zealous advocate discharges its whole armory of adjectives on Mr. Walter and the Attorney-General. It accuses the latter of using his position as a member of the Government to obtain official information for the purpose of his private practice, of bringing silly and infamous charges, and of making defamatory aspersions of the grossest kind, which he declined to support in any way, and concludes: "It is he, not Mr. Parnell, who stands upon his trial."

The judgment of the English people like that of the press, follows to some extent party lines, but is among impartial men—if such there be—held in suspense; nor will it be determined by mere violence on either side.

A Variety of Opinions.

LONDON, July 9.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the ministers obviously do not consider Mr. Parnell's denial as conclusive of his innocence. Their supporters declare the denial is false. The ministry, the papers say, must either expel Mr. Parnell from Parliament or dismiss Attorney-General Webster. No middle course is compatible with the honor and responsibility of the Government.

The St. James Gazette calls Mr. Parnell's statement a flabby mixture of denial, inaccuracy, inconsistency, misrepresentation and mendacity.

The Star, O'Connor's paper, rejoices over the fact that Mr. Parnell will not fall into The Times' trap and subject himself to Attorney-General Webster's dishonorable treachery and unscrupulous cross-examination before a London jury. Mr. Parnell, it declares, is now and always has been ready to submit his case to a committee of inquiry appointed by the House of Commons.

A Protest.

LONDON, July 9.—A demonstration was held at Glasgow on Saturday to protest against the imprisonment of Mr. Dillon. Mr. Michael Davitt challenged the law officers, if they believed Mr. Parnell guilty of the gravest crimes, to try him. The Government, he said, were false to their oaths if they did not put both himself and Mr. Parnell in the prisoner's dock.

They Had to "Move on."

LONDON, July 9.—A crowd assembled in Trafalgar-square on Saturday afternoon with the intention of holding a meeting. A strong force of policemen tried to break up the gathering. Sir Charles Warren, the Chief of Police, instructed them to keep the crowd moving but to make no arrests. In accordance with his instructions Messrs. Saunders and Conybeare were allowed to make speeches. The assemblage also succeeded in passing resolutions denouncing Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland. Scrimmages occurred constantly during the proceedings, and finally the police lost their temper and charged and dispersed the mob, making a number of arrests.

The Canada-Australian Cable.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., July 9.—The Japan Gazette says that H.M.S. Egeria is to survey a track 200 miles wide for a telegraph cable from Australia to British Columbia, a task which is expected to last three years. The route is to be from a point on the Australian coast to the north end of New Zealand and Fiji and thence to the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

English Imports and Exports.

LONDON, July 9.—The returns issued by the Board of Trade show that the imports for June increased £2,920,000, as compared with the same month last year, and that the exports increased £1,720,000 as compared with June of last year.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

OPPONENTS of the National Policy pretend that all who do not support commercial union are opposed to trade with foreign countries. Having started this misrepresentation, they have taken a step further and reiterate the statement that the Conservatives look upon commerce with a foreign country as disloyal. Of course that is untrue and is not based upon any action of the Government or its supporters. It is a deliberate attempt to misrepresent the position of those who will not consent to commercial annexation and to mislead and deceive the people. The policy of the government is to encourage foreign trade, but not to sacrifice home trade or industries in order to do so. The proposal made by the British Commissioners at Washington for freer trade relations between Canada and the United States showed that foreign trade was not regarded either as a necessary evil or as disloyal, and the motion moved by Mr. Foster in amendment to Sir Richard Cartwright's unrestricted reciprocity resolution, which was voted for by the Conservatives and adopted by the House, declared in favor of extended commercial relations with our neighbors. In the face of the Washington offer, of Mr. Foster's motion and of the well-known policy of the Government, and remembering the efforts made by Conservatives and Reformers to negotiate a commercial treaty with the United States, as well as the efforts made and being made by the present Government for a similar purpose in other directions, it is folly to try to persuade the people that any political party in Canada looks upon foreign commerce as disloyal.

But there is a difference of opinion between the advocates of unrestricted reciprocity and the opponents of that scheme. The commercial unionists look upon foreign trade as the chief business of a country and the great and only object to be aimed at. If they do not, their arguments would certainly lead to that conclusion. But if a Canadian can sell his produce in Canada at a good price, why should he send it to a foreign market? What is gained by selling iron ore to the United States manufacturers and buying back the finished article, leaving the profit of manufacturing in that country? Or wherein would be the benefit of sending wheat across the lines to be ground and purchasing the flower from the United States millers? Such transactions would swell the total of Canada's exports and imports—would increase her foreign trade—but would it be a wise policy? It would be much better to have our iron made at home and to grind the wheat in our own mills. Thus we say foreign trade may not always be beneficial and trade with other countries may be sought to the injury of our own industries and to the detriment of this country.

Foreign trade may be beneficial, and, again, it may not. Canada exports wheat, cattle and cheese, and as more of these articles are produced here than are required, foreign markets for them must be obtained; and articles are required in this country which are not produced here. To encourage foreign trade in such articles, to open up markets for them and to provide facilities for carrying on the trade, is wise and statesmanlike. But to encourage the shipment of ore and the importation of iron, or the importation of woollen or other goods while Canadian factories can supply them, would not be a wise policy, though it would increase the volume of foreign trade.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger airl passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, sough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you ou may depend upon this for certain.

FENELON FALLS.

FIRE.—On Thursday afternoon a costly fire occurred at Fells Station on the Victoria division of the G. T. R., a few miles north of Fenelon Falls. A woodyard, owned by Mr. S. Swanton, Fenelon Falls, containing thousands of ties, posts and a great number of telegraph poles and a large quantity of wood, was burned to ashes. Seven loaded cars standing on the siding were also destroyed. Four thousand dollars will not cover Mr. Swanton's loss, while the loss to the railway company is considerable. The fire originated in a summer fallow about half a mile distant. Trains to and from Lindsay were delayed about four hours.

GOD'S GREAT POWER

AS DEPICTED BY THE REV. MR. PEARSON AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

On the Occasion of the Annual Sermon to the Orangemen on Sunday—A Large Turnout of the Brethren and Friends to Hear an Eloquent and Impressive Sermon.

On Sunday afternoon the annual sermon to the Orangemen was preached at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church by the Rev. M. L. Pearson, pastor of the George-st. Methodist Church. The members of the 'Prentice Boys, True Blues, Nassau and local Orange lodges, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, marched in procession to the church about 3.30 o'clock. The turnout was a large one and the brethren, who occupied seats in the body of the church, and their friends nearly filled the spacious edifice.

After the usual exercises Rev. Mr. Pearson chose for his text the 9th verse of the vii chapter of Esther, reading as follows:—

"And Harbonah, one of the chamberlains, said before the king, Behold also, the gallows fifty cubits high, which Haman had made for Mordecai, who had spoken good for the king, standeth in the house of Haman. The the king said, Hang him thereon."

In opening the rev. gentleman referred to the fact that the name of God does not appear even once in the book of Esther, but at the same time there is no book in the Bible better than it. God is every where in it and all students of ecclesiastics should study this book closely. Passing over the earlier events mentioned, we come to the banquet of wine, at which were present the beautiful queen Esther, the King and Haman, the King's chief councillor. Flushed with wine Haman went and told his wife how high he stood in the councils of the King, and as he did not like to see Mordecai sitting at the King's gate, he had ordered a gallows fifty feet high on which to hang him. The King, who ruled over 127 provinces, was the Cæsar of his age. He was restless. God kept him awake. In his restlessness he sent for certain books from his library, wherein were recorded the sayings and doings of all the remarkable people of Persia. God, with his great power, pointed out a certain passage, wherein a plot to assassinate the King was brought to light by Mordecai. The King asked what Haman had done for him and the answer of the Chamberlains was "nothing." At a banquet it was asked whether God or Haman ruled Persia, and as a result Haman was hanged on the gallows prepared for Mordecai. God, when He deems best, thus advances His Kingdom through His enemies as well as through those raised up on purpose to do so. When John Bunyan was imprisoned in Bedford gaol his enemies and the enemies of Christianity thought his career was ended, but as a result of his imprisonment we had the Pilgrim's Progress, a book that had a wider circulation than any other ever printed except the Bible. If there had been no persecution there would not have been any Mayflower, to the passengers of which we owe our present ecclesiastical and political freedom. Again the enemies of the children of Israel were destroyed in the Red Sea. Also when the Assyrian soldiers were encamped outside of Jerusalem, God pointed out a certain passage in the Bible to the cruel leader and His work was done. God subordinates all to His own will and is constantly advancing the interests of His own Kingdom. God always over-rules the conduct of the wicked for the defeat of their own plans. We should fully appreciate the significance of the fact that Haman was hanged on the gibbet prepared for the Jew. Gibbon, out of the proceeds of the sale of his "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," purchased an estate in Switzerland, which had since fallen into the hands of a gentleman who gives annually a sum of money for the dissemination of the principles that Gibbon so bitterly hated. In Hume's room a branch of the Bible Society had been formed. In the British museum is the bible of Wickliffe, with its frontispiece depicting Christianity, showing how the enemies of God in endeavoring to injure His work are only injuring themselves. Men can avail nothing against the truth and they should not endeavor to take the power out of God's hands. They should patiently await for the development of the Divine plans and purpose. God knows the purpose of all and will defeat all enemies. If it was not for opposition we would not have the best part of the new testament, for instance, the parable of the prodigal son. If the injunction to render unto the Cæsar all things that are Cæsar's was fully carried out all would be well. After trying all plans to get rid of Christ, He was finally nailed on the cross to destroy Him and never before did He exhibit such dignity as when He was on the cross. That cross is the mighty lever that is lifting up the people and sending them home to Heaven. The years 1588 and 1618 in the history of England go to demonstrate the same fact as the hanging of Haman. In Esther the name of God is not mentioned, nor is there any special or direct allusion to prayer. There are often events occur in which we cannot decipher the hand of God, such as anxiety, sorrow, bereavement, trouble in the church, etc., but all these are for a purpose. He was glad of the book of Esther as everything mentioned turned out all right and the enemies of God were overthrown. Mordecai was a large hearted, whole souled man, and said to Haman that if you withhold what we want it will come from another quarter, which certainly was an allusion to the power of God. In conclusion he referred to the objects of the Orange order, which were, as he understood them, the [illegible] the Protestant religion and th[illegible] and all should endeavor to harmonize their lives with the book of God. Inconsistency of the people and church organizations were doing far more to injure the Protestant religion than all the efforts of infidels and Roman Catholics combined. He asked those present to refrain from profanity, drunkeness, Sabbath breaking and all other violations of Christianity. He thought it was of great advantage for the brethren to meet for public worship, particularly so near the great anniversary they were about to celebrate, and he hoped they would make it memorable by resolving to be dutiful to Christ and His book.

Canadian Yachts Win Prizes at Buffalo—Ball Record—Standing of the Clubs.

BUFFALO, July 9.—The Canadian yachts carried away $210 out of a possible $270 in prizes at the regatta here last week. Instead of being envious at the success of their nautical brethren from across the border, the Buffalo boys say it is the best thing that could have happened, inasmuch as it will spur them on to build faster boats. The Caprice of Toronto, which captured first prize in the second class, met with an accident which prevented her from going to Cleveland. She was lying in the harbor near the life-saving station preparatory to being placed on board a steambarge when the tug Maytham and steamer Mascotte came racing out of the harbor. A huge swell from the Mascotte struck the Caprice and the yacht dashed against the dock, smashing her spar. The White Wings and Cypress of Hamilton were towed to Cleveland to participate in the races of the Cleveland Yacht Club. From Cleveland these yachts will go to Put-in-Bay, where the White Wings will sail against the famous Alice Enfield of Toledo.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

At this season many Housekeepers are replenishing their supplies of Tableware and China. City folk are furnishing summer cottages; country folk are filling up the dressers and cupboards of the old homestead; town's folk are picking and choosing here and there. Many would be glad to know of a place whose special business is to meet these wants and desires; that aims to furnish essentially good wares at consistently low prices; that offers the choice of many different dinner services, and yet does not compel you to take an entire set of any pattern, but allow you to select each course of a new design, or buy any portion of the set you may need that does not try to impose ideas or wares upon purchasers, and yet is ready to advise which of the many wares is most desirable and suitable; and, if wished, will make a careful selection of pattern. When you want Tablewear will you give us the opportunity to serve you.

W. J. MASON,

We will remove to Alexander's Store in two or three weeks. The building is to be fitted up suitable for a first-class Dry Goods trade.

Rain is badly needed and the little that did fall yesterday did much good. For a time it looked as if it was going to pour, but the sun suddenly shone out and the hopes of the rain wishers were blasted.

Fine Regalia.

The 'Prentice Boys turned out in full force yesterday, for the first time since organization. In their new and handsome regalia they looked remarkably well and in fact they were the principal feature of the procession.

Obituary.

It will be seen that Mrs. W. G. Thompson is dead. For many years her husband was one of our best known dry goods men. The deceased lady was a Miss Finlayson, a sister of Mrs. James Stewart and she had been ailing for some time. She was highly respected by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

King-st. Bridge.

Messrs. Stratton & Hall, on behalf of Mr. Wm. Rudkins, served notices on the town authorities this morning, claiming $1,000 from the corporation, for damages to his property, by reason of the diversion of the course of the creek by the erection of the King-st. bridge. In building the bridge an effort is being made to straighten the creek and the course of it will be diverted about twenty feet westward. The papers were handed to the Town Solicitor.

A Coming Treat.

For some time past Mr. W. H. Dingle, organist of the George-st. church, has been training a large number of boys and girls for a concert to be given under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the Opera House, on Thursday, July 19th. On Saturday afternoon, a Review reporter dropped in where the girls were practicing. There will be about 35 of them in the chorus. They sang the solos in a most pleasing manner and the choruses were delightful. They sang out with spirit, in harmony and in excellent time, their voices blending musically. The sacred pieces were sung in a manner that showed careful training and the humorous pieces were charming. Mr. Dingle has done his work well and this is a treat in store for those who attend the concert.

The R. C. Park Lot Sale.

There is a good deal of excitement over the sale of the R. C. Park Lot, which takes place on the ground at two p. m. to-morrow, 10th July. This land has been walked over and stepped and measured by scores of intending purchasers, till the people on the other side of Gilmour-st. said they were as thick as crows. The church authorities have changed the first plan and in deference to the intending purchasers have decided to add 15 feet to Gilmour-st., leaving the Lots about 100 feet deep to a lane in the middle. The lane will enable people to put their sheds right up to it and so save yard room, as wood and coal, etc., can be taken direct from the lane. Indications point to a very lively sale taking place to-morrow. 1d8

PRICES shorn of Profits. Critical tastes Satisfied and everybody pleased with Groceries at The Pantry.

Smoky.

Many peasons observed the smoke that hung over the town on Saturday night, and thought that bush fires were in progress somewhere in this vicinity. A gentleman who drove down on Saturday night states that the bush around Sandy and Buckhorn lakes was all on fire and that the farmers in that locality had nearly all quit work, being unable to proceed owing to the dense smoke.

A Good Scheme.

Wyatt & Turner are enterprising dry goods men and they are up to all the advertising dodges that are worth anything. On Saturday night two boys gorgeously arrayed and wearing masks sat in one of their show windows playing checkers. For some hours the sidewalk in front of their premises was jammed with people and on more than one occasion the police were called on to issue the mandate "move on." Each Saturday night they will present something new.

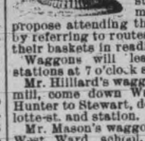
The following is the programme for the first meeting:—



Bicycle race, one mile handicap.
Bicycle slow race, ¼ mile.
Foot race, ¼ mile.
Bicycle team race, ¼ mile.
Foot race, 100 yards.
Illuminated parade by the Bicycle Club.

A meeting will be held to-night (Monday) in the old post office clock, at eight o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

Mount Pleasant.

Mount Pleasant in Cavan is just nine miles from Peterborough, yet the inhabitants of that village, by means of a swamp which lies between them and Peterborough, have to travel over eight concessions extra in every journey they make to our town. They either go south two concessions and then work up two concessions north, or they go two concessions north and drop down two concessions to Peterborough, and repeat this to get home. Of course the effect of this is to lessen our intercourse with that village. Could not the two miles of swamp be opened and the straight road utilized? Here is something for our municipal legislators. Peterborough is interested in drawing the country trade to town; Cavan is interested in affording facilities for reaching their natural market. Open the swamp, gentlemen. There are several gravel knolls on the line which would make easy work of it, and if the thing is taken in hand heartily it will go.

Pack Your Baskets.

The committee of the George-st. Methodist Sunday school excursion have arranged to take up baskets and carry the same to the station on Tuesday morning. Those who propose attending the excursion will see by referring to routes below where to hold their baskets in readiness.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

ROBERT NORTHCOTT CUTS HIS THROAT WITH A RAZOR

And is Found Lying in His Barn on a Stack of Hay by His Brother-in-Law —He Leaves a Note Explaining Matters—No Inquest.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. Wm. Brownscombe visited the Police Station and informed the Chief Constable that his brother-in-law, Robert Northcott, who resided just south of the agricultural grounds, was missing, and as he was never known to go away before without telling some person, foul play was suspected.

The key of the front door was found hanging in its usual place, and upon entering it was seen that the bed had not been occupied. A gold watch, a sum of money and other valuables were found in a bureau drawer.

Mr. Brownscombe next proceeded to the barn. The door was locked inside and an entrance had to be forced. Here an awful sight met the gaze. Robert Northcott was found lying on some hay, stark and stiff, with his throat cut from ear to ear, while the instrument of destruction, a keen edged razor, was found by his side.

The body was at once removed to the house and the authorities notified. Coroner Bell went down, viewed the body, and decided that an inquest was not necessary under the circumstances. It is thought that the deed was done on Saturday night.

The deceased, who was quite wealthy, resided alone since the death of his wife, some years ago. He was about 70 years of age and was well known as a quiet, harmless citizen, and when the suicide was heard of, many who knew him were not inclined to credit the report.

The reason for the act is not very clear, but it is generally ascribed to the fact that a few days previously he had received a lawyer's letter, threatening an action against him for alienating the affections of another man's wife, and this is strengthened by the fact that in the note left he refers to the matter.

A further search at the house brought to light two pieces of paper, on which the deceased had written instructions regarding the disposition of his property and stating how it was to be divided among his children. He had also noted down the names of those who owed him and the amounts and wrote underneath "I owe nobody anything." On another piece of paper was written "Somebody is swearing my life away" and "You will find in barn."

He leaves several sons and daughters, all in prosperous circumstances and all of whom are married.

Adulterated Milk.

Mr. John Wasson, of Warsaw, was fined $20 and costs on Saturday by P. M. Edmison for selling milk, not up to the standard, to a cheese factory.

Ball.

The game to be played to-morrow between the Port Hope-Cobourg aggregation and the Peterboroughs in the Midland league series, will take place on the P.A.A.A. grounds, and the outlook is that it will be as fine a game as any ever played here. A large number of their admirers will come up on the excursion with the visitors, who will play a strong nine and the local men will have to do their prettiest to win.

Police Court

The case of Building Inspector Pope against Mr. Thomas Beavis, for a breach of of the building by-law, was dismissed without costs, the defendant having complied with the provisions of the law. The case of fraud regarding the load of hay occupied the attention of the court for nearly two hours and was finally enlarged until to-morrow, with a view of settling the affair between the parties.

Extortion.

Complaints are made by strangers of the extortionate charges made by the local hackmen and if any of those who deem themselves overcharged will notify the chief constable, he will see that the offender is punished. According to the by-law, no hackman can charge more than 25 cents for each grown up individual from any one part of the town to any other, and for the figure named the driver is also compelled to carry a trunk. A clause of the by-law referred to is given below:—

"Cabs or other licensed conveyances to any part of the town, twenty-five cents, each trip, for each person so drawn; children with parents or guardians in charge, under ten years of age, fifteen cents."

Two excursion parties, from Port Hope and Whitby, will arrive in town to-morrow, and one for Sturgeon Point and another for Jubilee Point will leave. Truly it will be a day of excursions.

Coming Cases.

There are half a dozen Scott Act cases on the police court docket for Wednesday. Five are for first offences and one for a second. The victims this time are all hotel keepers.

OUR customers always speak when they pass by, and say "Xamine these Xcellent, un-Xcelled T's at The Pantry."

Cut Them.

The Street Inspector should send one or more of his men to cut the weeds, etc, on Brock and Murray-sts., in the vicinity of the Horticultural Park. As they are at present they do not in the least enhance the beauty of the Park. A gutter might also be constructed on Brock-st. with advantage.

FROM modest efforts, honest goods, high quality, square dealing, good treatment, small profits, on to grand achievements in the way of Satisfying Bargains is the motto of The Pantry.

Inspected.

Captain Dick, of Toronto, one of the Steamboat Inspectors, was in town on Saturday, inspecting the craft owned here. All passed satisfactorily and the new boat, the Eva, was given a permit to run with passengers. She had held a permit before for the St. Lawrence waters, but not for the inland waters here.

Personal.

Messrs. M. Murty, Quincy, Ills., and A. Murty, Utica, N.Y., two old Peterborough boys, are here on a visit. This is the first occasion in eighteen years that the family have had a re-union.

Mr. Miles Hamilton, of the Bank of Montreal, Brockville, is spending his holidays in town.

The Drives.

Rathbun's drive under charge of foreman "Paddy" Mahar and Maurice Dineen, is about through Peterborough. The cookery is established near Peck's old brewery and on Sunday afternoon seekers after beans were very numerous. A Gilmour drive is following this one and the logs of several other firms are close behind.

Arrested.

A Frenchman named Joseph Gagnon was arrested this morning by officer Adams and taken to gaol for thirty days on a charge of contempt of the County court. The warrant was issued by Judge Weller, and unless the prisoner pays the amount of the judgment of the court, he will have to remain in gaol for the period stated.

Church Notes.

Mr. Orr Bennett, B.A., a son of the Rev. Wm. Bennett, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning and evening. His sermons were highly appreciated by large congregations.

The Rev. Mr. Torrance is off on his holidays. His pulpit will be kept supplied regularly until his return.

At St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday Mr. George Hamilton sang the "Crucifixes" in Peter's Mass and with Miss McFadden also sang a duet. Mr. Hamilton was in fine voice and his singing was of the best.

—Miller & Freeman's circus is announced to show at Peterborough during August next.

—Elliott's alligator took a walk up street to-day. He was captured and put back in his tank.

—A large party went up north this morning on the G.T.R. for a day's outing on the back lakes.

—A couple of cheap John's occupied the market square on Saturday night and disposed of a lot of their wares.

—The Dickson Mills will not commence to cut lumber for several weeks yet, owing to the fact that the logs cannot be got down.

—A smoke from one of the buildings in the market block attracted considerable attention last night, from people on George-st., but investigation showed that it was only a chimney.

To most children, the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. When physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take. Try them.

COBOURG.

ARMY HORSES.—On Saturday last sixty-four of the horses recently purchased for the Imperial Army by Col. Goldie, were shipped from the fair grounds here en route for England. This, as last year is headquarters, the horses while here being under the charge of Mr. M. B. Williams. He informs us that the hay, oats, etc., used for feed is quite a large item; something for our farmers to feel happy over.—Sentinel-Star.

A Barbarian.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The other day as I drove to Bridgenorth I noticed a row of magnificent elm trees, some making feeble efforts to live, some hopelessly dying, others dead. For many years these stately trees had been to me a joy, and I loved them. They were old friends—I knew every tree. I wondered how old they were and how long the good man was dead who spared them and left them to grace the road side, and tell of the good taste of the early settler, who doubtless himself dearly loved these trees—alas! they were dead and dying. As I drew near I got out to see what ailed by friends, but it was too evident, they were girdled—cruelly girdled—and for what? I asked a passer by. He could hardly speak for passion, for he, too, with all the men on the line, were indignant. He replied in language that was forcible, but in terms that reminded me of a clerical friend of mine who, hastening down to a wharf to catch a Mississippi steamer, saw her just turning an elbow as she went on her way, while two men with carpet bags, who also were left, swore at large. My clerical friend looked at the steamer, then at his swearing friends, and remarked half approvingly to them that there were occasions when the services of a layman were indespensible. Well, the passer by, when he could answer me, just said, that the d—— skunk who owned the farm girdled the trees so as to grow a little more crop. I thought the occasion justified him in his language, and in my heart I was glad that my idea of the man who could do so mean an act was so aptly expressed by the stranger.

Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Did n't Know 't was Loaded" ay do for a stupid boy's excuse; but hat can be said for the parent who es his child, languishing daily and fails recognize the want of a tonic and lood-purifier? Formerly, a course of tters, or sulphur and molasses, was the dle in well-regulated families; but now ll intelligent households keep Ayer's arsaparilla, which is at once pleasant the taste, and the most searching and ffective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 ears old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of atigue, headache, debility, dizziness indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

MONDAY, JULY 9, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY [illegible] ANDER.

Lisle felt savagely jealous, as though his sacred rights had been infringed. He would do, or sacrifice anything to call the conscious color to her cheek—to win a confession of love from her lips, even the sacrifice of himself to the fetters of matrimony. And if she loved him (which, if he once surrendered, and asked her to marry him, she would, warmly, deliciously), she would yield to him in everything. The thing was really worth risking. Life with Mona would be very charming for a year or so.

Having made up his mind more thoroughly than he was perhaps aware, Lisle found shooting, and even deer-stalking, a less satisfying amusement than it used to be, and two or three days after his chance encounter with Mona, he started for Craigdarroch, determined to begin the siege in earnest.

It was a crisp, clear afternoon, and seldom had "his bosom's lord sat so lightly on its throne." Of his success he never doubted. The only question that he debated mentally, was how soon it would be in good taste to declare himself. They were not strangers. She must know that he had been a good deal smitten with her nearly four years ago. It was only taking up the dropped stitches in the web of their lives. He would be guided by circumstances.

"Is Mr. Craig at home, and the young ladies?" he demanded of the little maid who came when he rang.

"The master's in, but—" she was beginning, when Mr. Craig himself appeared, with his inevitable stick, at the library door.

"Eh, come your ways!" he cried. "I saw ye as ye walked up the drive. I'm glad to see you. I'm here alane; they're a' oot."

"Indeed!" said Lisle, following him into the library, intending to give the old man a few minutes, to find out where Mona had gone, and to follow her. "What has become of your nieces?"

"Mary Black is no niece of mine. She is a nice-like girlie, but I have no kin except Mona and Kenneth. Well, they are awa' to set Mona on her road." (He called it "rod.")

"On her road! Where?" asked Lisle.

"To Glasga'. She'll get there this evening, in time to catch the London night express."

"London!" repeated Lisle, in angry surprise. "Has she gone to London?"

"Yes. She had a letter frae madame—may be you'll mind Madame Debrisay, the leddy wha took my niece in when you grand folks turned her oot. Weel, the letter wasna frae hersel'. It was the landlady—an honest-like woman—wha wrote, at madame's order, to explain why she could not write. She was varra sick with bronchitis, and the landlady she added that she was frightened hersel', for she was that bad the doctor wanted her to have a nurse. With that, nothing would keep Mona; she must go to nurse her. I was angered against her, for I didna think it right for her to go off in a jiffy frae me, wha is as a father to her, and maintains her."

"But she went?" ejaculated Lisle.

"Ay, she did that. She put her arms round my neck, and she says, wi' her bonnie een full o' tears—'Don't seek to stop me, uncle. She was good to me before I knew you; and don't you think,' she says, 'if you were ill, I'd come awa' frae every one to nurse you?' an' I felt she spoke true—she would stick to me, so I just said—'I'll no pay for your whim-whams,' and she says—'No, uncle! I have money enough for the journey.' Just let me go with your good will,' an' I said—'Go, then, my lassie,' and she's gane."

"Good heavens!" cried Lisle. "Alone; to go through the worry and annoyance of changing—of—"

"What's to harm her? She is nae a bairn," interrupted Uncle Sandy. "We live in a ceevilized country."

Lisle was silent with vexation. Had he but known, he might have escorted her to Glasgow, if not to London; and what a different journey it would have been from the last they had taken together. He was certainly out of luck.

"Still, I am surprised you did not send young Macalister with her!" exclaimed Lisle, when he had mastered his impulse to swear audibly and energetically at the self-satisfied, miserly old scarecrow that had let his charming niece—the temporary idol and future wife of Sir St. John Lisle—go off alone, to struggle with porters and passengers like a poor servant girl going to a new place.

"What for should Kenneth waste his time when I wanted him here, forbye the siller it would cost there and back? Young people have nae consideration—an' ye're no a lad any longer, Sir St. John!"

"The greenness of my youth has certainly departed. But I am greatly annoyed about this sudden journey. I have nothing on earth to do! If I had had an idea Miss Craig was going alone, I should certainly, with your permission, have escorted her to Glasgow, and seen her off to London. Where does this Madame Debrisay live?"

"In a varra nice part—Westbourne Villas, nigh the Royal Oak station. You'll ken it, I'm thinking."

"I cannot say I do," returned Lisle, while he thought, "Old blockhead! Why did he not give me the number?"

"There are varra fine hooses about there, and plenty omnibuses to a' pairts."

"Very convenient, I'm sure! What is this Madame Debrisay's number? Lady Finistoun will want to know Miss Craig's address."

"Eh! but she knows it weel. She has been there hersel'."

"Obstinate old eliot!" thought Lisle; "he will not tell. Oh, indeed!" he said aloud. "You must miss your niece very much."

"I will do so! Sma' doot o't. She is a remarkable, wise-like, douce lassie—only a wee self-opeenionated! It's amazing that, being so long about a lot o' fule-folk, she kept her senses so weel."

By this time Lisle had gathered himself together, and said—

"I ought to apologize for speaking so warmly, but I always take a lively interest in Miss Craig."

"Sae it would seem," returned Uncle Sandy, with a chuckle, which struck Lisle as peculiar.

Did the old dunder-se[illegible] to form any surmises as to the so[illegible] that interest? Lisle thought he had talked to him quite long enough.

"I brought you the last communication from the factor of Balmuir," he said. "You see he has caved in, and you may consider the question settled."

"Oh, that's weel, varra well," putting on his glasses.

"And I must say good-morning. Can I do anything for you at Kirktoun? I am going back there."

"No, I thank ye. Keaneth will bring back a' that is wanted."

"Good-bye, then. I hope you will hear to-morrow of Miss Craig's safe arrival."

Lisle strode away in an intense ill-humor. Mona was altogether inexplicable. At the shortest notice she was ready to put miles between herself and the man that she must know was ready to throw himself at her feet! And all to nurse a broken-down music mistress. Yet there was something in her generous readiness to help a friend that appealed to his better nature.

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists.

Wesley Park Hotel Burglarized.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 9.—A daring burglary was effected at the Wesley Park Hotel during the early hours of Saturday morning, the burglars effecting an entrance, it is supposed, by opening the front door with skeleton keys. They cleared two rooms of their valuables by fishing them through the transoms at the top of the doors. Rev. Nathaniel Sites, the Chinese missionary, loses $26 in money and $100 in jewelry and clothes. Mr. Strawn, the proprietor of the hotel, loses $15 in money, $600 in notes, checks for $83 and $70, a book of tickets for the Chicora and Cibola and jewelry and clothes amounting to $100. The Ontario Police have the matter in hand.

Drunken Rioters Killed.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., July 9.—A drunken mob attacked Thomas Tiernay's saloon and when they began to batter down the doors Tiernay fired several shots into the crowd. Richard Owens, a bricklayer of New York, was killed and Cornelius Walsh was mortally wounded. Both were young men. Eight of the attacking party were arrested on a charge of rioting and Tiernay was also locked up.

Bricklayers' and Masons' Union
No. 12, Peterborough.

To the Architects and Builders of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—The members of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, No. 12, Peterborough, have decided to take no sub-contracts after the 1st day of June, 1888. We take this step believing it to be to the interest of Architects and Proprietors of buildings, to deal directly with us, and not, as heretofore, letting our branch of work to Carpenters, and then have them sub-let it to us, frequently at a loss to owners of buildings through inferior material being used to secure the carpenter a profit. We therefore consider it would be to the interest of all concerned, to have each trade control its own line of work.
Signed on behalf of the Union,

A BURGLAR BORED.
Policeman Craig of Toronto Makes It Hot for a Marauder.

TORONTO, July 10.—Last night Policeman Craig perceived that a hole had been made in the window of No. 25 Jarvis-street, occupied as a clothing store. He crept quietly through the hole into the store, and presently heard a slight rustle beneath the counter. He made a jump in the direction of the sound, but as he sprang forward a man dashed past him and made for the window. The policeman had his revolver in his hand, and levelling it called on the fellow to stop. By this time the burglar was disappearing through the hole he had made to enter by, and the policeman taking aim fired at the retreating form. Almost at the same moment the burglar uttered a cry and tumbled into the street, but he quickly recovered himself and darting to King ran down that thoroughfare and got away.

A laborer named Edward Cardow, was arrested yesterday on a charge of assaulting his 12-year-old daughter. The details are of a most revolting nature.

Fred. Hall, who recently acted as bartender at O'Connor's saloon, corner Adelaide and Simcoe-streets, is reported to have fallen heir to $20,000 through the death of his grandfather in Rochester.

It is rumored that the Electric Light Company are figuring to sell out their stock and that the Consumers' Gas Company are anxious to buy.

The man arrested on the charge of robbing Liquidator Henry Lye of $300 has been identified from a photograph sent to the Baltimore Police as Jim Casey, a noted thief and bank sneak.

The plumbers' strike seems to be nearing a close. Owing to the increase of work about a dozen men were taken on yesterday morning by the bosses who have already signed the agreement. A good deal of indignation was created among the men on account of a recent circular from the Master Plumbers' Association, in which the former were referred to as "botches who should be driven from the trade in the city."

Vicar-General Laurent was seen at the palace with reference to the Sees now vacant in the Church and the recent meeting of Bishops. He was very reticent, but admitted that three names had been submitted to Rome, but it was not necessary that the Pope should select any one of them.

An inquest was held at the jail on the remains of Edward Green, an aged prisoner who was doing a term for vagrancy. The jury found that he died from natural causes.

J. S. Russell's wholesale fancy goods house on Bay-street was plundered Sunday night of a large quantity of pocket knives, silver medals, etc.

Edward Cant, an employee in Strathern's hardware store on Yonge-street, being suspected of theft, a search warrant assisted a constable to make an inspection of his house on McCaul-street, where almost a wagon load of goods was discovered concealed. A driver for the house named Foley was cornered in a similar manner, the men working in collusion. They were both committed for trial.

A young immigrant named Fulcher has been convicted of stealing $50 from hotelkeeper Jones on Queen-street, who had generously given the boy employment. He will spend the next two months in jail.

A MORMON BISHOP.
How a Salt Lake Refugee Surprised the Citizens of Lunenburg, N. S.

LUNENBURG, N. S., July 10.—Chester has had during the past week a genuine sensation. About six weeks ago there arrived from parts unknown a white-haired old patriarch and three very vivacious young ladies. One was introduced as his better half, the others as his wife's sisters. The ladies were invited everywhere and when not accompanied by the old man had a good time. About a week ago the youngest became infatuated with one of our young men, and, in a moment of confidence, disclosed the fact that the old patriarch was a Mormon bishop, a refugee from Salt Lake, Utah, and that all the women were, according to the rites of the Mormon Church, his wives. The next thing to an impossibility is to keep a thing secret in Chester, so the whole matter leaked out. The "bishop" got wind of the affair, and with his three wives skipped out Saturday night at 10 o'clock for Windsor.

Died from Natural Causes.

DETROIT, July 2.—About eight years ago George Ashton, a carpenter of Bolton, Eng., emigrated to Toronto, remaining in that city for four years and then coming to Detroit. A year later he married Mrs. Sarah Fountain, formerly of Toronto. Mrs. Ashton died suddenly yesterday morning. As the couple had had frequent quarrels over a fifteen year-old daughter of Ashton's by his first wife, Ashton having been heard to make threats against the woman's life, and as the sound of blows had emanated from Ashton's cottage on Saturday it was suspected that a murder had been committed. A post mortem examination, however, revealed that the woman, although her head was badly bruised, died from natural causes.

Burglary at St. Kitts.

ST. CATHARINES, July 10.—On Sunday evening, between 5 and 8 o'clock, the residence of Miss Wallace was broken into while she was at church. Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

BETRAYED TO HER DEATH.
A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY IN WHICH ONE OF THE SINNERS SUICIDES.

Jennie Irving of Walkerton and Her Sad Story—Chapter in the History of the Glassey Family—Some Spicy Letters.

TORONTO, July 10.—The mystery surrounding the death of the young girl whose body was picked up in the bay near Conger's Wharf on Saturday last, has been practically dissipated. Two weeks ago last Saturday a young girl, apparently about 19, called at No. 10 Mission-avenue, occupied Mrs. E. Glassey, dressmaker, and applied for sewing work. Mrs. Glassey wanted help at the time and took her in.

There are two Mrs. Glasseys. Mrs. E. Glassey is a widow lady, and Mrs. Alden Glassey is her sister, they having married brothers. Alden Glassey and wife were at Norval, where he worked in a mill until the Saturday before Dominion Day, when, accompanied by their two children, they arrived at Toronto to pay Mrs. E. Glassey a visit. On Tuesday following the holiday Mrs. A. Glassey, who had been out all day, retired with her husband and children to bed about 11 o'clock. At 1 on the following morning Mrs. E. Glassey, who was attending to her sick baby, happened to step noiselessly into the parlor when she found her sister's husband and Jennie Brown together. She ran up-stairs and at once informed the wife, who naturally incensed, would not rest until her husband and the girl had left the house.

On July 5 an expressman came to Mrs. Glassey's for the girl's trunks which he had been engaged to take to No. 28 Park-road. The injured wife visited that number and secured an interview with the girl who, as soon as she saw Mrs. Glassey, burst into tears, and at her request gave her the following confession written in her own hand:

"TORONTO, July 5th, 1888.

"This is to certify

"that Alden Glassey has not been true to his wife he came to me on Sunday night the first of July and forced me to go away with him * * * * and also on Tuesday night when we were caught by Mrs. Glassey sister he also told me he did not love his wife and made me promise to go away with him he also took a diamond ring that I had which belonged to another young man, my proper name is

"Jenny Irving

"When I went to Mrs. Glassey's I called myself Miss Brown."

After writing the confession Jennie told Mrs. Glassey that she would never love a married man again as she intended to throw herself into the bay. When Mrs. Glassey read the description of the unfortunate girl yesterday morning she at once concluded that it was Jennie Irving and communicated her suspicions to the police. In the evening she went to the Morgue to view the body and the moment she saw the corpse she exclaimed: "Yes? Yes? that is poor Jennie!"

Little is known of the girl's antecedents. She told the Glassey ladies that she had an uncle a Presbyterian minister in Walkerton and had left home because she was unhappy four years ago. She had been in the city all that time and had worked in various families, among them the Rev. Dr. Rose.

The girl's two trunks are at No. 10 McCaul-street. One of them contains a Post-office Savings Bank book, showing a deposit of $5, and a number of letters, one of which, to "My Dear Jennie," dated at the Rossin House, June 5, 1887, signed Michael J. Cummings, asks her to meet him on Thursday evening at a street corner and has this postcript; "Burn this when you read it."

Another dated June 12, 1887, to "My Dear Jennie," signed Tom. C. Cary, is of a similar purport.

Jennie according to the Glassey's was a little flighty in her conduct, and at times appeared far from evenly balanced. She once said that both her mother and father were dead, but generally was very silent regarding her family affairs. Coroner Duncan opened an inquest on the body at noon yesterday, and adjourned it until Thursday evening. Drs. A. R. and R. N. Pyne made a post-mortem later in the day, and it is understood that the result showed no signs of violence.

A man named Harry Hartly was to have met Jennie at the foot of York-street on the night previous to the finding of her body. It will be recollected that on that night several persons saw a young man walking with a girl answering Jennie's description in the neighborhood of where the body was found.

IN WICKED HAMILTON.
A Young Lady Charged with Assault—Precocious Burglars.

HAMILTON, July 10.—Minnie Cleaves, a most respectable looking young lady, was charged in the Police Court yesterday with assaulting Nettie Street. The latter went to collect some money for a Mrs. Dallas from Miss Cleaves' brother. She did not receive the complainant very courteously, but pushed her out of the door when she wanted the young man to settle up. The case was dismissed without costs, the magistrate telling Miss Street that she had no right to be so persistent in asking Miss Cleaves for the money.

Three boys named Frank Grice, George Owen and John Hoar pleaded guilty at the Police Court this morning to the charge of breaking into the stand at Dundurn Park and stealing four boxes of cigars. They were each fined $5 or forty days. James Walton, the lad who pleaded guilty on Saturday to having stolen a silver watch, a chain and $30 belonging to his employer, was sent to the Reformatory at Penetanguishene for three years.

The horse and buggy which Thomas Vanderlip got from Frank Post have been recovered. They were found at Oakville on Saturday. Vanderlip has not yet been found nor has one of the suits of clothes that were supposed to have been stolen by him.

James Begley has been arrested because it is thought that he was one of a gang who assaulted several laborers while they were working at a house at the corner of Burlington and Hughson-streets. A couple of the laborers were treated very roughly.

Some time last week the boathouse of the late Mat Thomson was broken into and about $50 worth of tools were stolen.

Dr. Ryall says that the quality of the city milk is gradually improving.

John O'Grady was arrested yesterday by Constable Cruickshank on a charge of insanity.

Miss Mary Pinch of this city was married to Mr. Henry Wood of Chicago on Saturday evening, Rev. John Pickering officiating.

The Pitcher Investigation.

MONTREAL, July 10.—The preliminary investigation into the charge against Charles Pitcher, late teller of the Union Bank of Providence, was continued yesterday, and Mr. Johnston, cashier, continued his evidence, giving the details as to how he could identify the stolen bills. Mr. Halton, Q. C., counsel for the bank, states that the bank is now in possession of all the stolen bonds and securities which were seized in London on Saturday. The details have not yet come to hand. "There will be no compromise," says Mr. Halton, "we will give Pitcher fourteen years."

There is so much money in this case that Mr. Greenshields, crown prosecutor, who is a partner of Mr. Guerin, counsel for the defence, will resign his office and lend Pitcher the use of his legal abilities in the court of Queen's Bench in the event of his being committed.

QUEEN NATALIE TO THE SYNOD.
An Innocent Woman's Protest Against a Cruel Injustice.

LONDON, July 10.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a number of telegrams which have passed between Queen Natalie of Servia and the lay and ecclesiastical authorities of the Holy Synod in relation to the troubles between herself and King Milan. In her despatches Queen Natalie charges that the Synod is conspiring with King Milan to perpetrate a cruel injustice against an innocent woman. Queen Natalie's last despatch was addressed to the Metropolitan of the Holy Synod. In it she declares that the Synod is not qualified to concern itself in the question of a divorce between her and her husband. A divorce granted by the Synod would, under the circumstances of the case, be contrary to the laws of Servia, and the Queen declares that she will energetically protest against the iniquity and illegality of such a divorce if granted by the Synod.

King Milan Invokes Aid.

BELGRADE, July 10.—King Milan has formally invoked the aid of the authorities of the Prussian Province of Hesse-Nassau to force his wife, who is now stopping at Wiesbaden, to surrender the Crown Prince.

The Sultana Mine.

RAT PORTAGE, July 10.—It is rumored that the Ontario Mining Company have sold their interest in the Sultana for $500,000.

PARNELL'S PROPOSAL.
The Irish Leader Asks for an Investigating Committee.

LONDON, July 10.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir Wilfred Lawson (Home Ruler) asked whether the Government would grant the appointment of a committee of the House to inquire into the charges against the leaders of the National party in the House of Commons.

Mr. W. H. Smith, the Government leader, said the House was incompetent to inquire into the charges. A proper inquiry could be obtained through the ordinary tribunal.

Mr. Parnell later gave notice to the House that on Thursday he would submit a motion for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the authenticity of the letters published by The Times in its articles on "Parnellism and Crime," and those read at the trial of the suit of O'Donnell v. The Times, in which he and other Nationalist members were charged with serious crimes. He would also ask the Government to appoint a day to discuss the subject and give him an opportunity to repel the foul and unfounded charges made against him by Attorney-General Webster in the trial of the suit of O'Donnell v. The Times.

Mr. Parnell's remarks were greeted with loud cheers from the Irish benches.

Mr. W. H. Smith subsequently stated that the Government will decline to give a day for the discussion of Mr. Parnell's motion.

In announcing the death of Mr. Mandeville, Mr. O'Brien declared in the House of Commons yesterday that Mr. Mandeville had been injured by brutal treatment in prison.

A Prince's Mishap.

DARMSTADT, July 10.—As Prince Alexander of Battenberg was driving from Heiligenberg into the Stettback Valley his horse shied and the carriage was hurled from the road down the side of the mountain. Prince Alexander was thrown out and fell a distance of forty feet, when he grasped some shrubs and by their aid escaped with slight injuries. The horse was terribly mangled and killed, and the carriage was dashed to pieces.

The Barcelona is expected to leave Montreal with the first shipment.

Negotiating for a Loan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 10.—The Sultan, learning that Austria may be induced to make concessions to Russia in Bulgaria that may be an equivalent to a restoration of Pan-Slavist interests and that will threaten the interests of the Ottoman Empire, has ordered the Treasury to create an extraordinary resource of $10,000,000. The Porte has resumed negotiations for a loan with the Ottoman Bank.

HALTON.

"SOME of the voters had been paid by both sides," said a witness in the Halton contested election trial at which Mr. Henderson was unseated. We regret that a Conservative was led into imitating in a small way the example of Mr. Purcell, the Liberal M.P. for Glengary, but there is the satisfaction of knowing that the member was not connected in any way with the illegal act which cost him his seat. Bribery should be put down. It is in most cases foolish, and more frequently does harm instead of good to the party to which the briber belongs. If no higher view of the matter will reach those who use money, the frequency with which an illegal act deprives a man of a seat to which he would otherwise have been entitled, as seems to have been the case in Halton, should restrain their enthusiasm enough to prevent them from violating the law. It is true, as was the case in the election campaign in the county referred to, voters were watching an opportunity to receive money and to induce friends of the candidates to buy their votes, some of them even being "paid by both side." Such men should be reached by the law—disqualified from voting or otherwise punished.

IT is one of the most fantastic conceits of the age that a line of frontier customs houses is necessary to sustain the loyalty of Canada to the British Empire. Carrying this to its legitimate conclusion, the remedy for all sorts of disaffection among the people is to clap on more taxes.—London Advertiser.

Such "legitimate conclusions" are easily reached by using poor logic. For instance, municipal tax are necessary to keep streets in repair and otherwise provide for the comfort and safety of the citizens, therefore the more taxes a man pays the more comfortable and safe he will be. Again, it is necessary that a man should eat to be strong, and the "legitimate conclusion" is that the more he eats the stronger he will be. Great is logic with a "legitimate" conclusion.

MR. CLEVELAND has the satisfaction of knowing that his history, as written by his enemies during the last contest, can have little added to it now. But Mr. Harrison is only beginning to find out a little of what may be said about him between this and November. Already it is alleged that an ancestor of his was a lieutenant of Cromwell's and signed the death warrant of Charles I., that he has not erected a monument on his grandfather's grave, and that he knows nothing about baseball. The last mentioned crime can scarcely be allowed to pass without being punished.

BOBCAYGEON.

Correspondence of the Review.

EXCURSION.—On Monday, the 2nd of July, quite a large excursion under the auspices of the Canoe Club, went by the Beaubocage to Stoney Lake, and all went as merry as a marriage bell, everyone being highly pleased with the trip, till they were on the return, when by a miscalculation of the pilot they were landed on a rock. This caused a little comment as well as commotion. However, after a little work, they managed to work off and then they sailed home, arriving here a little later than they had anticipated.

CHANGED HANDS.—Mr. M. Boyd sold his grist mill here to Mr. Needler, of Lindsay, who, it is thought, intends making great improvements in it.

SCHOOLS CLOSED.—The schools closed for the holidays on Friday, the 6th inst., and will not open till Monday, the 27th of August. All the written examinations were over and promotions were announced before the close.

WARSAW.

Correspondence of the Review

PRESENTATION.—The officers and members of Warsaw L. O. L. No. 284, on the night of the 5th of July, had the pleasure of giving their W. M., Bro Alex. Smith, a surprise in the shape of a gold headed cane, accompanied with the following address:—

To Bro. Alexander Smith, W. M.

DEAR SIR AND BRO.,—It is with feelings of pleasure that we, the officers and members of Warsaw L. O. L., No. 284, take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of your services as Worshipful Master. We feel it our duty as well as a pleasure to assure you that the great devotion and trustworthy manner in which you have presided over us, and also on all other occasions in furthering the interest of the lodge with your brotherly kindness exercised toward us, have gained for you the approval and entire confidence of your brethren. While some who have severed their connection from us, you have stood by the standard always helping to bear it aloft, your motto being "No Surrender." We now request your acceptance of this gold headed cane as a small token of our appreciation of your services, hoping that you will receive it in the same spirit that it is offered, that of brotherly love and kindness, and that you may be long spared to preside over our deliberations in the furtherance and promotion of this lodge. In conclusion, dear brother, let us remember the time may not be far distant when we shall have to separate and leave this lodge below, but let us hope that we may meet again in the Grand Lodge above where parting is no more. Hoping that you may be spared for many years to come, and that God's choicest blessings may ever attend you and your family, is the sincere desire of the officers and members of L. O. L., No. 284.

Signed on behalf of Warsaw L. O. L. No. 284.

STEPHEN MILLER, D. M.
RICHARD DEEN, R. S.

Bro. Smith replied in a very suitable manner. He said he would always endeavor to further the interests of the Orange order in general, and L. O. L. 284 in particular. He thanked the brethren for their present and address, and also for the brotherly feeling displayed by them.

THE BISHOPS IN LONDON.

CANADIAN AND U. S. PRELATES IN HISTORIC PULPITS.

The New Papal Encyclical—The American Duchess—Indications of a First-Class War in Zululand.

LONDON, July 10.—Many London pulpits were on Sunday Americanised. Bishop Potter preached at the Chapel Royal, Savoy, in the very private dominion of the Queen, before a fashionable congregation and in an edifice many hundreds of years old. Bishop Coxe officiated in a still older church, Westminster Abbey. St. Paul's Cathedral gave ecclesiastical hospitality to the Bishop of North Carolina. Surrounded by a grand army of clericals the Bishops of Spri[illegible]field and Milwaukee, respectively in the morning and evening, pleased the West End congregation of St. Matthias in the Earl's Court District. The Bishop of North Dakota grew eloquent in the Church of St. Stephen's, South Kensington, not far from the Museum, and the Bishop of South Dakota occupied the pulpit of the Church of St. Pancras, which all tourists will remember as that grand representative of church architecture flanking the attractive entrance to the Liverpool railroad station. The Bishop of Mississippi went southwestwardly to the Church of St. Gabriel, situated between the former residence of Carlyle and the romantic territory of Pimlico. The Bishop of Iowa conducted two services in extreme East London, in St. Margaret's-on-Lea and St. Peter's in Brockley. The Bishop of Oregon assisted at the services in St. Paul's, in Great Portland-street. His brother bishop from Washington Territory was welcomed not far away in St. Phillip's church, Regent-street, near the famous Oxford circus.

In the afternoon the Bishop of Quebec took charge of the parish of St. Luke's, known one hundred years ago as St. Luke's-in-the-fields, in Chelsea. The Bishop of Toronto was heard at the parish church of Stepney, near the great collection of docks.

A prelate from Zululand was at the St. Paul's Cathedral in the evening. One from Calfraria filled the pulpit of St. Martin's Church, Trafalgar-square; another from Honolulu that of St. John's, near the great cricket ground, Kensington, and fourteen other home or colonial bishops officiated at as many other parishes; thus the sixth Sunday after Trinity may be said to have been as extensive a day for bishops as ever was known anywhere in the civilised world.

The new Papal encyclical is nine columns long, and, while eminently dignified and elegant in language, seems so carefully designed to hurt nobody's feelings that its effect on the political situation in Italy and elsewhere will not be great. It defines at great length the proper attitude of a Roman Catholic towards modern liberalism. So long as liberalism does not interfere with his belief he is free to act as his judgment dictates, and to support any form of government he prefers, as long as it is Christian and tends to promote Christian interests. The State, however, must not be separated from the Church, because such separation tends to encourage a belief among the masses that religion may be disbelieved in according to caprice. The Pope does not think the liberty of the press should be diminished, except where it offends religion and degenerates into licentiousness. The document is worthy of careful perusal by everybody, as it is exceedingly broadminded and contains advice to the believer concerning his attitude in the present era of theological discord that can be profitably followed by the followers of any faith.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlboro had a stormy passage in the Aurania, which had rather a depressing effect on the Duchess. She was compelled to remain in her stateroom nearly all the voyage, and consequently the Aurania's 430 saloon passengers had but little opportunity of associating with her. Those who did state that she is a most attractive and amiable woman, and through her gentle disposition is sure to make a host of English friends. The Duke and Duchess will proceed immediately to Blenheim Palace, their future residence. The Duchess arrived in London yesterday afternoon. She was cordially received by her mother-in-law, Lady Churchill and other members of her husband's family.

There is every indication of a first-class war in Zululand, but Parliament, as on a former occasion, is so busy with politics that no attention has been paid to the situation. For months past there have been whispers now and then of a conspiracy among the Boers to revive the old trouble. They have a natural conviction, born of the English policy after the battle of Majuba Hill, that only one good defeat is necessary to bring the English to terms. The breach shows no sign of healing, and boats are being turned from the Cape to the scene of action as fast as possible. The Boers are known to be arming vigorously and organising horse artillery. They are excellent fighters, and that they are behind the uprising nobody doubts. Altogether, between South Africa, Afghanistan and Thibet, several outlets are becoming apparent for British military activity which for some months past has mainly confined itself to speeches.

The French Branch of the Congo Society has decided to send an expedition to look for the White Pasha of Bahr-el-Ghazal, and African exploration is taking on the exciting air of a geographical parlor game, in which everybody is hunting for everybody else. Emin Pasha is hunting for Stanley, Stanley is hunting for Emin Pasha. Major Barttelot is looking for Tippoo Tib, Tippoo Tib is searching for Barttelot; and now the French Society proposes to search for any and all of these seekers. Volunteers to look for the French expedition will be called for shortly.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

At this season many Housekeepers are replenishing their supplies of Tableware and China. City folk are furnishing summer cottages; country folk are filling up the dressers and cupboards of the old homestead; town's folk are picking and choosing here and there. Many would be glad to know of a place whose special business is to meet these wants and desires; that aims to furnish essentially good wares at consistently low prices; that offers the choice of many different dinner services, and yet does not compel you to take an entire set of any pattern, but allow you to select each course of a new design, or buy any portion of the set you may need that does not try to impose ideas or wares upon purchasers, and yet is ready to advise which of the many wares is most desirable and suitable; and, if wished, will make a careful selection of pattern. When you want Tablewear will you give us the opportunity to serve you.

The Ottawa cricketers were scheduled to play here on Monday, the date having been fixed for themselves, but for some reason or another they asked that the match be cancelled. It will probably be played later on in the season.... On Friday next a match will be played on the P. A. A. For Sturgeon Point.

The excursion to Sturgeon Point this morning, under the auspices of the George-st. Methodist Church, was a huge success. No less than seven coaches of the special train were well filled with grown up people and children, and it is estimated that four hundred and fifty people were on board. Quite a number missed the excursion train, but through the kindness of Mr. Brundrette, of the G. T. R., they were allowed to go up to Lindsay on the regular express, where the boat on a telegram from the same gentleman, was held over awaiting their arrival.

Got His Money.

It will be remembered that at the Port Perry races on Dominion Day and the day following protests were entered against Sleep Dan, on the ground that he was not eligible in the 3 minute and 2.40 trots. The judges refused to decide at the time and as Sleepy Dan won, the prize money was withheld pending the decision of the Association. That as has been given and as a result Mr. Winch has received a cheque for the money in full.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

From Port Hope.

An excursion under the auspices of the Methodist Church, Port Hope, came up on a special Grand Trunk train. They numbered fully six hundred people and were accompanied by a band. Quite a number got off at the depot, but the majority were run over the new bridge and up the Lakefield line, to the crossing near the Smith-st. bridge, where they disembarked and proceeded to Inverlea, where a picnic was held. The beautiful grounds are admirably suited for the purpose and during the afternoon the excursionists appeared to enjoy their outing greatly. Various amusements were provided for the children and after dinner many spent the day in seeing the sights of the town. It is expected that the train will leave for the south about 5 o'clock.

Struck By a Train.

A boy named Robert Jones, about twelve years of age, son of Mr. Ambrose Jones, narrowly escaped being killed near the C. P. R. station before noon to-day. The 11.30 express from Toronto was coming in when the boy and his sister were crossing the track on Aylmer-st. The girl ran across safely in front of the locomotive, but the pilot struck the boy. He caught the pilot and was carried along. The train was stopped as quickly as possible, and just as it came to a standstill the boy's hold loosened and he fell on the track. If the train had gone a couple of feet further he would have been crushed. His eye, face and the side of his mouth were injured and his leg was bruised, but he was able to go to his home in the south part of the town.

Personal.

Dr. Bingham, of Cannington, a brother of Dr. Bingham of Peterborough, has been here for some days visiting friends.

Dr. "Eddie" Hatton, of Grenada, West India Islands, where he has resided for some years, is in town on a visit to his relatives. His many friends will learn with pleasure that he is enjoying the best of health and prosperity in his adopted, tropical home.

Mr. John Patterson has returned from a trip across the briny to his native land Scotland. He is in the best of health and spirits.

Among those who came to-day on the Port Hope excursion was Mr. George Wilson, the patriarchal editor of the Guide.

Mr. H. V. Sanders, town clerk of Port Hope, better known as "His Jolliness," is in town seeing the sights. He has many warm friends here, who were all delighted to see him looking so well.

The bidding was as follows:—

Warrington 9¾, Peterborough board. Hodgson 9¾, Bobcaygeon, Mariposa, Downeyville, Fenelon Falls and Star. Warrington 9, for balance of Victoria board. Wrighton 9½ for Victoria board. Cluxton 9¾, for his selection and those selected by Mr. Wrighton.

A dispute here arose over Warrington's lead on the ground that Messrs. Wrighton and Cluxton had already purchased selections. The chairman decided that the bid for the board made by Warrington was the best and in this ruling he was supported by a unanimous vote of the salesmen present.

Cluxton bid 9 11-16 Peterborough board, Wrighton 9¾ Victoria board. Hodgson 9¾ Peteroorough section.

On being called of all sold, Peterborough at 9¾ and Victoria 9¾.

—Mr. E. K. Ostrom on Monday shipped a carcload of eggs per the G.T.R.

—Another $35 clarionet has been purchased for the Fire Brigade band.

—The sale of the Priest's Park lot at the west end drew a large crowd this afternoon.

—New potatoes are coming in rapidly and soon the market will be well supplied.

—The Fire Brigade band will give their usual weekly open air concert in the park this evening.

—It is said that in a row at a hotel yesterday afternoon a stranger was badly cut about the head.

—Several "dummy" hams remained hanging in front of a George-st. shop all night. They were not stolen.

—The police agree that things were never as quiet in the town of Peterborough before as they are at present.

—Five carloads of cheese and four of eggs, were portions of a freight train on the Grand Junction the other day.

—Port Hope is without any regular band at present, but the old boys turned out in good force to-day and played well and often.

—Why the sidewalk opposite the new Snowdon hotel building on Charlotte-st. was torn up to pile brick on is one of those things no fellow can understand. The travel along the street is very large and the inconvenience badly felt. The S. and B inspector might arrange a temporary walk.

TO THE NORTHWEST.

To the Editor of the Review.

WINNIPEG, June 30th, 1888.

SIR,—I thought I would write you and let you know that Mr. Milburn and myself arrived all safe and sound after our long trip. I thought perhaps some of your readers of your paper would like to hear something about our trip and this country. Well, we left Peterborough on the 7.20 express, and after a short run to Toronto, we took the steamship express to Owen Sound, arriving there at 3.30, where we boarded that fine boat the Campana. She is an iron boat and is commanded by Captain John Mcnabe, a most obliging and careful officer. We set sail at 4.15 on one of the most beautiful lakes that nature could provide. We sailed all night on Georgian Bay and Lake Huron, and by morning approached Detour channel, where land is close at hand on both sides. After passing through several small and picturesque lakes we reached St. Mary's river, where we met schooners and steam barges by the dozen, loaded with grain and lumber, making their way east. After several hours sailing we reached the Soo, as it is called, the only stop the boat makes until it reaches Port Arthur. Here the boat passes through the locks. We are delayed here about one hour and half, on account of so many vessels in the canal. I counted seven all jammed together. The Campana and another large boat locked through side by side, as you see the canal is very large. The Soo on the American side is quite a large place, but they tell me times are very dull. Lots of men are going around idle, nothing doing at all. There appears to be a lot of building going on on the Canadian side, but it is so far away I could not tell much about it. Here we pass through the swing bridge. This is the largest railroad bridge I ever saw. The C.P.R. bridge at Peterborough is only a child alongside of it. A garrison of Yankee troops is stationed here to watch the Canucks, to make them behave themselves. After a long sail we come in sight of Port Arthur. Here is the most beautiful scenery one could wish to see. On the left is Isle Royale, where the Algoma was wrecked and so many lives lost. On the right is Thunder Cape light house, where the rocks are very high. We reached Port Arthur on time, where we waited two hours for the train. The port is a fine place, but like the Soo, times are rather dull. I saw several fine buildings with their windows nailed up.

(I will write no more this time for fear I would weary you.) R. N. SCOTT.

The Collegiate Institute.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Why are some people in Peterborough in favor of doing away with the Collegiate Institute? Because, they say, it costs too much in taxes. The wealthy men in very many cases, if not the originators of this shameful cry, still believe, firmly, in it. Men of means are able to send their children to distant schools where more of decorative education is given than here, and besides, they are sharp enough to know that, if the Collegiate Institute go down, they are able, in spite of it, to give their children education without contributing their large share of taxes to pay for the education of the children of their poorer fellow-citizens. On the other hand, young men of worth who are, unfortunately, not well off, must be content to get a meagre, public school training. In this way the poor derive no benefit from the property of the rich and the rich do not care a straw for the wants, in this respect, of the poor. Of course, there are, very fortunately, honourable exceptions—men whose pockets do not hold all their patriotism. If this policy of abolition be carried out the rich will be able, in this county at least, simply to dictate to their poorer and less educated neighbors. The complaint is made that farmers get the benefit of the Institute for which the town pays. Tax them by fees then—it is an easy and effective remedy. Look at the younger men in this county who are the backbone of it, that is, men who had the advantage of the Institute. How very much less would be their capabilities if they had been compelled to do without this institute education because they could not have afforded it? The wish to destroy the Institute is born of selfishness and complete contempt for the great principle of equal practice and democratic equality. The man who is rich and can send his son where he likes, yet refuses to pay a fair, proportionate tax to educate the coming men and women of his country is a hog. That a poor man does not care to afford his small share of the tax I can partially understand, though it is absolutely suicidal. The men who wish this excellent institution degraded to a High School are those who, when you ask their reason, say "For the artizan's son and for the farmer's son, or for any poor man's son, the the three R's are enough; we are not going to pay for their education." What are parks and such ornaments to the mental strength of the people? If this policy were general throughout the country the rich would grow continually more educated, richer, and therefore more powerful, and the intelligent, though poor man, would be compelled to revolve in his own narrow sphere, content to leave the rich without a rival for elevation and preferment. I know what I am talking about, for if it had not been for the rich men's taxes—just taxation—I should have been squeezed out of the honorable struggle for existence—yes—forced to eat the crumbs from the table of the stony and crafty rich man.

Yours, etc.,
ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

To most children, the bare suggestion o a dose of castor oil is nauseating. When physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take. Try them.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you ou may depend upon this for certain.

A FINE RESIDENCE.—Mr. David Armstrong is having built on his farm, one of the finest residences in the township. The building is situated on a fine elevation, with a south and east front. The style is Queen Ann, white brick, 26x32. The floors are of ash and tamarack. Mr. Armstrong feels quite proud of his new house. Mr. Adam Dawson, of Peterborough, has just finished the brick work, which is first class in every respect and does him much credit. The residence will be ready for use about Oct. 1st.

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in place of this stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Every one admires them, and just half the price I was asked for the same things in Toronto; but still, father dear, I must have the lamp."

May do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

Some such ideas, considerably modified, were floating through Lisle's brain, when he heard the "flop flop" of Mr. Craig's heavy footed steed, and soon the ramshackle phaeton and ridiculously disproportioned horse came round a bend of the road. In the vehicle were seated Miss Black, whose eyes looked suspiciously red, and Kenneth, who held the reins. He pulled up as Lisle waved his hands.

"So Miss Craig has deserted you!" he cried.

"She has indeed," returned Kenneth. "It is a bad business—poor Madame Debrisay being so ill. I never knew her to be ill before."

"And I am sure Mona had a sad heart," said Miss Black. "She looked so pale and downcast. It will be a long, weary road for her to travel all alone."

"She telegraphed first thing to say she was coming," added Kenneth.

"What's her address?" asked Lisle. "I must let Lady Finistoun know."

"It's 9 Westbourne Villas—away near the Royal Oak," said Kenneth.

"Thank you," returned Lisle, making a mental note of it.

A few more words and they parted, going in opposite directions.

"Queer people," mused Lisle, as he walked rapidly down hill. "But I suppose they enjoy themselves as we do, and are probably less often bored. Anyhow, it must be a relief to get away from such surroundings—my sweet Mona. I am a most unlucky dog to have missed the chance of a long journey with you. I might have had, with judicious management, the privilege of kissing away your tears, if you shed any, and generally comforting you. Shall I follow? I must think!"

* * * * * * *

The shock was great to Mona when she read of her good friend's illness. Hitherto Mme. Debrisay had been invariably well, and the idea of her being alone and helpless, in a mere lodging, was intolerable.

Mona immediately determined to go to her, and, as Uncle Sandy rightly surmised, nothing would have held her back; no fear of being disinherited would have prevented her, as Uncle Sandy said, from "ganging her ain gate."

It was a cold raw morning, thick and foggy, when she reached her destination. The landlady greeted her warmly; she was evidently glad to have the responsibility lifted off her shoulders.

"Madame has seemed better ever since she had your telegram yesterday; but, for all that, she has had a terrible night, such a fight she has for breath, poor dear. I sat up till past two with her, and then Lizzy took my place."

"I will go and see her at once," said Mona.

"Do have a cup of tea first, miss."

"No, thank you—after."

Poor Mme. Debrisay shed tears of joy at the sight of her dear child.

"And did your uncle agree to your coming?" she whispered.

"He was obliged," returned Mona, smiling. "Though he grumbled, he was quite good about it. I suppose he remembered how kindly you nursed him."

"I would be so sorry if I was the cause of any bad feeling between you! But, oh! it is a joy and a comfort to have you near me, darling!"

Though quite inexperienced in nursing, Mona's common-sense and careful observance of the doctor's directions soon taught her, and the atmosphere of cheerfulness she created was infinitely beneficial to the sufferer. A few days saw a decided improvement. Soon Mona was released from the fatigue of regular night watching, and Mme. Debrisay was about to take more nourishment; while the doctor announced that we were "doing very well indeed."

In a few days, Mona had the pleasure of assisting her friend from her bed to an easy-chair by the fire, when the "girl" put in her head to say there was a gentleman in the drawing-room, and would Miss Craig speak to him.

"I will come directly," said Mona.

Mona soon followed her into the front room, where a cheerful fire was burning, though otherwise it looked too accurately neat to have an inhabited air; and there on the hearth-rug stood Lisle.

The sudden surprise brought a quick, bright blush to Mona's cheek, and she stood still an instant, the long, straight folds of her morning-gown sweeping from her graceful shoulders to the ground, giving her additional height and dignity.

"I hope I am not taking a liberty in calling so early?" said Lisle, coming forward to clasp the hand she held out, with the exclamation—

"I had no idea it was you! I fancied you were still in Scotland."

"Pray, who did you expect then?" asked Lisle, sharply, as he still held her hand, and looked with eager inquiry into her eyes.

"General Fielden—a friend of Madame Debrisay's," withdrawing her hand from his clasp. "Have you any message from my uncle? Is all well at Craigdarroch?"

"I do not think Mr. Craig knew that I was coming to London," he returned. "It was rather a sudden idea of mine. Are you not going to ask me to sit down?"

"Oh, yes! of course! Pray, sit down, Sir St. John. I am so startled at seeing you, that I forget my manners," she said, laughing. "How did you know where I was?"

"Well, you see, I speak the language, and I asked your kilted kinsman. You do not suppose I was going to lose sight of you?"

Something in his tone—his eyes—made Mona uneasy. She did not want to come to any explanation with him. She did not want to quarrel with him. Yet she told herself that he could not have been so eccentric as to have fallen in love with her ever again. Had he really cared for her, he would never have tried to hand her over to another.

"I have been too busy, and too anxious about my friend Madame Debrisay, to think of anything else," said Mona, coldly, as she drew a low chair to the fire; and Lisle seated himself at the table.

"Yes! I understand; you have been doing the Sister of Mercy business, and you look like it. Those bewildering eyes of yours look weary, and your cheek is pale. You want air and light. Can you not get off duty for an hour or two, and drive with me to Harrow or Richmond in the fine brisk day, and it would be heavenly to have you all to myself for even a short spell."

"You are very good, Sir St. John," returned Mona, calmly, "but it is impossible I could leave my patient yet."

"Later, then, I may be able to persuade you."

"You will not stay long in town at this unseasonable season," she said. "And I do not know when Madame Debrisay will be well enough to spare me."

"Oh, I shall be in town some time yet. You should not have left your uncle's side all unguarded, Miss Craig. Your friend, Miss Black, seems a very insinuating young person, and it strikes me that Mr. Kenneth Macalister is considerably attracted to her bonny blue een."

"Why do you think so?"

"Don't you know that a sort of electric atmosphere encompasses a man and woman who are in love, which reveals itself in lightning flashes of intelligence? No man who has loved, and still loves, can breathe it without comprehending much that is unspoken."

To be continued.

BANKERS.—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce
SOLICITORS.—Dumble & Leonard.

TO DEPOSITERS.—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amount deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is four per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is five per cent.

TO INVESTORS.—The five and ten years five per cent debentures of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested with the utmost care and precaution, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the Shareholders having the second. The last audit shows that the amount so invested was over $1,310,223.69, and on securities of at least double that value.

By the Laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS.—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate Security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest. The Mortgage may be paid by yearly instalments or otherwise, as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amount paid on account of the sum borrowed. SMALLPOX GERMS IN TORONTO BREAK OUT AFRESH.

Three Patients in the Smallpox Hospital—Troubles of the Vevvers Family—The House Quarantined.

TORONTO, July 12.—For the past three weeks there has been a smallpox scare at North Toronto. It will be learned with surprise that the Smallpox Hospital contains three patients. Happily, however, for the comfort and safety of the citizens, the area embraced by the disease is comparatively a small one, and it is claimed on the part of the Health Department that every precaution has been taken since the discovery of the existence of the disease to prevent its spread.

Two years ago a family named Vevvers rented No. 77 Yorkville-ave., Mrs. Vevvers immediately on taking possession opening up a boarding house, which from the beginning was liberally patronized. On June 26 Mrs. Vevvers complained of feeling ill and medical assistance was called. On June 27 the doctor who had charge of her case thought he perceived undeniable symptoms of smallpox, and at once recognizing the gravity of the situation communicated with Dr. Canniff, the Medical Health Officer. That official took charge of the case, and after satisfying himself himself that the first diagnosis was correct, had Mrs. Vevvers removed to the Smallpox Hospital and the house quarantined.

On July 5 a 10-year-old son of Mrs. Vevvers developed similar symptoms to those exhibited by his mother, and he also was sent to join her. Yesterday the eldest daughter of the household was attacked, and was conveyed in the afternoon to the Smallpox Hospital, where they are all doing well. The boarders have all left the house. Every member of the family, which is a large one, were vaccinated on June 27, and the girl who was last attacked among the others, on the day of her removal, had two well-developed pustules on her arm showing that the virus had taken well.

A reporter last night was talking to the doctor who attended Miss Vevvers. He said that the attack, so far as he could judge, was a light one, approaching the nature of varioloid, and not likely to result fatally.

The question which is agitating the minds of the officers of the Local Board of Health is, how or where the Vevver family caught the contagion. The owner of 77 Yorkville-avenue told a reporter that Mrs. Vevver had bought a lot of second-hand carpets and furniture with which to furnish the rooms, and she thought that the disease might have been carried in with the goods. The doctors, however, have a different theory. Three years ago a colored family resided in a house in rear of 77 Yorkville-avenue, and at the time one of the family was ill with smallpox. It is thought that the germs were never properly eradicated from this dwelling, and through the usual process were conveyed into Vevver's household with the above result.

AN INFLUX OF IMMIGRANTS.

Four Steamships Land 1006 Immigrants at Montreal One Day This Week.

MONTREAL, July 12.—There was quite an influx of immigrants into the city on Tuesday, no less than four steamships arriving with large numbers on board. The Norwegian brought 399, the Carthagenian brought 438, the Pomeranian brought 55, and the Lake Huron brought 114, in all 1006. Among those by the Norwegian were 250 Icelanders in well-to-do circumstances, who proceeded by special train to Winnipeg, there to join the farm settlement of Icelanders, 400 strong, that was formed in that neighbourhood last year. Of the remaining immigrants 100 went to the States, 30 will settle in the city and vicinity, while the balance proceeded direct to Ontario and the Northwest, their nationalities being, with the exception of about 20 Germans, English and Irish, with a few Scotch, all strictly industrious in their habits and none that could be written down as of the "really poor" class.

BYTOWN HIGHWAYMEN.

A Young Man Named Charles Cummings Shot by Two Unknown Highwaymen.

OTTAWA, July 12.—A young man named Charles Cummings, who lives at the east end of the city, was attacked last night while on his way home by two unknown desperadoes. Three shots were fired at Cummings, two taking effect, one on the left and the other on the right side of the body. He made a desperate struggle with the men, and finally succeeded in beating them off and making his way home. One of the bullets glanced off the ribs. The other, which was extracted this morning, was buried in his side. No serious results are anticipated.

Poor Milk.

HAMILTON, July 12.—The milk which has lately been supplied to the city hospital was of very poor quality, yielding only 1½ per cent. of fat when tested by the lactoscape. No more of that milk will be received there.

The steamer Celtic will start from Hamilton on her annual lighthouse supply trip on Friday.

Yesterday Detectives Doyle and Campbell recovered about $50 worth of tools that were taken from the boathouse of the late Mat. Thompson. They were found at the residence of Jos. Thompson, 193 Emerald-street north.

An Unfortunate Tamworth Family.

TAMWORTH, July 12.—The eldest daughter of W. D. Mace took a dose of carbolic acid by mistake yesterday, and died within 15 minutes. Her youngest sister, Jessie, was buried yesterday morning, having died from diphtheria after two days' illness. Another daughter, Myrtle, is in a critical state from nervous shock, as is also Mrs. Mace, who was just recovering from a severe illness.

A Big Catch of Halibut.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 12.—The Millie Adams has arrived at Seattle from Cape Flattery, having been gone from Seattle about one week, and returned with 45,000 pounds of halibut. Although the weather was so rough this trip that they could fish only two days and a half, the crew succeeded in capturing the largest cargo the schooner has ever brought to Seattle.

The Guelph Carriage Top Company.

GUELPH, July 12.—At the meeting of creditors of the Guelph Carriage Top Company Mr. Charles Walker made an offer of 25 cents on the dollar, cash, and 10 cents unsecured. All appeared to favor the acceptance of 35 cents secured, but there are some doubts of the present offer being suitable. However, the matter was left in the hands of five trustees to report on, at Toronto, on Monday next.

Canadian Pacific Earnings.

MONTREAL, July 12.—The traffic receipts of the Canadian Pacific Railway, not including the Southeastern Railway, for the week ending July 7 were:

1888	$ 261,000
1887	252,000
Increase for 1888	$ 9,000

A Big Freshet in Monongahela.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—An almost unprecedented freshet in the Monongahela river has done great damage to the craft and property along the river front. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

TIMELY TORONTO TOPICS.

The Mock Investigation—A Big Steamer—The Jenny Irving Case.

TORONTO, July 12.—The investigation by the Police Commissioners into the death of George Mack, the prisoner who died in the police cells shortly after being arrested as a "drunk," was concluded yesterday. Decision was reserved.

The steamship Rosedale, the largest vessel that ever visited this port, arrived here yesterday morning. The Rosedale was launched at Sunderland on May 1 and loaded at London with a cargo of cement for Chicago. Leaving London on May 25 the Rosedale anchored at quarantine just below Quebec on the night of June 11, having occupied 17½ days in the trip. The passage was a pretty stormy one, but the vessel sustained no damage. After a brief delay at Quebec the Rosedale proceeded to Chicago and discharged her cargo. She then took in a load of corn for Kingston, and having delivered her cargo at the Limestone City she turned her head toward Toronto, arriving here as already stated, at about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Her officers are: Captain, James Ewart; chief engineer, J. H. Ellis; mate, J. Grant. It is not intended that she shall return to the Old Country, although this is the popular supposition. She is next going to load with coal at Cleveland for Port Arthur, and will then take on wheat for Kingston.

Henry Preston, who was taken to the smallpox hospital by order of the Medical Health officer, under the belief that he was suffering from smallpox, and who afterwards was found to have been afflicted with a different disease, compromised his suit against the city yesterday for $75 and costs.

At yesterday's meeting of the British Methodist Episcopal Conference a report recommending the raising of $10,000 for mission work was adopted.

Ned Durham, a World compositor, was bitten by a black spider on Tuesday. Great swellings ensued in different parts of the head, and it was thought at one time that the brain would become affected. He was last night, however, reported out of danger.

To-day's Orange celebration was on a more extensive scale than was ever before witnessed in Canada.

At the Police Court yesterday Edward Marshall, charged with assaulting a street-car conductor who ordered him to desist from smoking on the platform, was fined $20 or 40 days.

The total imports into the Toronto money market during the past three weeks exceed $1,000,000.

The directors of the Canada Permanent Loan and Savings Company decided yesterday to issue $1,000,000 additional stock.

Public interest continues to centre in the Jenny Irving case. Her identity with the dead girl has been fully established, and the result of the coroner's inquest to-night is being looked forward to with the greatest curiosity. According to Mrs. Thomas E. Smith the girl's father died when she was about 12 years old, and she lived with different relatives in the County of Bruce until she came to Toronto four years ago. It is probable that her friends will see that the remains are decently interred, and not left to the scalping knives of the medical students.

Between the hours of 5 a.m. and 7 p.m. yesterday, during the absence of the family at a picnic, the residence of Mr. John Whittleton, 97 Harbord-street, was broken into and some $200 worth of property stolen.

At the session of the National Division of the Sons of Temperance yesterday Most Worthy Patriarch E. H. Clapp of Boston read his annual report showing that the Order was in a prosperous and healthy condition. Other routine business was transacted and in the evening the members of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance of Ontario, gave a reception to the National Division in the theatre of the Normal School.

DARING STAGE ROBBERY.

British Columbia Highwaymen Make a Haul of $3,500 in Gold Dust.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 12.—A most daring robbery took place the other day about 26 miles above Soda Creek. The Cariboo four horse stage, Mr. J. R. Tait driver, was on a bridge when two masked men confronted him with a rifle and pistol and ordered him to stop his horses. They then compelled him to leave the stage, and took the sack out of the wagon, which contained $3,500 in gold dust. He was then ordered to get into his place and drive on. One of the highwaymen wore a dark calico mask, the other had a flour sack over his head. One man stood on each side of the stage when they ordered the driver to stop, and the largest man kept Tait covered with the rifle until he drove away. There were no passengers on the wagon, and as the driver had the reins he had no chance to use weapons. The Government agents are scouring the country with a number of special constables and all the Alexandria Indians are hunting for the robbers. A reward of $500 has been offered for their capture. It will be a very difficult thing for them to leave that portion of the country, and news of their arrest is expected in a short time. Mr. F. S. Barnard states that he believes the same men robbed the stage four years ago and succeeded in getting clear with $4,000. Mr. Tait's brother was driving the stage at that time, and the robbery took place about 100 miles below the scene of the robbery of Saturday last.

Wanted to Be a Desperadoe.

WINNIPEG, July 12.—A youth named Robert J. Stackton purchased an old gun from a second-hand dealer the other day, and, securing a quantity of amunition, started out on an expedition. It was immaterial to him the description of game met with, so long as he could get a shot at something. Fortunately for the children in the vicinity, the little culprit thought powder was all that was needed. However, Alexander O'Grady received some injuries from the careless handling of the weapon, for Stackton fired a charge of powder in his face, tearing the flesh about the forehead and eyes. Stackton then got on a passing wagon and rode out to St. James, where he was arrested.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, July 12.—William McGurn, a farmer owning 100 acres of land at Tyendinaga, was brought to this city yesterday and committed for medical examination on the charge of being a dangerous lunatic.

At the last meeting of the School Board a report favoring the establishment in the Central School of a division having special regard to the furthering of education in the commercial and technical branches and to be designated "The Commercial and Technical Division," was adopted.

Mrs. Wm. Phillips of the third con. of Tyendinaga has deserted her husband and gone to the States.

To Visit Lundy's Lane Battle Ground.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 12.—Col. Oster, D.A.G., will, by order of the Government, to-day visit Lundy's Lane battle ground to report what measures should be taken to restore the military graves of July 25, 1814, and to erect a suitable memorial to the heroic dead.

Pitcher Getting Anxious.

MONTREAL, July 12.—The preliminary investigation in the Pitcher case was continued yesterday, when Mr. Johnston was cross-examined by Mr. Guerin. His evidence was not shaken in the least. No new developments transpired. Pitcher, as the case proceeds, looks rather anxious and more discouraged than at first.

PARNELL'S VAST SCHEME.

THE NATIONALIST LEADER'S IMPERIAL FEDERATION SCHEME.

The Times Controversy Waxing Hotter Day by Day—T. P. O'Connor's Charges—The Marlborough Nuptials.

LONDON, July 12.—Mr. Parnell's declaration touching the new Home Rule bill is very important, though whether it is much more important than the questions at issue between him and The Times it is too soon to say. The Irish leader has come out as advocate of what he calls "Imperial Federation." His letter to Mr. Rhodes, whether written immediately after the conference with Mr. Gladstone or not, expresses the result of many conferences. There can be no doubt that Mr. Parnell and Mr. Gladstone are working together. The latter has agreed to devise a scheme for retaining the Irish members in the House of Commons instead of excluding them. But that is only one item in the new programme. The federation idea has been Mr. Gladstone's underlying thought in all his repeated references to separate nationalities within the United Kingdom.

The Unionists describe this as a scheme for splitting the Empire into fragments in order to federate the fragments. Scotland is to have a parliament, Wales a parliament, and Ireland a parliament. The House of Commons is to become merely an English Parliament, and the new Imperial Parliament, with Colonial delegates, is to rise on the ruins of the present Constitution. This vast scheme, by far the most revolutionary ever heard of in England, is given to the world in a casual way, half by letter and half by talk, with a third half, as the Irish would say, eked out by the guesses of Mr. Parnell's semi-confidants. The English take it all with a coolness that is something more than sceptical. It may strengthen Irish Home Rule, but it seems quite as likely to frighten away friends by the disclosure of a project so vast.

The Parnell-Times controversy waxes hotter day by day. Language of extreme violence is used on at least one side. The Times daily renews its challenge to the Irish leader to test its charges in a court of law. Mr. Parnell thus far shows no sign of accepting this attractive proposal. He prefers now, as he did a year ago, a parliamentary committee.

The British public meantime seems a little puzzled. Men without partiality or partisan feeling are few, but men with strong desire to see fair play are numerous. Most of these, I think, suspend their judgment. They do not give full credit either to The Times' charges or to Mr. Parnell's denials. They say that Mr. Parnell, whether innocent or guilty, must either confess or deny. If he did not deny, he would have to leave, but they think him entitled to the benefit of the doubt so long as The Times, though declaring its readiness to prove its charges, has not actually proved them.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, I suppose, speaks for his leader. He says he would not trust a London jury, whom he describes as partisans passionate and bigoted. The Times, in his opinion, prefers trying the cause in a court of law because it would there have the liberty to use poisoned daggers and explosive bullets. The conduct of the Attorney-General convinces Mr. O'Connor of what he has long suspected, that The Times has for once been innocently imposed upon. That period has passed. "We now," says Mr. O'Connor, "charge Mr. John Walter and Mr. G. E. Buckle with uttering forgeries, knowing them to be forgeries. We are quite willing to stand our trial on this statement before that court of law to which The Times is so fond of referring its assailants."

I saw the Duke of Marlborough yesterday afternoon at the residence of his mother, the Dowager Duchess of Marlborough, in Grosvenor-square. While conversing with him in the library, carriage after carriage rolled up to the dark house, which seemed to frown upon the rays of sunshine chasing each other across its sombre front. Lackeys, footmen, gentlemen and ushers were scrambling, shoving and elbowing each other to leave cards or call upon the new American Duchess. The crush grew thicker, and as I bowed myself out the duke hastened into the drawing-room again to meet his old friends and introduce them to his new and handsome wife.

Later in the evening I called upon George Lewis in regard to validity of the marriage which New York lawyers have impugned. There is no doubt that Mr. Lewis is the greatest authority on English law in its relation to divorce of any living man, so his decision in favor of the legality of the ceremony should be accepted as final.

"The marriage is perfectly valid," said Mr. Lewis. "English law upon this subject is decisive. The 57th section of 20 and 21 Vic., cap. 85, enacts that at the expiration of time limited for appealing against any decree, it shall be lawful for respective parties thereto to marry again as if the prior marriage had been dissolved by death. The Duke of Marlborough was consequently free to marry again, and inasmuch as the lady whom he married was a widow suffering from no disability by American law, the marriage is beyond doubt valid."

If rumor, which runs like wild-fire through Clubland and Belgravia, has any foundation, in fact the newly married duke and his bride are not out of the woods yet. It is stated that the Marchioness of Blandford, who is at present at Hisard, in France, is coming to England in a few days, and that on her arrival here she will apply to the courts for a summons against her former husband for contempt of the decree of the court, by which it was expressly stipulated that the respondent was not to marry again. I imagine, however, that this rumor is merely based upon the popular belief that the marchioness is a peculiarly revengeful, if not malicious, woman. This popular opinion at the time of the divorce case greatly neutralized public sympathy, which otherwise would have been overwhelmingly with the injured wife.

Monotonous Variety.

DUBLIN, July 12.—Patrick Joseph O'Brien, M.P. for a division of Tipperary, was released from Tullamore Jail yesterday, his time of service under the sentence of three months' imprisonment imposed on him for violation of the Crimes Act having expired. He was immediately taken in charge by officers and conveyed to Kilkenny Jail, where he will undergo a further imprisonment of three months for an offence of the same nature.

Dillon Tenderly Treated.

LONDON, July 12.—Private letters received by the Parnellite leaders give a satisfactory account of Mr. Dillon's health. He is receiving careful treatment at the hands of the prison officials, who, it is believed, have taken warning from the death of Mr. Mandeville. Mr. Parnell said that an inquest would reveal the fact that Mr. Mandeville was terribly ill-treated while in prison. He was compelled to pass the night lying on a plank, and was deprived even of a blanket. He passed the time in solitary confinement in a cell unfit for habitation.

Counterfeit $5's at Berlin.

BERLIN, July 12.—Several counterfeit $5 bills on the Bank of British North America have been passed in town this week. Two of them were spotted in the Bank of Commerce.

THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1888.

TO THE NORTHWEST.

To the Editor of the Review.

WINNIPEG, July 1st, 1888.

SIR,—Leaving Port Arthur, the train reaches Port William after about ten minutes run. The site of the old trading post on lake Superior is used now by the C.P.R. as a distributing point for the large quantities of coal and lumber and heavy supplies passing over the road, or across the lake. After changing engines we started out on our long, dreary journey through swamps and rock cuttings, and we passed through two or three long tunnels. The first one we went into gave us a surprise, as we went from daylight into darkness quick as a flash. The land along each side of the track is almost useless either for grain or stock raising. For miles not a house or road is seen, except the switchman's house. The track hugs the shore of the Kaministiquia river, crossing several times. Every now and then we passed a beautiful lake, which helped to make this lonesome place look brighter. The passengers now begin to turn over the seats to make beds for themselves, as it was getting late, although it was quite light at ten o'clock and the sun was not down at nine o'clock by Peterborough time. We all have to turn our watches back one hour. It gets daylight very early. We arrived at Rat Portage about 4 in the morning. It is a pretty town at the end of the Lake of the Woods, where the scenery is grand. Thousands of islands, quiet bays, falls and rapids, serve to make up a picture not easily forgotten. There are very large sawmills here. The road passes through some heavy rock cuttings here, and at Keewatin. There is a great water power at this station, and some very large mills. From there to Winnipeg the country begins to look better, as we passed some small farms and villages where business appeared to be brisk. We reached Winnipeg on time to a minute. This is a fine city to have been built up in so short a time. Of course business is not so rushing as it was the time of the boom, but everybody appears to be busy. I went to see contractor Strevel's teams and men start out to work. He had fifty teams of horses and mules. He started out to the Portage link, a new line to be built. I then went to see the graves of the soldiers who were killed at Fish Creek. There are seven of them, and one officer. The city has a fine monument, with all their names on, erected on the city hall square. I then went over to St. Boniface to see Riel's grave. It has just a wooden cross, with the words "Louis David Riel" on it

Yours, etc,

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists.

SPRINGVILLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HOME from SCOTLAND.—Mr. R. D. Dundas returned home from Scotland on Friday evening with eight head of young Clydsdale horses, comprising six fillies and two stallions. Messrs. Dundas & Grandy will now have a stable of heavy horses second too but few in Ontario, and Springville is fast becoming a centre for all kinds of good stock. Success to them all.

CHURCH SERVICE.—The Rev. D. N. McCamus, who has succeeded the Rev. Mr. Greatrix as pastor of South Monaghan circuit, preached an eloquent sermon on last Sabbath. Centreville Orange lodge attended church in a body and the rev. gentleman's remarks were more especially addressed to that body.

THE CROPS.—The long and continued drouth is having a serious effect on the crops. The hay, which is not more than forty per cent. of an average crop, will be nearly all housed this week.

COMPLETED.—Mr. A. Goodfellow's new house is fully completed and presents indeed a splendid appearance without, and an inspection within detracts nothing from outward impressions, the rooms being fitted out with every convenience and comfort, special attention being given to thorough ventilation. A spring of water about one hundred yards distant is conducted through iron pipes into the kitchen, giving a supply of pure water. A cistern supplies the necessary soft water, a tap in the pipe supplies the stables across the road and also with necessary water for stock. Mr. Goodfellow, as well as Mr. Fitzgerald, the contractor, deserves credit for the thoroughness of their work.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should as ways be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little suffer at once; it produci natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright es a button." It is very pleasant to taste. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow'sSoothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

KEENE.

Correspondence of the Review.

LACROSSE.—We wish to take exception to an item by your Zion correspondent in last week's issue. It was not the Keene L. C., being only a scratch team of boys. We do not wonder at our boys being defeated, as that moustache of one of the Paralyzers was enough to "paralyze" the whole team.

THE RIFLE.—We are pleased to learn that Thos. Dickson, formerly of Keene, and now in the N.W.M.P., has won the first gold medal and $5 00 against all comers.

ON TIME.—Rev. Mr. McFarlane has instituted a new order of things in connection with the church, viz., he does not intend vary five minutes from the proper time of starting the service.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you tou may depend upon this for certain.

The Collegiate Institute Question.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR.—In your number of the 10th, someone writes, calling himself "One of the People." When anyone writes on the expenditure of public money, I think it is necessary that he should give us his name. Then we can see if he has to toil for his money and then give it away to a fellow who charges a dollar an hour and produces little or nothing to benefit the masses of the people. He says: "Why are some of the people in favor of doing away with the Institute?" Why, because it is of little use, only to a privileged few. If a father can clothe and feed his son and send him through he can get what is to be got there and that is not much, if we should judge from the material turned out and to get that little it takes him the time that unfits him for any other purpose and he becomes a subject of good or evil, but too often the latter. Now, if a young man gets from the public purse a good commercial education, it is a gift he can never repay, for it is to him far beyond price, and I question if there is a man on George-st. to-day who has anything more, if that. He talks about the poor man's children. He can't find a laboring man's family going into an Institute to learn latin and gibberage that is of use to only a priviledged few. The head master at the Separate School tells me that his boys have to turn out to work before they get fit to go to such a dandy place, and if they can get a good commercial education it is all they require, and if they want more he or she can easily get it.

Now, the taxing of the working man for a $50,000 building for those would-be professors to sit in comfortable positions, winter and summer, at an income of one hundred and fifty dollars a month, for that is what it would amount to, is going too far for Peterborough now and Peterborough in the future, and it all comes from the working man, yes, the working man, and for which in nine cases out ten he has no use for. I know one wealthy gent who paid taxes to the amount of $30 or $40, and if he had paid $5 per quarter it would have amounted to $160 per year. So with another rolling in wealth, went through the institution and paid no tax. Now as to the farmers. I asked a Smithtown farmer, "suppose your Reeve brought a motion into the County Council to tax the county for this eminent institute of learning, what would you say?" "Why he would not warm his seat there again," was the answer. And still if these same gentry has a friend living in town, there are one or two sent in and they become residents of the town and the farmer brings in a pound of butter, a bag of potatoes, and half a hundred of flour to board the boys and they pay no tax. The farmers know too much to be taxed for this fifty thousand dollar luxury. And, after all this fine outlay for those priviledged few, when they get all they want where do you find them? They skoot out of Canada into the United States of America. They don't stop here to help pay back some of their sponged treasures. The working man should come out in his might with his VOTE and say, "a commercial training is all we require and its all we will pay for." How many families in this town are getting and have got education who would scorn to sit in the synagogue with the very man who has sweat and bled to pay for his gibberage, and who is the best of the two? Why, the worker is the man. There is no man prizes education more than I do, but the workman is satisfied with what is useful, and not luxuries, for such it is. Now, sir, let the people get the county to consent to be taxed for the whole expenditure of this fine building and its maintenance, in all its bearings, and then there would be some sense in talking about these dainties, but to tax Peterborough land for things as "One of the People" wants, is an insult to the workingman. Pardon me, Mr. Editor. I could give you plenty of reasons and facts, but it would take too much space.

Thanking you for your kindness,
I remain,
Yours, etc.,

The Jersey City team has also made application for the first opening in the International Association, and will buy any franchise that can be got. It is thought that the s[illegible] of the Hamilton Club will deci[illegible] the franchise at the meeting to-night.

FRENCH FORTIFICATIONS.

Urgency Asked for the Port Defences Bill—The Nationalists' Primary Object.

PARIS, July 12.—In the Chamber of Deputies the committee appointed to inspect the defences at Cherbourg, Brest, and Toulon, submitted its report. The committee suggests that seabanks and other barriers be constructed on the roadsteads at Cherbourg and Brest. M. de Mahy asked the House to vote urgency for the consideration of the Port Defences Bill. Admiral Krantz, Minister of Marine, spoke of the importance of the measure, saying that its passage was an absolute necessity in order to render French ports secure against a coup de main. The bill will be considered to-day.

The Deroulede section of the Patriotic League will hold a demonstration in front of the Stratsbourg statue to-morrow. M. Deroulede in a circular says: "In occupying itself resolutely with home politics and adopting for the welfare of the country and the salvation of the Republic the program of the leader of the National party, Gen. Boulanger, the leader, has never for an instant lost sight of its primary object, namely, the restitution of Alsace-Lorraine." Gen. Boulanger met with a cordial reception at Fougeres. In a speech he advised his hearers not to cry "Vive Boulanger!" but "Vive la Republique!" and "Vive la Revision!"

In the Senate the Recruiting Bill was read a second time. The bill fixes the term of service in the active army at three years and in the reserves at six and a half years.

The Central Fair.

A meeting of the Directors' of the Central Fair was held on Wednesday afternoon. The subscription books showed that quite an amount had been collected. After going over the prize list to allott the specials, the meeting adjourned.

Fire.

A fire started about 3 o'clock this afternoon in the small brick house, on George-st. just south of Matthews' packing house. It is in progress as we go to press, but there is not much danger of it extending. The sheds and summer kitchen were destroyed.

Irish Cricketers.

It has been definitely decided that the Irish Cricketers will play a match here during their Canadian tour, the local club having acceded to their request for a one hundred dollar guarantee. Our citizens will thus have an opportunity of seeing some of the finest players in the world.

Another Alarm.

About half past four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon a fire alarm was rung out for a blaze at the C. P. R. hotel. This time a chimney was the cause. The firemen with their apparatus were out in remarkably quick order, but fortunately their services were not required. It appears that a ventilating pipe had recently been run from a water closet to the chimney. The wind blew down and it was feared that the woodwork of a shed would ignite. A very high wind prevailed at the time and many when they heard the alarm feared a large fire.

Forester's Excursion.

The members of Court Peterborough No. 29, C. O. F., have decided this year on holding one of their old time picnic excursions, the date of which is fixed for Thursday, 19th instant, and the retreat Jubilee Point. The tickets, the number of which are limited, are now in the hands of the members and committee, and from the rapid way in which the sales are being made, it will not be long until the limit is reached; therefore all those who wish to enjoy a genuine day's sport, a beautiful sail, and that bracing air of Rice Lake, should secure their tickets early and make their arrangements to attend this, THE PICNIC of the season. The Fire Brigade Band and full orchestra are engaged for the day. See hangers and future announcements for further particulars. 1d9-1w28

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

Flying Paper.

The flying paper nuisance on the streets was almost intolerable on Wednesday afternoon and sheets of it were flying in all directions, greatly to the discomfort of those who were driving mettlesome horses. Half a dozen attempted runaways are reported and in two or three cases it was only after considerable time and with considerable difficulty that the animals were restrained. The paper was of all kinds, old newspapers, wall paper, bags and scraps of all kinds, but the most numerous and at the same time the most dangerous pieces were those torn or blown from the bill boards, large thick sheets of which were noticeable in almost every direction. One such piece was blown through the Horticultural Park and another hovered around the market square until one of the police officers captured it and put it out of harm's way. This thing of sweeping out scraps on the streets has gone too far altogether and it is high time that the police took steps to find out who the offenders are and punish them.

Personal.

Detective Read, of the Hamilton Police force is spending his holidays in town with some friends. He will remain for a week or two. Of course he is delighted with the town.

The Hastings Star says:—"Mr. Joseph Gunyea removed to Peterborough on Tuesday, where he will carry on business on Charlotte-st. Joe was most courteous and obliging and made numerous friends while here, and no doubt many of the boys will call on him when they visit town. It is said that the vacancy caused by Joe's removal will not remain long unfilled."

The Brockville Recorder of Tuesday notices the presence in that town of Rev. Father Kelity, of Ennismore, who was a guest of Ver. Rev. Dean Gauthier.

Mr. Morrow, Inspector Inland Revenue is here on his annual official tour.

Mr. Hamilton, of Kingston, Inland Revenue Inspector is here to relieve Mr. Morrow. Mr. Hamilton is married to a Peterborough lady and is well known here. He has been kept busy since his arrival shaking hands with his many friends, who have been congratulating him on his healthy looks.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

QUITE A BREEZE.

The Wind Blows a Gale and Does Damage in Town and County.

There was quite a breeze on Wednesday afternoon and again during the night and Thursday morning. It came on suddenly and every person was surprised at the force it exhibited. The streets were clear in short order, the dust flew in clouds and many a pedestrian had a long and weari some run to recover his head gear.

Bill-boards in different parts of the town were blown down, fences were levelled to the ground, sheds were unroofed, many roofs had shingles torn off, brick chimneys were blown to the ground and for some time it was dangerous for pedestrians to show themselves on the streets for fear of being injured by some of the many missles which were flying in all directions. However, we have not heard of any serious damage being done.

Shade trees and fruit trees suffered severely. Some were uprooted while others were split or had limbs torn off. One of the large pines at the Central Park snapped like a pipe stem and another large tree near the residence of Mr. James Kendry was blown accross the sidewalk. Numerous similar occurrences are also heard of.

In the country standing crops such as potatoes were flattened out. In the orchards the fruit trees were in many instances almost stripped and the fruit scattered along the grounds. The damage done from this cause alone will amount to a considerable sum.

Some of the new buildings going up in town, of the balloon frame variety, were pretty well shaken. Some of the tall smoke-stacks swayed in all directions and the flag staffs with flags flying almost bent double. Many houses had shutters wrenched off and taken altogether the blow was of a variety that people do not care to experience oftener than they are compelled to.

Cricket.

The Peterborough colts won the cricket match at Lindsay, on Wednesday by three runs on the first innings. The score will be given to-morrow.

When You go Camping

The Carpenters.

We are requested to ask all the master carpenters in town to be present, without fail, at the meeting called for this evening, at Snowdon's Hall. Business of the utmost importance to them will come up.

A Smash.

One of the shop doors of Messrs. Elliott & Tierney, closed by the wind, shut with such force on Wednesday evening that one of the large lights of glass in the door was shattered to atoms.

On the Rampage.

A woman residing at the south end of the town complained to the police this morn that a cow had broken into her potato patch and destroyed it nearly all. She was told her remedy.

A Watery Want.

Rain is badly needed in this locality and many expected a fall in this locality on Wednesday. There was every indication of it until the wind rose and blew it over. Up north and down south the rain fell in torrents and did much good.

More Sold.

We understand that about a dozen of the lots unsold at the great sale of the Priest's property, on Tuesday, have since been disposed of at good prices. There are still some left but there are many persons looking for them.

Bicycle Meet.

The bicycle meet to-morrow night promises to be a success. The illuminated parade at the conclusion will be brilliant, as the different members of the club are vieing with each other as to who will have the prettist decorated wheel. The sports commences at eight o'clock. The band will be there in full force. Admission to the ground ten cents.

They go to Lindsay.

Canton Peterborough No. 10, have been invited by Lindsay Lodge No. 101, I.O.O.F., to go to Lindsay and take part in the ceremony on Decoration day, Tuesday next, July 17th. The Canton have decided to accept the invitation and will go in a body. A special train will be at their service leaving Peterborough at 1.30 p.m.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Fife and Drum.

It is as a general thing only about once a year that our citizens have an opportunity of listening to a fife and drum band and that one occasion is the 12th of July. This morning there were two, one from Smith and one from Campbellford in the line, and the brass bands had no show at all as far as public interest was concerned. The man who plays the big drum and uses both hands is a hero in the eyes of the small boy and the harder he pounds the sheepskin the greater hero he is in their estimation.

Miraculous Escape.

On Wednesday afternoon about 5 o'clock when the wind was at its height, a young man, a stranger in town, was passing by the arcade, just north of the City Hotel, when the large gate was suddenly blown out on the sidewalk. The passer by was struck with terrible force and was knocked almost across the road. Those who witnessed the occurrence ran to his aid, expecting to pick up a badly injured or dead man, but beyond suffering from a bruised knee and shoulder, he was not injured. His escape from death or serious injury was miraculous.

THE GLORIOUS 12TH.

The Orangemen of Peterborough and Vicinity Visit Port Hope.

This is the 12th of July, the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, and as usual it was right loyally celebrated by the members of the Orange order. The brethren of the Midland district, including those from Peterborough and vicinity visited Port Hope to take part in a great demonstration there.

At an early hour in the morning the Fire Brigade band left for Nassau, having been engaged to play by the lodge of that place.

About 9 o'clock the town lodges and a few from the country proceeded to Ashburnham, met the incoming train, formed into procession and marched through the town to the G.T.R. depot in the following order:—

Mounted Marshal G. W. Hall.
Lakefield Brass Band.
'Prentice Boys,
Banner
L.O.L. 90.
L.O.L. 1316.

Flag.
Fife and Drum band.
Smith L.O.L. 136.

Campbellford L.O.L. 636.
True Blues.

At the depot an enormous crowd was found waiting and four or five extra coaches had to be taken on to accomodate all who desired to go. A start was made shortly after 10 o'clock.

The Nassau Lodge never looked better, and the Fire Brigade Band was out in full force, twenty-one strong. The 'Prentice Boys made a small turnout, as did the True Blues, but they presented a fine appearance. Taken altogether the number in line, who left town, was not as large as usual.

To most children, the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. When physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take. Try them.

THE NEW SALVATION TEMPLE.

To be Opened in Grand Style in a few days by Prominent Officers.

The new Salvation Army temple on Simcoe-st. is about ready for occupation and it is pronounced one of the best and most substantial yet erected by the army in the Dominion. The building at present used for services, owing to the rapid manner in which the army has grown in Peterborough, has been found altogether too small to accommodate the numbers who desire to be present at the services and accordingly it was decided to erect a new structure.

Work was commenced early in the spring and it has been pushed ahead with assiduity, that it will be ready for the opening services on Saturday and the three following days.

The temple is an imposing structure and an ornament to the street and the town. It has a frontage of 50 feet on Simcoe-st. and extends back a distance of 90 feet. The front is in the shape of three towers, the centre one being higher than those on either side. These are capped with stone and galvanized iron trimmings and the effect is handsome.

The walls the height of the basement are of solid brick 14 inches thick and from that to the eaves 14 inches thick, with brick piers the full height. The temple is built like a regular military barracks, with all the necessary abutments. The front is of stone for a distance of eight feet from the ground, and the stonework of the whole building done by Mr. Mart Barrie is really first class.

In front there are three entrances, reached by flights of steps. The centre one is 5 ft. wide. The centre doors admit only to the main temple, while in addition to admitting to the main temple, the other doors also admit to the basement, by turning to the left upon entering and descending some.

The body of the Temple is the full size of the building, and when the seats, which are most comfortably made, are in position one thousand people can easily find accommodation. At the south end is the platform, and in the rear of it are seats ranged in tiers, one above the other for the officers, and members of the army. The building inside, ceiling and all, is sheeted with tongued and grooved lumber. The centre of the ceiling is square with a double cove on each side. All the woodwork has been handsomely painted, with the colors of the army, red, yellow and blue, which give a very pleasing tone and effect to the interior. Over the platform, on the ceiling, is a large representation of the coat of arms of the army.

Downstairs is the basement, 72x50 feet in size. This is finished the same as the main Temple, and will be used for holiness and soldiers' meetings, banquets, etc. In the rear are the quarters of the officers, 18x50 feet in size, divided into five rooms.

In the basement has been placed a large Pease furnace, for heating with steam and hot air both. The pipes run all around the building and should keep it comfortable on the coldest days. Gas is used throughout for lighting purposes and water pipes have also been laid.

In the ceiling and sides have been placed patent ventilators, different to any ever used here before, and which are said to admirably carry out what they are intended to do.

The work throughout has been done in a first class manner. None of it has been "slopped" over and for this the credit is mainly due to the army's building superintendent Mr. W. S. Sexton, Toronto and Mr. Edward Doole, his efficient foreman who has had charge of the work here since its inception.

The brickwork was done by Mr. E. Webb, who fully carried out his contract. The painting, carpentering, plumbing etc., were all done and done well too by the members of the army, mainly of the local corps.

It is estimated that the total cost of the lot and building when the latter is completed will reach $10,000.

Adjutant Bolton and the other officers in charge here are certainly to be congratulated upon the magnificent building they have erected and the Army in general deserve the highest credit for the manner in which they have supported their officers.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY.

Proceedings at the Regular Meeting at Port Hope on Tuesday.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at nine o'clock on Tuesday morning in the Presbyterian hall, Walton-st., Rev. Mr. Bell, Moderator, presiding. The ministers present were Revs. Messrs. Bennett (clerk), Cleland, Ewing, Cameron, McCrae, Jamieson, Carmichael, Craigie, McRay, McEwen, McKenzie, McLeod, MacWilliam, Turnbull. The elders present were Messrs. W. E. Johnston, Russell, Mitchell and Haig.

The minutes of the former meetings were read and confirmed.

It was reported that the pulpits of Baltimore and Coldsprings had been declared vacant as directed.

There was tabled a call from Brockville to Rev. W. A McKenzie, of Grafton and Vernonville, signed by 179 members and 76 adherents, and promising a stipend of $1,000 and manse. The delegates from Brockville were heard pleading for the translation, and delegates from Grafton and Vernonville asking that Mr. McKenzie be retained. Mr. McKenzie signified his acceptance of the call and the Presbytery agreed to the translation.

Rev. Mr. Cleland was appointed to declare the pulpits of Grafton and Vernonville vacant on Sunday, July 29th. Mr. Duncan was appointed Moderator of session during the vacancy.

The records of the session of Garden Hill and Knoxville and Grafton and Vernonville were attested as carefully and correctly kept.

The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in Cobourg, on the 4th Tuesday of September, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Permission was granted to Baltimore and Coldsprings to moderate in a call so soon as the congregation shall be prepared for the action.

The report on statistics was read and appointed to be printed for distribution in the congregations.

A Slight Mistake.

A gentleman from Toronto, who has recently located here, judging by the Metropolitan appearance of the town called at the post office, gave his name and number of his residence and requested that all mail matter for him in future be left at the address given. He was rather surprised when he found out that we have no free delivery and he asked very pertinently too, "how is it that a town of the size and importance of Peterborough is without letter carriers?" Echo answers. Why?

House Numbering.

Councillor Langford and his fellow councillors on the house numbering committee have struck the proper plan at last, one that we advocated when the project of street numbering was first broached. Plain tin, painted numbers such as are used in nearly all the cities have been procured for all the places in the limits to be numbered that are not already supplied, and these are to be put up at once by the town. The cost will be trival and the work, when completed will be highly appreciated by all, particularly by strangers.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in place of this stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Every one admires them, and just half the price I was asked for the same things in Toronto; but still, father dear, I must have the lamp."

say do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness, indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"I am sure of it; and I suspect her march through life has not been on velvet, though she looks wonderfully young and well. She comes of a handsome race;" and the old man sighed quickly. "The doctor ought to make her keep in-doors all the winter."

"Oh, my dear sir, that is impossible! She must keep up her connection. She could not afford to lose her pupils."

"Ay, that's it; that is a bad business," returned the general, thoughtfully. Then he asked some questions about Lisle, respecting whom he seemed rather curious, and sat for a considerable time. Then he suddenly started up, and begged pardon for occupying her time. "You see," he added, "I have nothing to do, and no one to care about. Mind you tell me when Madame Debrisay can see me, like a good girl."

* * * * * * *

Once out of bed, Mme. Debrisay made rapid progress. She had an excellent and an untried constitution; nor had her attack, though severe, been of the worst kind.

Mona was able to give General Fielden notice that her friend and patient was strong enough to "receive" sooner than she had hoped. He came immediately, and sat talking a long while. He evidently found himself comfortable and at home in the cozy sitting-room, while he imbibed his afternoon tea, and smiled grimly when Mme. Debrisay, whose spirits were reviving, laughed at his complaints, and told him he would be nearly quite well if he would only believe it, and that she would back him against Lisle for a day's shooting, if he chose to try.

Lisle had called twice. The first time, Mona was about to assist Mme. Debrisay into the sitting-room, and she was obliged to explain and dismiss him; the second, she was really out. When he perseveringly called a third time, he was partially rewarded. The tea-table was spread, and the presence of General Fielden procured him a tete-a-tete.

"I began to fear I should never see you again," said Lisle, in a low voice, drawing near Mona, who sat at work near the fire. "You are so heartless and cruel. You never give a fellow the least chance."

"Chance of what?" asked Mona, threading her needle.

"Of speaking to you alone."

"But I do not want to speak to you alone. I have nothing to say that the whole world might not hear."

"How hideously cold and unkind you are, Mona. Well, I have something to whisper in your ear alone, though, if you will listen favorably. I do not care how soon it may be proclaimed upon the housetops."

He leaned toward her, seeking to meet her eyes.

Mona's color rose, and then faded quickly, while she looked steadily at her work.

"Then do not say it," she replied, softly.

"Do you mean what you say?"

"I do."

CHAPTER XXIII.—UNCLE SANDY FINDS AN OLD FRIEND.

Back again at Craigdarroch, under the murky December clouds, back with the driving rain, and the wild wind weirdly sobbing among the solemn pine-trees and leafless oaks.

Winter on the west coast, though less bitterly cold than in other parts of the country, is gloomy and threatening. It was a dreary time for Mona. Mary Black had been recalled to her home. The smallness of the little group, isolated as it were on that rugged hill-side, and the feeling that it was a work of time, nay almost of danger, to escape to the comfort and companionship of a great city, created a sense of imprisonment exceedingly trying to the spirits.

Mona was quite ashamed of her own depression a little before Christmas. She felt as if she was forgotten by everyone. Lady Finistoun had written a pressing invitation to visit her at her home in Cumberland, when Mona was with Mme. Debrisay, which, under any circumstances, she would have refused, and since she had given no sign, neither had Lisle. And even Mme. Debrisay had not written for a fortnight. Mona had suggested a few weeks in Edinburgh to help them over the depth of the winter, but somehow Uncle Sandy did "not see it!"

There was nothing for it but to endure the inevitable routine.

Breakfast at nine, and a consultation with the cook; a spell of reading to her uncle; an escape to needle-work or music; dinner, after which Mr. Craig slumbered for a couple of hours, and Mona was free, if the weather did not permit of going out; a walk to the farm-yard or round the garden if it did; tea and the newspaper; more work or music on Mona's part, more sleep on Mr. Craig's; a little talk with Kenneth, then supper and bed. Day after day alike. Mona did not think she could live through another winter.

At last the post brought excitement—surprise—an entirely new set of ideas—in a letter from Mme. Debrisay.

MY DEAREST MONA:—I suppose you think me one of the most worthless and ungrateful women in the world! Well, just wait, and you will excuse me. My dear, imagine me writing behind a big fan to hide my blushes! About a week ago I had come in very tired from one of my first attempts to do my usual day's work, and was refreshing myself with a cup of tea, when in walked my general. I sent for another cup, and we sat down cozily together.

"'You are looking very ill,' he said, so staccato that he made me jump.

"'I dare say I am,' said I. 'It is fatiguing at first. In another week I shall be all the better for my work. It would do me small good to sit here alone.'

"That's true,' he returned, as if he felt the truth in the bottom of his heart; 'that's just what I think,' and we each drained a goblet—no, I mean a cup, so deep was our conviction! 'Still,' said he, as if out of his thoughts, 'I don't like to see you killing yourself.'

"'Indeed I do not want to do anything of the kind; life is still worth living for me.'

"'That's because you have a good heart!' he cried, fortissimo.

"'Don't flatter,' said I.

"'I do not—I never did,' said he. 'Now, I am rather lonely—so are you; suppose you come abroad with me and take care of me? It's not much of an offer to a handsome woman still in her prime,' said he, very civilly.

"'My dear general,' said I, 'what would the world say?'

"'We'll gag the world, my dear Madame Debrisay, if you have no objection to go through a little ceremony!'

"'Good gracious, general!' I cried, 'do you want to marry me?'

"'I do,' said he, very stoutly. 'I haven't much to offer you, but I can leave you enough for independence. We have both borne the burden of the day, so let us spend a peaceful evening together. I am a gruff sort of fellow, but not bad at heart; and I'll not growl more than I can help. Just turn it over in your mind, and I will come to-morrow for an answer. If you say yes, we might get things arranged, and start in ten days or so for Nice.'

"Well, dear, I have said 'Yes,' and I think I have done well. We are to be married at the registry office, as neither of us are at the romantic age when we might want to make a religious festival of it. Herr and Frau Nachtigall are to be my witnesses, and an ancient veteran, an old comrade of General Fielden's, is to be his. I think the dear old fellow is quite fond of me. He brings me presents every day; one time a pair of gloves lined with fur; then a watch (it belonged to his wife, I imagine, but it is good and pretty), then a warm cloak. He is strong in wraps, and is quite cheerful about being married. Well, Mona, I'll do my very best to make him happy and comfortable. He is a good soul and a real gentleman. He sends his love to you, and says he is quite ready and willing to adopt you at any time; so, dear, you have not lost me—you have kept me and gained another and a much more potent friend. Write and tell me what you think of all this. I shall long to see you, and Uncle Sandy must spare you to us when we come back to Paris in the spring.

"Always your loving friend,

"G. DEBRISAY."

To be continued.

DEADHEADS.

Two Kingstonians Attempt to Beat Their Passage Across the Atlantic and Back.

MONTREAL, July 12.—Albert Scott, a well-known cattle dealer of the Kingston District, was arrested on Tuesday with a lawyer of the same town, who gave his name as Simpson, on the arrival of the steamship Colina, on board which they had just arrived from Glasgow, Scotland. Mr. Scott had come on board the steamer Alcides with his friend at Three Rivers some two months ago, and when asked for his ticket said he had received the customary pass for cattle shippers for himself and companion, but had unfortunately lost it. He would, however, hand him a ticket on his arrival. He had secured a pass because he was just then shipping a large consignment of cattle by another of the company's steamers.

The captain agreed, but not only was the pass never delivered to him, but Scott and his friend took another passage on a similar pretext by the steamer Colina. The captain distrusted the two passengers and telegraphed to Mr. Reford, the company's agent here, and arriving at Rimouski Mr. Reford denied that any such pass had been issued and immediately saw Mr. Joseph Duhamel, Q. C., who caused a warrant to be issued for the two deadhead passengers, who were consequently arrested on their arrival. They settled by paying their fares out and back, and were discharged by Chief Hughes.

DOINGS IN THE DOMINION.

THE IRVING INQUEST AT TORONTO ADJOURNED UNTIL TO-NIGHT.

An 8-Year-Old Larcenist at Hamilton—A Fight at Montreal not According to Queensberry Rules—The Preeper Case.

TORONTO, July 13.—The inquest on Jennie Irving, the girl found in the bay last Saturday, was adjourned last evening until to-night on account of the absence of four jurors. The absentees will be summoned before the Police Magistrate for contempt. Jennie's twin sister and her uncle were here and will return to Bentwick Township today with the body which will be interred in the family burying ground.

Between 700 and 800 Chosen Friends from Ohio and New York came to the city on an excursion yesterday.

Mary Lawlor, a notorious woman, fired two shots from a revolver at a Young Britch band yesterday. She was arrested and remanded for examination.

John Parker, a deck hand on the steamer Rothesay, was drowned yesterday at noon.

E. Vanwicklin, an excursionist from Colborne and a guest at the Revere House, blew out the gas on retiring Wednesday night. When discovered he was insensible.

The celebration of the Twelfth was one of the most successful the Orangemen of Toronto have ever held. There were 6000 men in the procession which took 1 hour and 15 minutes to pass a given point. At Exhibition Park speeches were made by Prof. Goldwin Smith, Mayor Clarke, Dr. Wild, Grand Chaplain Sibbald, H. E. Clarke, M.P.P., and others, and the afternoon was filled out with games, music and dancing.

The National Division of Sons of Temperance elected these grand officers yesterday: Rev. R. Alder Temple, Halifax, N. S., M.W.P.; A. A. Baldwin, Milford, Conn., M.W.A.; B. L. Jewell, Boston, M.W.S.; Jas. Roberts, Boston, M.W.T.; E. R. Young, Bowmanville, Ont., M.W. Chap.; S. S. Patterson, St. John's, N.B., M.W.C.; E. B. Caldwell, Athens, Tenn., M.W. Sent.; E. H. Clapp, Boston, P.M.W.P. It was decided that the next meeting should be held at Saratoga in June, 1889.

Not According to Queensberry Rules.

MONTREAL, July 13.—A brutal fight took place in one of the Allan sheds on the wharf. The combatants were two carters employed by Mr. Quinn, master carter for the Customs Examining Warehouse. The fight arose out of an altercation about one of the men's horses, and several rounds were fought in defiance of all the rules of the Marquis of Queensberry. In the course of the scrimmage one of the men dealt the other a savage kick with his heavy boot while he was on the ground and smashed in a number of his teeth. When the injured man had returned to his team the other followed him, and dragging him to the ground again deliberately bit his ear off. He then took to his heels with a yelling crowd after him, while his unfortunate antagonist was removed home. The police know nothing of the matter.

An 8-Year-Old Larcenist.

HAMILTON, July 13.—Before the police magistrate yesterday William Freeman, a little lad of only 8 summers, was charged by John C. Smyth with the larceny of a dozen salt cellars from the China Arcade. The lad was arrested by Constable Bleakley and nine of the stolen articles were recovered. He admitted taking the salt cellars. The magistrate gave him a good talking to and allowed him to go.

The Preeper Murder Case.

MONCTON, N. B., July 13.—It is said there are some curious things in connection with the Preeper murder case yet to be revealed. The genuineness of Emily Dillman's alleged letters is denied in some quarters. Some of the jurymen who found Preeper guilty are talking of going out to Guysboro road to make a careful inspection of the spot where Doyle's body was found.

PROROGUED.

The Quebec Legislature Winds up its Work—197 Bills Passed During the Session.

QUEBEC, July 13.—By an early morning session of the Legislative Council to finish the discussion on the Debt Conversion Bill, which finally passed, the Legislature was able to prorogue yesterday according to the program laid down at the beginning of the week.

During the session, which began May 14, 197 bills of various kinds were passed, a number in excess of any former session of the Legislature.

Governor Angers formally closed the session with the customary ceremonies, which were deprived of some of their brilliancy by the bad weather, which prevented the usual attendance of ladies. The speech closing the session contained nothing of importance and consisted mainly of a review of the work of the session.

At 4.30 the Legislature formally prorogued to Aug 18.

The Ontario Mineral Appeal.

LONDON, July 13.—The Ontario mineral appeal was commenced before the Privy Council yesterday. The English Attorney-General, on behalf of the Dominion, not of the province, endeavored to establish three points: That the Indian lands had never been considered public lands; that they were not Crown lands; but that the Indian title had always been recognized.

A Market for Canadian Butter.

LONDON, July 13.—Mr. Lynch has concluded his enquires into the dairying of England, Scotland and Ireland. What he saw on the Continent convinced him that Canada will find a desirable market for butter here, despite the low prices, if such measures are taken as have raised the Canadian cheese industry.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

RUINED BY BAD ADVICE.

O'DONNELL TELLS HOW HE WAS MISLED BY LIBERALS.

He Desired that the Evidence Should be of the Fullest Nature, but was Over-Persuaded by Eminent Lawyers.

LONDON, July 13.—Frank Hugh O'Donnell in an interview said that up to February he had intended to treat his libel suit against The Times as a purely personal matter. At that time, however, Mr. Davitt wrote to him offering him every assistance in Mr. Parnell's power to further his interests. On finding that Mr. Parnell was willing to assist him, he felt himself bound to regard the representations put forward on behalf of the Parnellites for a better prosecution of the case. Down to a short time before the trial began, Mr. Parnell had agreed with Mr. Davitt and other prominent Parnellites that the more fully the case was fought in court the better it would be for the reputation of the Home Rulers. Immediately before the opening of the trial, however, he heard through Mr. Davitt that Mr. Parnell was listening to other advisers, that the Liberals were impressing upon him the necessity of adopting a more cautious policy. Last month he himself was persuaded to pursue the same over-cautious policy which had led to the collapse of the entire case.

He also desired that the evidence should be of the fullest nature, but two of the most distinguished Liberal lawyers gave him unsought advice, counselling him not to assist the defence in fishing for evidence. It was undoubtedly known that The Times had gone to great lengths, even with the Invincibles, whose hands were red with the blood of the Phœnix Park victims, in order to procure evidence. It was urged that The Times' own evidence ought to justify the libels. If any part of the case appeared to have been made out, Parnell, Davitt, McCarthy, Sexton and others should have gone into the witness box and stated the facts. Mr. O'Donnell continued:

"I am ruined in consequence of this action. I remain unable to understand how my eminent advisers proved so seriously wrong. All of the best and most straightforward and courageous Nationalists were heartily with me, desiring that the most complete inquiry be made. Through the over-cleverness of certain eminent advisers the case was ruined. Mr. Parnell, as regards the personal charges with reference to the letters ascribed to him, is entitled to consider the best course to be pursued in his own defence, but The Times' charges affect the party generally. My abortive contest with The Times more than ever proves that the true policy of the Nationalists is to demand a thorough investigation."

Dillon's Prison Discipline.

DUBLIN, July 13.—The prison officials deny that any change has been made in the treatment of Mr. Dillon in consequence of charges made that the death of Mr. Mandeville was due to privations he was compelled to undergo while in prison. They say the only relaxation of rules permitted in Dillon's case is that he is allowed to have books in his cells. He wears the prison garb, takes exercise in the yard with the other prisoners and at 6 o'clock every night is locked in his cell. His health is said to be good.

A Colonization Scheme.

LONDON, July 13.—The Parliamentary Colonization Committee waited upon Lord Salisbury yesterday, and urged that a Colonization Board be created and that the Government guarantee the payment in thirty years with 3 per cent. interest of whatever amount the public might subscribe to the colonization scheme in land, rent or stock. Lord Salisbury advised that the scheme be tried without State aid.

IS SHE A PRISONER?

A Sensational Story Concerning the Dowager Empress Victoria.

LONDON, July 13.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes some sensational correspondence from Berlin, under date of July 10, to the effect that the Friedrichskron Palace at Potsdam, where the Dowager Empress Victoria is living, is in all but name a prison, and the Empress is virtually under arrest. In any case she is receiving scant consideration from those who are now in power. It is presumed that the object is to bring influences to bear upon Her Majesty which will induce her to surrender her husband's papers.

The Doctors' Quarrel.

BERLIN, July 13.—The excitement created throughout Germany by the reports of the German doctors who attended the late Emperor Frederick is intense, and their criticisms of Dr. Mackenzie's conduct of the case form the sole topic of conversation.

The Kreuz Zeitung in its comments on the reports, overwhelms Dr. Mackenzie with invectives.

To the question why the German doctors did not attempt to save the Royal patient from Dr. Mackenzie, the National Zeitung responds that according to Prussian principles their official position in the tragedy prevented them from making an appeal to the public, but they did appeal to Emperor William while the sick man was at San Remo, and one of their number stated their case to him without reserve. His Majesty was deeply distressed by the recital of the circumstances, but answered: "My son is 56 years of age, and the right of final decision regarding his medical treatment cannot be taken from him."

The Progressists' Journal, which is inclined to defend Dr. Mackenzie, points to the fact that there were eight doctors concerned in the case who did not sign the report criticising Dr. Mackenzie.

It is announced that Doctors Bergmann and Gebhardt will receive the decoration of the High Class Order of Hohenzollern.

The Bundesrath to the Emperor.

BERLIN, July 13.—The Bundesrath has prepared a reply to the proclamation issued by the Emperor at the time of his succession to the throne. The reply expresses the fullest sympathy with the principles enunciated by the Emperor, and promises to give his policy the heartiest support.

Emperor William's Naval Escort.

BERLIN, July 13.—The fleet which will accompany Emperor William as an escort on his visit to Russia will be the largest that Germany has ever put to sea. It will consist of six ironclads, four despatch ships, four vessels of the training squadron, and a flotilla of torpedo boats.

Gambettists will Demonstrate.

PARIS, July 13.—On the occasion of the inauguration of the monument to Gambetta in the Place du Carrousel the whole of the garrison will parade, and President Carnot will deliver an address. The Gambettists hope that the demonstration will revive the waning prestige of the party.

The 12th in Ulster.

LONDON, July 13.—There were large gatherings of Orangemen in different parts of Ulster yesterday for the celebration. A well attended meeting was held in Glasgow.

The Otego Ashore near Pt. Colborne.

PORT COLBORNE, July 13.—The propeller Otego, formerly the City of St. Catharines, is ashore at the second point, about three miles east of here. She is loaded with black stone from Portage to Buffalo. She is not leaking, and expects to be lightened without damage.

FOUND WITH HER THROAT CUT.

A Fair Adventuress Supposed to Have Been Murdered by One of Her Victims.

OTTUMWA, Ia., July 13.—Alice Kelly, a fine-looking woman, about 25 years old, was found dead in the edge of the timber on the "old field," in the outskirts of the city. A horse and buggy standing hitched near attracted the attention of two passers-by, who found the body covered by a lap robe, the throat cut and the head badly pounded. Lying near was a razor and an iron bolt a foot long. Miss Kelly's first appearance here was June 13, when she registered at Dick's Hotel as from Detroit, Mich. Two weeks later she went to a private boarding house. Arrested for jumping a board bill, she escaped on a point of law.

She left her boarding-house, the proprietor refusing to keep her longer, and went to the Revere House, where she took supper. About 7 o'clock she engaged a buggy and drove alone to the greenhouse, where she got a bouquet, afterwards found on her body. An hour later she was seen on Third-street alone in the buggy. This was the last seen of her. The nature of her wounds show it to be a murder. She was a bright, bold woman, and the opinion prevails that the murder is the result of her attempting to blackmail somebody.

Her History in Detroit.

DETROIT, July 13.—Alice Kelly, reported murdered at Ottumwa, Ia., was notorious in many places in Michigan, where for a long time her actions kept a number of prominent men in hot water. She was a blackmailer by taste and profession, having a mania for that calling, and for the crime had served a sentence in the Iowa House of Correction. She had also been imprisoned in the Detroit House of Correction. After her release not long ago she went from one hotel to another, whence she was removed in each case by the proprietors as soon as her true character was discovered.

Her last Detroit sensation was her examination in the Probate Court for insanity, this being brought about by her persistent attentions on the street to Dr. George B. Malone, who caused her arrest. In this case she conducted her own defence and kept the Court in an uproar by asking the most indecent questions of the witnesses, many of them well-known citizens. Finally consenting to go to her sister's house at Ottumwa, she was declared sane and allowed to go.

Sunk in the River with their Throats Cut.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 13.—The body of an unknown woman has been found in the river opposite the Waterworks, a mile above the city. The location and the condition were almost identical with those attending the finding of the man's body the night before. The throat was cut in the same way, the feet were bound together and a huge stone attached as a sinker. The body had on a skirt, a basque and a pair of stockings, all of cheap material. She seemed to be about 30 years old and had short brown hair. The features are so distorted by decomposition that they can afford little help in identification. A farmer reported that a man and his wife were missing from a shanty boat lying near Charlestown Landing, on the Indiana side, fourteen miles above the city, and the sheriff has gone up to investigate.

The Bridegroom Could not Escape.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., July 13.—The climax of a romance was reached in Justice Mitchell's Court at a late hour at night. Mrs. Alice Space had been left at the very altar one week ago, at the house of a friend at Griggstown. Addison Lent had agreed to wed her. The parlors were filled with guests, and the clergyman stood with open book awaiting the bridal party, when the guests were informed that Lent had disappeared. He was found at midnight at the village tavern. The next day he disappeared, but Miss Space was on his trail. Lent was compelled to return to New Brunswick, where she was married to him by Justice Mitchell.

Iron Moulders in Council.

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—The eighth biennial session of the Iron Moulders of North America is in session in this city. The session will probably extend over five or six days, but there are no governmental questions of importance to come before the body. The main matter to be considered will be the appointment of a committee to wait upon the Manufacturers' Association in Pittsburg as to a schedule of uniform wages for the entire country. Mayor Francis, who had been invited to welcome the delegates, did not appear to do so, it is said, because a local labor organization passed resolutions asking the iron moulders to rescind the invitation to him to address them.

Tortured the Boy with a Strap.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Mrs. Emma Carleton, a determined looking woman of 40 years, was convicted before Recorder Smyth in General Sessions of whipping Albert Bowker, aged 14 years, with a shawl strap on June 17. She tied his legs together and whipped him with the strap until the boy was covered with red welts an inch broad. In some places the skin was broken. The boy declared that the defendant beat him for fifteen minutes without ceasing. The jury found her guilty of assault in the third degree, the punishment for which is not more than $500 fine and a year's imprisonment.

They All Went Insane.

PRINCETON, Ill., July 13.—The two grown daughters of Jacob Nye, a well-to-do farmer living eight miles south of Princeton, have been adjudged insane here and will be sent to Jacksonville for treatment. The father and mother and another daughter are also insane. The family of five were all stricken with this strange malady on the same day, and physicians are unable to account for the cause, as all were as well as usual a few days ago, and there had been no unusual excitement in the neighborhood. They spend their time singing and praying, and seem to fear being poisoned.

Cheaper Papers for Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 13.—A week ago The Chicago Times reduced the price of its daily edition from three to two cents. The Tribune has made a like cut. The News reduced its morning edition from two cents to one cent. The Inter-Ocean will cut to two cents in a few days. All the morning paper will then be sold for two cents except The News. About two years ago they all sold for five cents.

A General Break Expected.

PITTSBURG, July 13.—The amalgamated scale has been signed by Jones & Laughlin of the American Iron Works of this city, by the Gate City Iron Company of Gate City, Ala., and by the Lacking mill of Covington, Ky. The officers now look for a general break.

An Overworked Prelate.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 13.—Cardinal Gibbons, who has been overworked for the past month, left yesterday for two weeks' vacation in North Carolina.

Phinney Did it Himself.

BROOKLYN, July 13.—It has been ascertained that Gilbert Phinney, who said he had been shot early yesterday morning by burglars, committed the deed himself.

The Knives Went Round.

MARKDALE, July 13.—While two little boys, sons of Geo. Crow of this place, were amusing themselves about a mowing machine in front of one of our implement establishments, the elder turned a wheel to see the knives move while the younger, a lad of two years, put his finger in and had it taken off.

INCREASED IMMIGRATION.

40,323 SETTLERS IN CANADA DURING THE HALF YEAR.

Capt. Harston's Improved Accoutrements—Departmental Changes—The Ayer Case to be Appealed.

OTTAWA, July 13.—Adjutant-General Powell has received a set of improved accoutrements, the invention of Capt. Harston of the Royal Grenadiers who is now in London trying to get the Imperial authorities to adopt his patent. The most radical change is at the back where the sallie goes to the top instead of the bottom, the canteen coming next, with the overcoat underneath. The new arrangement is said to distribute the weight more evenly than the old one. In front and on each side of the waist belt, are cuff cartridge pouches holding together seventy rounds of ammunition and two pouches on the shoulder belts hold twenty-nine. Some exception may be taken to these latter as interfering with the free action of the rifle, but on the whole the changes seem to be good.

It is understood that Lieutenant-Colonel White will shortly resign command of the 43rd Battalion on account of his promotion to the Deputy Postmaster-Generalship preventing his devoting sufficient time to the regiment.

Dr. J. C. Tache, Deputy Minister of Agriculture has been superannuated and John Lowe, Secretary of the department, who has been acting as deputy for several years past, has been promoted. It is understood that the position of secretary will not be filled.

The contract for the erection of the public buildings at Pembroke has been awarded to Munro, Beatty & Grive of that place, whose tender was the lowest.

The storm Wednesday was very severe here, and after six o'clock Ottawa was entirely cut off from telegraphic communication west, and but a few wires worked east. During the storm two men were blown from the fourth story of the new Banknote Building and seriously though not fatally injured.

Immigration returns for June show 14,780 arrivals during the month, of whom 6,510 settled in Canada and 9,170 were passengers to the United States. During the first six months of the current year the total arrivals have been 84,543 as compared with 70,745 for the same period last year. The number of settlers in Canada has been 40,323, an increase of 4,177 over the same period last year.

The Hull Relief Committee commenced yesterday the distribution of $12,000 in money and several thousand more in lumber, etc., contributed for the benefit of the sufferers by the late fire. As careful an estimate as possible has been made of the loss and a percentage will be paid to each. The amount to each individual will not be large, but small as it is it will be a great help to those who lost their all by the fire. The distribution will probaby take two or three days.

Comptroller White of the Northwest Mounted Police says that no disquieting news in regard to the doings or movements of half-breeds of the Northwest has been received. The Metis received some little assistance in the spring and are now gathering in their crops, being perfectly contented and quiet.

There is no new development with respect to the trouble in the Guards. All the officers with two exceptions are said to have sent in their resignations, and if they are not accepted by Col. Macpherson it is understood the officers will forward their resignations to headquarters. It is understood that there is to be a meeting of the officers to consider the situation, and if amicable arrangements cannot be arrived at it is possible that the friendly mediation of General Middleton may be invited.

Mr. Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, says the Toronto municipal authorities have not furnished the statistics concerning alleged pauper immigrants which they were asked to do. He says it is true that some of the lower classes from the East End of London were among the immigrants in the commencement of the year but they were not altogether an undesirable lot.

Hon. Mr. Thompson, Minister of Justice, left for Antigonish yesterday for his holidays and Hon. Mr. Bowell is now the only Minister in the city.

It is understood that it has been decided to appeal to the Supreme Court against the decision of Chief Justice Ritchie in the Ayer case.

Application has been made to the Department of Justice for the extradition of two men named Cottaran and Gallagher held at St. Albans for robbery.

No Celebration at the Capital.

OTTAWA, July 13.—There was no celebration of the Twelfth here, but about 600 Orangemen and Young Britons went to Carleton Place and took part in the demonstration there in which over thirty lodges aggregating fully five thousand participated.

Taken on the Streets.

HAMILTON, July 13.—Elizabeth Kelly, a 16-year-old girl, was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Bridget Kelly, her mother, who had charged her with being a common vagrant, without home or visible means of support. The mother said that she had tried to induce the girl to stay at home and behave herself, but she would not, but persisted in walking about the streets day and night, and living she knew not how. She wished to have the girl sent where she would be taken care of and taught something. At present the defendant can neither read nor write. She was sent to the Mercer Reformatory for twenty-three months.

Strike at the Hamilton Screw Factory.

HAMILTON, July 13.—About fifteen girls working at the Screw Factory have struck for an advance in their wages of five cents per day. The girls working on the threading machines received five cents a day more than the girls on the shavers, which is considered by the latter an injustice as the amount of work performed by both is about equal. Their request for equal pay being refused by the manager they struck. The difficulty is not settled yet.

A Cowardly Scoundrel's Work.

PARIS, July 13.—The men engaged in sawing the lumber for Mr. D. A. White, near Canning, Blenheim Township, have had an experience not common to mill men. About two weeks ago they sawed through an iron the size of a harrow tooth, which ruined the saw and occasioned much loss of time. This week they ran on to a file which bent the teeth and stopped the saw under a full head of steam. After replacing the saw, the handle end of a file was grazed in another log. Suspicion rests upon a man who was heard to say that Mr. Disher would have trouble before he finished the work.

Through a Trestle.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 13.—A terrible accident occurred on the Virginia Midland Railroad early yesterday morning. The through Southern train that left here at 11.25 last night went through a trestle between Orange Courthouse and Barboursville, a distance of fifteen feet, killing five persons outright and wounding about 25, some seriously.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1888.

THE FARMERS' POSITSON.

DOLEFUL articles of great length have appeared in one of the Toronto papers time after time professing to explain to the farmers of Canada, and especially of Ontario, the terrible plight they were in because this country had not a commercial union with the United States. The Globe has also taken part in the same work, and the two, the Globe and Mail, pulling in the same harness but glaring fiercely at each other, have wrung the changes on the helpless and hopeless condition of the farmers. What the farmers wanted, both have told us over and over again, was free access to the markets of the United States so they could sell their grain there.

But recently the Globe received new light. A letter from Lennox furnished the illumination, and forthwith the Globe proclaimed that the farmers of Ontario needed access to the United States markets, not to sell their grain, but to buy cheaper grain to feed to their starving cattle! The cattle, it said, were suffering, and nothing would save them but the removal of the duty in order that cheaper grain might be imported from across the lines to feed to them.

The absurdity of imported corn being necessary in July to keep cattle alive should be apparent. At any rate it surely is not possible that the United States offers dearer markets in which Canadian farmers can dispose of their grain and at the same time cheaper markets in which they can purchase it for their cattle. And if the duty on importations of grain prevents it from being brought in, has not the farmer got protection as well as the manufacturer, though the opponents of the National Policy have said he had not? The farmer would have some difficulty in understanding his position if he had to depend on these advocates of unrestricted reciprocity for information regarding it.

THE Montreal Gazette says:—"Mr. Mercier's repeated promises of economy in the administration have resolved themselves to this: an increase in the number and salaries of Cabinet ministers, an increase in the indemnity of members of the Legislature from $600 to $800 a year, and an increase in the general expenditure from $3,026,233 in 1885-6 to $3,277,359 in 1888-9, an addition of three and a half millions to the debt, and a promise of railway subsidies approximating three and a quarter million dollars, to meet which it will be necessary to issue another loan and to add to the burden of interest the province has to bear. He has increased taxation once already, and within two years, if he remains in power, will find it necessary to do so again."

THE Rev. Dr. Sutherland, the leader of the Third or prohibition party, which was organized at a meeting in Toronto, says that his party still lives and will be active when another general election comes on. The Montreal convention, he explains, by deciding not to form a political party, left the prohibition party already in existence free to act.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Correspondence of the Review.

NEW WHARF.—We have at last got our wharf built.

RIVER DRIVERS are still here, but expect to be out this week.

THE HIGH WIND of Wednesday last has blown down a number of trees, including a very fine maple of Mr. Kennaley's.

PERSONAL.—Jas. R. McCrea, of Staten Island, is in Keene on a visit.—Messrs. Thompson and Cameron, representing the Sun, and Ontario Life Insurance Co'ys, respectively, were in Keene this week.

WEDDING BELLS.—Old dame rumor has it that another wedding will take place north of us before long.

OUR LAKE RESORT.—"Idyl Wild" is fast becoming the finest spot on Rice Lake, under the popular management of Mr. H. Chester. Since taking charge, Mr. Chester has put in a lot of games and swings, see-saw, etc.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you may depend upon this for certain.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens o glass works.

HAMILTON WILL STICK.

The Ambitious City Remains in the International Baseball Association.

HAMILTON, July 13.—A meeting of the shareholders of the Hamilton Athletic Exhibition Company was held at the City Hall last night. The President, Mr. J. Patterson, occupied the chair and presented a financial statement which showed that the club needed from $2,500 to $3,000 to carry the team through the season, and unless this amount was subscribed it would be impossible to go any further. Messrs. J. Crerar, J. J. Mason and J. M. Lottridge spoke in favor of trying to raise money by subscription, and it was finally decided that a committee consisting of Messrs. Stinson, Skinner and Crerar, along with the directors, call on all the prominent men in the city and see what could be done. On Mr. Lottridge's suggestion it was decided to start the subscription list then and there, himself heading the list with $100 and a promise of another if it was needed. Four hundred dollars was subscribed and things generally present an appearance that the team will go safely through the season. Among those who subscribed were Peter Wood and J. B. Rainey. The directors informed the shareholders that under no condition, if the amount was subscribed, would any of the players be dispensed with.

Masonic Notes.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"On Friday evening Faithful Brethren lodge, No. 77, A. F. and A. M., was officially visited by Bro. Shortly, D. D. G. M., accompanied by Worshipful Bro. Hart, of Toronto. There was a good attendance of the brethren of the mystic tie, and a pleasant and profitable evening was spent. Bro. Graham may well feel proud of the lodge and his officers, when they are so highly complimented as they were by the D. D. G. M."

A Small Fire.

On Thursday afternoon a telephone message was sent in for a fire in the first ward. The brigade was soon on the move and found flames issuing from the shed in the rear of a small brick house, just south of Matthews' packing house. The firemen soon had too streams bearing on the fire, which was extinguished after the kitchen and shed had been pretty well gutted. The roof of Matthews' smoke house was also burned. The house was occupied by a French family named Lefaivre. The loss will amount to probably $200, which is covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Not Neighborly.

A woman from the outskirts was at the police station to-day to prefere a complaint against the wife of a neighbor. It appears that the two families reside next door to each other and use one pump in common, the same landlord owning both houses. In order to get water, woman No. one has to pass through the yard of woman No. two. The latter recently objected to this and when No. one went to get a pail of water on Thursday, it is alleged that No. two struck her in the face with a butcher knife and in support of the allegation she showed a slight scratch on her right cheek. The matter will probably be ventilated in the court.

Six Months Each.

Daniel Burgess celebrated the 12th of July by raising a row at the Protestant Home, where he has been living for some time. After he had broken some windows and done other slight damage, a telephone message was sent to the police station. Officer Stewart went up and arrested Daniel. At the court this morning he was sent up for six months....William Kitely hailed originally from the vicinity of Keene, but for several years, with the exception of short intervals his place of abode, has been the gaol. He is of unsound mind and is the man who walked away from the gaol some years ago to look for his wheelbarrow. He was sent down from Apsley, where he was found wondering around almost naked, about a month ago and was only liberated this morning. He pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was sent up for a six month's term.

Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

C. L. R. R.

Excellent progress is being made with the work of grading the C. L. R. R. The men have finished over three miles and are pushing ahead rapidly. It is understood that they will follow the old Cobourg road line to the lake, instead of turning into the village as was contemplated at one time. The reason given is that sufficient inducements are not offered to make it pay the company to divert the line.

St. Leon Water.

The marvellous results from the use of St. Leon Water in Rheumatism, Constipation and all diseases arising from a torpid liver is testified to by hundreds of grateful drinkers of the water. References are kindly permitted to N. T. Laplant, Frank Bell, Rev. Father Lynch and many other prominent citizens. Sold by the glass and gallon or aerated by Taylor & Macdonald, Druggists, sole agents. d140-w25

The Carpenters.

There was a good attendance of master carpenters at the meeting in Snowden's hall on Thursday night. After those present had expressed their views on the matter of the present attitude of the bricklayers and stonemasons regarding sub-contracts, a series of resolutions were passed setting forth the opinions of the master carpenters and builders. The full text of these will be published as soon as they are properly signed.

Chorus of Children.

If there is anything as sweet as the laughter of children it is the singing of children. On the evening of July 19th, in the Opera House, a concert will be given at which choruses will be sung by forty girls and a number of boys, who have been trained by Mr. Dingle. The children will be dressed in character and the ballads are set to popular music. Mrs Daly and other popular vocalists will give solos. The concert promises to be very successful and will be a rich treat. 2d10

OF THE REVOLUTION WHICH PLACED WILLIAM III. ON THE THRONE.

The Peterborough Orangemen Join in the Celebration at Port Hope—A Large Procession—Addresses in the Open Air.

After marching through the town on the morning of Thursday, July 12th, the Orangemen of West Peterborough boarded the special Grand Trunk train which left at about 10 o'clock for Port Hope. In addition to those from this county, the Campbellford lodge was on the train. At Fraserville, Millbrook and Garden Hill more Orangemen and their friends were taken on, and at Millbrook a well filled train from Lindsay was passed. Soon after these trains arrived at Port Hope the procession of the day was formed on the market square and proceeded through the principal streets and back to the place of beginning. The order of the procession was as follows:—

The streets through which the procession passed were crowded with spectators. The Peterborough contingent looked well, but the Nassau Lodge, with its stalwart members and uniform dress, was the best looking lodge, and the 57th Band was the best in the procession. Having returned to the market square, the brethren dispersed for dinner.

THE ADDRESSES.

At three o'clock in the afternoon Mr. R. H. Holland, District Master of Port Hope, took the chair on the platform at the Town Park, which was surrounded by an immense audience. On the platform also were the Rev. John Shaw, D. D., Toronto; Messrs. John White, ex-M.P., P.G.M., Roslin; Wm. Johnson, P.G.M., Belleville; E. Gordon, G. T. Q. E. Tweed; Rev. Dr. O'Meara, Rev. J. B. Carkson, M.A., H. A. Ward, M.P., and T. D. Craig, M.P.P., Port Hope.

The CHAIRMAN in opening the proceedings remarked that they were celebrating the two hundredth anniversary of the revolution of 1688 and the three hundredth of the destruction of the Spanish armada. He read four resolutions which would be spoken to. The first returned thanks to God for having risen up William III., for the revolution of 1688 and for securing the blessings of civil and religious liberty. The second expressed thanks for the privileges secured and a determination to combat the pretensions of the church of Rome. The third recognized the paramount importance of education and of the Bible as the highest standard of moral guidance, and asserted the necessity for giving it a place in the schools. The fourth declared fealty to the crown and constitution, and noticed with alarm attempts being made across the Atlantic and in Canada to weaken British influence and to dismember the Empire, which they would resist.

Mr. JOHN WHITE was the first speaker. He endorsed the resolutions and dwelt upon Orange incorporation and the position of French-Canadians in Quebec. He dealt with prohibition, advocating compensation, condemned commercial union, but favored commercial reciprocity with the United States in natural and manufactured products. He thought Canada was too much governed.

Mr. WM. JOHNSON complimented Port Hope on the success of the demonstration. As an illustration of the state of affairs in 1688 he exhibited a specimen of the brass money issued by James II. He briefly referred to the landing of William at Torbay, and the results of the revolution.

Rev. DR SHAW gave an historical review of Ireland. Protestantism, he said, was the bulwark of liberty. He pointed to the political influence of the Catholic Church as a danger to be guarded against, and read extracts of Roman Catholic works to show the intolerant spirit of the church. He spoke eloquently at some length, and was frequently applauded.

Mr. H. A. Ward and Mr. T. D. Craig also gave short addresses. The resolutions were then put and cerried and the audience dispersed after giving the usual cheers.

The Peterborough contingent left for home at 5.30 and arrived at about 7.30. They then formed in procession and marched to the Ashburnham station, when the Lakefield and Nassau lodges embarked for home, after which they returned to the Orange Hall and dispersed.

Mr. Oaway Carver, of North Monaghan, left at this office a sample of barley taken from the field on Wednesday of this week, which is plump and clear.

As It Should Be.

A culvert for passing fire hose through has been constructed under the C. P. R. track, near the depot. The same should be done at every point where the railways cross the streets.

Badly Needed.

George-st. from Smith-st. south for some blocks is being water tabled and rounded up in the centre. This street is used more than any other in town and has received very little attention of late.

The Temple.

The proceedings in connection with the opening of the new Salvation Army Temple will commence to-morrow and continue during Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. A large number of officers and soldiers from all parts of the district will take part.

The Proper Credentials.

The Purser of the N. D., A. C. A., Mr. S. Britton, Lindsay, is distributing to canoeists, members of the division, badges and certificates for reduced fares on the G.T.R. Those who are entitled to the badge and certificate will know the use to make of the same. A good many canoeists are making preparations to attend the meet, commencing on the 23rd inst.

THE cry is general that The Pantry takes the lead in the Tea Trade. d7-tf

A Railway Suit.

We understand that an action has been entered against the Grand Trunk by Mr. Nehemiah Lush, for damages in running through a piece of land owned by him, just north of Antrim-st. The company made an agreement with Mr. Henry Lush the occupant and reputed owner of the property and went ahead with the work of grading but Mr. N. Lush claims that he is the owner of the property in question and hence he asks for damages.

Run Over.

On Thursday afternoon a little boy named Cluxton, a son of Mrs. George Cluxton, about seven years of age, was run over by the hose wagon, near the C. P. R. track. The young chap was watching an engine shunting and did not observe the wagon until he was knocked down. The wagon was empty and one of the wheels passed over the boy's foot. Cold water was applied at the depot and the sufferer taken home in a cab. He was not seriously injured. The affair was purely an accident and no person is to blame.

Cricket.

Mr. R. B. Rogers has been chosen as one of the players to represent the Eastern Association in the match on Monday and Tuesday next.

Peterborough is expected to play at Ottawa on August 27th.

The match between the county of Ontario and the Peterborough club commenced on the P. A. A. A. grounds this morning and is in progress as we go to press. The visitors have a strong eleven and they scored 90 runs for six wickets. The scores will be given to-morrow.

The Commissioners.

The Lindsay Post says:—"The steamer Dawn of Lakefield, under command of Capt. Eden, arrived in port Wednesday afternoon, with the members of the Trent Valley commission on board. A critical examination of the whole water system is now being made. Thursday morning the Dawn with the party on board left for Fenelon Falls, from which point another steamer will convey the commissioners over the upper waters....Capt. Eden is courteous and obliging, and was kept busy showing visitors the beauties of his trim little vessel."

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

Dr. O. W. Weeks, Marion, O., says:—"In use is followed by results satisfactory both to patient and physician."

Church Notes.

At the meeting of the Lindsay Presbytery at Sunderland, on Monday last, it was decided that Rev. Dr. McTavish, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Lindsay, be allowed to go to the Central Church, Toronto. The pulpit of St. Andrew's will be declared vacant on the first Sunday in August. As is usual in such cases the final decision was left to Dr. McTavish, who considered it his duty to accept the call The pastorate of the Central Church is one of considerable importance and it is a recognition of the eminent ability and earnestness of Rev. Dr. McTavish that he has been called on to take such a responsible charge.

If the Sufferers from Consumption, Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr H. V. Mott, Brentwood, Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable. Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

—Lindsay Warder:—"During the heavy windstorm on Thursday last week, Mrs. Weetaw, widow of the famous Indian Chief of Chemong Lake, was a passenger on the safe and commodious Esturion coming up Sturgeon Lake. She became much agitated, and again and again expressed her wish to Capt. Lane to have her own little canoe. There she would be at home and, in her opinion, safe. Such is confidence and faith."

To most children, the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. When physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take. Try them.

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in place of this stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Every one admires them, and just half the price I was asked for the same things in Toronto; but still, father dear, I must have the lamp."

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences, especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia, and other throat and lung troubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief, and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use, and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1888.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

Mona read this important communication with sincerest pleasure. "I will go and write a letter of congratulation, and I will send her poor grannie's cat's-eye and diamond bracelet for a wedding present; it is the prettiest thing I have. I wonder will my uncle think of giving her anything?" Here that gentleman's stick was heard tap-tapping as he approached after an expedition to the poultry-yard with Kenneth.

"Oh, Uncle Sandy!" she cried, as he came in and threw himself into his particular chair, "I have just had a letter from Madame Debrisay. She is going to be married."

"Married! Aweel, there's nae fule like an old fule! I'll be bound she's goin' to tak some lad that might be her son!" he exclaimed, with severe contempt.

"You are wrong, uncle; she is going to marry General Fielden—who must be fifteen or twenty years older than she is—a nice old gentleman, who wants someone to take care of him and make his last days comfortable; so they think it wiser and more respectable to be married."

"That sounds mair reasonable. Has the general ony siller? These soldier men scatter mair than they gather. It's just a misfortin' to the country to have the like o' them to support."

"He is not rich;" returned Mona, leaving her uncle's abstract observation unanswered, "but fairly well off at least for all they will want. I am very, very glad of this news; for though dear Madame Debrisay has worked so hard, I do not think she has laid by anything, and the time will come when she can work no more."

"That's true, Mona; but it's no every young lassie would think o't, an' it mak's me think o' yoursel'. I'll not forget you, my dearie; and I'll no put it off ony mair. I'll go doon to Glasga', the week after next, and see Mr. Cochran—that's my man o' business—about puttin' a codicil to my will. Ye see, I hoped and hoped you and Kenneth would mak' it oot together. I wished ye baith to profit by my bits o' property—but that's a' ower."

"Dear uncle, you must think of Kenneth first; then, if you like to remember me, I shall be very grateful."

"I'll not forget ye! But you mauna anger me; ye do sometimes. You are a braw lassie—that I am not denyin'—but ye think too much o' yoursel'—you think nae man good enough for ye. There's yon baronet—Sir St. John Lisle—he'd ask you to-morrow if you'd let him! I am auld and cauld, but I'm no sae dottled that I canna read what's in a mon's een—and he's a gran' gentleman. I'd like the folk to see Sandy Craig's niece 'her leddyship.'"

"But, uncle, I thought you despised and disapproved of titles?"

"Eh, they are just senseless toys, but I canna pit them oot o' the world, and I like the best o' a' things to come to me and mine! Then a fine rich man wouldna care for a tocher wi' his wife, and so I'd hae mair for Kenneth—wha must marry some gude, respectable, well-to-do lassie, wha will need siller wi' her mon."

"Ah, well, uncle, it will be time enough to talk about refusing Sir St. John Lisle when he asks me! Now I am going to write to madame—what shall I say for you?"

"Eh, my best respects, an' I hope a blessing will licht on her new undertaking. But I see the boy coming wi' the bag; he'll hae the Scotsman, nae ye must read a bittie first. I'm varra keen to see how the election at Clachanbrig has gane—I'm fearin' it will be against the Liberals."

Mona therefore had to restrain her ardor, and wade through long columns of local politics, before she could pour out her warm congratulations to her beloved Deb.

A brisk interchange of letters ensued—extremely brief on Mme. Debrisay's side. Then came a pause, and the announcement in the Times—"On the 29th, at the Registry Office, Paddington, General Fielden—to Geraldine, widow of the late Arthur Debrisay, formerly Captain in the Kaiserin Marie Therese Hussars.—No cards."

It gave Mona a little additional sense of loneliness to think that sea and land stretched so widely between "Deb" and her herself, for, after all, Deb was her mainstay.

* * * * * * * *

Mr. Craig's intention of journeying to Glasgow was postponed because he caught a very severe cold, and was obliged to keep his bed. This was a very trying time to the household, as the old man thought he was going to die, and demanded endless attention. It was therefore in the last week of January that, encouraged by a favorable change of weather, he set out on his travels. He only intended to be away two clear days, but on the morning of the second Mona received a few almost illegible lines from him saying that he did not expect to get away till the following Saturday.

Of this welcome breathing space Kenneth took advantage to pay a flying visit to his Mary—leaving early one morning, and returning late the following night—an interval of utter loneliness which was most depressing to Mona.

Saturday broke brightly, full of promise for a fine day. Already a breath of spring came with the sea breeze to cheer and invigorate.

Before Kenneth and Mona had risen from the breakfast-table, where they had sat longer than usual talking of Mary, and discussing how and when the subject of Kenneth's marriage with her could best be broached to Uncle Sandy, a telegram was put into Mona's hands from that potentate—"Will bring a gentleman with me. Best bed-room."

"Who can it be?" said Kenneth.

"The lawyer, most likely," returned Mona.

"I don't think he would give Mr. Cochran the best bed-room."

"If 'the coming man' is to have the best room, he must have a good supper. I shall see Phemie at once. The idea of a stranger guest is positively exciting! There are some grouse in the larder; if you would take the nets, Kenneth, and get some fish, I think I could manage a respectable dinner—yes, dinner it shall be. Oh, Kenneth!" with a sudden look of dismay, "suppose it is Sir St. John Lisle!"

"And what for should it not be Lisle? He is a fery nice man, and thinks fery much of you, Mona. I daur say it will be Lisle."

"I hope not. He is frightfully particular, and rather an epicure. But it cannot be! What would bring him up here at this season?"

"May be to see you, Cousin Mona."

"He would not take that trouble," she said, more to herself than to her companion, as she left the room to hold high council with the cook—to see to the rubbing up of what silver her uncle possessed—to interview the gardener—to set Jessie to prepare the best room, and keep up a good fire therein.

It was reviving to have something to do—something to anticipate. Even if the nameless visitor proved to be Lisle, he would be welcome after such an unbroken spell of monotony.

The rest of the day was busily employed till the shades of evening began to close—then having seen the table set and duly decorated with flowers; the claret placed in the temperature where it was to be drunk; the drawing-room made pretty, and good fires everywhere, Mona retired to dress.

"If it is Captain Lisle I need not look a fright," she thought; "if it is a stranger, my uncle will be pleased to see me at my best."

To be continued.

THE MANITOBA ELECTIONS.

Latest Returns—The House Will Stand, Ministerialists 33, Opposition 5.

WINNIPEG, July 13.—There will be only five of the Opposition in the next legislature, which consists of 38 members.

The latest intelligence says that Prendergast is elected in Woodlands by 30 majority, Gelley in Cartier, Laghmodiere for La Verandrye and Jerome for Carillon. These are supporters of the Government.

O'Malley (Con.) is elected for Lorne, instead of Macdonnell as first stated.

Recounts will be asked in Kildonan and St. Boniface.

Elected to the Northwest Council.

WINNIPEG, July 13.—Paxton and Betts are elected to the Northwest Council for Prince Albert.

The Teacher Paid the Costs.

WATERLOO, July 13.—A 10-year-old lad named Dorst of Wilmot made use of insulting language to his teacher, Mr. Kuntz, the other day in the school room during regular school work. Mr. Kuntz punished the boy, according to the parents' story, very severely. Mr. Dorst had the teacher summoned before J. P. Devitt on a charge of too severely chastising the lad. After a lengthy review of the affair the case was settled by Mr. Kuntz paying the costs of the court.

Russia's Plenty and India's Sufficiency.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 13.—The exports of breadstuffs from Southern Russia during the coming autumn are expected to be enormous. Reports from Odessa indicate a harvest of immense promise.

LONDON, July 13.—Advices from India say the crop prospects are improving. The drought has ceased and a famine is no longer feared.

Beaverton Hotels Closed.

BEAVERTON, July 13.—The hotel keepers have closed up the hotels and will take holidays until further notice. They have come to the conclusion to close up their houses and sheds, and find out how the temperance party will like the move. The action is particularly hard on commercial travellers.

Trouble Brewing.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 13.—Serious trouble is brewing between the whites and blacks in Crittenden County, Arkansas.

THE METROPOLITAN GROCERY,

T. W. ROBINSON, MANAGER.

The Manufacturers' Life Ins. Co'y.

The Bulletin of Life and Accident Insurance says,—'Phenomenal' will but faintly express the success of th great company. During the month of May just past applications have been received at the head office for about $680,000 insurance, a result we venture to affirm never before attained by any life insurance company in one month in the middle of their fiscal year. This enormous business is being done without any undue pressure.

"The liberality of its contracts and eminent fairness of its plans, no less than the substantial names appearing on its lists of officers and directors, contribute to its wonderful growth. It is confidently believed that its business this year will be, not only larger than that of any company in Canada, but larger by far, than has ever been secured by any company in the world in the same time in proportion to the population. This is something for a home company to be able to say. It is a credit to the Dominion, as well as to the far-sighted business men, who have stood at the helm of its affairs since its organization."

THE "Q." DYNAMITE PLOT.

THE ALLEGED CONSPIRATORS ON TRIAL AT CHICAGO.

United States District Attorney Ewing Outlines the Case of the Government—Some Very Secret Business.

CHICAGO, July 14.—An outline of the case against the members of the Brotherhood of Engineers and Firemen accused of complicity in the dynamite plot against the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad was presented in court yesterday by United States District Attorney Ewing. Six of the accused—Chief Baueriein, Goodring, Wilson, Bowles, Broderick and Smith—were present. The statement made by the District Attorney was apparently based largely on a confession made by one of the six, Alex. Smith. District Attorney Ewing said:

"I think it will appear from the evidence that on or about May 29 last at the town of Eok, four or five miles from Aurora, there was a dynamite cartridge placed upon the track of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road and exploded. The evidence will also show that after the explosion at Eok, Bowles, one of the accused, went into the room of Chairman Hoge of the Brotherhood and showed him a number of dynamite cartridges, and that they talked there about the use of these cartridges. Some three or four days before that explosion, and after the conversation between Bowles and Hoge, Bowles met Smith, one of the defendants, and talked with him about the use of dynamite, told him how it could be used, told him something of its explosive power, and asked him to go with him and they would find some.

"On the night of May 29, somewhere about 9 o'clock, Bowles procured a buggy and a horse, and with Smith drove down to Eok. On the way down Bowles showed Smith the dynamite cartridge, which corresponds with the cartridge found in the possession of the parties. They drove to the town, then 50 or 60 yards from the railroad, when Bowles got out of the buggy, went over to the track, and put the cartridge on the rail, coming back and reporting that he had done so. They drove back to Aurora, and just as they were nearing the town the explosion took place and a part of the engine was wrecked.

"A day or two later Baueriein met Smith on the street and said Bowles had left a package for him at Polk's Hotel. Smith went to the room of the hotel as directed and found the cartridge and caps. A few days after that Baueriein met Smith on the street again and asked him if he had sent off any of that stuff yet. This was on June 14, the day of the Brotherhood picnic. Smith told him he had not and Baueriein replied that that would be a pretty good night to do it. Smith got the cartridge and went down to South Aurora and put the cartridge on the track.

The next day after he did that he met the defendant Baueriein and the latter again asked him if he had let off any of that stuff. He told him he had and Baueriein told him he thought so because he had heard the explosion. On that night there was an explosion at that place.

"Between June 16 and July 1 Bowles was away, and there was a correspondence between him and Baueriein and others concerning his whereabouts and what he was doing. That correspondence in the handwriting of Baueriein showed that Bowles was doing some business that was very secret, that he must be careful that no one was watching him, that if he believes that the man he suspects is really following him to shoot him."

The District Attorney further stated that on July 5 Gooding gave Smith a letter to his wife, and that on presenting it she gave Smith a package containing cartridges, fuse and caps. Smith put another paper around the bundle and delivered it to the Brotherhood Hall at Aurora. At the hall there he met Broderick, Bowles and Baueriein, and said to one of them: "That package is out in the ante-room."

The evidence will show that a very little while after that Broderick, Bowles, Baueriein and Wilson all went out of the hall together, that Broderick had this package in his arm and that they went down to the train together, coming to Chicago and that three, leaving out Baueriein, took the train to come here, carried that package to the train, were arrested upon the train, and when that package was examined it was found to contain four half-pound dynamite cartridges, and in Broderick's possession were a number of these fulminating caps that can be used for no other purpose than I know of on earth, but to explode that infernal stuff.

Mr. Kelly, secretary to Chairman Hoge, was placed on the stand and told how Bowles had brought dynamite to Hoge's room. The package was opened in the presence of Hoge.

SERIOUSLY COMPROMISED.

GOVERNMENT LEADER W. H. SMITH'S LATEST BLUNDER.

The Unlucky Lords' Reform Bill—Not yet Quite Certain that there will be an Autumn Session of Parliament.

LONDON, July 14.—It is not quite certain that there will be an autumn session. Mr. Smith has announced it with solemnity, but those behind the scenes don't believe the Ministry mean it. What they do mean is to hurry forward business. There are still, in parliamentary phrase, twenty days "of supply," and four or five weeks at least must be devoted to passing money votes. Those votes must be had before the House adjourns. They cannot be had by Aug. 12, the day which Mr. Smith named for adjournment. It is far more likely that the House will sit till the second week in September, and then be prorogued as usual. The Ministerial majority will do anything rather than be compelled to return to work next November. At present they are perfectly docile.

Mr. Smith has compromised himself and his position rather seriously by his cavalier treatment of Lord Salisbury's bill for reforming the House of Lords. Perhaps no leader of the House of Commons ever made such an audacious mistake. Lord Salisbury wanted his bill passed, and expected it to be passed, but Mr. Smith, while debate on the bill was proceeding in the House of Lords, assured the House of Commons that no attempt would be made to pass it. When Lord Salisbury heard what his lieutenant had done, he told the Lords it was needless to discuss the measure further, as Mr. Smith, in a panic, had abandoned it.

Rumors were flying about last night that Mr. Smith would resign. This last blunder had filled the cup to overflowing, and Lord Salisbury's patience was at an end. This, no doubt, is premature, but it was said seriously by a Unionist, deep in the confidence of the Government, that Mr. Smith could not remain much longer. His natural successor would be Lord Randolph Churchill, but the difference between Lord Randolph and Lord Salisbury are still too great for an immediate reconciliation. If Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's health permitted he might be the man. Lord Randolph's health too is a little impaired and he is going to France, perhaps to Spain, in search of a fresh stock.

That unlucky Lords' Reform Bill has served at least one useful purpose. It provoked a debate of a nature seldom heard in the Lords and some valuable truths were told. Lord Rosebery's speech, short, sparkling and easy, is said by those who heard it to have been his best of that kind. The Duke of Argyll cannot be reckoned one of its admirers; he was its victim.

The Ministry have stuck to their guns, and the London clauses of the Local Government bill are being debated and will be passed. The Opposition support the scheme on its general merits, and will do their best to make it more democratic than it is. But even as it stands this bill unites all existing Londons into a single municipality whereof the rulers will, in great part, be elected by the people.

A New Government Measure.

LONDON, July 14.—In the House of Commons Mr. Balfour proposed for the present session of Parliament a measure to prevent the system of land purchase under the Ashbourne Act from lapsing, upon which Mr. Gladstone said that the entire scope of the measure was a subversion of the Government's promises. The Opposition would, therefore, reconsider its entire position.

A Vote of Confidence.

LONDON, July 14.—In the House of Lords the Duke of Argyll moved a vote of confidence in the Government for securing to the people of Ireland the full enjoyment of personal freedom in all lawful transactions and protecting them against unlawful coercion and combination. The motion was carried without division.

The Times' Charges.

LONDON, July 14.—The prevailing feeling among the Liberal members of Parliament regarding the Government's proposition to appoint an independent tribunal to inquire into the charges made by The Times is that the language in the terms of the reference should no be too general, and that there should be no hesitancy in accepting the offer, but the inquiry, they maintain, should be strictly confined to specific matters, such as the authenticity of the letters which The Times alleges Mr. Parnell wrote. The Conservatives are highly satisfied with the Government's decision. They assume that the inquiry will be wide enough to admit going into all the bearings of the subject. It is probable, therefore, that the issue will be joined on the question regarding the terms of reference.

The Times says it fails to see why a special tribunal should be constituted to satisfy Mr. Parnell's unwillingness to go into court, but is willing to accept the project for a committee upon condition that it investigates the whole mass of facts involved in the articles on "Parnellism and Crime."

The Dublin Freeman's Journal says the proposed investigation is beset with difficulties.

The Dublin Express (Con.) says it is amazed and perplexed at the Government's proposal to appoint such acommission. "Why," it asks, "should the ordinary tribunals be ousted and judges only be allowed to express a legal opinion upon evidence the legal effect of which would be trifling and the political effect nothing."

A Curious Match.

LONDON, July 14.—The announcement of Miss Agneta Ramsay's engagement to the Master of Trinity is, if true, curious. This young lady, supposed to be about 22, is known to the world as the first scholar of her year at Cambridge, winning a place equivalent to senior classics and beating every competitor, male and female. She is, with all that, young, pretty and attractive. Dr. Butler, who is 56, has been Dean of Gloucester, but resigned the deanery two years ago to accept the mastership of the largest college in Cambridge University.

The Terrible Disaster at Kimberley.

LONDON, July 14.—A despatch from Cape Town says: "The Devers Mine in Kimberley, the scene of the fire Wednesday night, has been explored by a party of searchers. Twenty-four whites and 200 natives were found to have been burned to death. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Disastrous Fire at Ripley.

RIPLEY, July 14.—The most disastrous fire which has ever occurred in this place broke out at one o'clock yesterday morning in A. McLeod's hardware store, sweeping away twenty-six buildings, with a total loss of about $50,000. All the business places are destroyed with two or three exceptions.

Winnipeg News Notes.

WINNIPEG, July 14.—It is generally believed that there will be no recount in Kildonan, but Mr. Norquay will be allowed to retain his seat.

Negotiations are said to be still progressing between the Northern Pacific officials and the Government, but the former demand greater concessions than the latter are willing to give.

The system of bonusing settlers on the vacant lands near Winnipeg has been discontinued.

Gen. Sheridan sleeps soundly and is taking sound nourishment. He is less nervous than he has been.

HATEFUL RUMORS.

The Pall Mall Gazette's Sensational Story—A Spectacle for Nations.

LONDON, July 14.—The following is The Pall Mall Gazette's sensational story from Berlin, which, although it has been denied by other papers, appears to have some basis of truth:

"Very hateful rumors are flying about in Berlin which I hesitate to send without confirmation, but which I equally hesitate to withhold lest they prove to be true. It is well known that, as I saw with my own eyes, the moment Emperor Frederick's breath was out of his body there was a rush of soldiery to all the exits from the castle of Friedrichskron. No one was allowed to leave and no one to enter for hours after the death.

"What was the object of this headlong and indecent blockade. It was more than hinted at the time that the intention was to secure any papers which the dead Emperor had left behind him, and above all the sheets of the diary which he kept for recording his opinion on matters of State. Not a scrap of paper on which the deceased had written the commonest request or remarks (he was for a long time reduced to this means of communication) was allowed to remain in the possession of its recipient. It is even said that the trunks of one doctor were seized at the frontier and sent back to Berlin to be overhauled at the Chancellerie. It is a spectacle for nations, that of Prince Bismarck on his knees turning out the contents of Dr. Hoovell's trunks.

"But it would awaken very different feelings if it were true, as is not unsparingly asserted in Berlin, that a high personage who is near and dear to England, and who was nearest and dearest to the illustrious dead, is weeping to-night at Friedrichskron, a palace which is in all but name a prison. Of course, every one must hope that the story is an abominable fiction, but, whenever I hear on all sides that the Empress Victoria is virtually under arrest in her present residence, I fear that there is little doubt that Her Majesty is receiving very scant consideration at the hands of the men now in power."

Long-Hoarded Venom.

LONDON, July 14.—The elaborate attack by the German doctors on Sir Morell Mackenzie makes little impression on English opinion—perhaps none. It has long been known that this "long-hoarded venom," to use Macaulay's phrase, would some day spurt out. Sir Morell's reply is brief. He says that the allegations against him are untrue and will in due time be proved untrue. At present he is silent, because the Empress Victoria and the Queen wish him to be silent.

POOR QUEEN NATALIE.

Her Son Taken from Her—Ordered to Leave Germany within 24 Hours.

WIESBADEN, July 14.—An officer attended by twenty policemen entered Queen Natalie's villa at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and shortly afterward reappeared with the young Prince Alexander, the Servian Crown Prince, and a lady of honor of the Queen's suite. The two were bundled into a closed carriage and driven to the railway station, were the Prince was handed over to M. Pratics, Chief of the Servian Police, who placed him in a train. In a minute more Pratics and his charge were on their way to Belgrade.

The German police have ordered Queen Natalie to leave Germany within twenty-four hours. It is said she is completely prostrated.

THE IRVINE INQUEST.

Verdict of Suicide by Drowning—Heavy Sentences for Burglars.

TORONTO, July 14.—The Jennie Irvine inquest was continued last night. The witnesses examined were Mrs. Allen Glassey, Mrs. E. Glassey, W. T. Smith, the girl's cousin; Miss Mary Hastie, W. Clendenning, Walter Moore and John T. Milligan. Nothing new was elicited except that the last-named testified to hearing a splash in the water near the boathouse where he sleeps, about 1.40 last Saturday morning, followed by a gurgling sound. The jury returned a verdict of suicide by drowning.

The National Division of the Sons of Temperance wound up their business last night and adjourned.

BELLIGERENT BOULANGER

HE FIGHTS A SWORD DUEL WITH PREMIER FLOQUET.

Both Combatants Hurt, the General Receiving a Serious Wound in the Neck—The Cause of the Quarrel.

PARIS, July 14—There was a stormy scene in the Chamber of Deputies on Thursday between Gen. Boulanger and M. Floquet. A proposition by the former for the dissolution of the Chamber was rejected, and he immediately tendered his resignation. The scene is thus described:

Premier Floquet reproached General Boulanger for asking support from the Right. [Applause from the Left.] He said it was not for a man like Boulanger, who was always absent from the Chamber, to judge of its legislative powers or criticise hard-working members. What has General Boulanger done?

Gen. Boulanger: "I made an appeal to the country."

M. Floquet: "The country answered you in the Charente election."

M. Spau (Bonapartist): "The country unanimously pronounced, through me, for revision."

M. Floquet: "We have never recognized you as one of us. You are a lingerer in sacristies in the ante-chamber of princes. We will celebrate the centenary by proclaiming the supremacy of the civil power. We present universal suffrage. We have rendered more service to the Republic than harm. You demand dissolution. It is in your party that it exists. Your photographers come from Germany, where your interests lie." [Cheers from the Left and uproar from the Right.]

Gen. Boulanger: "M. Floquet's speech is only the utterance of a badly educated school usher. He in no way alludes to the general policy of revision. He merely makes personal attacks. I tell him now, as I tell him amidst the noise, that he impudently lies."

After a scene of excitement the President of the Chamber said before applying censure he would allow Gen. Boulanger to speak.

Gen. Boulanger asked if censure was to be applied to M. Floquet or himself.

The President: "It was you that first attacked the Chamber. The last words you uttered make it necessary to apply a severe rule."

Gen. Boulanger protested against a regime which did not respect the liberty of the tribune. He said that in view of the President's decision he would resign his seat. The General thereupon left the Chamber, followed by his partisans.

The outcome of the quarrel was a duel between Boulanger and Floquet on Count Dillon's estate, a short distance from the city, yesterday morning. At the second encounter Gen. Boulanger was slightly wounded in the leg and M. Floquet received a cut on the right hand. After resting the men renewed the fighting for the third time. Gen. Boulanger made a lunge at M. Floquet's left breast, but only slightly touched the mark. Gen. Boulanger then received a wound in the throat, which put an end to the encounter. The General staggered, clapped his hands to the wound and fell unconscious in the arms of his seconds, MM. Laherisse and Laisant. A doctor who was present put some bandages at once about his throat to stop the flow of blood. The General was immediately carried away. Floquet was seconded by MM. Clemenceau and Perrin.

The duel lasted only four minutes and was fiercely fought. Gen. Boulanger tried hard to kill Floquet and threw himself upon him again and again. When Floquet received the wound in the hand and it began to bleed the seconds proposed that the fight be discontinued, but both combatants refused to stop.

Dr. Monod, who is attending Gen. Boulanger, has issued a bulletin regarding his condition. It says that there is a deep wound in the right side of the General's neck, and that it caused marked difficulty in his respiration. At present the doctor is unable to give an opinion as to what course the case may take.

There was a marked improvement in Gen. Boulanger's condition last night. The doctors still decline to make a prognosis. Several journals assert that M. Floquet's sword penetrated Gen. Boulanger's cheek six centimetres (2 2-5 inches) at a point between the jugular vein and the cariotid artery.

Floquet Evidently Not Badly Hurt.

PARIS, July 14.—The Gambetta statue in the Place du Carrousel was unveiled yesterday afternoon. M. Floquet delivered the oration. MM. Leroyer, de Freycinet, Meline and Spuller also spoke.

THE MODEL FARM.

PARTICULARS regarding the reasons for the resignation of Prof. Brown, of the Agricultural College, have not been made public, but it is evident that unpleasant relations existed between Prof. Brown and others who exercised control over the management of the institution. The following, however, has been stated:—

"Some time this spring the Advisory Board formulated certain complaints against Professor Brown's system of management, and in consequence thereof the Professor placed his resignation in the hands of the Government and it was accepted."

Complaints against the system of management? Why, the Ontario Government has all along contended that the system was perfect and the management beyond criticism. All who advocated any investigation into the management or methods of the farm were condemned by Mr. Mowat and his followers as enemies of the college and agricultural education. But they were not enemies of either. It was apparent to every candid person who had examined the subject that there was something wrong at the institution, that investigation was necessary and that changes should be made, but this was vigorously denied by Mr. A. M. Ross, the then head of the Department, and his colleagues and the supporters of the Government. Now, however, complaints of the system have been made by the Advisory Board appointed by the Government and in consequence Prof. Brown has resigned. The Government practically acknowledged that all was not as perfect at the farm as they said it was when they appointed the Advisory Board, and the complaints which the Board formulated show that the Government was wrong when it defended the management and refused an enquiry.

The particulars of the complaints would be interesting and they should be given to the public. The resignation of Prof. Brown will not remedy matters unless something is done to reorganize the management. It cannot be known that Prof. Brown should bear the blame, though it is stated that the complaints were against his system, until at least the substance of the complaints are known. That changes were needed at the farm will be readily believed by those acquainted with facts revealed by the public documents, but the people have a right to know the full extent of the weaknesses of the "system" and to have an opportunity of placing the responsibility on the right shoulders. Prof. Brown was not responsible to the people for the farm; the Government is accountable to the people and it is the Government that the people must hold responsible.

Those who accepted the Liberal statements that the farm management should not be criticized, and that those who demanded an investigation were enemies of the institution, must feel their confidence in statements from that quarter shaken when they now find the acknowledgment that there were defects.

To the North.

A camping party consisting of Mr. D. Breeze and family, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. W. Lowe, Toronto; Mr. F. S. Gould and sister, Castleton; Miss Goldie, Messrs. W. F. Green, A. Mooney and C. H. Allison, Peterborough, will spend a couple of weeks at Stoney Lake. This morning all but one or two of the party went north and the others follow this evening.

Somewhat Cheeky.

Some people in this part of the country are possessed of a superabundance of cheek. This morning officer Stewart, while on duty, came across a man with a large piece of ice in his hands. The officer asked the man where he got it and the answer was that it was picked up in front of an office. He was made to put it back where he got it. A short time afterwards the same officer found a woman breaking up a piece of ice standing in front of an office and putting it in her basket of butter. The officer made her desist greatly to her chagrin.

A Great Town.

In an account of the excursion from Whitby to Peterborough the Chronicle says:—"Peterborough is a great town, spread over any amount of territory, and not cramped up in a heap like most other Canadian towns. There is an acre to spare everywhere for a square, or lawn, or yard, or whatever would be useful or ornamental. They seem to have a taste for fine large grounds and don't pay so very much attention to big residences. Even the cemetery is surprisingly large, and it will be a long time before the dead will be grumbling for the want of elbow room. There are lots of fine drives around the town, and after taking them all in we went over to Ashburnham to see some baseball." The Chronicle, however, is very unfair to the spectators at the baseball match, who were mostly visitors.

A Row.

A couple of cabmen had a row at the Grand Trunk depot this morning and for a time the air fairly smelled of sulphur, so profane and profuse was the language used. The agent did all he possibly could to quell the disturbance but a telephone message for the chief constable had the desired effect. Both parties claim to be in the right and the Police Magistrate will probably be called upon to arbitrate.

If there is anything as sweet as the laughter of children it is the singing of children. On the evening of July 19th, in the Opera House, a concert will be given at which choruses will be sung by forty girls and a number of boys, who have been trained by Mr. Dingle. The children will be dressed in character and the ballads are set to popular music. Mrs. Daly and other popular vocalists will give solos. The concert promises to be very successful and will be a rich treat. 2d10

BY NINE WICKETS.

The Peterborough Cricketers Easily Defeat the Ontario County Eleven

A cricket match was played on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Friday, between the Peterborough club and an eleven chosen from the clubs in Ontario county, Whitby, Uxbridge, Pickering and other places, resulting as the score below shows in a rather hollow victory for the home men, who had things all their own way. The bowling, batting and fielding was altogether superior to that of the visitors, but the latter is susceptible of much improvement.

The visitors played only ten men and in the second innings two "subs" had to take the places of players who had left the ground. The Peterborough team was only a fairly strong one, but they showed some excellent cricket.

The visitors went to the bat first and were not retired until they had made 113, Hatch contributing 45, Hamilton 17, Hemphill 13, Gilpin, not out 13, and "extras" 14.

Peterborough followed after lunch and when the last wicket fell the blackboard denoted that 161 runs had been scored. Of these W. F. Hamilton was credited with 36, Ray 31, J. H. Burnham 23, and Stratton and Parker 21 each.

The visitors followed and secured 87 as the result of their second essay, Hamilton with 29 being the only one that got double figures.

It had been agreed to draw stumps at 7 o'clock and as nearly an hour remained, Peterborough went to the bat again with 40 runs to make to win. These they secured for the loss of one wicket. Rutherford's score of 27 was made up of 6 threes, 2 fours and 1 one.

As regards the bowlers, the score tells who were the most successful in taking wickets, as follows:—

The Market.

The market this morning was one of the largest held for some time. Farmers' produce of all kinds was in abundance, and judging by the stream of well laden baskets continually leaving the square, it met with a ready sale. There were no changes in prices worth mentioning.

Gathering it Up.

The Street Inspector has several men at work this morning with wheelbarrows, gathering up the paper and other refuse that has laid on the streets for so long a period. The police are on the alert for any person found sweeping such stuff out on the streets.

Personal.

The Stratford Herald says:—"Mr. Croly M.A., of the Collegiate Institute, and son, have gone on a camping and boating tour through Peterborough county."

The Orillia Parket says:—"The Rev. T. Manning entered on his pulpit duties last Sunday by preaching two very good and appropriate sermons in the Methodist church. His kindly greeting in the morning could not fail to be appreciated by his audience, and that it was, the very large evening congregation amply proved. Mr. Manning's practical utterance, as well as his kindly sentiments, will, we think, ensure for him the respect and confidence of all the Orillia Methodists." Those in Peterborough who know Mr. Manning will readily believe that.

An Accident.

This morning an elderly farmer named John Robinson, who resides in the township of Smith, above Bridgenorth, was standing in the outskirts of a crowd around an auctioneer, when a butcher's delivery cart was driven up at considerable speed. Mr. Robinson was struck in the small of the back and knocked senseless. Dr. Kincaid was on hand in a few minutes and the injured man soon recovered consciousness, but as it was he had a close shave. As it is he was very weak for some time after the accident, but the doctor does not regard it as anything serious. These butcher boys, who are in the habit of driving so fast should be brought up with a short turn by the police, as numerous escapes at crossings, etc., occur almost every day through their negligence.

Baseball.

The "Clips" of the west end and the "Inverleas" of the north end played a game of baseball on Friday night. The game was close and interesting throughout and resulted in a victory for the north enders by a score of 13 to 12.

St. Andrew's S. S. Picnic.

The annual picnic of St. Andrew's Church Sunday school will be held on Tuesday, July 17th, per steamer Golden-Eye to Jubilee Point. The steamer leaves the wharf at 9.30 a.m. sharp. Tickets, 35c.; children, 15c. 1d11

Very Ill.

Mr. Alex. McNeil, the auctioneer, so well known to all frequenters of the market, is lying in a precarious condition. Mr. McNeil is one of our oldest and best known citizens and his thousands of friends will join with us in hoping for his speedy restriction to health.

A Beggar.

An able bodied man, well dressed, wearing a black suit, red whiskers and a light colored, soft felt hat was soliciting alms on the street this afternoon. If the police catch him he will have a chance to work for half a year in the Central Prison.

Church Notes.

At the Baptist Church, Murray-st., tomorrow, the Rev. P. Clifton Parker, pastor, will preach morning and evening. Evening subject, "The Might of Earnestness." Strangers will be welcomed and provided with seats.

Laymen's evangelistic services for tomorrow are as follows:—Jail, 9.30 a.m.; Protestant Home, 2 p.m.; Nassau, 7 p.m.; North Monaghan, 7 p.m. All are invited.

A Proposed Match.

A movement is on foot to have a cricket match at an early date between teams from the town and county. At first glance it would seem that it would be rather one sided, but upon looking into it, it will be seen that such is not by any means the case. The county among others, would have the services of Day, Logan, Rogers and the two Hamiltons. Those mentioned with a couple of others from Ashburnham and players from Lakefield and Norwood would make things very interesting for any eleven that the town can produce.

A Fine Machine.

Mr. J. D. Baptie has just placed in the planing department of his wood-working factory a new planing and matching machine, built by McGregor, Gourlay & Co., Galt, Ont. The machine is of large dimensions, very solidly constructed and the capacity for work is almost unlimited. It is fitly named "the lightning matcher," and will during regular working hours run through over 20,000 feet of flooring per day. Several special fittings and appliances are embodied in the machine, which facilitate handling and ensure good work. The machine replaces one purchased less than two years ago and which at that time was supposed would answer all requirements for years to come.

—Perry Davis' Pain Killer.

Brevities.

—There were no cases on the Police Court docket this morning.

—The Trent Valley Canal Commissioners reached Orillia on Thursday night.

—Mr. Mungovan, of the Irish Canadian, is in town in the interests of that widely read journal.

—New potatoes were somewhat plentiful on the market square this morning, but prices ruled high.

—The ice dealers are reaping a great harvest this season. They find it difficult to supply the demand.

—Mr. W. S. Cocks has the contract of supplying the numbers for the houses and Mr. C. Brown for putting them up.

—The police have secured a supply of cartridge for their dog gun and they propose to start on the war path on Monday, the decree having gone forth that all tagless dogs must die.

—An elevated lumber railway has been constructed from the Dixon mills to run away down in the yards. It will doubtless prove a great convenience and permit of the handling of much more lumber with greater ease.

—The Madoc Review:—"Mr James Sugden, otherwise known as 'Yorkey,' leaves Madoc on Friday having accepted a situation with Mr. Macklin, chief engineer of the Midland Railway. He will be missed in Madoc."

—Many were disappointed on account of the postponement of the bicycle races last evening. A large crowd would have been present. They will take place on a date to be chosen later on, when the weather becomes warmer at night.

—A man purchased a couple of small pigs on the market this morning and undertook to carry them up street, one under each arm, but he reckoned without his host, however, as when they commenced to squeal several dogs were attracted and the frisky animals got away. They were only re-captured after a lively chase.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger airl passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you you may depend upon this for certain.

Russia's Comfortable Drill Rooms.

During the winter, when the cold is so intense as to make out door drilling and manœuvers impossible, regiments and brigades of soldiers, both cavalry, infantry and artillery, are exercised in great structures known as the riding schools, which cover several acres of ground, are heated by steam and afford not only, commodious but comfortable drill rooms for large bodies of troops. The riding school at Moscow is the largest apartment in the world, the iron roof being supported by trusses, and furnishes plenty of space for a whole brigade of cavalry to perform its evolutions. The grand inspection, or rasvod, takes place every Sunday afternoon, and is attended usually by the emperor, his family and officers of high rank, many thousands of soldiers being paraded by brigades, one entering the hall as the other leaves it.—William Eleroy Curtis.

Profession of Veterinary Surgeon.

The profession of veterinary surgeon is an excellent one for young men. It is a profession that is not overcrowded, and the young man who has the necessary capabilities and the requisite amount of "push" needed in any vocation, will almost always find plenty to do. A young man to succeed, however, must have regular office hours and attend to his business with the same conscientious care that is shown by a medical practitioner. Competent young veterinarians secure positions in veterinary colleges, or become inspectors of horses and cattle for the government.—D. C. Comstock, M. D., in The Epoch.

Dramatic Critic—I called to see if I could get my favorite seats for the new play tonight.

Theatrical Manager—It's all up, my dear sir; all up. I can't produce it.

"You can't! Why, you told me ten car loads of new scenery had arrived from Paris, the costumes were all done, and the great work of the army of stage carpenters, illumination artists, and so on, was finished last week. What's the matter?"

"I forgot to write the play and engage the company."—Omaha World.

Electric Light for Magic Lanterns.

The magic lantern projection of opaque objects has been successfully brought about by the application of the electric light. A strong light is thrown upon the object in the midst of darkness, when the intense illumination of the body permits of the projection of the picture upon the canvas with even greater brilliancy of coloring than is possessed by the original.—Globe-Democrat.

TO most children, the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. When physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take. Try them.

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

Growth of the Catalpa Tree.

A curious example of the rapid growth of the catalpa tree is to be seen in Independence square, Philadelphia. Several years ago labels bearing the scientific and common names of the trees were affixed to all the trees in the square. The labels are rectangular metallic plates, each attached to a staple driven into the tree from which it was suspended. As the trees have increased in girth the staple has been gradually buried and the plates tilted up. Many of them are at an angle approaching the horizontal, but the plate on a catalpa tree is buried an inch or more under the bark, and is firmly fixed in that position. The astonishment of the archæologist of one of the future centuries who, in seeking for traces of the cradle of liberty, comes upon a tree with its scientific name imbedded in its trunk may be imagined.—Chicago Herald.

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in piece of this stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Every one admires them, and just half the price I was asked for the same things in Toronto; but still, father dear, I must have the lamp."

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia and other throat and lung troubles Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c.

A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1888.

DARING SENATOR DOLPH.

HE ISN'T AFRAID OF WAR WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

Principally Because He Thinks There Will be None but Diplomatic Battles—Another Speech on the Fishery Treaty.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The Senate being in open executive session on the fisheries treaty yesterday, Mr. George continued his speech in favor of ratification, at the conclusion of which Mr. Dolph took the floor and addressed the Senate in opposition to the treaty.

"Under the treaty of 1818," he said, "Great Britain had secured a compromise by which the inshore fishery rights of the United States had been greatly restricted, but no one except the Senator from Alabama (Morgan) was ready to advise or vote for the abrogation of that treaty. The fishermen of the United States were content to abide by it.

"The provisions of the pending treaty were a surrender by the United States of the claims to what were British bays and harbors. The Republican majority in the Senate had been threatened with free Canadian fish if the treaty were not ratified, but he could inform Senators on the other side that that was not the way to secure free Canadian fish.

"The only American battles with Great Britain would be battles of diplomacy. Great Britain would get by diplomacy all the United States was weak enough to yield. He did not fear a war with Great Britain. The sentiment of the two countries in favor of peace and of peaceful means for settling differences was so great as to prevent war. Great Britain would not resort to war with the United States because it was not her interest to do so. At the call of even the present pro-English administration in case of war, armed men would spring into the field from every state and territory to make the conquest of the Canadian provinces, and a few months of hostilities would find an American privateer in every sea.

"While war was brutal and barbarous, there were some things more degraded than war. A nation could emerge from a costly and sanguinary war with its honor untarnished, its love of liberty uninterrupted and the foundations of prosperity strengthened, but when it yielded to unjust demands it lost its own self-respect and the respect of other nations."

Mr. Pugh gave notice that he would address the Senate on the Fishery Treaty next Monday.

THE N. A. L. A. TANGLE

Partially Unravelled—Professionals Expelled—Ball Games Yesterday.

MONTREAL, July 14.—The tangle in the N. A. L. A. circles was somewhat unravelled yesterday at an all-day session of the council. The Brockville Club was expelled from the association for employing professionals, but later applied for reinstatement, which was granted. Crown, Clewes, McCarthy and Westbrook, who had been declared professionals by the C. L. A., were also expelled from the National Association. All matches this season played without official referees were ordered to be played over. The Cornwalls were so indignant at this last step, which deprives them of first place in the series, that they threatened to resign.

STRATFORD'S CHIEF COP.

HE SKIPS OUT WITH THE BUXOM WIFE OF A RAG MERCHANT.

The Reigning Sensation in the Little City on the Avon—Mr. Herrington's Love-Making and Dereliction of Duty.

STRATFORD, July 16.—The reigning sensation here at present is the sudden flight of Chief of Police Herrington on Friday afternoon. For a month past reports have been circulated connecting the chief's name with a number of married women and others.

Things at last became so interesting that people did not hesitate to connect his name with that of a comely married woman named Mrs. W. J. Henry, the wife of a city rag merchant, dealer in scrap iron, etc. The chief was warned to beware of the trap he was getting himself into by friends, and cautioned that if he did not mind his "p's" and "q's" there would be an earthquake one of these days. He vowed that he was doing nothing wrong, and that if the people chose to make base and foundationless charges against him he could not help it. He did not consider that it was anybody's business where he went after his duties were over. If he chose to go to a friend's of an evening had he to go and obtain the consent of the City Council?= "He wasn't built that way," and when he wanted to go out and spend the evening he did not propose to ask any one if he could or could not do so. He fancied that he had reached the years of discretion.

The woman in the case, Mrs. Henry, resides on David-street. She is rather a fine looking woman, on the shady side of 32. She is dark complexioned, with dark hair and dark flashing eyes. Mrs. Henry always dressed stylish. She leaves two little girls, aged 2 and 6, and a sorrowing husband behind. The chief has been twice married, has a grown up family by his first wife and a little girl of three summers by his present wife. Mrs. Henry left her home Friday afternoon, saying that she would be back in a short time. Mr. Henry states that his wife's bearing before she left was more than usually affectionate toward himself, so much so as to excite his surprise. He is now convinced that her disappearance at the time of the chief's departure is more than a coincidence. Mrs. Henry was seen on the station platform just before the chief took his departure. She boarded the same train that bore away the officer and his trunk.

Mr. Henry denies the report that his wife drew $1300 of his money that had been deposited in the bank, but he states that she has been "fleecing" him for months past. Henry recently endorsed a note for the chief to the value of $60.

Charges had been formulated against Herrington for neglect of duty and Herrington, who was aware that such a charge would be made against him, asked leave of absence until 8 o'clock on Saturday morning to go to London, where, he said, he could procure evidence that would, in case of an investigation, completely exonerate him. The same afternoon he ordered one of the city cabmen to call at his house for a trunk to be taken to the station in time for the west bound express. He told the cabman that he expected that his wife, who had been on a few days visit to Listowel, would come down on the afternoon train and together they would go to London. The afternoon train failed to bring Mrs. Herrington, and he and his trunk went west on the 4.25 train.

At a meeting of the Market and Police Committee yesterday Policeman William O'Donnell was appointed chief pro tem. R. E. Sprawl was detailed for night work. Stratford has been very unfortunate in choices of chief of police of late years.

Toronto University's New Professor.

J. W. Ashley, M.A. (Oxon.), just appointed to the new chair of Political Science in the University of Toronto, is 29 years of age. He was selected for the post out of 34 others. He will sail for Canada about September 1, and be ready for delivering lectures at the opening in October. His lectures will probably form a part of the new department in law. The cut is made from a photograph taken two years ago. He looks to be a bright young man.

The Iron Lockout Practically Over.

PITTSBURG, July 16.—The great iron lockout is practically over, and before the end of this week a general resumption of the mills is expected. There are still fifty firms in the Manufacturers' Association who have not granted the terms of the workmen. A meeting of those firms will be held on Thursday, when it is presumed they will decide to sign the scale. They still claim that the wages demanded by the Amalgamated Association are excessive, and some of the mills will have to close indefinitely.

An Important Customs Seizure.

MONTREAL, July 16.—A consignment of 30,000 or 40,000 Havana cigars to a prominent wholesale house in this city has just been seized by the customs officials for alleged undervaluation. This is considered the most important seizure of cigars that has been made for several years.

Scott Act Violators Fined.

PORT PERRY, July 16.—Thos. Dancaster, Geo. Brown, John Stewart and Robt. Hodson were fined $50 each Saturday for violation of the Scott Act, and seven barrels of beer were seized in Dancaster's house.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

BOULANGER'S BAD BREAK.

ABANDONED BY SOME OF HIS LEADING FRIENDS.

The General's Prestige with the Army Lost Because He Allowed Himself to be Worsted by a Civilian.

LONDON, July 16.—The Boulanger-Floquet duel has considerably altered the situation in France. It is clear that Gen. Boulanger has discredited himself; not with reflecting, sensible Frenchmen, for among them he had no credit, but with his own admirers.

When the duel came off it was the civilian who was cool and the soldier who lost his temper. It is not necessary to admire duelling in order to admire the demeanor of this elderly lawyer of 60, who had to face the youngest general in the French army. Prime Ministers ought not to fight, but if they will fight it is best that they should fight well. Beyond question M. Floquet is stronger and more respected to-day in France than if he had not fought. As for General Boulanger, his wound in the neck may or may not be as serious as reported. In either case he has lost prestige with the army, where he never was idolized, by allowing himself to be worsted in a contest with a civilian.

Boulanger Recovering.

PARIS, July 16.—Gen. Boulanger was able to rise and passed a good night on Saturday. Yesterday his neck was somewhat swollen and there was a slight congestion at the base. He has no fever.

Hardly 500 persons assembled in the Place de la Concorde in response to the call for a Boulanger demonstration. Ten of those who did appear were arrested, including Mr. Bernard, the editor of Gen. Boulanger's paper, The Presse.

OPEN TO DOUBT.

What the Wise Berlin Pressmen Say About Emperor William's Journey.

LONDON, July 16.—The visit of the German Emperor to St. Petersburg has no political object, say the wise men of the Berlin and Vienna press, as Prince Bismarck sent him and Count Herbert Bismarck accompanies him. This assertion is open to doubt. What is certain is that while the Austro-German alliance remains unshaken, Prince Bismarck's constant anxiety to keep on good terms with Russia also is again shown by this friendly meeting of the German and Russian sovereigns. That is quite enough to account for the journey. Lord Salisbury looks on suspiciously, even anxiously.

The stories sent from Berlin to London about the imprisonment of the Empress Victoria are pure inventions. There is, however, no cessation of the conflict between her and Prince Bismarck. The quarrel of the moment relates to certain documents touching the question of the Regency during the late reign and other matters. These documents are supposed to have been brought away from Berlin by the Queen of England, which is not probable. The Emperor says they are German state papers, and insists on their return. There is no doubt material for a European scandal of the first magnitude if this quarrel be not appeased.

Emperor William and His Mother.

BERLIN, July 16.—Communications from Emperor William to his mother were transmitted from Spandan and from Kiel. This fact, though insignificant, has a significance in the face of persistent reports regarding the alleged unhappy relations existing between His Majesty and the Dowager Empress. If the messages only referred to the progress of the son's first expedition as Emperor, they still showed that the differences between him and his mother have not approached a rupture. The Dowager Empress Victoria frequently sees Dr. Frederburg and other intimate friends of the late Emperor Frederick.

Disputes continue to exist between herself and the Emperor in regard to the disposal of Emperor Frederick's papers, some of which the Dowager Empress says are personal, against the contention of the Emperor that they are State property and ought to be deposited in the State archives. The court circle believes implicitly that the difference can be arranged in the near future by the Dowager Empress surrendering the documents relating to the regency.

Candidate Streeter Accepts.

NEW WINDSOR, Ill., July 16.—A. J. Streeter, who was nominated for President of the United States by the Union Labor party at its convention at Cincinnati, has written a long letter of acceptance. He says among other things that if it shall be the will of the people to elect him there will be some radical changes made in the administration of affairs. To the extent of his ability and energy the Government will be administered more in the interest of the great common people, but not to the injury of any class of our people, for all should be equally protected in their person and property by the firm hand of the law.

Fined for Not Going to Camp.

HAMILTON, July 16.—J. F. Witherspoon, a member of the Hamilton Field Battery was fined $5 at the Police Court on Saturday for refusing to accompany the battery to camp at Niagara.

Druggist Samuel Chapman is to be prosecuted for a breach of the early closing by-law. The case will likely come up at the Police Court to-day.

Col. Goldie and J. Matthews, V.S., were at the Crystal Palace Saturday morning purchasing horses for the British army. They secured four or five.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Harry Sullivan, the actor, is seriously ill.

Sir Morell Mackenzie is about to be raised to the peerage.

Mr. Blaine will sail for America Aug. 1 on the City of New York.

Queen Natalie of Servia has sent an agent to Florence to prepare a residence for her in that city.

Congressman Taulbee of Kentucky and his wife are both seriously ill at Washington with malarial fever.

Robt. Brazel, colored, shot and killed Andrew Bond, a notorious colored man, in a Chicago saloon yesterday.

Three of the crew of the British otter-hunting schooner Nemo were killed by natives off the coast of Kamschatka.

A meeting of 5,000 persons in Hyde Park yesterday condemned the Government's course in the case of Mr. Dillon and the late Mr. Mandeville.

The recent visit of the Princess of Wales to Dessau is about to result in the betrothal of her daughter Victoria to the Prince of Anhalt Dessau.

It is said that the C. P. R. has bought the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic and that the Milwaukee and Northern will unite with the new consolidated "Soo" system.

President Carnot attended a grand review of troops at Longchamps Saturday. When the review closed there was a noisy demonstration, in which friends and opponents of Gen. Boulanger took sides. A number of arrests were made.

Another Alleged Counterfeiter Jailed.

LONDON, Ont., July 16.—Supt. Sherwood of the Dominion Police arrested another member of the Johnston counterfeiting gang here Saturday afternoon. The arrested man, Benjamin Mackenzie, was tracked from London to Sault Ste. Marie and back to London.

MANITOBA AND THE RAILROADS.

An Arrangement with the Northern Pacific—The Hudson Bay Scheme.

WINNIPEG, July 16.—The Government added another to the list of their supporters at the Russell elections Saturday, when Fisher (Lib.) defeated Fraser (Con.) by 235 majority.

It appears as if the Government had entered into arrangements with the Northern Pacific which only require ratification to give complete railway competition throughout the province. Government aid of $5000 per mile will probably be granted the Portage link and extensions by issuing provincial bonds. It is also understood that the Northern Pacific agrees to build a series of branch roads shortly throughout the whole province.

Mr Onderdonk, the well-known railroad contractor of New York, and Nicol Kingsmill, Solicitor of the Canada Southern Railway, have arrived here. They came on business connected with the building of the Hudson Bay Railway. If satisfactory arrangements can be made between the syndicate represented by Mr. Onderdonk and the local Government, Mr. Onderdonk is prepared to build and equip a line from Winnipeg, and to establish a line of steamers in connection. The syndicate is very strong and includes the largest capitalists in America, who have, it is said, been considering the Hudson Bay scheme for some time. Mr. Onderdonk will likely have a conference with the Government to-day.

Commissioner Herchmer of the Northwest Mounted Police left here for Ottawa to-night. He says it has been decided not to withdraw the force at Kootenay because the American authorities are trying to get some renegade Indians on the Flathead Reserve, just across the border, and it is feared that the Indians will make a break for Canadian territory.

Mr. A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, is here.

Wheat is heading out in several parts of the province.

The seventh annual Baptist convention opened to-day.

Mr. Owens, formerly station agent at Emerson, died Friday night suddenly.

FIRES OF A DAY.

A Mysterious Blaze at Montreal Causes a Loss of $20,000.

MONTREAL, July 16.—Another serious fire occurred Saturday afternoon in the building occupied by Mace & Baillie of the Tar Paper Box Company, D. English & Co., Printers, and A. D. Porcheron, tobacco dealer. The flames were discovered in the fourth flat, and owing to the inflammable stock contained there the whole building was soon threatened with destruction. By the prompt action of the brigade the fire was confined to the upper flats.

The total loss is about $20,000, which is nearly covered by insurance. Mace & Baillie's loss is about $12,000. The building owned by Warden King is damaged to the extent of $6,000. English & Company lose $1,000 by water, and Porcheron $500. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as there was no fire in the building, which was closed at one o'clock and everything was all right at that hour.

Incendiarism Suspected.

BEAMSVILLE, July 16.—The barn of James McPherson on lot 20, 5th con., was burned at 11 o'clock Friday night, together with some farming implements. Incendiarism is suspected. The loss is about $600, insured for $400 on barn and $200 on contents in the London Company.

A Barn near Beamsville Burned.

BEAMSVILLE, July 16.—The barn of Thompson & Linton, about a mile from here, just under the mountain, was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, together with the contents. The loss is about $1000, insurance $200. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Large Saw Mills Burned.

QUEBEC, July 16.—Lafreniere's immense sawmills at Louisville were burned Friday. A large number of logs were lost. The damage, it is expected, will reach $100,000; partly insured.

THE "Q" DYNAMITERS.

Bowles Makes a Full Confession of His Share in the Conspiracy.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Bowles, the man in the conspiracy against the Burlington Road, against whom the testimony given Saturday was most conclusive, has, it is stated, made a full confession of his share in the conspiracy. Another of the arrested men, Goding, it is said, has also concluded to come into camp and tell all that he knows about the plot against the Burlington. The cases of Chairman Hoge and Murphy, which were to have come up before Justice Lyon this morning, were postponed for one week.

It is understood that Bowles has told the prosecution facts which will make the conviction of Hoge certain. The text of the "squeal" was not made public, but it was important enough to necessitate the postponement of the case before the Federal Court as well as in the State tribunal.

A sensational scene took place in the court room when Bowles tremblingly arose and waived examination. The Brotherhood attorneys, Donohue and David, protested loudly that they had been treated with great unfairness and given no show from the outset of the trial. Lawyer David hotly denounced Commissioner Hoyne, declaring: "We could expect nothing else from this court, and have received nothing else." The Commissioner ordered David to be arrested by the Marshal, but the latter did not at once comply, and David subsequently made a Pickwickian apology to the court. Bowles was released on $5000 bail.

Bowles, Broderick and Wilson were kept in the Marshal's office nearly all the afternoon, but not together. Bowles was closeted all the afternoon in the Marshall's inside office with District-Attorney Ewing, General Manager Stone, Inspector Bonfield and Marshal Marss. They took in stenographic detail full notes of Bowles' confession up to 5 o'clock, when the taking of the remainder was postponed until to-morrow morning. It does not differ materially from the history of Bowles' handling of the dynamite given by District-Attorney Ewing in presenting the case Friday.

Another Alleged Dynamite Plot.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., July 16.—Officials of the Burlington road here claimed to have unearthed a plot to blow up the new bridge over the Missouri River with dynamite shipped here for that purpose, it is claimed, by striking engineers. The officers also claim that dynamite was shipped to Plattsmouth and Rulo for a similar purpose.

Terrible Gas Tank Explosion.

LUDLOW, Ky., July 16.—A battery of eight gas tanks exploded here Saturday afternoon, injuring fifteen men, four fatally. The gas is generated from naphtha for lighting the railroad shops and for use in the Mann boudoir cars. The escape of a small quantity from one tank caused an explosion which exploded the other seven.

Milan Meets His Son at Pesth.

PESTH, July 16.—King Milan of Servia came here Saturday and met his son. They started immediately for Belgrade.

Killed by an Elevator.

ROCHESTER, July 16.—Michael Down night watchman in the Elbranger & Barry building, attempted to board a moving elevator Saturday evening and was instantly killed. His head was almost severed from his body. Down was about 22 years of age and unmarried.

THE POPE AND THE IRISH.

ANOTHER ENCYCLICAL READ IN THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY.

His Holiness Reiterates His Former Fulminations Against Boycotting and the Plan of Campaign.

DUBLIN, July 16.—A papal encyclical letter was read yesterday in all the Catholic churches in the diocese of Dublin. In it the Pope says he has heard with regret that excited meetings have been held at which inconsiderate and dangerous opinions regarding the recent papal decree have been uttered, even the authority of the decree itself being unspared. He has seen with pain forced interpretations put upon the decree and statements made that it was prepared without sufficient inquiry having previously been made. The Pope, strongly denying this assumption, states that the decree was based upon the most complete information.

The bishops, he says, must remove all misconception and leave no room for doubt as to the force of the decree. The whole system of the plan of campaign and boycotting is condemned as unlawful.

A letter from Archbishop Walsh of Dublin, which accompanied the Pope's letter, was also read. The Archbishop says:

"The agitation referred to is now ended under the resolutions recently adopted by the bishops. The hope has arisen within the past few days that before the close of the present session Parliament will provide for the more urgent needs of the hour. The people may await in peace fuller legislation at the next session."

The encyclical letter is dated June 24. It causes intense dissatisfaction. At Bray people left the church during the reading of the letter.

Her Grace of Marlborough's Social Success.

LONDON, July 17.—The social success of the new Duchess of Marborough admits of no doubt; she is all but the idol of the hour in British society. The Dowager Duchess of Marlborough introduces her boy with her. The first introduction of the Duchess to aristocratic circles was at Mrs. Oppenheim's ball. She has been at an incessant round of parties of all sorts at the best houses. One of these was a family tea given by Lady Londonderry, at which most of the members of the family were present. Since that the Duchess of Marlborough has given a crush reception, every leader of fashion in the British social world attending. There is one point that Her Grace cannot reach. The Queen will not receive her because she is married to a divorced man, and Her Majesty's position on the question of divorce admits of no compromise in any circumstance. Nevertheless the position of the Duchess in the highest aristocratic circles is undoubted and secure.

A Conflict in Trafalgar-square.

LONDON, July 16.—There was a conflict between the police and people in Trafalgar-square yesterday arising from the attempts of the people to hold a meeting and those of the police to prevent it. Several ugly rushes were made by the people. One arrest was made.

Graham's Counter Charge.

LONDON, July 15.—Robert Cunningham Graham, who was arrested for complicity in the Trafalgar-square disturbance, applied for a summons against two policemen for throwing him under a cab, which ran over him and injured his leg. The magistrate ordered him to bring evidence of the accusation. Mr. Graham will make reapplication to-day.

A COLONIZATION SCHEME.

Ottawa 6's to be Converted into 4's—The Wimbledon Contest.

LONDON, July 16.—The Canadian Pacific Colonization Corporation to found the town of Queenstown in the Northwest, has been formed with a capital of £500,000 in £10 shares. At present half of this will be created, applicants for the first £40,000 being entitled to a bonus of one fully paid share for every four shares allotted.

Mr. McLeod Stewart, mayor of Ottawa, has formulated a scheme to convert Ottawa six per cents. into four per cents. He states that, besides giving Ottawa high credit here, the scheme will afford the corporation about $400,000 of available funds. The annual charge, including a sinking fund for extinguishing the total debt in forty years, will be $23,000 less than at present. The mayor wants money to improve the health of the city, and believes the market is favorable for the conversion.

The Canadians have not succeeded in repeating their victory in the Prince of Wales contest, though Captain McMicking, of the 44th Battalion, did well. No Canadians are in the last stage of the Queen's. The weather is miserable.

WHISKY MADE HER MAD.

A Toronto Woman's Determined Attempt at Self-destruction.

TORONTO, July 16.—On Saturday night Mary Graham, who was suffering from delirium tremens, procured a razor and drew it across her left hand, inflicting a terrible gash, with the intention of bleeding to death. Dr. James Ross bound up the wound and Policeman Craig arrested her and took her to Headquartes. About 2 o'clock on Sunday morning she tore of the bandages and attempted to widen the cut by puncturing it with a steel from her corset. Sergeant Somerville caught her in the act, and had the woman conveyed to the hospital. She was so frantic that it took two policemen to hold her down in the vehicle all the way to the hospital.

A trunk containing $80 worth of jewelry and $50 of clothes, belonging to Miss Tillie Easton, was stolen from the baggage room at Union Station last week.

Last week's work of the Central Bank liquidators finished with over $300,000 in deposit for the October dividend.

Zachar, the Faster.

RACINE, Wis., July 16.—Reports from John Zachar, the faster, are that all attempts to obtain nourishment from the light food administered to him have proven futile. The milk and other food taken is not retained on the stomach. This has left him in a very weak and exhausted condition, and he will most probably suffer death as the penalty of his fifty-three days' fast.

Harvesting in Ontario County.

OSHAWA, July 16.—The harvest has been fairly commenced in this section, a good deal of barley having been cut in East Whitby and Darlington on Friday and Saturday. The yield is fair, the heads being heavy.

Skeene River Indians in Revolt.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 16.—The Indians at Skeene River are in revolt. Constables were sent a few days ago to capture an Indian murderer. He resisted, shots were fired and two Indians killed. The Indians are greatly excited and threaten to exterminate the whites. The constables have fortified the Hudson Bay post at Hazleton, where they hope to hold out until reinforcements are sent.

Shot Himself Through the Head.

BOWMANVILLE, July 16.—A man named Overton, a harness maker by trade, who has been working of late in Whitby, committed suicide here Saturday morning by shooting himself through the head. It is reported he had the belief that detectives were after him, so sought to put an end to his troubles.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In his address to the Orangemen at Port Hope Mr. John White, ex-M.P. for East Hastings, expressed regret that commercial union had been advocated in Canada, but said that if the United States offered Canada reciprocity in manufactured articles and natural products it should not be refused. Prof. Goldwin Smith, in a letter in the Mail on Saturday, informs Mr. White that commercial union and commercial reciprocity really mean the same thing—the removal of the customs line between Canada and the United States.

But if Prof. Smith had heard a portion of Mr. White's speech that was not reported in the Toronto papers he would have recognized a considerable difference between commercial union and the reciprocity that Mr. White said should not be refused. That gentleman said that Canada should not discriminate against the Mother Land; and will Prof. Smith pretend that commercial union or unrestricted reciprocity would not include such discrimination? Or will he explain how the scheme could be operated without discrimination?

A portion of Prof. Smith's letter is worth consideration by the electors. He says:—

"The reason for not adopting the name 'Reciprocity' is that the memory of the old Reciprocity Treaty is still odious in the United States. The reason for not adopting the name 'Continental Free Trade' is that the term 'Free Trade' is equally odious to a large portion of the American people, who have been for a generation taught to regard protection as an article of national faith."

These names are avoided to endeavor to quiet opposition in the States. And the same thing has been done in Canada. The Mail and Globe proclaimed loudly that commercial union was sweeping the country—that the people were practically unanimous in favor of it—and the Liberal papers generally re-echoed their statements. But they did not deceive themselves. The Liberal leaders were aware, as the Globe has admitted, that commercial union would not be endorsed by the electorate. And what did they do? They did what Prof. Smith said was done with a view to popular feeling in the States. They adopted the term unrestricted reciprocity, but they have not explained how it can be carried out without including objectionable features of the commercial union scheme. Unrestricted reciprocity would involve the free admittance of United States manufactures and endanger Canadian industries; it would include the loss of revenue, and it would necessitate discrimination against Great Britain. Mr. White or some other advocate of free trade with the States may know of some practical plan of unrestricted reciprocity without discrimination, but if so they have not taken the public into their confidence.

Runaway.

The horses of the Metropolitan delivery wagon were frightened this morning by a watering cart and ran away. They ran up Water-st. to Antrim-st., where, striking against a post, the waggon was left. The horses turned east on Smith-st. and were caught before going much further. The horses were unhurt but the wagon suffered some damage.

The Central Exhibition.

A meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society was held on Saturday afternoon, at which the work of revising the prize list was pushed forward almost to completion. Prizes, in articles and in money, have been contributed to the value of $625. This is encouraging to the Directors and Society, as the amount is larger than in previous years. The number of contributors is also larger, showing an increased interest in the exhibition and appreciation of its results. Any persons who wish to contribute prizes may do so by communicating with the President, Mr. Wm. Rutherford, or the Secretary, Mr. Wm. Collins, this week, before the list is sent to press.

Literary Notes.

Mr. Wm. Bryce, publisher, Toronto, continues to furnish the latest novels in popular form. Among the recent copyright stories published by him are "The Silent Shore, or The Mystery of St. James' Park," by John Bloundelle-Burton (price 52 cents); "Diana Barrington," an interesting romance of Central India, by Mrs. John Croker (30 cents), and "The Case of Doctor Plemen," by Rene de Pont-Jest (25 cents). To be had at the bookstores or from the publisher.

A deeply interesting little book of 55 pages is the Reminiscenses of the late Hon. and Rt. Rev. Alexander Macdonell, first Catholic bishop of Upper Canada, published by Williamson & Co., Toronto. Incidentally facts regarding other old residents are given, and the work is embellished with a portrait of Bishop Macdonell.

"Signs of Character" is a copiously illustrated work by Mr. A. Wallace Mason, of Toronto, explaining, by contrasting opposite characters, how to read a character at sight. Prenology and physiognomy are both explained, though the former is more dwelt upon. With the aid of this book, almost anyone could learn to read character.

Square Timber.

Mr. Archie Brook's raft of 25,000 feet of square timber, rafted at Belleville, has safely reached Quebec. It was a fine lot of timber and the Quebec papers note its quality in announcing its arrival.

Found Out.

The Chief Constable after considerable trouble and good detective work has located the man who dumped the pig [illegible] on Water-st. near the Goose pond. He will appear before the P. M. on Wednesday.

Drowned.

On Saturday evening while Messrs. John Crowley, of Harvey, and John Connors, of Otonabee, were returning from Bobcaygeon to Crowley's Island in a boat, a sudden squall caught the craft. Mr. Crowley fell in and was drowned. At last accounts the body had not been recovered. Mr. Crowley was a man well up in years and he was well known throughout the district.

A newspaper man in search of important information entered the office of one of our leading municipal men the other morning and found that gentleman with both feet upon his desk and chair tilted back taking it very easy. "And when a gentleman comes into my office I take my feet from my desk," retorted the scribe. Down came the feet and off came the hat, the information was given. It related to the excellent value now being given at fair's where 15 cent prints are going at 10 cents per yard. The M. M. endorsed the sale and said his wife and daughter never looked so attractive as when costumed in golden lion prints.

FELLOW WORKMEN,—I take this way of telling you what I intend doing. I will not fight against the carpenters any longer. I cannot earn my bread and butter without them, nor they without the bricklayer. Let us do to men as we would have them do to us, is my motto. I find that contractors are willing to pay a fair price for work done. If that price is set let us take it and return fair value in honest work. I have a just reason for doing as I have, and if you require that answer officially I will send it through the paper.

A Smoky Atmosphere.

During the last three days the town has been filled with a dense smoke, so thick as to almost obscure buildings across the street from one. Bush fires are reported to be raging both to the north and very largely on the eastern side of the county. A traveller who drove on Saturday through parts of the County of Hastings reports extensive fires in progress and dangerously near the line of the C. P. R. at that. A resident from out near Buckhorn describes large fires destroying everything in its path and doing much damage along the Harvey shore of Buckhorn Lake. He mentions the loss by one farmer of nearly 125 cords of hard wood which had been piled in a clearing ready for hauling out. Unless copious rains speedily fall it is feared that serious losses will ensue not only in the forests, but to fences and outbuilding of the farmers which are exposed to danger.

THE TEMPLE DEDICATED

BY MAJOR BAILEY AND OTHER OFFICERS OF THE SALVATION ARMY.

Five Rousing Meetings on Saturday and Sunday—Large Crowds at All—The Band Chariot and the free-for-all Meetings on the Market Square draw Immensely.

The new Salvation Army temple on Simcoe-st, was duly dedicated on Saturday night, according to the ceremonies and rites of the organization. Each of the incoming trains on Saturday brought officers and soldiers, not only from all places in the Peterborough division, but from numerous points outside, and by eight o'clock at night there was largest gathering of prominent officers and soldiers ever seen here.

During the afternoon a band, in a "grand" chariot, according to the bills, paraded through the streets distributing bills, the most prominent features of which were in old type "Why I Shot the Indian."

After the open air meeting on the market square on Saturday night, the dedication services took place at the barracks. Major Bailey, of Toronto, second in command in the Dominion, had charge and among the other officers present were Major Spooner in charge of the Montreal and Quebec districts, Major Glover, Toronto, Field Secretary, Major Woolley, Hamilton, Staff captains Morris, Hamilton, Simcoe, Quebec, Banks, in charge of Woman's Training Home, Toronto, Adjutants Philpot, Kingston, Marshall, Ottawa, Bolton, Peterborough, and Van Allen, Toronto, Captains Cowan, of the Rescue Home, Toronto, Gage and Pople, Toronto, Cook, Kingston, Sharp, Cobourg, Webber, Norwood, Sexton, Toronto, Smith, Bowmanville, Addy, Lakefield, Lindsay, Brampton, Leonard, Lindsay, and Cadet McKee of Minden.

The spacious building was well filled when shortly after eight o'clock Major Bailey took charge and opened the services by announcing a song, which was sung with vigor, to the accompaniment of the band and many tambourines. Prayer by Major Spooner, Montreal, followed.

Major Bailey remarked that he was glad to be in Peterborough and his assertion was received with a volley. He asked all present to turn from iniquity and come to God, Who was waiting with outstretched arms to receive sinners. He exhorted the listeners to deal with the present time as eternity would come all right. He did not want the audience to look to the staff of specials, but all should look to God.

Captain Cowan, of the Rescue Home, Toronto, sang a solo, and Mark Spencely, of local fame, followed with another. Testimonies were heard from several of the memers of the Peterborough division, including that of Cadet Cunningham, who has been attending the training school at Toronto. Songs followed and Major Spooner, in an earnest address, asked all to come to Christ at once. Major Bailey asked for those who desired to live with Christ to come forward, and in response to his invitation two came to the penitent bench. Prayer by Adjutant Philipot closed the meeting.

SUNDAY MORNING.

At 7 a.m. a knee drill was held in the basement of the temple. There was a good attendance and two souls were given to God.

At 11 o'clock the attendance was not extra large, there being room for a number who were not present.

Captain Cowan, of Toronto, sang a solo and did it well too.

Major Bailey preached a good sermon, taking as his topic, "The Christianity of Jesus Christ." He opened by asking all to help to bear Christ's cross and help him with his brethern and work in the right path. He requested all to be of one accord and one mind, as the devil liked nothing better than splits and lifelling among the followers of Christ. All should be as one, a unit. When the members of the Christian church are of one mind God will do great things for the people. All should be one with God and share his trials and glory. God humbled himself and Christians should come down of their own accord and not wait until God pulled them down. Christ, from the manger to the cross, humbled himself and was obedient, and was exhalted to the highest position that the world ever knew or ever will know. Every person must work out their own salvation with fear and trembling. They should see that they are blameless and sincere, so that they can shine out as lights of the world. He had found that many people had very befogged ideas as to what Christianity meant, they have different versions of it. True Christianity is not found in fine buildings, brass bands, forms, ceremonies or vestments. To have true Christianity man must have the nature of Christ and the spirit of God. He must be converted by God, have the character of Christ, and be filled with Divine love and righteousness. He must endure many trials and have a hatred of all that is bad. His body, mind, and soul must be given to God. His life must be in harmony with his teachings and he must give proofs that he is sincere by his actions, and let the world see that he is living up to the requirements of Christianity and use all endeavors to destroy the works of the devil. Without a cross there is no victory and if Christians will only go to work there is no doubt about the victory. True Christianity only comes from a whole hearted consecration to God. Half hearted measures do not avail anything. All should take up Christ's cross and bear it and then they will taste the sweets of life.

Captain Cowan, Toronto, sang a solo "Just as I am."

Captains Banks, Kingston, and Cook, Toronto, gave testimonies and after a short address by Major Bailey, two persons professed conversion.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

At 2.15 a fine brass band and some of the leading officers present marched to the market square and held an open air meeting. They were afterwards joined by the rank and file and a procession to the temple followed.

The temple was filled to the doors and the elevated seats for the soldiers were all occupied, the band taking positions in front.

The services opened with song and prayer, Major Bailey being in command.

Staff Captain Morris, D.O., accompanied by his two sons on cornets, sang a solo.

Cadet McCabe, of Minden, gave a testimony relating how he had been saved and the great satisfaction he had since had.

Captain Lindsey, of Brampton, told of his conversion in Lindsay a few years ago and of how he carried the name with him. In his division God was working with a will, as instanced by the fact that over 70 souls had been saved in 8 months. For that he thanked God and asked all who were unsaved to come forward and drink at the fountain.

Major Spooner read from the War Cry, a letter from Captain Price, headed "How things are working in Quebec," showing that the work of the army is progressing rapidly in that province. The speaker then said that 55,000 people in the city of Quebec believed that God licensed sin, but thanks to God the Salvation Army are lifting up a different standard and showing the benighted people that Christ is the only Mediator, whereb they may be saved. The English corps in Quebec in the first year secured 240 converts. Out of this number they knew of only 17 backsliders. 52 were of a floating population, sailors and commercial travellers, of whom they could keep no trace. He doubted if any corps in the country could show a better percentage. This was gained only after hard fighting, as the army has to meet opposition in Quebec that is not met with elsewhere. All the opposition does not by any means come from the Roman Catholics. Many Protestants are as bad if not worse than them. The pupils of the Roman Catholic schools were actually forbidden to rub against the soldiers of the army and they were told to cross the street when they saw a red coated soldier coming. He related the experience of a Protestant girl who joined the army against the wishes of her parents and told how she had finally overcome all obstacles and was at present one of the leading soldiers of the army. In Quebec, he said, there is an undercurrent at work, that is bound to break up opposition and save all. The time is rapidly coming when all will see the light and he asked God to speed it. At Cowansville, 20 souls had recently given themselves to God and of these 10 were French Canadians. The French work is very severe. They had not only to fight against Roman Catholicism, but they had to fight the authorities as well, and at the present time they had no less than four law suits pending. He thanked the press for the work they are doing and characterized the residents of Quebec as being worse than the heathens of India, and concluded by asking for assistance to keep to old chariot rolling along.

Captain Cowan, of the Rescue Home, Toronto, followed. She said that during the last four months 16 or 17 girls had passed through their hands. Most of these are in good situations and nearly all profess to have been converted. He told of a girl brought to the home by a police officer, who had a black eye, received in a drunken street braul, who changed her religion and was now a good girl. Many harlots had the idea that once they were down they could not raise themselves again, but she tried in every possible means to disabuse their mind of that idea and to pursuade them that by giving their hearts to God, they would be lifted up and saved. She referred to the case of another fallen girl, the daughter of a church of England clergyman, who had been saved through the instrumentality of the home and thanked God for the great work He was doing.

Major Bailey announced that he was about to perform a christening ceremony. He said that it was not done as a matter of form. He expected that parents should know that they must dedicate their children to God and keep the promises they make to God and the army. The parents before him came of their own free will. They were not dragged forward and God would expect all the more of them. He believed that the comrades before him were saved or he would not have anything to do with them. The majority of the people present, he said, were acquainted with Mark Spencely and the life he formerly lead. He was a changed man now and he found Salvation so good that he wanted his children dedicated to God and the army. He looked for the time, before long, when the line will be closely drawn between righteousness and sin, and when instead of dozens, the army will be called upon to send hundreds of missionaries to India, and perhaps the children before him might be called on to go.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencely stood up in front of the platform, with two children, a comrade holding the Army flag over their heads.

Major Bailey christened them Edna and Carrie Spencely, in the name of the Father, Holy Ghost and the General of the Salvation Army. He instructed the parents to teach the children to love God and hate the devil and to keep them as far from evil as possible. To watch over and educate them so that when they come to mature years they will be satisfied with the old time religion and want nothing else. He hoped that God might give them wisdom to say God's will be done and hoped that the children might grow up to be warriors for God, genuine blood and fire soldiers, and gain many victories for Christ.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencely followed with their testimonies, promising to rear the children in the proper way.

Mr. Jas. Chatten and wife next stepped to the front and their child was christened Alice.

Major Bailey, after performing the services, remarked that the injunctions given before would apply with equal force now. He hoped that the child would grow up and achieve great victories.

Major Spooner prayed and Mr. Chatten gave a short testimony.

After a short address from Major Bailey, the meeting was dismissed.

SUNDAY EVENING.

After a march and open air meeting on the market square, the army filed into the temple, which was filled from end to end.

After prayer, Captain Cook, of Kingston, sang a solo, and comrade Stanley, of Toronto, told how he was saved through the instrumentality of Captain Bolton (now Adjutant Bolton of Peterborough.)

Staff Captain Morris, D.O., sang a solo, "Are you Ready," with band accompaniment.

Mr. Kane, a convert who professed religion in the morning, gave his testimony, and comrade Baker, of Toronto, followed.

Adjutant Bolton, who, by the way, is one of the Army's best speakers in Canada, told of the great changes that he had noticed in his division. He asked for Divine guidance and hoped that all unsaved souls would come to the fountain.

Adjutant Marshall, of Ottawa, referred to the fact that in Woodstock district a hotel keeper, his wife and the bartender had all been converted and the hotel turned into a machine shop.

Major Bailey read from Ezekiel the prophet and said that the love of the mercy of God flowed all over the world. Wherever it has touched lands have become fertile. The stream has flown for 1900 years. It is flowing into heathen nations and all can swim in it. It will bring light, joy, comfort and vigor to every sin stricken soul. There is no bottom to the stream and there is a chance for all. The love of God is sufficient to cover all. Calvary's stream is flowing steadily and will make all clean and bright. The blessed things of God will spring up where all was barren. The stream from Calvary counteracts another stream. It started in the garden of Eden and is rapidly widening with sin and disobedience against God. It is now a mighty torrent of iniquity. People should stand on the brink and cry stop. They should stand on the bank and cry "here is a landing place." There is a chance for all to get out. They should hold out the ropes and those who are sinking should not be late in catching hold. All should be saved and do something to stop the torrent.

Major Woolley, of Hamilton, led in prayer and the meeting was dismissed.

ON MONDAY.

A private council of the officers was held at the old barracks, this morning.

At 3 p. m. a great march took place through the town.

From 5 to 7 30 this evening a banquet will take place in the basement of the new temple, to which all are invited. Tickets from soldiers or at the door.

At 8 p.m. "Tragic scenes of life and death," after march, and at 11 p. m. the all night prayer meeting will commence.

For to-morrow the programme is as follows:—

1.30 p. m., council in old barracks, Aylmer-st.; 3 p. m., officer's tea in temple; 7 p. m., march and meeting on market square; 8 p. m., inside the temple. Great farewell of staff and field officers and Hallelujah Rock-a-Bye Baby meeting, officers and soldiers to their post 15 minutes before time to start to pray.

Brevities.

—The Police Court calendar was a blank this morning.

—The Toronto Cricket Club will play a match here with the home club on Thursday.

—A drive of logs belonging to Gilmour & Co. are passing through town. They are an excellent lot of logs.

—Mr. Wm. Buller, with one horse, drew the new machine, weighing 6,000 pounds, to Baptie's planing mill.

—Mother Goose practice on Tuesday afternoon in the usual place, at 3 p. m. All the children are requested to attend.

—Turner, the tent maker and awning manufacturer, is just now in the midst of the bother of moving. Turner's business has outgrown the capacity of the old stand so he hies him and his stock off to the new shop, corner of George and King-sts. It is not just the time to order a tent or awning—that is not the most convenient time for Turner—but in a day or two he will be ready to handle everything in the line quicker than ever. He was so busy that he was obliged to refuse an order to get up two splendid banners for Orange Lodges in Victoria County, wanted for the 12th.

Bodily health and vigor may be maintained as easily in the heat of summer, as in the winter months, if the blood is purified and vitalized with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Every person who has used this remedy has been greatly benefited. Take it this month.

An Independent Shop.

Wyatt & Turner wish to state that they are not in combination or connection with, doing business with, working together with, either directly, indirectly or any way whatsoever, with any house in Peterborough, but purely, simply and independently on their own hook. They could not give such a guarantee if this was nor the case. For solid, lasting, unadulterated bargains give them a call. See adv. 2d12

One of the greatest surprises to the English public at the Colonial Exhibition in London was the extensive and artistic display of Memorial Windows and Household Stained Glass from the celebrated McCausland & Son, Toronto. The Prince of Wales and thousands of others openly expressed their surprise and delight in the specimens of glass works.

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in place of this stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

She well knew Uncle Sandy's pride in his belongings, a pride which caused some painful struggles in his soul between the love of a good appearance and the love of pelf.

So she put up her rich golden hair in becoming coils and short wavy braids, arrayed herself in a polonaise of soft creamy muslin over her black satin skirt, and tied an old-fashioned enamel locket with black velvet round the snowy throat which her open corsage permitted to be seen. This, and a large spray of red geranium and fern on one side of her bodice, were her only ornaments.

She was quite ready, and not dissatisfied with herself, some time before the hour at which the travelers were expected, so she sat down to the piano and played dreamily to Kenneth, who had also got himself up with care.

"They are late, are they not?" said Mona, and as she spoke the sound of approaching wheels made itself heard.

"No," he returned; "the train must have been punctual—here they come!"

"Now the mystery will be solved!" cried Mona, rising and following Kenneth into the hall, where at the open door stood "Wallace," a fine, black colly, barking an uproarious welcome.

Uncle Sandy descended in a very dislocated fashion from the phaeton, with Kenneth's help, and advanced to meet Mona, who kissed him kindly.

"I'm awfu' weary!" he said; "I hope the denner is ready?"

"Yes, quite ready, uncle," she returned, darting a curious look beyond him at a gentleman who was in the act of crossing the threshold—a man not much above middle height, wrapped in a loose ulster, the high collar of which almost meeting the traveling-cap pulled over his eyes, effectually concealed his face. He came forward under the lamp, and turning to him, Mr. Craig said with unusual warmth—

"I'm varra glad to see your mother's son under my roof. This is my niece—I was near saying my daughter—Miss Craig."

The stranger threw back his coat and took off his cap. As he bowed, the strong light fell upon him, and Mona found herself face to face with Leslie Waring, greatly changed and looking years older, but still unmistakably Leslie Waring.

For a moment or two Mona felt blind and dizzy, so great, so sudden was her surprise. Then she recovered herself all the more rapidly, because he seemed perfectly unmoved—while she could only exclaim in an agitated voice—"Mr. Waring!"

He said quietly—"This is a most unexpected pleasure," and took the hand she extended mechanically.

"Eh, mon!" cried Uncle Sandy, "do ye ken Mona? How's this? Ye never told me."

"I had no idea Miss Joscelyn was in any way related to you!" said Waring, with a smile.

"Miss Joscelyn? There's no Miss Joscelyn here. This is my niece, Mona Craig!"

"I remember now," said Waring, quickly; "I beg your pardon. I had the pleasure of knowing Miss Craig some years ago, in London."

"It is varra remarkable; but there's time enough to talk about it a'. Go, tak' off yer coat. Keuneth, show Mr. Waring his room. Come, my bairnie, tell Jessie to bring up the vivars. I'm just faint like; it has been a cold journey."

"Will you take a little whisky and water at once, uncle?" asked Mona, trying to remember her duties with an effort, so dazed did she feel at this astounding reappearance.

"Aweel, it might be better to do so. Just hang up my coat, will you? Eh, but you have a fire that's enough to set a' the chimneys in Kirkstoun burning; still it looks gran'. The young mon will think auld Sandy Craig has a fine hoose o' his ain. It's varra strange you knowing each other. Thank you, my dearie," as she handed him his allowance of whisky and water.

"But, uncle, how in the world did you come to know Mr. Waring?"

"Me? Aweel, I knew him when he was a wee bairn, but it's lang years since. His mother was Mr. Leslie's daughter. You'll mind my telling you o' the great hoose o' Maceachern & Leslie. Leslie was the gran' gentleman of the firm; and his daughter—eh, my word, she was a bonnie! she was the young leddy that ought to have been my wife, and this lad's eyes are just like his mother's—she married a proud, upsetting Englishman; but the siller was hers, and the boy was named after her father. He has been fulish, I'm fearin' and has spent a cruel lot o' money, gaming awfu' and racin' and rampaging. So mething turned him wrong; noo he seems more wise-like, and has settled doon on a farm in America. He came over aboot some law plea, a bit o' money that was coming to him through his mother, and so he came on to Glasgh, to speak to Mr. Cochran, who was aye the adviser of a' the hoose, an' there he found me. I was right glad to meet him, and—but here he is, and Jessie, too. The denner's ready. I'm glad to see you in my hoose, Mr. Waring. Give me your arm. I am a puir frail body."

Waring threw a smiling glance at Mona, as if asking pardon for preceding her, and led his host into the dining-room.

Mona took her place at the head of the table with an over-powering sense of embarrassment, mixed with self-reproach.

"Something had turned him wrong?" Uncle Sandy said; "was she that 'something?'"

Pride came to her assistance, however; she must not let him see how overwhelmed she really was. By a resolute effort she recalled her self-control, and played the part of hostess with sweet gravity and simple kindness; but though avoiding Waring's eyes, she keenly observed how greatly he had changed. He looked taller because he had grown thinner. His strong figure looked firmer and more set; his face, longer, darker, more imbrowned, and grave, if not absolutely sad; it had completely lost the florid fleshiness of early manhood; his eyes, too, seemed larger and more thoughtful; but his long thick mustache, drooping to either side, showed when he smiled that his rather large teeth were as brilliantly white as before; his hands, that used to be so creamy and plump, were burned almost black, and showed both bone and muscle, as though they and hard work were acquainted. Yes, he was changed wonderfully, but improved. His old, good-humored eagerness to please and to be pleased was replaced by profound repose of manner, as if the effervescence of youth had entirely evaporated, and left a slightly weary but kindly quietude behind.

He ate his dinner as if he liked it, and did not say much; once he looked round the pretty, comfortable room admiringly, and exclaimed—

"You cannot think, Mr. Craig, how delightful all this seems to me. The bright silver and glass, the flowers, the look of refinement—these things want a woman's touch!"

"I suppose you have no young leddies oot yonder?"

"No; my partner, like myself, is a bachelor. Indeed, it has hitherto been too rough for ladies; but we are improving rapidly. We had nearly finished a log house when I left; quite an architectural mansion," added Waring, laughing.

His laugh was still frank and pleasant.

"I hope your partner is an honest man," quoth Mr. Craig.

MURDERED BY MORMONS.

An Englishwoman's Story of Life in Utah—Four Days Without Food.

CHICAGO, July 16.—A woman giving her name as Elizabeth Turnbull Rutler, formerly from England, was picked up in the street, apparently fainting from hunger. She claimed to have had nothing to eat during a four days' trip from Ogden on her way to England. She told a terrible story of her experience among the Mormons. Her son, she stated, had been induced against the wish of his parents to join a party of emigrants organized by Mormon missionaries in England. Not hearing from him, it was learned he had been prevented by the elders from writing. The father, frantic with anxiety, followed to Utah. He found employment with a Mormon farmer named Joseph Holbert, but was unable to save enough to continue the search until he pretended to join the church. Then Rutler got money and sent some to his wife, but all letters, telling of the condition of affairs in Utah, were intercepted and others substituted urging her to come to Utah with the missionaries. She obeyed, and claimed the women in the party were subjected to fearful indignities en route by the elders.

Rutler was murdered shortly after she joined him. He had inadvertently given a young Mormon an inkling of his plans to find his boy and escape. The Mormons asserted that Rutler's death was accidental. The woman was defrauded out of her husband's savings, but fleeing to Ogden she earned enough money by working in a hotel to pay her passage home. The amount of railroad fares was larger than she expected, but sooner than delay longer she deprived herself of food on the journey to Chicago.

ANOTHER PARTY OF ICELANDERS EN ROUTE FOR CANADA.

The Indian Outbreak in British Columbia —Major General Cameron's Commission as Commandant of the Kingston Royal Military College Issued.

OTTAWA, July 16.—It is understood that His Excellency has granted a pardon to a young man named Johns of Saaish, B. C., who had been undergoing a sentence for criminal assault. At the trial the question was raised that the charge of Chief Justice Begbee was incorrect in point of law and a writ of error was entered in the Supreme Court of Canada but was dismissed, the judges holding that the writ of error did not bring the point before them. Chief Justice Ritchie, however, expressed the opinion that on the evidence he thought the charge might be incorrect in point of law and he would be prepared to recommend the prisoner's pardon if his opinion was asked by the Government. This view was shared by the majority of the judges. The prisoner's counsel accordingly petitioned for an expression of opinion by the Supreme Court, which was granted, and the result is the prisoner's release.

With reference to the alleged calling out of C Battery in British Columbia to suppress an Indian outbreak in that province, Sir Adolphe Caron said this afternoon:

"I have received no information from the commandant of C. Battery. The statement is made that they were called out by the civil authorities, but the department has no knowledge of the matter."

Under the Act the militia can be called out on the requisition of three justices of the peace, and this may have been done. The trouble is understood to be at a place called Hazelton, on the Skeena, where a constable who was trying to arrest an Indian charged with murder was assaulted and shot one of his assailants in self-defence.

THE EMPRES VICTORIA.

LIGHT THROWN UPON THE STORY THAT SHE IS A PRISONER.

The Disappearance of Certain State Papers —Emperor William Anxious to Obtain Possession of the Documents.

LONDON, July 16.—A Berlin correspondent throws some light upon the story that the Empress Victoria is virtually a prisoner. Although she is not under lock and key she is so surrounded by officials and soldiers of the court as not to be free. It appears that certain State papers have disappeared. They are reports sent in from St. Petersburg, Vienna and London by the German military attaches there, and these papers were at Friedrichskron on the evening of the Emperor's death. They disappered, however, on the next day. Besides this a certain political testament of Emperor Frederick has been sent to London, and its return is especially desired. All attempts to recover these papers thus far have been made in vain. Emperor William has sent in turn all of his ministers to his mother for information concerning these papers, but none of them have been received with the exception of Herr Friedborg, Minister of Justice, and a friend of the late Emperor. He was received but obtained no information. It was following his failure that the access to the Empress was strictly guarded and has been so since.

Prince Radalin had been asked to make the last attempt, and in the event of a final failure, it is said that a formal judicial process will be brought against the Dowager Empress to secure the return of the papers. Prince Bismarck has certain plans to carry out. It is known that Emperor Frederick's political testament crosses this, and the publication might check his course. He would not care to be placed before the public in the light of encouraging the son to go directly in opposition to his father's wishes. Hence his anxiety to gain control of those papers, and the scandalous course towards the Dowager Empress.

The bank people say that there is not a word of truth in the story.

British Columbia Indians Rising.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 16.—There is great excitement over the reports from Skeene River. The steamer Caribou Fly arrived yesterday and her officers say that when the steamer left Skeene River it was reported that Mr. Clifford, in charge of the Hudson's Bay Company at Hazleton, and one of the special constables sent from here had been murdered by the Indians. The Indians are thoroughly excited, and threaten to exterminate all the whites in that part of the country. H. B. Roger, of the Provincial police, will leave to-day for the scene of the trouble with a force of special policemen. H. M. S. Caroline arrived last night and will probably convey the force and "C" Battery to the mouth of the Skeene River. It will be impossible for her to ascend the Skeene owing to low water and the rapids. The only way the troops can go up is in canoes and it is estimated this will occupy three weeks, as it is 90 miles up river to the scene of the trouble. The Indians who are causing the trouble are the worst on the coast.

IN THE TOILS OF THE LAW.

Geo. J. Jarvis and Mrs. Allen Campbell Arrested.

CLEVELAND, July 16.—Four weeks ago a stylishly-dressed man and an equally well-dressed woman came to Cleveland and secured apartments on Franklin-avenue, the fashionable street of West Side aristocracy. They lived there quietly as man and wife and conducted themselves in a refined manner. On Saturday night just before midnight a police detective and two officers aroused the inmates of the house and searched it. They had a warrant for Geo. J. Jarvis and Mrs. Magdalene Campbell. The officers waited patiently till they had dressed themselves, then they were taken to the Central Station in a hack and locked up on a charge of adultery. They remained in prison until Monday morning, when they revealed their identity to the police and caused a big sensation at the same time. Mrs. Campbell was discovered to be the wife of Allen Campbell. George J. Jarvis, her companion, is a son of the late sheriff of Toronto, and both were taken into the judge's private office, where they told their stories. Jarvis announced that he was married and had two children. About a year ago he left his wife and settled $35,000 on her. He had been intimate with Mrs. Campbell, who is the daughter of a deceased army officer, and was living in Toronto with her mother. Jarvis a short time ago went to Europe, first arranging that she should marry Allen Campbell. This scheme was successfully carried out, and when Jarvis came back he found his former mistress living quietly as Mrs. Campbell. Things went on until Jarvis, who has lots of money, got on a spree, and then he immediately hunted up Mrs. Campbell and persuaded her to run away with him, and she consented apparently without much hesitation, and they at once came to this city. Mrs. Campbell was finely attired, and her diamonds sparkled strangely in the dark prison. "Of course I lived with George as his wife," she said. "It was wrong, but I love him as I never have, never can, love Allen. When Gerge came for me I could not resist." She states that she married Campbell in April last and Jarvis announced that they were in this State with the ultimate object of procuring respective divorces and then being married. The couple were released on bail until Wednesday. The aristocratic people who received Jarvis and Mrs. Campbell in society are badly shocked.

THE FISHERIES TREATY.

Mr. Pugh Addresses the Senate in Favor of its Ratification.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Fishery Treaty in open executive session and was addressed by Mr. Pugh in favor of its ratification. He said that the people of Canada were naturally citizens of the United States and could be made so by practice, so that it would be the best policy of the people of the States to be liberal and forbearing with that neighboring people. The reason for the opposition to the treaty was found in the fifteenth article, which, it was feared, would give the American market to Canada.

He referred to a statement made by Mr. Sherman in secret session that he intended to offer an amendment to strike out the fifteenth article under the general understanding that amendments were to be offered and said it was not until Republican Senators had determined that no amendments would be offered that they agreed to bring the treaty into open discussion.

In conclusion he said that the President had discharged his duty with due care to the rights of American fishermen and free from any partisan consideration. It was for the people to decide whether the President or the Senate was most to blame for keeping up the disturbed condition which was full of ruinous consequences.

Mr. Chandler addressed the Senate in opposition to the Treaty.

TOO MUCH FUN, PERHAPS.

Alleged Bad Effects of Co-Education at the Capital.

OTTAWA, July 16.—For a long time the rules at the Ottawa Normal School to prevent the commingling of the sexes were of the strictest kind. The were not even allowed to recognize each other on the street. Last year the rules were relaxed so far as to permit the young men to call on the young ladies and keep their company in the evenings. This conclusion was thought wise in view of the fact that the privilege was already enjoyed by some disobedient students. Just here the significant results engaged the attention of the faculty. Last year no student was awarded the Governor-General's medal at the annual examinations. There was a good deal of typhoid prevalent then among the stduents and the failure of any one to qualify as a medalist did not, therefore, attract much attention. This year, however, at the examinations recently held not a single student qualified for the medal, and moreover, there were no honor students, an extraordinary result, which members of the faculty attribute to the association of the sexes in the evenings, which under other circumstances more favorable to study were formerly devoted to the acquirement of knowledge. Here is a problem for those who consider cause and effect to ponder.

How the Log Raft Must be Navigated.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 16.—The log raft at Joggins is almost ready to launch, and the Government has as yet taken no steps to prevent it. The Minister of Marine told Parliament last session that the Government would during the recess consider measures to prevent such rafts going to sea, as they endanger shipping. The only law on the subject now is one providing that rafts while drifting or at anchor, shall show a bright fire from sunset to sunrise, and that they shall be so navigated as to cause no unnecessary obstruction to vessels in Canadian waters. The owner is liable for damages if these rules are broken.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 16.—"Asiatic cholera" were the startling words which fell from the lips of Dr. McCandless shortly after noon, Thursday, as he stood at the death-bed of Peter Mack, a foundryman living at 73 Clark-street. After death yellow spots broke out all over his body. It cannot be learned how Mack took the disease.

THE MANITOBA RAILWAYS

ARRANGEMENT WITH THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

Public Analyst John Wright Drowned While Sailing—The Grasshopper Plague in Dakota—Fifty Miles of the Northwest Central Graded.

WINNIPEG, July 16.—It is now said the railway scheme is that the Northern Pacific is to purchase the Red River Valley Railroad outright for $700,000, less $300,000, which they would have received as Government aid had they constructed the road themselves. The Northern Pacific refuse to allow running powers to other roads but allow the Government to fix rates.

The Government want the company to agree to a maximum rate which is lower than the C.P.R to Duluth on wheat, etc., but the company are not inclined to make this concession. It is generally believed the arrangements will be reached before long.

John Wright, public analyst, was drowned in the Red River this afternoon while sailing a canoe in a high wind. His body has been recovered.

THE DEAD EMPEROR'S PROJECT

For the Improvement of Alsace-Lorraine—But it Was Not to Be.

NEW YORK, July 16.—A Berlin dispatch to the Herald says a private letter of the dead Kaiser which has just come to light, reveals that he had two objects uppermost in his heart. The first was the settlement of the Alsace-Lorraine question, and the second the marriage of his daughter Victoria. For months, perhaps years, his whole mind was given to the Alsace-Lorraine problem. Had he lived he would have tried the experiment of giving Alsace-Lorraine virtual home rule with Prince Alexander of Battenberg as governor. Then maybe we might have seen the realization of a grand dream. "Germany," he wrote, "would have been delivered from the cancer which has been eating away her life since 1870, even as I shall perhaps be freed from the cancer which is eating into my throat." With Germany and Alsace-Lorraine independent there would be an end of the deadly feud between the Gaul and the Teuton. Europe would disarm and peace and good-will reign on earth.

SMALLPOX AT BUFFALO.

The Bison City Threatened with an Epidemic of the Dread Disease.

BUFFALO, July 16.—Buffalo is promised another repetition of the great smallpox epidemic of 1872, if the efforts of Health Physician Clark and the Board of Health are not successful. This morning Dr. Bussman reported to the Board of Health that he had what he thought was a case of smallpox on Townsend-street. Dr. Clark at once went to the place which turned out to be the house of Jos. Kazsamustak, at 235 Townsend-street, where he found two children ill with the disease. Neighbors were passing in and out and it was learned that one of the children had been ill for a week before the doctor was called. The neighbors who were passing in and out were apparently oblivious of the fact that the disease had made its appearance.

The Troublesome Chinamen.

TACOMA, W.T., July 16.—Chinamen are still coming over the Canadian border illegally. Deputy-Marshal Winslow captured ten Mongolians on Saturday crossing toward Edison, near the Whatcom County line. While bringing them along the road two of them slipped down a steep bank and disappeared. The remaining eight were brought to Seattle. When taken before U.S. Commissioner Emery the Chinamen claimed they had been on the Sound for some time. The Commissioner issued writs of deportation, which means that they will be sent to McNeil Island penitentiary for an indefinite period.

Murdered His Shipmates.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Capt. Tyson of the steamer Erin from London, reports that on July 9, at 7.20 a. m., Patrick Kelly, a seaman aged 36 years, murdered two of his shipmates, John Parry and John Chapman, while they were asleep in their bunks. He stabbed them both to the heart with a sheath knife killing them instantly. The only cause assigned for the crime is that Kelly had a slight quarrel with one of the murdered men the evening before. The murderer was manacled and confined. He will be turned over to the British consul.

Queen Natalie's Demand.

Over 400 boats are lying between the Brighton lock and Syracuse, and 100 between Adams' Basin and Buffalo.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, JULY 17, 1888.

A BOARD OF TRADE.

THERE is no doubt, as Mr. J. H. Burnham says in a letter published elsewhere in this paper, that Boards of Trade have proved to be useful organizations in other towns and cities. Cities much larger than Peterborough have found them to be beneficial, and towns considerably smaller have been benefitted by them. In view of this the question naturally arises, would not a Board of Trade be useful in this town? And, if it would, why should one not be organized at once?

As the subject has been brought forward it may not be out of place to give information as to the organization of a Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce. According to the act respecting the incorporation of Boards of Trade (R.S.C., cap. 130) any number of persons not less than thirty, who are merchants, traders, brokers, mechanics, manufacturers, managers of banks or insurance agents, and residents of any district which has a population of not less than 2,500, may associate themselves together as a board of trade. When a proper certificate regarding the organization of the Association has been forwarded to the Secretary of State and registered, the Board becomes a body corporate. The Board is empowered to appoint a board of arbitration its arbitrate upon any commercial case of difference that is voluntarily referred to them, and also to appoint a board of examiners to examine applicants for the office of inspector under the "General Inspection Act." By affiliating with the Dominion Board of Trade the members can keep in touch with the trade of the Dominion.

A Board of Trade is essentially an organization of business men. Properly constituted, it could, to a large degree, have an oversight of the business interests of the town. There is a field for such oversight outside the sphere of the Town Council, but that body would not, we believe, be loth to receive the opinion and advice of the business men on important matters, and with a Board of Trade in good working order they would be in a position to give such advice.

The one, or two, requisites for a Board of Trade are, to have a large representation of business men in the membership, and for all the members to take an interest in its operations. With a large membership of the best business men, who gave attention to the matters coming before the Board, it would be influential and useful. Those gentlemen who took an active part in the Board which formerly existed here, among whom was Mr. W. Lech, might give some information that would be useful, and if there is a desire to establish such an organization the REVIEW's columns are open to a ventilation of the subject.

MINDEN.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Monday morning while Mr. Hobden and Mr. Keers were emptying a can of milk at the cheese factory, the team took fright and started, throwing both the gentlemen out of the wagon. Mr. Hobden was badly shaken up, but not seriously hurt. Mr. Keers fell on his head and shoulders and in his descent caught into a large can used for weighing the milk in, pulling it over, the can struck him on the breast after he fell. Mr. Keers is in a rather precarious condition. Dr. Curry was called and at last accounts he is said to be out of danger.—Echo.

Shoot the Dogs.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—We read a great deal about police having guns, revolvers and ammunition to shoot the large number of tagless dogs that infest our streets at all hours of the day and night. And there it seems to end. I would like to call the attention of the Chief of Police to this matter and have the law enforced. This hot weather it is not safe for our children or others to have these curs crowding our streets, snapping at people passing by. Let work be done in this matter, and not talk by our police, and it will be appreciated by the public.

Yours truly,
Peterborough, July 17, 1888. EARNEST.

Board of Trade.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Mr. Ritchie, the Secretary of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, in the course of conversation the other day, expressed great regret that Peterborough had not some kind of local Board of Trade. It must be apparent to those interested in Peterborough that he is right and that so valuable an aid to the Town Council commends itself without argument. The people of Lindsay regard their institution as altogether necessary. Trenton, Kingston and other places of like size, find great profit in theirs. It is true that we have had one—but it is dead—and, Mr. Editor, in common with many others I make my humble plea in behalf of another. The Council is frequently desirous of taking progressive steps but do not feel fully warranted in so doing. If it were backed by a Board of Trade, composed of the merchants and other men of stamina and energy in the community, the full advantage might be taken of our admirable railway and water power facilities.

Yours, &c.,
J. HAMPDEN BURNHAM.

MOTTOES AND EMBLEMS.

I saw in a distant city
Far over the pathless sea,
A scene in the days of my boyhood
That always seems grand to me;
I beheld a vast column approaching
With plumes half clouded in dust,
And I read on its pure folds when sighted
Our motto:—"In God we Trust."

I saw the column move forward
In the ranks both the young and the old,
Arrayed in garments of splendor,
Regalias of crimson and gold.
There marched the prince and the peasant—
Methinks I can see them all now,
As they moved to the soul stirring music
With the knights of the anvil and plow.

They wore on their breasts strange devices,
Crossed guns, crossed axes and keys;
The pen, the sword and the hour-glass,
And a fresh budded rod from a tree.
One had the bow and the quiver,
Another the serpent-twined rod,
And one dressed in Heaven's regalia
Carried proudly the volume of God.

There came an old man, bearing hard on his staff,
He must have passed three score and ten;
His tottering limbs and his wrinkled brow,
How I wish I could see them again!
He bowed to the throng on his right and his left,
He was pleased with the chosen lot,
And seemed to say, as he passed us by,
"Forget it not! O, forget it not!"

Then a beautiful banner held high in its ranks,
Decked with emblems brilliant and bright,
Near the top, I remember, were three golden links,
And the heart and the hand on the right.
Near the top of the flagstaff three arrows were set,
Above them a young turtle dove,
Right under the links, in letters of gold,
Was the motto, "Truth, Friendship and Love.

"God bless the Order," an old man said,
As he tried to keep pace with the ranks;
"They cared for me, they honored my dead
That have crossed over Jordan's banks.
When death laid his hand on my only son
Without asking they came to attend;
He told me they'd come under God's command
As the widows' and orphans' friend."

"With fraternal care they carried him out,
Down where the willows wave;
With brotherly hands they laid him away
Close by his mother's grave.
Don't think it strange that I honor
These men of three links, heart and hand'
May the Order extend, may it flourish and grow,
And the sound of the gavel reach every land."

Stand firm by our banner, pure and white,
Let no stain mar its beautiful folds,
The truths that we learn from our ritual each night
Are more precious than silver or gold.
In the "battles of life" we have "trials and cares,"
Ah! who has not been by the "tempest tossed?"
If true to this motto, "In God we trust,"
We'll get nearer and nearer the cross.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,

Uncle Sam's Tariff.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Mr. Mills is well-pleased with the unexpected progress made with the Tariff Bill to-day. He now believes that its consideration can be finished within the next two days, but as many members who wish to go on record are absent, it is the present intention to defer taking the final vote on the passage of the bill until Saturday.

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Northeast and southeast winds; fair, followed by cloudy weather. Local rains or thunderstorms to-night and to-morrow. Not much change in temperature.

Here at Last.

A bonnet has been invented, made entirely of ribbon, which at the theatre or concert may be taken off and put in the pocket without injuring it. It is probable that the inventor will die poor. Not so the inventors of low priced prints, plenty of which of marvellously pretty patterns are selling so rapidly at the golden lion. 15c. prints for 10c. and splendid value.

Personal.

Mr. Richard White, of the Montreal Gazette, accompanied by Messrs. Wm. White, Q. C., Very Rev. Dean Carmichael and Rev. Canon Simpson passed through on the C. P. R. last night on their way home from the Pacific coast, where they were spending their holidays.

Tenders To Be Called For.

The Empire in its advices from Ottawa, to-day, says that tenders for the Sault St. Marie Canal will be called for very shortly, as the different surveys have been completed. This will be a great thing for our inland lake commerce and will make the hearts of the Scoltes glad.

A Miracle.

The lady referred to in the following despatch from Montreal has relatives in this vicinity:—"The steamship Canada arrived in port on Monday morning with 600 pilgrims on board, mostly belonging to St. Jean Baptiste village, and having visited the shrine of St. Ane de Beaupre. Captain Burns, who is a Paotestant, reports that he believes a miracle had been operated during the present pilgrimage in the person of Madame Joubert, of this city, who years ago lost the use of her legs and had to use a crutch while walking. The returned pilgrims allege that as soon as Mrs. Joubert had visited the relics of St. Anne, now exposed at the shrine, she felt that an instantaneous cure had been effected, and throwing her crutch away the delighted lady walked out of the church apparently as strong as she ever was in her life."

Shot a Dog.

Officer McGinty on Monday afternoon shot a dog on Water-st., near the market. The dog was of the die-hard breed and it required four bullets to despatch him. The Salvation Army meeting was in progress on the market square at the time and the reports of the revolver drew a large crowd. Moral: Buy a dog tag.

For Lindsay.

The members of the Canton, in full uniform, left for Lindsay at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon, to assist the Oddfellows in that town in decorating the graves of deceased members of the order. They were out in full strength and looked remarkably well. A number of members of Otonabee and Peterborough lodges also went up.

DEDICATING THE TEMPLE.

The Officers and Members of the Salvation Army Continue the Services.

The services in connection with the dedication of the new Salvation Army temple continued yesterday and the officers and soldiers had a regular hallelujah time.

In the morning there was an officers' council. In the afternoon a parade and meeting on the market square. In the evening a banquet in the basement of the temple, to which a large number sat down.

At 7.30 o'clock there was another parade and meeting on the market square. In it there was a new feature. In front of the procession was a wagon, in which were seated four of the hardest looking citizens that could be well imagined. They had painted noses and tattered clothes and were engaged in playing cards and drinking from flasks and bottles. In front a placard bore the legend "Before I Joined the Army." In the rear of the procession was a carriage in which were seated three officers and the placard they bore read "After I Joined the Army."

At 8 o'clock the temple was filled to the doors. Adjutant Bolton took command. After prayer and songs Major Bailey entered, accompanied by Mr. Wm. Gooderham, of Toronto. They received a tremendous ovation, the soldiers all rising to their feet and firing volley after volley.

Staff-Captain Banks led in prayer and D. O. Morris sang a solo, "Are You Ready." Rev. Mr. Soiman prayed and Adjutant Philipot sang a solo.

Major Bailey, in the course of a short address, said that in dedicating the temple they had nothing to apologize for. He did not care how the people went about it as long the end justified the means. He gave the authorities and people of Peterborough the greatest credit for the interest they took in the army, and it was said all over the country that if the army wanted a good reception, a good hearing and a good collection they must go to Peterborough. He said the chest of the army was almost empty and he asked all friends to contribute liberally. On the 26th of this month a band of Indian soldiers will visit Canada and he asked for a warm reception for them. He did not want his hearers to lose the spirit or love of God. He was looking for souls and he was willing to sacrifice all to secure them. He would rather see souls saved than gain money.

Corporal Kennie Blight, of Toronto, a boy ten years of age, with auburn hair and a red shirt, sang a solo and gave his testimony.

Mr. Wm. Gooderham received quite an ovation when he rose to speak. He commenced by stating that he was always pleased to visit Peterborough, and read from the 5th verse of the xl. chapter of Psalms. He said that what Paul said was orthodox and the army are following exactly in his lines. The army is now 23 years old, but the greater portion of the great work done had been accomplished during the last 11 years. He had been in London, England, and after seeing the hundreds of thousands of people there, he was not at all astonished that the General had left a good salary to save souls. The work done by the army is simply marvellous and Canadians will have an opportunity of seeing the General again, as he told the speaker personally, that he would visit this country during the present year. Officers of the Army are stationed in 31 countries and they speak the word of God in 27 languages. There are 2378 corps and 6500 officers. Only a few years ago he saw the first meeting in Toronto and now in that city they have 13 barracks and a rescue home. The people saw the good work that was being done and aided the army. The Salvation Army is not by any means antagonistic to the churches, but on the contrary each corps is an auxiliary and aids them greatly in increasing their membership and on the great Judgment Day hundreds of thousands of souls will thank the Army for lifting up and saving them. He referred to several instances in Toronto where much good had been done by the Army in saving drunkards and prostitutes. He asked all to contribute towards decreasing the debt on the temple. He was a good Methodist, but he confessed that he had learned more truths from the Army than ever he did in his church. He had recently lost $40,000 by the failure of the Central bank, but still he would subscribe $100 towards the building fund, for which $6000 was required. He said Peterborough was the finest place between Montreal and Toronto and he thought there should not be any difficulty whatever in raising the required amount.

Slips were then passed among the audience for signatures and quite a handsome sum was contributed.

An all night prayer meeting followed, to which quite a number remained.

The following for to-day is the programme:—

1.30 p. m., council in old barracks, Aylmer-st.; 5 p. m., officer's tea in temple; 7 p. m., march and meeting on market square; 8 p. m., inside the temple. Great farewell of staff and field officers and Hallelujah Rock-a-Bye-Baby meeting, officers and soldiers to their post 15 minutes before time to start to pray.

Captain Woodgate, who has command here, and Lieutenant Stellorker, his assistant, are certainly deserving of great credit, not by any means forgetting Adjutant Bolton, for the manner in which the meetings have been carried on.

The officers now here will proceed to Toronto on Thursday to assist in a monster demonstration to Commissioner Coombes who has charge of the army in Canada.

THE CARPENTERS.

The Resolutions Passed by them Relating to the Sub-Contract System.

The following are the resolutions passed by the Master Carpenters in relation to the sub-contract system, to which reference has been made before:—

Moved by JAMES L. HUGHES, seconded by A. DUGLAS.—That we, the contracting carpenters of the town of Peterboroug, deplore the line of action taken by the bricklayers and stonemasons of this town, as it tends to destroy the confidence of the public in not only the masons themselves but all other crafts in the building line.

Moved by Mr. G. ELLIOTT, seconded by MR. H. CARVETH.—That in the opinion of this meeting the charges made by the bricklayers and stonemasons and published in the newspapers, that the carpenters in supplying material, use a poor article to clear themselves from any loss, is wholly false and without foundation.

Moved by T. RUTHERFORD and seconded by D. GAMBLE.—That we, the undersigned carpenter contractors of the town of Peterborough, hereby resolve,—That we will not take any joint contract with any member of the bricklayers and masons union, No. 12, and that we will take whole or sub-contracts from any person or persons, except members of the above named union, from whom we will take no sub-contracts until said named union withdraws the advertisement now going on in our daily papers, or that portion of it that pertains to us, which we consider an insult and a libel and requiring an apology.

An Independent Shop.

Wyatt & Turner wish to state that they are not in combination or connection with, doing business with, working together with, either directly, indirectly or any way whatsoever, with any house in Peterborough, but purely, simply and independently on their own hook. They could not give such bargains if this was nor the case. For solid, lasting, unadulterated bargains give them a call. See adv. 2d12

GIVES SATISFACTORY RESULTS.

Dr. O. W. Weeks, Marion, O., says:—"Its use is followed by results satisfactory both to patient and physician."

"I assure you, father, the one thing needed to make the furnishing of this library complete is a lovely hanging lamp in place of the stand one which we have used for years. Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of a room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. Those ornaments up there, which I also bought at China Hall, are lovely. Every one admires them, and just half the price I was asked for the same things in Toronto; but still, father dear, I must have the lamp."

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"I hope so too. Indeed, I believe he is. He comes of a respectable English family, and has been accustomed to the life of a ranche since his early boyhood. He is a first-rate judge of cattle and horses; and if he had not much money capital to put into the venture, he contributes what is quite as valuable—knowledge and practice."

"Eh, I'm no that sure. There's as much danger as profit sometimes in the knowledge of penniless men."

"Oh, Watson is not penniless; and he is really a very good fellow."

"That is fortunate," said Mona, forcing herself to join in the conversation. "I suppose you have no other companion."

"None. A chance traveler asks for hospitality now and then, but he never stays long."

"It must be a lonely life, though I should not dislike it," said Kenneth.

"I certainly do not. There's freedom and plenty of work, and when night comes one is too tired for anything but a good night's rest."

"And I daur say you are mair peaceful and content to be awa' frae yon pow-sowdie o' conceited fules and grinning cheats they ca' the great world," said Uncle Sandy, viciously.

"Oh, human nature is pretty much the same in the wilderness or in the world of social life," said Waring, good-humoredly. "It would be but poor philosophy to cry out against the world I have left because I played the fool there; on my head be it if I threw away my fortune. There are as many good fellows—or as few good fellows—in one state of life as another."

"I believe that," said Kenneth. "I should like well to see your place, Mr. Waring."

"Why don't you come out for a bit. It is a sort of life you would like, I think."

"Eh, but he has his work cut oot for him here!" cried Uncle Sandy. "He'll find it best to bide wi' me. Noo, tell me how mony head o' cattle have ye forbye horses?"

And the three men plunged into talk, from which Mona collected that Waring had invested almost all the capital left him—after much wild extravagance and foolish speculation—in a ranch near the famous redwoods on the Pacific coast, and that, as yet, he had realized very little, though his hopes were high, and he had evidently thrown himself energetically into the undertaking.

She kept silence gladly. Waring's presence—his steady composure, his quiet submission to the inevitable—touched her deeply. She longed to cry out—

"Have you forgiven me? Can I atone for the pain I inflicted?"

But most probably he had nearly forgotten that he once loved her, and hoped to pass his life with her. She panted to be alone, to disentangle her thoughts—to master the disturbance of her mind.

As they seemed so absorbed in conversation, Mona thought she might slip away unobserved; but her uncle noticed her movement.

"Bide a bit, my lassie!" he cried. "We have sat here lang enough; we'll a' come wi' ye to the drawing-room. You shall sing us a'sang, and then I'll gang awa' to my bed. My niece sings fine, Mr. Waring," he added, as he took Mona's arm.

"I know that, Mr. Craig," returned Waring, opening the door for them to pass through; "I remember her songs well."

Mona felt that she blushed crimson, while she said, in a low tone, to her uncle—

"I have scarcely any voice to-night—do not ask me to sing."

"Hoot, toot, my dearie! you'll please us weel."

Mona stood a moment irresolute after Uncle Sandy had tumbled into the depths of his chair. Waring came to her side, and looking kindly, and perhaps a little sadly, into her eyes, said—

"Don't refuse, Miss Craig! You don't know what a treat the music of a woman's voice is to an exile like myself, especially as in a few days I shall go back to the wilds again."

"Then I will do my best," returned Mona, simply, and she went to the piano.

The song she choose was a pretty, quaint German ditty she had learned while abroad—for she did not wish to revive painful recollections by singing anything that might be familiar to Waring. He moved away, and sat in deepest thought while he listened.

"Aweel, that's not ane o' my favorites. I am not much of a musician—my opportunities have been scant—but I have an uncommon gude ear," said Uncle Sandy. "Give us a Scotch sang, my dearie!"

"If I am not presuming too far," said Waring, coming over to lean on the piano, "might I ask for an old favorite—'Robin Adair?'"

"Ay, that will do," from Uncle Sandy.

"I need not have been so careful to spare his feelings," thought Mona. "I am making a fool of myself. It is an age since I attempted it," she said aloud; "but I will try it if you like."

It was dreadfully annoying, but she could not steady her voice. She could not keep a certain tremulous pathos out of her notes. Men were so conceited—they had such a high opinion of themselves, that perhaps Leslie Waring would fancy, as she was so upset at meeting him, that she regretted having rejected him. Ah, no; he was too frank and honest, too simple and unselfish, to need the guarded treatment Lisle required. Lisle! why, he was not comparable to Leslie Waring. What wonders time and trouble had done for the latter!

"Thank you," said Waring, from his chair in a shadowy corner, where he had retreated when she began the song he had asked for. "That was an immense treat."

"Ay, there's nae music like Scotch music, nor is there any sangs for melody an' poetry, an' spirit, an'—an' historical value, like Scotch sangs," said Uncle Sandy.

"I believe the Irish claim 'Robin Adair' as their own," said Mona.

"Claim it! I daur say they do," said Uncle Sandy, contemptuously. "They'd aye claim everything; but if that lilt isna Scotch, aweel, I am no Scotch. Come, give me your hand, Mona, I'll just gang to my bed. I'm awfu' weary."

"Then may be Mr. Waring would like a smoke with me in the kitchen. I think we will have it all to ourselves in a few minutes," said Kenneth.

"Thank you, I should. One grows a little too fond of the weed when one is freed from the restraints of society."

"It's a very perneecious practice; but it's just talking to the winds to protest against it. Good-night, sirs. Kenneth, there are the keys. Mr. Waring will need a drappie after his pipe."

"Good-night," murmured Mona, as she gave her arm to her uncle.

Waring bowed, but did not attempt to shake hands with her.

It was an infinite relief to be alone, and locked into her own room. For a long time she thought confusedly, or rather a confused mass of mixed memory and thought thronged her brain, without any effort of her will.

How vividly Waring's face, pale with painful emotion, the day they last met, came back to her. He had quite forgiven her; she felt that. He was a really good fellow. She wished they could be friends again, as she was with Kenneth; but that would never be, she feared. She never could feel at ease with him. He looked as if he had suffered a good deal. Was it her fault? Oh, no! she never could admit that. She should like to let him know that she had generally a very good opinion of him, but how should she find time to do so, when he had said more than once that he would only stay a couple of days? What a curious contradictory jumble life was altogether! Mona felt unaccountably unhappy, and, laying her fair head on the pillow, she wept long and quietly before sleep closed her wet eyes.

ANOTHER DYNAMITE PLOT.

CHICAGO ANARCHISTS PLAN A REIGN OF TERROR.

The Conspiracy Contemplated the Assassination of Judges Gary and Grinnell, Inspector Bonfield and others—The Scheme Frustrated by the Police.

CHICAGO, July 17.—A dynamite bomb factory was discovered by the police this morning in a small frame building at Ashland avenue and Thirty-Third street. The owner of the place, an old anarchist, was arrested with two accomplices. A conspiracy of long standing, the object of which was the murder of Judge Gary, Judge Grinnell and Police Inspector Bonfield, was about to be put into execution. Twelve dynamite bombs, a revolver and a dagger were found in the den.

Inspector Bonfield is reported to have said that the plot was a well-arranged one. About twenty determined murderers were in the conspiracy and they were to be at a certain hour to-night at the houses of Judge Grinnell, Judge Gary, Inspector Bonfield, Assistant State's Attorney Frank Walker, Gen. Stiles and others prominent in the prosecution of the anarchists. Dynamite was to be placed beneath the houses of these and the explosive was to be touched off simultaneously. The Board of Trade was to be blown up at the same time and a wholesale reign of terror inaugurated.

Before making the first arrest, Inspector Bonfield had the house surrounded by five picked officers. Just as day light was breaking the Inspector was joined in the vicinity by a stranger and a few minutes later a man emerged from the house. The stranger nudged Bonfield and an order was given to the men who closed on the man. He made a desperate fight but was quickly overpowered and placed in charge of two of the officers. Bonfield and the other officers then rushed into the house. They were met on the stairs by a woman, the wife of the man who had been captured, but she was brushed aside and the police, guided by the stranger, entered a hall-bedroom where, hidden in a corner, the Inspector found a dozen dynamite cartridges wrapped in brown paper. A further search of the room disclosed hidden in the bed a dagger and revolver. Some bundles of letters and other papers, which were also taken care of by the police, were found. Then a patrol wagon was called and the prisoner taken to the station.

The officers next went to a house some distance away. Here two other arrests were made and all three captives were taken to the Central Station.

KING NIWANGA TERRIFIED.

The Cruel Monarch of Uganda Wild with Fear of Punishment.

LONDON, July 17.—The latest reports from Uganda say that the cruel King of that country is almost wild for fear that the Europeans are coming to finish him for the murder of Bishop Hannington. He has told Mr. Gordon, the only Englishman now at his capital, that he may consider himself a prisoner, and that he will be killed if the English come to avenge the death of Hannington. The Arabs have greatly excited the King by their exaggerated statements that the Germans and English have divided East Africa between them. They have told the credulous and ignorant ruler that the Germans are building a railroad to the south end of Victoria, Nyanza, and that the English have included Uganda in their territory, and are building a railroad from the coast right to his capital. The frightened king has accordingly told Mr. Gordon that he will be permitted to depart provided one or two Englishmen come to take his place. Otherwise he must not venture out of the town of Rubaga.

Gordon has also been told to inform the English that if an expedition, large or small, is sent by them to Uganda his life will be forfeited and the king will fight the intruders. Inasmuch as the English have not the slightest intention of sending an expedition to Uganda, Gordon's life does not appear to be in danger on that score, but he is in the unpleasant predicament of being compelled to remain in Rubaga whether he desires or not.

Before King Niwanga succeeded to the throne he attended the mission services and learned to read a little. He has now prohibited all his people from learning to read. They know that to be detected would be sure death, and yet a few of them meet secretly to learn to read and to take part in the mission service. Niwanga says that now he is King, he wants to hear no more of the Christian religion until he is old and near death. He seems to think it is a good religion to die by.

ENGLAND'S BOLD POLICY.

UNCLE SAM AGREES TO BRITAIN'S PROPOSITION.

A Mixed Commission to be Appointed to Adjust the Claims for Damages Made by the Owners of Canadian Sealers in Behring Sea.

OTTAWA, July 17.—There was a meeting of Council to-day, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell presiding and Hon. Messrs. Carling, Caron and Costigan being present. It is understood that only routine business was transacted.

It is said that the United States executive has intimated a willingness to agree to England's proposition, made nearly a year ago, for the appointment of a mixed commission to adjust the claims for damages made by the owners of Canadian sealers in Behring Sea. H.M.S. Caroline arrived at Victoria nearly two months ago under instructions to repair, coal and provision for Behring Sea during the sealing season. Everything was got ready but within a week of her time for sailing fresh orders from the Imperial authorities arrived cancelling the original orders, and the trip has been abandoned. Two weeks later a United States cutter left for Behring Sea with instructions from Washington for the United States officials of Alaska. The policy of England, it is alleged, was to have been a bold one. Every attempted exercise of jurisdiction by the United States beyond the three mile limit was to be met by actual resistance and every British vessel captured outside that limit by the U. S. cutters was to be recaptured by the Caroline. England has been consulting Canada in all things respecting claims, but the question of jurisdiction she will settle herself.

The work of printing the evidence taken before the Royal Labor Commission is being rapidly pushed forward under the superintendence of Mr. George Johnson, Dominion Statistician, who is compiling a complete index to the evidence. The official translators of the House of Commons have commenced translating the report into French. This work will be superintended by Mr Hellbronner, one of the Commissioners.

The trouble in the Guards still coninnues unsettled. None of the officers attended the meeting called by Lieut.-Col. McPherson last night, The Colonel had an interview with the Adjutant-General to-day, and it is said he will accept all the resignations, forward them to headquarters and endeavor to get a new lot of officers for the battalion.

Sir Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia, has received a telegram from Victoria, B.C., stating that C. Battery of Royal Canadian Infantry were to leave there yesterday at noon, on board H. M. S. Caroline, for the scene of the trouble on the Skeena river. He was previously notified by Col. Holmes, Acting Deputy Adjutant-General for the province and commandant of the corps, that the latter had been requisitioned to quell the disturbance.

John Lowe was sworn in Deputy Minister of Agriculture to-day.

An order-in-council has passed placing the following articles on the free list:

Wire of iron or steel, No. 13 and 14 wire guage, flattened and corrugated, used in connection with a machine known as the wire grip machine, for the manufacture of boots and shoes and leather belting, when imported by the manufacturers of boots and shoes and leather belting, to be used for these purposes only in their own factories.

Yarns made of wool or worsted, the same being genapped, dyed and finished, when imported by manufacturers of braids, cords, tassels and fringes.

Blanketing and lapping and discs or mills for engraving copper rollers when imported by cotton manufacturers, calico printers and wall paper manufacturers.

Two ply cotton twiner yarns in oops only, made from single cotton yarns finer than number forty, used by the manufacturers of Italian cloths, cashmeres and cotton cloths for the selvages of said cloths, to be used for these purposes only, in their own factories.

The foregoing is to be in force until the end of next session of Parliament, unless sooner repealed.

MRS. MORLEY'S CATS.

The Widow Again in Trouble Over Her Pets—The Ayer Case Appealed.

MONTREAL, July 17.—A deputation from the Society for the Protection of Women and Children waited on the Recorder to-day and called his attention to the disparity between the sentences on men and women. His Honor said he generally dealt with them leniently for the first time, but when he found they were lost he sent them for longer periods to cure them of their evil habits, if possible. However, he would, in some cases, remand them for eight days to allow the society to take action.

Widow Morley who had some trouble with the court last year, her neighbors taking exception to the large number of cats which she kept in her residence on St. Hubert-street, has again come to grief on account of these pets. After leaving the city she had her colony transported to St. Laurent but the residents there also took a dislike to so large a feline population, so much so, that they caused the Municipal Council to notify her landlord that the nuisance must be abated. The landlord has in consequence instituted proceedings against the widow to expel her from the premises. When the court bailiff went to seize the cats he only caught 30 out of some 70.

The Crown to-day served notice of appeal to the Supreme Court upon one of the counsel for J. C. Ayer and Co., in the recent Customs cases decided by Chief Justice Ritchie.

Another Niagara Falls Crank.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 17.—Supt. Welch, of the Niagara Reservation, recently received a letter from Arthur Stanley, dated Buffalo, in which that gentleman asserted that he had an improved parachute with which he had leaped from the Clifton suspension bridge in England, and which he desired to exhibit at the Falls, in conjunction with a patent suit of rubber and cork. He intended to float down to the brink of the falls, and then hoist his parachute and drop gently down to the water below, and continue his voyage on to Lewiston. Stanley wanted permission to exhibit three times a week during the summer. The request was refused.

MURDER AND ROBBERY.

An Inoffensive Old Man Killed for His Money.

TILBURY CENTRE, July 17.—A murder and robbery was committed three miles from this village at about 10 o'clock last night. Some unknown parties broke open the door of a house belonging to a quiet and inoffensive old man by the name of Wilson Houghton, who lived alone, having never been married. Robbery seems to have been the motive. Houghton was shot in the abdomen, and died from the effects of the wound at 5 a.m. Before dying he made a statement to the effect that two men broke open his door and shot him. He stated that the robbers secured about five hundred dollars which were on his person at the time. An inquest is in progress.

Wedding Bells at Aylmer.

AYLMER, Que., July 17.—Miss Wurtelle, daughter of Judge Wurtelle, was married here this morning to Lieut. Aubrey of the French war ship La Minerve.

Planning Another Trip.

QUEBEC, July 17.—Premier Mercier plans another trip to Rome.

Valuable Discoveries of Iron in the Vermillion Range.

DULUTH, July 17.—Valuable discoveries of iron have been made by Duluth explorers on the north branch of the Vermillion range, on the Canadian side of the line, a considerable distance east of Tower and Ely and closely adjoining the international boundary. Samples broken from the surface of the ledge show about 50 per cent. metallic iron, which is certainly a first class showing from surface specimens. Whether this ore contains much phosphorus has not yet been determined, but it has shown itself good enough on careful examination to induce the Duluth discoverers to purchase 400 acres or more land along the vein. The little exploration done so far shows up a wide vein and a long one which will undoubtedly grow richer as shafts are sunk into it. The continuance eastward of the northerly branch of the Vermillion vein into Canada has long been known by explorers, though previous to this find but little work has been done there.

THE HALIFAX ELOPEMENT.

Baptists Appalled by Rev. Mr. Hutchinson's Fall—His Resignation Accepted.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 17.—The Baptist denomination here is appalled over the fall of Rev. J. R. Hutchinson who eloped from Halifax with Miss Gerty Smith of that city on Saturday. They had unbounded confidence in his integrity and Christian virtues, and still think there must be some terrible mistake.

The amatory letters which passed between the two were all read by Mrs. Hutchinson, who went to Halifax and had an interview with Miss Smith. During her absence in Halifax, Dr. Hutchinson returned to St. John and carried off their little child. After Mrs. Hutchinson's return the Doctor met her and offered to return the child if his wife would give up Miss Smith's letters. To this offer she at first returned an absolute refusal.

The fallen pastor confessed his infatuation for the Halifax belle and plainly told his wife he thanked God for the new love that had come into his life and that Providence had decreed that he and Miss Smith should sometime meet and love each other. Eventually the sinner was forgiven and Dr. Hutchinson and his wife left this city together some little time ago for Nova Scotia. Where the erring husband is now is not known here. Mrs. Hutchinson left for the United States yesterday morning, presumably in search of him.

The Baptist Foreign Mission Board of the Maritime Provinces have accepted Hutchinson's resignation.

HAMILTON'S NEW CITY HALL.

The Corner Stone to be Laid To-morrow—Two 11-Year-Old Burglars.

HAMILTON, July 17.—Mayor Doran will lay the corner stone of the new City Hall at noon on Thursday. Lunch will be served to invited guests at the Royal Hotel at 3 o'clock. There are sixteen toasts on the list and a good flood of oratory is expected.

There was a largely attended meeting at Stoney Creek last night to consider the by-law for raising $180,000 for the purchase of the toll roads of the county. The sentiment of those present was largely in favor of the measure.

At the meeting of Hamilton Presbytery to-day, a call from St. Paul's Church, Carluke, in favor of Rev. Albert E. Doherty, was sustained and put into Mr. Doherty's hands for consideration. He asked for time to consider it.

The steamer Celtic started on her annual lighthouse trip at midnight last night.

Yesterday afternoon Colin McLeod's house was entered and a pair of trousers, a vest and a gold chain were stolen.

At the Police Court to-day Charles Johnston and William Pearson, both of them 11 years old, were charged with entering H. J. McAllister's store and stealing $5. Both of them pleaded guilty. They also admitted stealing money from the store on several other occasions. They will be sentenced on Saturday.

Sentence was deferred until Tuesday in the case of Andrew Mortimer and John Fealand, the young rascals who were found in McGregor & Parke's drug store Friday night.

Montreal Wants More Policemen.

MONTREAL, July 17.—Chief of Police Hughes is going to ask for 50 more men and says that he must have them.

THE STRATFORD ELOPEMENT.

Ex-Chief of Police Herrington Seen in Detroit—One of His Cronies.

STRATFORD, July 17.—Society is still in a twitter over ex-Chief of Police Herrington's escapade. All sorts of stories are in circulation regarding his whereabouts and the woman, Mrs. Henry. At a meeting of the City Council Monday evening he was dismissed from the force. The ex-Chief was an excellent officer and was held in high esteem until a few months before his departure. He was seen recently in Detroit, but his lady-love was not with him. He left a large number of mourning friends behind him—principally those he owed bills to, who would like to gaze upoh his benign countenance one more. Your readers will remember the sudden flight of Mr. H. A. Jamieson, wheat buyer of this city, last summer, with $13,000 of funds of the Bank of Montreal. Jamieson and the ex-Chief were old cronies at St. Mary's and it was partly owing to Jamieson that he received the appointment on the force here. They used to "hunt in couples," and many a good story is related of their midnight prowling in the back streets here.

The notorious "Doc" Ford of St. Mary's, who was arrested a few years ago and accused of poisoning a young man of that town, named Robert Guest, was an uncle of the ex-Chief's.

A new Chief of Police will likely be appointed at the next meeting of the City Council.

TROUBLE IN THE ARMY.

A Niagara Falls Salvationist Empties His Revolver at an unwelcome Visitor.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 17.—A. Delone, color bearer of the local Salvation Army corps, found a carpenter named Frank Charman in his wife's room when he returned from the barracks last night. Charman fled, pursued by Delone who fired five shots from his revolver at the fugitive, the bullets going wide of the mark.

Mrs. Delone stated to her husband that Charman pushed her into the room forcibly, but she refused to swear out a warrant for assault against him, whereupon Mr. Delone took his two children from his home and left this afternoon for Stratford where he has a married son by a former wife.

Mrs. Delone was constderably her husband's junior. She was also a Salvationist.

Teeswater Wants Fire Protection.

TEESWATER, July 17.—The recent fires in Chesley and Ripley have stirred up our villagers on fire protection. At a public meeting held last night to discuss the matter, it was resolved that this meeting is of opinion that it is absolutely necessary to adopt some system of fire protection, and hereby instruct the council to obtain all the information possible from all available sources as to the most efficient and economical systems in use and submit the same to the ratepayers at an early date.

HIGH LIFE IN ENGLAND.

EDMUND YATES' GOSSIP ON THE DOINGS OF SOCIETY IN ENGLAND.

The Duchess of Marlborough the Observed of all Observers—Anglican Bishops Seated in Orchestra Chairs—The Parnell Letters Again.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Edmund Yates cables to The Tribune, as follows: If it had not been for the announcement in the Court Circular the Queen's visit to London last week might almost have escaped notice. A closed brougham was used in going to and from Paddington, and Her Majesty was accompanied only by Lady Ely and Miss Cadogan. Those who saw the Queen for a moment in the ambassadors' court at St James' Palace thought she had aged considerably since the Jubilee, and she seemed to experience some difficulty in getting into her carriage. She found her venerable aunt, the Duchess of Cambridge, very weak, but quite as much interested in passing events and anxious to talk about them as ever.

Princess Mary Adelaide of Teck put in an appearance at the silver fete on Saturday evening, while Prince Adolph and his sister were enjoying the pleasure of the switchback railway, and soon disposed of all that was left on the stalls of the Princess Louise and the Duchess of of Manchester. The crush around the two stalls was tremendous, and selling went on with astonishing business. The charity has every reason to be grateful to H. R. H. Her Grace of Manchester did not return in the evening, but Lady Randolph Churchill, in her cream-colored dress, stuck to her guns and dispensed cooling drinks as fast as they could be asked for. The silver fete should make the fortune of Victoria Hospital. Many smart people visited it on Saturday.

Mrs. Henry Oppenheim and Lady Guinness have both made good their titles to share with Lady Livenhome the credit of having given the smartest parties of a season which is already moribund and will expire with Goodwood. The hospitalities of Bruton-street have acquired the cachet which comes only with the presence of Royalty itself and on Monday the enforced absence of H. R. H. was almost atoned for by the arrival of the reigning Duchess of Marlborough, whose honeymoon ended with a voyage across the Atlantic and who was in no way disconcerted, if appearances may be trusted, at the extraordinary amount of attention which she excited, as she stood perfectly unmoved in her robe of white satin, with necklace of pearls, at the top of Mrs. Oppenheim's staircase. The brilliancy of the electric light was tempered by a judicious arrangement of pink shades. The hostess did the honors in a robe of cream-colored satin. The latest recruit to the ranks of a duchess soon found herself surrounded by their graces of Manchester, Athole, Leinster, St. Albans, Roxburgh, Hamilton and Marchionesses of Bath, Bristol, Abergavenney, Londonderry and Roxburgh, Caroline, Duchess of Montrose, in a bright scarlet, compared first impressions with Lady A., Lady Dudley, Mrs. Alan Mills with Lady Hastings were much admired. The Duke of Marlborough discovered something pleasant to say to everybody. The red satin wall furnished an excellent background to the whole scene, the music and flowers were both good. The duchess of the evening took the criticisms of the nobility and staring people most good humoredly and chiefly talked to her new relatives, but the marshalling of relays of fifty for supper was a matter of some difficulty, for the crowd round the doors was tremendous.

Lord and Lady Salisbury gave a large dinner for the Duke and Duchess of Teck on Wednesday, with a small and very smart dance to follow. The inevitable American contingent was, for once, forgotten. Lady Granby were all her diamonds for the first time, and although only 250 guests were present the wealth and influence of the Tories were completely represented.

The Pan-Anglican Bishops are beginning to find their weekly program somewhat wearisome. They are even reported to regard with a little envy such innocuous diversion as the Pan-Presbyterian picnic at Dollis Hill. At the S. P. G. Conclave, on Tuesday, when the right rev. prelates occupied seats in the orchestra, St. James' Hall was very dull, very hot and very close. It really seemed as if the eight addresses would never end. There was a Temperance breakfast at Westminster Town Hall, on Wednesday morning, a conversazione of the C.M.S., with tea and talk, in the dingy precincts of Salisbury-square on Thursday afternoon. Dean Bradley was At Home with light refreshments, in Jerusalem Chamber, when the voyagers had departed and personally conducted his Episcopal visitors over the Abbey from crypt to leads. The Bishop of London and Mrs. Temple were At Home at Fulham on Saturday afternoon. Lords Fortescue and Beauchamp and Marquis Wyndford and Winmerleigh and other peers interested in matters ecclesiastical mustered in force. America and the Colonies were represented by the Bishops of Brisbane, Iowa, Antiqua, Sydney, Bombay and Calcutta.

Cardinal Manning, on his eightieth birthday, this dripping St. Swithin's Day, looked and felt at least as strong as he did ten years ago. He preached at Brook Green on behalf of the House of Rest, and besides the usual Sunday routine saw a number of friends. Sheafs of telegrams of congratulations and good wishes arrived during the day.

With regard to Mr. Parnell's letters, the statement of The Daily News that these documents were hawked about in newspaper offices for sale before The Times got hold of them, is absolutely devoid of foundation. The letters in question were never at any time offered to The Daily News or to any other newspaper. I will not gratify Mr. Parnell's very natural desire to know how they got to The Times, but the channel through which they reached Printing House square afforded a very definite guarantee of their authenticity.

Berlin is beginning to grow curious over the anti-Bismarckian volume which a son of Count Arnio is seeing through the press. The volume, I am told, has been judiciously edited, and this was necessary.

Two Women Burnt to Death.

BUFFALO, July 17.—Mrs. John G. Floss visited her husband's sister, Mrs. Mary Willet, yesterday, and while they were conversing in the kitchen an oil lamp on the table exploded, scattering the burning oil on the floor. Mrs. Floss and Mrs. Willet endeavored to extinguish the flames and in doing so their clothes caught fire and they were so badly burned that they both died this morning. Three of the neighbors were seriously burned while trying to assist the unfortunates.

No Compromise.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Burlington officials say that they will not compromise any of the pending criminal proceedings against the alleged dynamiters.

On the Retired List.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Senate has passed the bill to place John C. Fremont on the retired list of the army as Major-General.

A Notorious Tough Escapes.

HAWTREY, July 17.—A notorious tough of this vicinity named G. C. Henderson has left for the United States. A short time ago a warrant was issued for his arrest on a charge of forgery. He becoming aware of this fact, left on Friday last and quietly went to Detroit. He has a large family here in destitute circumstances.

PROHIBITION AND POLITICS.

THE ability that the Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, has shown that he possesses, and his rapid political advancement, have brought down upon him bitter attacks. Mr. Foster occupies a position that his opponents desire to see filled by one of themselves; he is a member of a government they want to see displaced. As he is an able debater and capable administrator, their hatred of him is more intense, because he is all the more likely to assist in keeping them in the cold shades of opposition. Two charges are brought against Mr. Foster. One is that he has delivered addresses on temperance, for which he received less remuneration than he now receives as a Cabinet Minister. We do not know what Mr. Foster received for delivering such addresses; probably that charge is true. But if it were true that he did not receive as much as a college professor or in any other capacity as he does now in a much more responsible position, wherein is the wrong? What was the Hon. D. Mills' salary when he taught school? And how much did he receive as Minister of the Interior or for carrying Mr. Mowat's gripsack to England and back? The other charge is that Mr. Foster was an ardent prohibitionist and that now, as one Liberal journal states it, he has taken "anti-prohibition ground." That charge is untrue. There are members of the Dominion Cabinet who voted against a resolution in favor of prohibition, but Mr. Foster is not one of them. Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright also voted against that resolution. Mr. Foster's critics pretend to be favorable to prohibition, yet they want to drive him from his position as Minister of Finance, though he voted for prohibition, and give the office to Sir Richard Cartwright, who voted against it. But it is said that Mr. Foster took part in the Cumberland election contest against Mr. Casey, the "prohibition" candidate. He did; we are pleased to say that he did and that Mr. Casey was defeated by the nice little majority of 750. Mr. Foster was not inconsistent in doing as he did. Mr. Casey's opponent, Mr. Dickey, was also a prohibitionist. The difference was that on all important political questions Mr. Foster and Mr. Dickey were agreed, while on all but one Mr. Casey and Mr. Foster differed. The so-called prohibition candidate was pledged to vote against every Government measure and for every non-confidence resolution until the Government was defeated or prohibition secured. That is not the position of a reasonable man. It is not a position that Mr. Foster or any other sensible man could endorse, and the Minister of Finance could not support him and oppose a prohibitionist whose political opinions were identical with his own. On every occasion that the question has come up since he was a member of the House, Mr. Foster has voted for prohibition and he has advocated it inside and outside the House. It is not a party question, and though a member of the Government, the Minister of Finance is free to vote according to his convictions upon it, though he should differ, as he does, from some of his colleagues upon the question.

Unless graver political crimes than these are brought home to Mr. Foster he is pretty secure in his position. Spiteful attacks and misrepresentations will not injure him or the Government. Neither will such petty sneers as have been hurled at Mr. Foster convince the people that they should accept Liberal rule and commercial annexation. What really troubles the Liberals is that the candidate whom they supported in Cumberland was defeated by such a large majority, and this defeat in Nova Scotia following so close upon the election by acclamation of the Hon. C. H. Tupper in Pictou makes it all the harder to bear. Nova Scotia was said to be anxious for an opportunity to declare in favor of unrestricted reciprocity, but Nova Scotia, like Mr. Foster, was misrepresented.

A CONTEMPORARY complains because Sir Charles Tupper and his son, the Hon. C. H. Tupper, are in the public service, and because Gen. Cameron, a son-in-law of Sir Charles, has been appointed commandant of the military college at Kingston. Let's see. The Hon. Oliver Mowat is Premier of Ontario, Mr. Fred Mowat is Sheriff of Toronto, and is not a brother-in-law of Mr. Mowat's in an office in Kingston? And were not the son and other relative appointed only on account of their relationship to Mr. Mowat?

THE New York Herald publishes a list of defalcations that took place in the United States during 1887. The range in amount for $2,000 to $1,100,000 and the aggregate sum is $4,456,468. The aggregate losses by embezzlement from 1878 to 1887, both years inclusive, amounted to $48,513,466, and the defalcations that were discovered during the first six months of this year bring the total up to $51,000,000. Evidently instruction regarding commercial honesty is needed across the lines.

Let dogs delight to bark and bite,
For 'tis their nature, too;
Let Tory boodlers growl and fight
For spoil and office too!

The Electric Lights.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The policeman who said in last evening's REVIEW that the electric lights have been extinguished for the last three or four nights, fifteen or twenty minutes before midnight, does not know what he is talking about. On Sunday night it was supposed to be moonlight, and there were no gas lamps lit at all. I did extinguish the lights at 8 minutes, perhaps 10, before midnight. Previous to that it is often after 12 rather than one minute before. On Monday night if our policeman had been out side of the station house door any time before 20 minutes to 12 he might have noticed that there were no town lights lit at all.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Correspondence of the Review

THE TWELFTH.—The battle of the Boyne was celebrated here in good style this year. There was a number of lodges in from the surrounding district, and addresses were delivered to them in the afternoon in the park, by the Revs. Cragie, Munt, and Dean. Things passed off quietly, with the exception of a little brush that took place between the Revs. Munt and Dean on the platform.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. W. Davey moved into his new store a couple of weeks ago, and is doing a good business. He is having it bricked on the outside now, which will add greatly to its appearance. A large wing is being built, with white brick, to the Goulais house, on the east side. It contains a large number of spacious rooms and will give a great deal more accomodation in the house.

For Coughs, Neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Pain in the Chest, and all diseases of the Lungs,

It is composed of the active principles of roots and plants which are chemically extracted, so as to retain all their Medical qualities. MINISTERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS who are so often troubled with Throat Diseases, will find a sure remedy in this Balsam. GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

has refreshed up the grass and been of immense benefit to the gardens. While we rejoice at the beautiful rain falling we will remember that golden lion prints will be just as stylish and appropriate for wear next week as they have been for weeks past. If you are going holidaying, or camping, or into the country, or on the lines of travel the most sensible and comfortable costume material is a print. Fair is selling hundreds of yards, and no wonder. Prints at 15c. per yard for 10c. are not picked up every day. See the windows and select your fancy.

From Millbrook.

A special G.T.R. on Tuesday took up a large number of excursionists from Millbrook to Sturgeon Point. They were accompanied by a brass band. On the way up and down the band played several tunes at the depot here in an acceptable manner. They returned about 9.30 o'clock.

Home Again.

Councillor Cahill reached home last night after an extended visit to Vancouver, Victoria, San Francisco and the Pacific Coast generally. He feels and looks remarkably well and was much impressed with the future possibilities of the great land he passed through. He met quite a number of former residents of Peterborough during his journey and found them nearly all contented and prosperous.

Camping Parties

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

To Join the Camp at Conchiching.

The Peterborough contingent at the Northern Division A.C.A. meet at Couchiching, promises to be one of the largest of the camp. Parties are being made up and early next week the exodus will take place, the meet opening on the 23rd inst. Among those who have decided to spend some time at the camp and enjoy the outing and who propose to attend early in the meet are Mr. R. B. Lundy and Mrs. Lundy, and several lady friends; Col. H. C. Rogers, E. B. Edwards, G. W. Hatton and Mrs. Hatton, Dr. E. F. Hatton, J. Z. Rogers, and W. English. Many others are working up the fever and will no doubt run up to participate in the fun. Lakefield is down on the roster with a large party, including Dr. Douglas, and Messrs. Wright, Lister, Graham and other canoeists. If reports are fairly correct, Lakefield intends to do some quick sailing to capture the flags of the meet. Lindsay canoe club is turning out well, as becomes the seat of government of this year's meet, and will send up a strong line of sailors, while Bobcaygeon has four representatives already entered for principal events. The Toronto club numbers many active canoeists and has undertaken to send a baker's dozen to the meet. Very favorable arrangemets have been made with the G.T.R. regarding rates for canoeists and their canoes and traps.

The annual excursion and picnic of the pupils, teachers and friends of St. Andrew's Sunday school, took place at Jubilee Point on Tuesday. The Golden Eye carried over two hundred persons down. The Point was reached shortly before one o'clock, after a delightful trip. Dinner of course was soon despatched, and after the invigorating air of the river all on board were decidedly hungry. After eating, swinging, boating, fishing and other amusements were indulged in without stint, until four o'clock arrived and the whistle of the steamer blew her warning note. Home was reached shortly before 9 o'clock, all on board being thoroughly satisfied with the result of the day's outing. The Rev. Mr. Bell and numerous prominent members of the congregation were present. Messrs. C. W. Beale, John Bell and F. W. Gladman, who composed the managing committee are deserving of great credit for the manner in which everything passed off. The following were the winners in the various class races:—

Miss LUNDY'S—Boys, 1st F. Milligan, 2nd — King. Girls, 1st D. Barry, 2nd — Walker.
Miss TULLY'S—Boys, 1st H. Edmison, 2nd G. Bell.
Mrs. MCGHEE'S—Girls, 1st M. King, 2nd M. McFarlane.
Miss WHITE'S—Girls, 1st M. Marshall, 2nd L. Barrett.
Miss EDMISON'S—Boys. 1st H. King, 2nd J. VanEvery.
Miss MERCER'S—Girls, 1st M. Tully, 2nd F. Anderson.
Miss BELL'S—Boys, 1st R. King, 2nd W. VanEvery.
Miss CORBUTHER'S—Girls, 1st M. Byers, 2nd L. Maude.
Mr. PURVIS'—Boys, 1st W. McClelland, 2nd J. King.
Mr. COOPER'S—Boys, 1st W. Brodie.

The teachers' race caused much amusement, ladies only participating. The result was a dead heat and as they refused to run over again, no decision was arrived at.

THE WIND UP.

The Salvation Army Hold a Rock-a-Bye Baby Meeting at the Temple.

The dedication services in connection with the new Salvation temple were brought to a close on Tuesday evening.

The proceedings of the day consisted of an officers council of war and an officers banquet in the basement of the temple.

In the evening there was a march, headed by mounted officers, an open air meeting on the square and officers farewell and grand hallelujah rock-a-bye baby meeting in the temple, which was well filled.

Adjutant Marshall opened with prayer and then Major Bailey assumed command. D. O. Morris sang a solo, Captain Robinson followed with prayer. Solos were sung by Captains Cowan, Toronto, and Addy, Lakefield, followed by testimonies from Captains Leonard, Sharp, Gale, Mudge, Smith, Cowan, Carey and Brown, Lieut. Byers and Cadet Land.

Capt. Carey, who hails from Lindsay, is a small woman, middle aged, with a very lively disposition. She sang a solo with a rattling chorus and to the accompaniment of brass and timbrels, she danced a lively jig, on the platform, with Mark Spenceiy as a partner. She repeated this after each verse and was vociferously applauded. Some of the other officers also exhibited a desire to show their agility on their feet.

The Lindsay songsters, Misses Garnett, Wilson, and Staples, followed with a trio, two of them playing drums, a bass and a snare. They sang well and were deservedly applauded.

Cadet McKee, of Minden, was called to the front and promoted to the rank of Captain. Cadet Cameron was made a Captain and ordered to Brighton. Several other minor promotions were also made and some stations changed.

Adjutant Philpots and Staff Captain Banks made earnest appeals for souls and after prayer by Adjutant Marshall and more singing, the meeting concluded with the usual prayer meeting.

The outgoing trains to-day carried off nearly all the visitors, and things for a time will run in their usual groove.

The Rain.

The long looked for and much needed rain fell during the night and this morning, and much good it did, too. In many places the ground is literally baked and parched. A steady down pour for four or five days would be hailed with delight in all sections of the country.

Personal.

Port Hope Guide:—"Miss Lizzie Carveth, Augusta-st. accompanied by her niece, Miss Eva C. Towle, of Bangor, Me., are visiting friends in Millbrook. They intend to see their friends and relatives in Lindsay and Peterborough during the next five weeks."

Mr. G. E. Croly, M. A., of the Stratford High School, is in town visiting his brother, Mr. T. M. D. Croly.

To the North.

Although the weather was very unpropituous, when St. John's Sunday School excursion left the Grand Trunk depot for Lakefield this morning, there was a fair sized crowd on board. At Lakefield the steamers Cruiser and Mary Ellen were in waiting to convey the party to the beautiful place known as Gilchrist's Bay. The excursionists will return home on the regular evening train.

Matrimonial.

The many friends of Mr. Peter Henry, of Mayor Stevenson's office, will join with us in congratulating him on the occasion of his marriage, which took place at St. Peter's Cathedral, on Tuesday, the Rev. Father McEvay officiating. The bride was Miss Mary Gook, recently of Montreal, but who has been residing here for some time. Miss Annie Henry acted as bridesmaid, while Dr. Brennan assisted the groom. The wedding present were many and valuable. The happy couple started off on a wedding trip down the St. Lawrence, amidst the best wishes of hosts of friends.

At Lindsay.

The members of the Canton, accompanied by two dozen Oddfellows from Peterborough, went up to Lindsay on Tuesday afternoon, by a special train, to assist their brethren there in decorating the graves of deceased members of the Order. The day was kept as a half holiday. Upon their arrival they were met by a long procession, headed by the Citizens' Band and composed of Oddfellows from Lindsay and all the neighboring towns, and even a couple from Rochester. The Canton, with the band in front, were assigned the position of honor and their splendid uniforms, banner, and intricate drill, so well performed, made them cynosure of all eyes and the lions of the day. The graves of deceased brethren were duly decorated according to the ritual prescribed for such occasions. After the ceremonies the procession reformed and marched back to the lodge room, where some short addresses and kindly greetings were exchanged. The visitors were then taken in charge by the local Odds and hospitably entertained and looked after until train time, when they were escorted to the depot and given a rousing send off.

EIGHTY-FOUR PLUCKED.

Slaughter of the Entrance Examination Candidates—Six Passed.

Of the ninety candidates who wrote at the recent examination for High School entrance held in Peterborough only four succeeded in passing and two more in being recommended to the Education Department. The maximum number of marks obtainable was 700 and the candidates were required to obtain 33 per cent. in each subject and 50 per cent. of the total number of marks. The following are the names of the successful candidates and the number of marks they obtained:—

Faircairn, Isabella	412
Beattie, Martha E.	372
McGill, Vernon C.	366
Wood, Annie L.	366

Maud Allin and Minnie A. Hamilton have been recommended to the Department, which may or may not pass them, but it is probable that it will.

The sub-examiners regret that so few candidates have been successful. In their opinion some of the question papers were exceptionally difficult. No option is, however, allowed the examiners, strict injunctions being given by the Department that no candidate shall be passed who has not obtained the required per centage of marks.

THE CARPENTERS.

The Resolutions Passed by them Relating to the Sub-Contract System.

The following are the resolutions passed by the Master Carpenters in relation to the sub-contract system, to which reference has been made before:—

Moved by JAMES L. HUGHES, seconded by A. DUGLAS,—That we, the contracting carpenters of the town of Peterborough, deplore the line of action taken by the bricklayers and stonemasons of this town, as it tends to destroy the confidence of the public in not only the masons themselves but all other crafts in the building line.

Moved by Mr. W. FITZGERALD seconded by Mr. H. CARVETH,—That in the opinion of this meeting the charges made by the bricklayers and stonemasons and published in the newspapers, that the carpenters in supplying material, use a poor article to clear themselves from any loss, is wholly false and without foundation.

Moved by T. RUTHERFORD and seconded by D. GAMBLE,—That we, the undersigned carpenter contractors of the town of Peterborough, hereby resolve,—That we will not take any joint contract with any member of the bricklayers and masons union, No. 12, and that we will take whole or sub-contracts from any person or persons, except members of the above named union, from whom we will take no sub-contracts until said named union withdraws the advertisement now going on in our daily papers, or that portion of it that pertains to us, which we consider an insult and a libel and requiring an apology.

Signed,

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

A Break.

On Tuesday a partition in Mr. Mayor Stevenson's elevator gave away under the heavy pressure against it of 10,000 or 12,000 bushels of wheat. One of the "legs" of the elevator was broken, but none of the grain was lost or injured. The men were at work when they heard the crack and they ran for their lives, scattering in all directions.

Nothing seems to give the finishing touch to the equipments of an room like a nice hanging lamp such as they keep at China Hall. It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

"Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

"Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

Pitcher Arraigned.

MONTREAL, July 17.—Chas. A. Pitcher, late teller of the Union Bank of Providence was arraigned this morning on a charge of bringing stolen money into Canada. He pleaded not guilty, and preferred a jury trial. Judge Desnoyers committed him to the court of Queen's bench, which will sit on Sept. 1. The only proof against Pitcher is the identification of the wrappers on the bills. The bank evidently thinks this weak, as they have taken proceedings for extradition on the charge of forgery before Judge Davidson of the Supreme Court.

AN HEROIC SACRIFICE.

An Oregon Priest Going to Minister to the Leper Exiles in Molokai.

For some time past it has been pretty generally known that the Rev. L. L. Conrardy, of Umatilla reservation, had decided to go to the relief of Father Damien, the apostle of the lepers in the island of Molokai, Sandwich Islands. The reverend father, having received permission from Archbishop Gross, has been waiting for some time to be relieved as Indian missionary on the reservation; and now that his place is supplied by two young priests, he is here in this city en route for Molokai, the home of the poor lepers, to whom he proposes to consecrate, we may add sacrifice, his life.

Father Conrardy is a countryman of Father Damien, having been born in the city of Liegi, Belgium, [illegible] also received his early education [illegible] Conrardy is a type of those intrepid, fearless souls who court sacrifice and peril to further the interests of religion and give glory to God. Impelled by the missionary spirit, he gave up a large parish, to which he had been appointed immediately after his ordination, to devote himself to foreign missions. Going to Paris to the celebrated seminary which has for more than 200 years supplied India, Japan and China with so many missionaries and martyrs, he remained there some time, and in 1871 was assigned to the mission at Pondicherry in southern India, where he laboured nearly three years under the killing heat of the tropical sun, and enduring all kinds of privations. His health failing, he was advised to go to a temperate climate, and chose to cast his lot among the Indians of Oregon, where he arrived in 1874. He was placed in charge of the Indian tribes on the Umatilla reservation by the saintly Archbishop Blanchet, where he has remained ever since.

But Father Conrardy, whose ambition has always been to take the worst and most difficult place, was not satisfied. It was in 1876 that he, having heard of the heroic undertaking of Father Damien among the lepers of Molokai, conceived the idea of becoming his companion. As early as 1881 he was accepted for that mission, but, owing to the scarcity of priests in this archdiocese, he was constrained to postpone his departure for this field till a more favorable time. Letters received from Father Damien recently show that the leper colony has increased to 1,500 souls, and they are arriving in large numbers, sometimes as many as thirty a week.

It is well known that Father Damien has fallen a victim to his charity. He writes Father Conrardy that disease having settled in his hands, he will soon be unable to celebrate mass, and there will be no one to break the bread of life to these poor creatures. In order to hasten to his relief Father Conrardy gives up a farewell visit which he contemplated paying his family in Europe. A short time ago Father Conrardy was offered a fine parish in the Argentine Republic, but that did not fill his ideal of self-sacrifice. The reverend gentleman leaves the city next Sunday, and will soon be among the stricken ones of Molokai. We bespeak for him the prayers of all.—Catholic Sentinel.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE WRIT FOR COLCHESTER ELECTION ISSUED.

Nominations to Take Place on Aug. 8 and Polling on Aug. 15—An Interesting Liquor Case—Quebec Provincial Rifle Matches.

OTTAWA, July 18.—The writ for Colchester, to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Hon. A. W. McLelan to the Lieutenant Governorship of Nova Scotia, has been issued. Nominations will take place on Aug. 8 and polling on Aug. 15.

Col. Herchmer, Commissioner of the Northwest Mounted Police, who is in the city, reports that there is a very considerable migration of the Metis taking place, not only from Batouche but from many other sections of the Northwest to the Peace River District.

He says that everything is prosperous in the Northwest, crop prospects are splendid and the yield promises to be much greater than last year. The Indians are perfectly quiet, the ranchmen are doing well and in every way the country is prosperous.

The Inland Revenue Department has issued a circular that methylated spirits will be sold by druggists in two grades: No. 1, at $1.40 per gallon, will contain 25 per cent. of wood naphtha and be supplied under special regulations only to varnish and other manufacturers. No. 2, at $1.60 per gallon, will contain 50 per cent. of wood naphtha and be sold to anybody.

There was another meeting of Council this afternoon but it is understood that only routine business was transacted.

Major Blaiklock of the Fifth Royal Scots of Montreal was here to-day with reference to the forthcoming matches of the Quebec Rifle Association at the Rideau Ranges. The matches will be about the same as usual except that Martine will be substituted for Snider at 600 yards. The prizes will amount to about $2000.

The Department of Justice has received notice that Judge Davidson has issued a warrant for the arrest of Pitcher, the Providence absconder, on a charge of forgery. Extradition proceedings will follow.

An interesting case was commenced in the Police Court this morning to test the liability of brewers' agents under the Crooks Act, and enlarged until Tuesday. The License Inspector made a charge of selling liquor without a license against John O'Neill, agent for Bowie & Bale, brewers of Brockville. The ale is brought here in bulk, bottled here and sold. O'Neill claims that he is only an agent, is paid a salary, that office rents, etc., are paid by the brewers and that he is therefore not responsible.

THE "Q" DYNAMITERS.

Held for Trial—One of the Defendants Discovered to be a Detective.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The greatest crowd yet assembled to witness the court proceedings against the Burlington dynamiters was present to-day. Further examination of the informer Alexander Smith was waived. The other prisoners were held over, their bail being fixed at $5000 each.

John Wilson, one of the prisoners who was arrested with Broderick and Bowles as an anarchist and conspirator and a Brotherhood engineer, left his seat in the group of which Broderick and Bauersian are members and walked to where the prosecuting attorneys were seated and began to chat with them, when it was developed that Wilson was not an engineer and not a Brotherhood man, but that he was John Mulligan, a Pinkerton detective. He had the confidence of all the prisoners and their attorneys.

Canadian Winners at Wimbledon.

LONDON, July 16.—The London Corporation prize for Indian and Colonial volunteers was competed for by Canada alone, in the grand aggregate competition, with the following result:—Staff-Sergt. Wilson, 33rd Batt., 320, 30 guineas and cup; Sergt. Short, G.G.F.G., 315, £20; Pte. Duncan, 2nd Q.O.R., 310, £15; Lieut. Chamberlain, 43rd Batt., 304, £15; Lieut. Dover, 78th Batt., 303, £10; Lieut. Smith, St. John Rifle Co., 302, £10; Capt. McMicking, 44th Batt., 302, £10; Lieut. Vaughan, 5th Royal Scots, 300, £10; Staff-Sergt. Ashall, 2nd Q.O.R., 299, £6; Lieut Gray, G.G.F.G., 294, £5; Sergt. Miner, 71st Batt., 295, £5; Gunner Campbell, Halifax G. A., 287, £5; Sergt. Adams, 62nd Battalion, 286, £5; Capt. Zealand, 13th Battalion, 285, £5; Sergt. Case, Halifax G. A., 284, £5. In the grand aggregate, to which the Canadian Challenge Trophy is attached, Staff-Sergt. Wilson earned £5 with his score of 320, and Sergt. Short £2 with 316.

The Captain's Explanation.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Regarding the report which has been put in circulation by some of the passengers of the steamer Fulda, that in a fog off the banks of Newfoundland on Saturday she ran down an unknown fishing schooner, the agent of the line said to-day that the story was grossly exaggerated. Capt. Ringk made a report of the accident, stating that his vessel struck the schooner in a dense fog, carrying away her bowsprit. This was all the damage that was done, the captain states, and the hull was not touched. The passengers on the deck of the steamer at the time grew excited and threw a number of life-preservers overboard; but this was unnecessary. The cause of the accident was the neglect of the fishermen to sound bells during the fog.

The Fishery Treaty.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—In the Senate today Mr. Hoar gave notice at the request of Mr. Frye, who has the Fishery Treaty in charge, that Mr. Frye would next Friday ask the Senate to proceed with the consideration of the treaty and would urge the Senate to continue the discussion until it is ended and then that the vote be taken without further delay.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION

FULL TEXT OF THE BILL FOR ITS APPOINTMENT.

Three Persons to Constitute the Court—Their Names Omitted from the Draft—To have the same Powers as the High Court of Justice.

LONDON, July 18.—The following is the text of the Government Bill for the appointment of a Special Commission to inquire into The Times' charges against Irish members of Parliament:

"Whereas charges and allegations have been made against certain members of the House of Commons and others by the defendants in the action of O'Donnell v. Walter and another, it is expedient that a Special Commission be appointed to inquire into the truth of the charges and allegations, and that it should have such powers as may be necessary for the effectual conducting of the inquiry:

"Be it therefore enacted, First—That the three persons hereinafter mentioned (names not given) are hereby appointed Commissioners for the purpose of this Act. The Commissioners shall inquire into and report upon the charges and allegations against certain members of the House of Commons and others in said action.

"Secondly—That the Commission shall for the purposes of the inquiry have all such powers, rights and privileges as are vested in Her Majesty's High Court of Justice or any judge thereof on the occasion of any action, including all the powers, rights and privileges in respect of the following matters: enforcing the attendance of witnesses, examining them under oath, affirmation or otherwise, compelling the production of documents and punishing persons guilty of contempt.

"Thirdly—That the persons implicated in said charges and allegations, the parties to said action, and any persons authorized by the Commissioners may appear at the inquiry, and any persons so appearing may be represented by counsel or solicitor.

"Fourthly—That every person who on examination on oath or affirmation, wilfully gives false evidence, shall be liable to the penalties for perjury.

"Fifthly—That any witness may be cross-examined on behalf of any other person appearing before the Commissioners. A witness shall not be excused from answering any questions put to him on the ground of any privileges or on the ground that the answer may criminate or tend to criminate himself. Evidence taken under this act shall be admissible against any person in any civil or criminal proceedings, except in case the witness shall be deemed to have given false evidence in the enquiry under this act.

"Sixthly—That every person examined as a witness, who in the opinion of the Commissioners shall make a full and true disclosure touching all matters in respect of which he is examined, shall be entitled to secure a certificate signed by the Commissioners stating that he has made a full and true disclosure, and if any civil or criminal proceeding shall at any time thereafter be instituted against such witness in respect to any matter wherein he shall be examined, the court having cognizance of the case shall on proof of the certificate stay proceedings and may in its discretion award the witness such costs as he may be put to by reason of the proceedings.

OBJECTIONS TO THE PLAN.

A Violent Scene in the House of Commons—Needless Delay.

LONDON, July 18.—The scene in the House over the Parnell Commission Bill was a violent one. "Mr. Parnell," says one of his friends, "has not for ten years past shown so much passion." "He was in a towering rage," says another. There will be more hot words when the bill is taken up on Monday next, which seems a needless delay.

Two difficulties are at the bottom of all this skirmishing—the selection of the judges and the determination of the issue to be submitted. There are two judges whom the Parnellites particularly dislike, Mr. Justice Stephen and Mr. Justice Grantham. Mr. Justice Stephen is the ablest lawyer on the Bench, but is reckoned a strong partisan on the Irish question. Mr. Justice Grantham is not a strong judge; the Parnellites say his appointment was a Tory job. Neither is likely to be named in the commission. Mr. Justice Day is said to be their candidate for a place on this singular tribunal, and rumor points to Lord Justice Bowen as president of it. There is no word to be said against him, and though the youngest, he ranks as the ablest man on the Bench.

The other difficulty is even more serious. The Commission, under the terms of the proposed bill, may try almost anything. "The bill," says Mr. O'Connor, this evening, "is framed in terms which would open the whole history of ten years' agitation." I suppose it would; but so did the series of articles known as "Parnellism and Crime." Mr. Parnell will not consent, if he can help it, to try any issue but the genuineness of the letters published by The Times and read by the Attorney-General in Court. Matters, however, have now gone so far that if the Irish leader recedes for any reason whatever, the English public will shake its wise head.

If Mr. Parnell goes before the Commission, he will go as a client of Mr. George Lewis, that is the most important fact of the situation to-day. Mr. Lewis is the most skilful of solicitors, a man of genius in difficult cases, with experience in handling delicate subjects twenty times greater than any other English lawyer: he has, I understand accepted a retainer for Mr. Parnell and it may almost be said that the whole Irish cause is for the time being committed to Mr. Lewis' hands.

Sympathy for Dillon.

LONDON, July 18.—Many English and Scotch Gladstonians are expressing sympathy for John Dillon. At the fortnightly meeting of the National League held at Dublin yesterday, the chairman announced that the donations received since the last meeting amounted to £600.

Dublin and Archbishop Walsh.

LONDON, July 18.—The city corporation of Dublin has presented to Archbishop Walsh an address expressing gratitude for his conduct at Rome. It is denied that the Parnellites' resolution insulted the Pope. Archbishop Walsh is said to have endorsed many parts of the resolution.

Belleville Harbor Improvements.

BELLEVILLE, July 18.—Word was received from Ottawa to-day that the $10,000 voted by Parliament for dredging the harbor would be expended without the city giving the $6,000 this year. The work will be proceeded with at once.

The Break at Adams' Basin Repaired.

ROCHESTER, July 18.—The break in the Canal at Adams' Basin has been repaired and water has been let into the level. It is expected that boats can run to-morrow.

Found Futile.

SHANGHAI, July 18.—After an enormous sacrifice of money and labor all efforts to close the breach in the banks of the Hoang-Ho River have been found to be futile.

A Heroic Remedy.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18.—The farmers of Crawford County have resolved not to raise any wheat, barley or rye for the next three years in an effort to exterminate the chinch bug. The Crawford County farmers will exert their influence to this end with the farmers of adjoining counties.

GREAT WAS THE FALL OF IT.

One of Hamilton's Tall Chimneys Takes a Tumble.

HAMILTON, July 18.—The brick chimney of Humphrey & Newberry's tannery, corner of Jackson and Spring-streets, 80 feet high, crashed through the roof of the building shortly after 12 o'clock to-day. Two years ago the chimney began to lean towards the north, and an immense pole was propped against that side of it. Gradually the pole thrust it back until latterly it has leaned southward, over the roof. One of the men noticed this morning that bits of brick were chipping off and pattering on the roof, but he did not think the catastrophe was so near. A very few minutes after the workmen had left the building and gone home for dinner, the great square shaft was seen to totter, and suddenly it collapsed and disappeared. About fifty feet of it fell. This immense mass of brick crashed through the roof, through the second floor, through the first floor, and down into the vats on the ground floor.

Between the roof and the second floor was a large quantity of fine wool: this was nearly all ruined. A valuable machine for cleaning wool was on the first floor; it was completely demolished. In the vats a large number of skins were soaking; they are now buried beneath the debris. The floors are cut away as clearly as if the boards had been sawn. Part of the chimney toppled over to the east and went through the sweat-house, where 250 skins were stored. These will be injured, but probably not destroyed.

If the chimney had fallen half-an-hour earlier one life would certainly, and several lives would probably, have been lost. One of the workmen was working all morning in the vats, into which the great mass of debris fell. The loss is estimated at between $2000 and $2500.

SENT ON TO ROME.

The Three Nominations for the Archdiocese of Toronto.

LONDON, July 18.—All Friday and Saturday their Lordships Bishop Walsh of London, Bishop Cleary of Kingston and Bishop Dowling of Peterboro', were in secret session considering the nominations of suitable successors to the Archdiocese of Toronto. The session's unusual length has given rise to the impression in Catholic circles here that the selection of names caused considerable trouble, recognizing as their Lordships did the importance of the vacant archsee, and the special need there was of fixing on nominees who would be able to face the difficulties of the position. At a late hour on Saturday night, the names of three were finally agreed upon. This much is known, that of the three nominees, one at least is a simple priest, and it is shrewdly surmised that the other two are the Bishops of London and Kingston. The nominations were mailed to Rome to the Sacred College yesterday morning.

INVADED BY CHINESE.

Since May 1, 2854 Chinese Said to Have Arrived in British Columbia.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The United States Consul at Victoria, B. C., reports to the State Department that there has been a renewed influx of Chinese into British Columbia, the arrivals from May to July 8 numbering 2854 persons. Most of the immigrants, he says, are provided with return certificates issued by United States Customs officers and are on their way to San Francisco. Many of these certificates, he says, are fraudulent and the holders have made several attempts to cross the line.

SWEPT BY FLAMES.

The Village of Grafton Almost Completely Wiped Out.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 18.—The village of Grafton, opposite Woodstock, N.B., was swept by fire to-day and almost completely wiped out. Twelve dwellings with their outbuildings and a great deal of stock were destroyed. Loss between $20,000 and $30,000. Insurance light.

A $25,000 Fire at St. Marys.

ST. MARYS, July 19.—A fire started on Main-street at 10.30 last night, in a frame building owned by Joseph Stafford and occupied by Mrs. B. Henry with fancy goods and Mr. Stafford as a saddler's shop. The building with most of its contents were burned. Gilpin's block adjoining was also burned but nearly all of the stock was saved. At one time there was a strong appearance that the fire would spread to other buildings but by the united efforts of the firemen and citizens the fire was confined to the blocks already mentioned. The stores burned are Mrs. B. Henry, fancy goods, small insurance; Joseph Stafford, saddlery, partly insured, loss about $2000; H. L. Davis, barber shop, goods saved. R. T. Gilpin, boots and shoes, insured, loss about $3000; Jno. C. Gilpin, general hardware, furniture and tin shop, loss $10,000

TAMPERING WITH BONDED CARS.

Two Torontonians in Limbo for Taking a Free Excursion.

BELLEVILLE, July 18.—Jas. Smith and Jos. Johnston, two youths who hail from Toronto, were before Acting Magistrate Anderson to-day, charged with breaking into a Grand Trunk bonded car. G. T. R. Constable Wm. Cummings said he found the young men in the car between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning. It was a bonded car, but the seal on the north side had been broken. The prisoners admitted getting into the car at Kingston, but claimed that the seal was broken, and when they tried the door it opened. The conductor of the train in his evidence stated that the seal was all right at Gananoque when he examined it. The prisoners were committed for trial. They claim to be sons of respectable parents in Toronto. Smith says his father keeps a confectionery and fruit store on Yonge-street, but would not give the number.

An Ottawa Pensioner Robbed.

KINGSTON, July 18.—Last evening a resident reported to the police that an old man was lying sick in Bryant's bush, and that he had been there for three or four days. Sergt. Nesbitt and Officer Timmerman visited the place mentioned and found an old pensioner named Gorman, from Ottawa, lying helpless on the sward. He was picked up and conveyed to the hospital. He said that when he received his pension he got on a spree and was robbed of a portion of his money, the parties who went through him taking him to the place referred to. He had not tasted food for three days, and was very weak.

FREEHOLD, N. J., July 18.—Richard Kearney, the negro who outraged and murdered Mrs. Margaret Purcell at Elberon, was hanged here to-day.

JERSEY CITY, July 18.—Henry Ebert was hanged at 10.30 o'clock this morning for the murder of his wife,

The "Q" Strike.

WILLIAM AND BISMARCK.

THE CHANCELLOR'S RESTRAINING INFLUENCE.

Queen Victoria Indignant at the Treatment Accorded the Ex-Empress—A Sensation in the House of Lords—Henry Labouchere's London Gossip.

LONDON, July 18.—The intended visit to England of the Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia has been postponed till September, when they will be the guests of the Queen at Balmoral.

The Pall Mall Gazette contained last week a sensational announcement to the effect that the Empress Victoria had been put almost under arrest on the death of her husband. I am told on authority that these are the facts, but I cannot absolutely vouch for them. They are, however, openly stated in Berlin. The Empress was supposed to have obtained certain documents. These, it is said, she handed over to her mother when the latter came to Berlin, and the Queen carried them off with her. When the Prince of Wales was in Berlin for the funeral of the late Emperor he tried to arrange matters but failed, for he was not empowered to return the documents. It is further said, but this seems improbable, that certain securities are missing and that the will of the late Emperor is to be contested.

One thing is certain, namely, that there is a bitter feud between the Empress and her son, and our Queen is in a high state of indignation. If the Queen has been so reprehensibly indiscreet as to bring Prussian State or family papers from Germany or to accept the custody of such, Lord Salisbury had better make it his business to see that they are returned at once, as it is certain that in the end Her Majesty will be forced to give them up. Any dispute or scandal on such a subject would be mortifying, discreditable and dangerous to the country.

On the other hand, if the story which has been current at Berlin for the last month is untrue, let a public and peremptory contradiction appear without further delay. The story of the Empress having been put under arrest arose, no doubt, from the fact that on the death of the sovereign the sentinels are always doubled around the palace in which his remains are lying and that the new Emperor ordered a cordon to be drawn in order to find out what newspaper reporters were within the palace or what ones asked for admission, as he wished to prevent any detailed information of what had occurred being prematurely published.

It is probable that the German Emperor will not commit any particular act of folly so long as Prince Bismarck, for whom he has great respect, remains to the fore. But when the Prince has disappeared from public affairs it is very likely that Germany will have troubles both at home and abroad. The Emperor is far more of a feudalist than the Prince. On the other hand, the short reign of the late Emperor has greatly conduced to strengthen the Liberal party. Herr Von Puttkamer had for long done Prince Bismarck's dirty work. He had converted the elections in many districts into a mere farce by the official pressure that he exercised over them. His dismissal will render it almost impossible to revert to this system; and the Liberal party will be henceforward more largely represented in the Chamber. This, together with the Emperor's autocratic notions, will sooner or later lead to collision, and knowing this, it is possible that the Emperor will try to avert it by plunging the country into a foreign war. In the meanwhile he will draw closer to Russia, and thus Lord Salisbury's absurd folly of promising our aid to Italy on condition that she would join the triple alliance and thus inflict a blow on Russia, has proved, as might have been anticipated, a dismal failure.

Whatever good qualities the German Emperor may have good taste can hardly be said to be one of them. Almost immediately after Dr. von Bergmann ceased to be one of Emperor Frederick's medical attendants the Crown Prince, as he was then, ostentatiously asked him to dinner. He also entertained the rabid Jew-baiting court chaplain, Stocker, who openly insulted his dying father. Now, by way of reward (and, I suppose, for still grosser insult to his mother) he has decorated Drs. von Bergmann and Gerhardt, the two ringleaders of the attack against her and Dr. Mackenzie. He evidently thinks that he owes duty only to his ancestors. Living relatives have no claims.

There was quite a sensation in the House of Lords before the Duke of Argyll commenced his speech on Thursday, in consequence of the appearance of an individual clad in a horsy-looking light coat and white hat who had appropriated a seat on the Episcopal bench which is usually occupied by the Primate. His face could not be seen by half the people in the House, and they were apprehensive that the worries of the Lambeth Conference had so far deprived the Archbishop of Canterbury of his wits as to lead him to come to the House of Lords in a costume which would have done credit to the smartest habitue of Sandown or Kempton. At last the individual who had excited so much speculation turned his head, when it was discovered that he was neither the Most Rev. Dr. Benson, gone crazy, nor any other disordered and disorderly prelate, but only Earl Latham, the Lord Chamberlain, who was presently obliged to give up his comfortable place to its usual occupant.

Two superb state railroad carriages have just been built in Paris for the Emperor and Empress of China. They are splendidly ornamented, and on the panels are dragons in gilt bronze, with most elaborate decorations. The principal saloon is furnished in cerease and yellow satin, and the carriage appropriated to the exclusive use of the Empress in sky-blue plush and silver.

All the choicest books in the Wimpale library were purchased for American collectors, so that the bulk of Lord Chancellor Hardwicke's rare and splendid collection is going across the Atlantic.

The biography of the late Lord Cairns is to be written. I hope it will contain some of Lord Beaconsfield's letters, as he corresponded with Lord Cairns in a very confidential way, and was in the habit of amusing his friends with those smart personal sketches in which he excelled.

The Maharajah Haikar, of Indore, has just married a damsel in her twelfth year, a proceeding which has excited the keen indignation of his other wives.

The Grand Duke George, of Russia, the second son of the Emperor, is about to enter the Imperial navy. He was 17 last May, and he is a very bright, clever lad.

It is reported at Berlin that negotiations are in progress with a view to the betrothal of the Prince of Naples, the only son of the King and Queen of Italy, to Princess Clementine, of Belgium, the youngest of the three daughters of the King and Queen of the Belgians. The Prince of Naples will not be nineteen till November, and the Princess will be sixteen on the 30th.

LAKEFIELD.

Correspondence of the Review.

ARM BROKEN.—Mr. Lockwood, Mr. D. McLean's miller, was unfortunate enough to break his arm.

PERSONAL.—Miss Jennie Gandy, of Appleton, Wisconsin, niece of Mrs. S. Nelson, is here on a visit....Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of Toronto, are staying with Mrs. Tate ....Mrs. McCallum, of Indiana, is paying her mother, Mrs. Eastland, a visit....Mrs. Sands and young daughter from Kingston, are visiting Mrs. J. L. Madill....Mr. Fred Grylls is home for summer holidays.... Miss Schofield has returned from her visit to Belleville.

BOAT HOUSE.—Messrs. W. McDonald and Mahood have built a floating boat house.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Wm. Scrimger cut his hand very severely with glass. Dr. D. Fraser dressed the wound.

A CRUISE.—Your correspondent was much pleased with a call from Messrs. Fife, of Peterborough, and Foster, of Toronto, who have been cruising with a party of six from Lindsay to Lakefield. They report having passed through some very severe wind storms, especially did they remark on the gale of Wednesday, the 11th inst., when they all had to go ashore and pitch their tents in the shelter of the woods, but otherwise they had a most enjoyable cruise.

PICNIC.—A merry picnic party of about thirty friends, including your correspondent, left the wharf on Thursday, the glorious 12th, on the steady, safe and fast running steamer Cruiser, for Stoney Lake, our point of destination being Burleigh Falls, where we all decamped and partook of the many good things provided by the ladies of the party. After all had satisfied the cravings of the inner man and woman we strolled over and inspected the locks at the big chute, where we found the steamer Cruiser putting a new screw on, having broked an old one on a number logs on the way up. About 5 p.m. a start for home was made. On the way down all were in for fun to their hearts content, singing, comic and otherwise, being freely indulged in. On arriving at Lakefield, the word was, "When shall we have another picnic and excursion?" The general voice was immediately if not sooner. So ended one of the most pleasant days we ever have spent on Stoney Lake.

ANOTHER.—Mrs. W. Wallace and Miss Wallace gave a picnic at Hague's Point on Monday. A nice turn out, a nice sail, a nice girl, a nice fellow—and could not be improved on. We wait for another—not another drive of logs; oh, no, picnic.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Sheldrake met with a painful accident on Saturday evening. When driving through the gate at home the hind wheel of the trap caught on gate, throwing her out, inflicting some severe bruises. Fortunately no bones were broken. The lady intended leaving for Cobourg on Monday, but will have to postpone her visit.

A PLEASANT TRIP.—On Tuesday Mr. H. Nelson and some sixty friends chartered the steamer Mary Ellen and took a trip up the back lakes to the head of Stoney Lake. They describe the excursion in glowing terms. Every thing was done by Captain Scollard to make the trip pleasant as well as successful.

T. V. C. C.—The Trent Valley Commission passed through our village the first of last week. They had chartered the steamer Dawn for the week to cruise around the back lakes on a tour of inspection. We hope they found everything favourable towards the continuing of the work on the canal.

TRY Henderson's Nasal Cream, a sure cure for cold in the head and a remedy for catarrh. Price 25c. per bottle.

FIRE.—Mr. Colman Blewitt, jr., of Smith, had a narrow escape from being burned out. Mrs. Blewitt went out to the field to her husband and while there their little four year old boy came running to them calling out, "smoke, smoke." The parents, thinking something might be wrong at the house, made quick time there, and found the house on fire in two places, which they quickly extinguished. The cause of the fire was from a defective chimney. Mr. B. thinks there is no smarter four year old boy in Smith than his.

BUSH FIRES.—We are completely enveloped with smoke. Bad bush fires are reported from a great many places. Unless we soon receive rain, and plenty of it, a good many farmers will suffer severely by fire, as a number of farmers are already fighting the devouring element.

S. S. EXCURSION.—On Tuesday the St. John's Sunday School held their annual excursion and picnic to Juniper Island, Stoney Lake, per steamer Cruiser. The boat was so well filled with children of the school and their friends that a party from Port Hope, who came in by the morning train, decided to let the Steamer Cruiser come back for them after landing the picnickers at Stoney Lake, which the captain of the steamer willingly did, and gave the Port Hopers a first class ride to Burleigh Falls.

TO CALIFORNIA.—Mr. James D. Graham leaves to-day, Friday, for Los Angeles, California. He goes by way of Vancouver, British Columbia. He has obtained a good position there. We will all miss James very much, but wish him success in his new place and sphere of labor.

A HOLIDAY.—The Rev. Mr. McEwan left on Thursday for Niagara, where he will spend a fortnight. Then he will proceed to Chautauqua Lake where he will take charge of the Biblical Department of the Canadian Chautauqua for about ten days. The Rev. Orr Bennet, B.A., of Queen's University, Kingston, will take charge of the Presbyterian pulpit during the absence of the Rev. Mr. McEwan.

RAIN.—On Wednesday morning we had quite a heavy shower of rain, but not enough to do very much good. It would take about two days' rain to give the earth a good wetting. Everything around the village is burnt to a crisp.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Edward Willan, of Cartwright, elder brother of Mr. T. N. Willan, reeve of South Monaghan, came to his end suddenly on Tuesday evening last. He had started for the station at Burketon to meet his daughter, Mrs. R. Casement, Mrs. Willan, her mother, having gone on ahead with the buggy to meet the daughter, the father followed with the wagon for the trunks. The mother and daughter, coming from the station, met the father near at hand. As they turned out to pass upon the road, Mr. Willan fell down, smitten with apoplexy. He was at once conveyed away, and, though he was living, he never spoke again, but soon passed away at the age of 67 years. The deceased gentleman leaves behind him a son and daughter and the memory of an honored and respected life. He came to this country with his father in 1831 and settled in South Monaghan. He was superintendent of the English Church Sunday School.

Found Floating in the Don—Troubles of the Trades.

Robt. Bell and H. Smith were fined $30 each and costs or 30 days yesterday for intimidating the plumbers who had been imported to take the place of the strikers. The evidence was to the effect that the two men were among the number of those who followed the imported hands on the street on Tuesday. Said the magistrate, "I just want to intimate to these people that if I have any more of this sort of thing I will increase the fine to $100."

The World appears to have suffered little by reason of the lock-out of its compositors. They have had no difficulty in getting typesetters. The proprietor has taken legal advice and will enter actions against the Globe, Mail and Empire for inserting an advertisement warning printers to keep away from Toronto as there was a lock-out in the World office. The magistrate's sentence in regard to the two intimidating plumbers has had the effect of driving the pickets from the vicinity of the World office.

The thirty-third annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. and A. M., G. R. C., opened yesterday afternoon with a large attendance. The accumulated funds are $69,243.

The Probable Fate of George Jarvis and Mrs. Madeline Campbell.

CLEVELAND, July 19.—The centre of attraction in the Police Court yesterday was Mrs. Madeline Campbell, the pretty Canadian who eloped with George Jarvis and shocked the residents of Franklin-avenue by living with him when they were not married.

Attorney Skells, who appears for Mrs. Campbell and Jarvis, changed the pleas of his clients to not guilty, and demanded a jury trial. This was granted, and the trial was set for next Wednesday. Efforts will be made to secure some settlement of the case, but if these fail and the judge keeps in his present frame of mind, the prospects of escaping a term in the workhouse are exceedingly dubious for George Jarvis and Madaline Campbell.

HASTINGS.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—About ten o'clock on Wednesday night of last week, while Mr. John McCarey was driving home from the village, when near the Dutch Line toll gate, the pole of the wagon slipped through the neck-yoke and the horses became unmanageable. Mr. McCarey was thrown off and one of the wagon wheels passed over his stomach. Mr. Stickles, who keeps the toll gate, hearing a vehicle coming through at an unusual speed opened the gate, and as the horses passed through, he saw no person on the rig and concluded that an accident had happened. He immediately went in the direction from which the wagon had come, and found McCarey about two hundred yards north of the gate lying insensible. He aroused the unfortunate man and helped him to the toll gate, and then sent for Mr. P. Barry to take him home. Although suffering from the shock the injuries did not appear to be serious, and next morning McCarey was up and ate his breadfast, but about nine o'clock he complained of acute pain in the abdomen, and immediately dropped dead.—Star.

A PYRAMID OF FACTS!

Why GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men are on Top of the Heap.

WHY THE GIANT CLOTHIERS KNOCK THE SOX OFF THE COMBINED 12 TRIFLERS WITH THE CLOTHING TRADE.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING FACTS.

First.—Buying for Spot Cash thereby convincing the wholesale men that we command the market.

Second.—Selling goods cheaper retail than the handicap dealers who are under the thumb of wholesale men can buy for.

Third.—Carrying the largest stock of clothing of any house between Montreal and Toronto, thereby giving the customer the benefit of buying largely.

Fourth.—Gough's sell Fine Worsteds for $6.90, worth $13.00. They sell all wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $3.80 worth $8.00. "They sell Boy's Suits for 58c., $1.10, $2.00 and up. Elegant Goods. They sell Boys' Coats for 19c. A customer remarked the other day when shown the goods, well, really, gentlemen you are without doubt the Kings of Low Prices and the only and originial Wonderful Cheap Men."

Fifth.---Mens' Working Pants 17c.

Sixth.---Do we offer Baits? Some dealers say our prices quoted are only baits thrown out to catch! Why bless them! Gough's, the original agitators of small profits goods are all baits. They don't fish with a bare hook. They know the value of good value. Their offers touch bottom in Clothing prices and that's what makes the High Priced Clothing Sharks wriggle and squirm.

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate to fresh southwest and west winds; mostly fair, warm weather, with showers in a few places.

A More Hopeful View.

The farmer smiles. He smiles because the recent rains have revived the crops and may turn what was feared to be a poor harvest into one of average yield. Even had the harvest proved a failure there is one redeeming feature of the situation that should not escape attention. Had there been little money to spend, little encouragement to buy dry goods, fair's was at hand to buy good goods at low prices. The golden item would meet the situation with a large reduction in prices just as at present when 15c. prints are selling at 10c. Not old shopworn goods, but new, stylish, and beautiful patterns fit for wear on any occasion. Buy these prints while the chance is open.

Camping Parties

Must not forget to go to W. J. Morrow's for their supplies, as he has a full stock of canned goods, &c., that must be sold cheap. The rush still continues for our fine teas which we are clearing out. Sugars are steadily increasing in price, but owing to our large stock, are being sold at the old prices. W. J. MORROW, Opera House block.

The Total Eclipse.

Next Sunday night there will be a total eclipse of the moon visible in Canada—the second this year, the former one being on the night of Jan. 28th. A writer in the Mail gives the following as the times of the eclipse phases on Sunday night. Toronto time:—Moon enters the umbra shadow, 10.37 p.m.; total eclipse begins, 11.36; middle of the eclipse, 12.27 a.m.; total eclipse ends, 1.19 a.m.; moon leaves umbra shadow, 2.17 a.m.; total duration of eclipse, 1hr. 43 min.; duration of total darkness 1 hr. 43 min.

Police Court.

James Healey, a farmer, got so drunk on Wednesday, that he could not control his team of horses. He was taken in by officer Stewart and at the court this morning he was discharged with a caution.... George and Frederick Green, Jos. Levasseur and James Gordon, four boys from the south end of town, ranging in age from 7 to 10 years, were charged with injuring a number of shade trees, the property of the Rev. Mr. Clementi. It was shown that on the 16th of July the defendants barked a number of fine shade trees. The three first named were ordered to be imprisoned for six hours each and Gordon was discharge. The next boys found doing such a thing will not get off so easily.

Going North.

Each Grand Trunk train going north carries numerous parties bound for the northern lakes and health and recreation. Our American cousins, who formerly contended themselves with only going as far as Rice Lake, are coming over in greater numbers every year and finding their way farther north. Among those who went up to-day was a party of fifteen from Rochester and neighboring places. They were bound for Stoney Lake and had with them all the necessary appliances for camping out. They will remain for a month.

Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Cox, Toronto, are in town on a visit.

Mr. J. H. Hatley, of J. Palmer & Son, Montreal, has been here for some days. Like all enlightened visitors he says Peterborough is the best business place between Toronto and Montreal.

108 Years Old.

On Tuesday evening there arrived on the evening C. P. R. train from the east a man who age was given as 108 years. He remained over night at the Queen's Hotel and left on Wednesday morning on the G. T. R. for Lindsay. His name is John Brown and he came from Tamworth, near Napanee. For many years he has resided with a son who recently died, and he was on his way to the residence of another son, near Lindsay. When in his prime Mr. Brown weighed over three hundred pounds and stood nearly seven feet high. For the last ten or twelve years he has not had the use of his limbs, except his hands, and is almost perfectly helpless. He lays on a stretcher with an elevated place at the head, and on this he is carried from place to place. Even in the condition that he is in at present it took four strong men to carry the stretcher. He is without teeth and cannot speak. For many years he has not eaten solid food of any description, but lives on soups, gruel, porridge and other similar nourishment.

Civic.

A meeting of the Finance Committee is called for Friday evening. It is probable that the Mayor will call a Council meeting for Monday evening next.

Lacrosse.

The Y. M. C. A. lacrosse club and the Norwood club will cross sticks to-morrow evening at 6.30 o'clock on the P. A. A. A. grounds. A well played and keenly contested match may be expected.

Inspecting.

Captain Dick, Steamboat Hull Inspector, and Mr. Adams, Government Inspector of boilers, were in town on Wednesday, looking over the crafts that ply on the river. All passed successfully. The last named gentleman left for Lakefield in the evening.

Failed to Show Up.

Mr. James, the young man who played with both the Barrie and Shelburne lacrosse clubs this season, failed to show up here as agreed upon at the Toronto meeting and in consequence it is propable that he will be suspended or expelled by the association.

The Gun Club.

The members of the gun club will resume shooting at the Riverside Park to-morrow evening. A large turnout is requested, and those interested will bear in mind the fact that the shooting will commence at 7 o'clock p. m., instead of at 4 p. m. as heretofore.

C. L. R. R.

The track layers on the Chemong Lake R. R. commenced work in earnest at the town end of the road this morning. The connection with the old line has been completed. The old rails used for running the cars on have been taken up, laid to the standard guage and replaced with steel rails of the best quality. The gang at work at this end numbers about fifty men, most of whom are Italians.

Large numbers of our citizens, both ladies and gentlemen, visit the genuine Little World. Corner of George and Charlotte-sts., afternoons and evenings. As the charge is only 10 cents and children under 10 years 5 cents, no doubt the whole town will go to see this fine work of art. 1d

Down to the Point.

The excursion and picnic under the auspices of Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, on the Golden Eye to Jubilee Point, was probably the largest of the season. The steamer was filled and the two large scows each had a fair quota of human freight. The Fire Brigade band orchestra accompanied the party and dancing was commenced almost as soon as the excursion started from the wharf.

Strayed.

On Tuesday night some boys came across a fine, little black pony, wandering around the streets. They caught him, put a rope around his neck and brought him down town. No person appeared to know the animal and he was placed in the Belmoral stables. On Wednesday night a gentleman residing near Lakefield came to town inquiring for a stray pony. He was directed to Mr. Cavanagh and was delighted to recover his pet.

Drugged.

A farmer who was found by officer Stewart last night, unable to take care of himself or his team, told the Police Magistrate this morning that he was not under the influence of liquor, but that he had been drugged in some of the dens he had visited. He was certainly in a very befogged condition and totally unable to care for himself. This is not the first time that stories of drugging have been told to the police and there may be something in it.

St. John's Picnic.

The rain of Wednesday morning evidently had no terrors for the two hundred persons who took advantage of the cheap rates offered to take a trip to Stoney Lake, on the annual excursion of St. John's Sunday School. At Lakefield the party embarked on the steamers Cruiser and Mary Ellen and started up the lake. At first it was intended to go to Gilchrist's Bay, but the rain prevented that, as it was thought the place would be too wet. At Sherwood's Island the steering apparatus of the Mary Ellen got out of order and the Dawn took it back to Young's Point for repairs. The excursionists proceeded to Julian's Landing for dinner. The proprietors of the hotel kindly placed the building and grounds at the disposal of the visitors and dinner was eaten in the dining room. After that the party enjoyed themselves in various ways, fishing, boating, swinging, etc. The superintendent of the school, Mr. Brundrette, conducted a series of races for girls and boys. All were keenly contested, and the prizes, various useful articles, were much appreciated by the ones who were fortunate enough to win them. The run home passed off without mishap and rain and all the trip was pronounced one of the best and most successful of the season.

THE OUTLOOK.

REVIEW OFFICE, July 19th, 1888.

The present state of the crops throughout the county in general is such as to cause serious fears that the harvest will not prove an average one—unless, indeed, a poor harvest is taken as the average. The drought of the past three weeks has told seriously on the growing grain and particularly so in spring wheat and barley. Unfortunately the greater portion of the farming land of the county is not of that character that can resist the effects of a lengthened period of dry weather. Throughout the lower portion of Otonabee the indications are not promising, while the township of Douro shares to some extent the depressed feeling. Throughout Asphodel the dry time has—wrought havoc with the the grain, and many fields are in a condition far from satisfactory. In North Monaghan the prospect is somewhat better, with one or two localities not hopeful. The indications are that hay will have a short crop. Fall wheat, on the other hand, where a fair "catch" was secured, promises to do remarkably well and is the least injured. Roots are suffering from the intense dryness.

The welcome rain that fell on Wednesday and Wednesday night will do much to revive the fields and may not be too late to prove of material assistance. The dry area seems not to have been confined to this county, but neighboring territory is sharing the privation incidental to rain witheld and moisture wanting. Complaints of the poor prospects for the harvest are heard from Victoria county on the west and Hastings on the east. The weather during the next ten days will be watched with anxiety by thousands of eyes with the hope that plentious showers may yet come to the assistance of the agriculturist. Continental advices of late date report that the prospect in Europe is not flattering. On excellent authority says:—"Our foreign advices repeated unsettled weat in Great Britain, with incessant rains in France and estimating a shortage in latter country of at least twenty to twenty-five per cent. from last year. We consider the outlook in Western Europe as becoming serious, and unless the weather becomes at once more favorable a sharp advance in foreign markets will result."

To the Deaf.

A person cured of Deafness and noises in the head of 28 year's standing by a simple remedy, will send a description of it FREE to any person who applies to NICHOLSON, 30 St. John St., Montreal. dlleodly

Cricket.

Probably the strongest team of cricketers that Toronto can turn out came down last night, and to-day they are playing against a Peterborough eleven. Toronto went to the bat first and scored 135. Peterborough followed and two wickets had fallen for 11 runs, when time was called for luncheon. We will give scores and other particulars to-morrow.

For Trespass.

Before County Police Magistrate Edmison, at the Court House, to-day a case of trespass was disposed of. John Harper was charged with trespassing on the farm of a man named West. The farm occupied by the latter is owned by the defendant's father. Harper, jr., cut about half an acre of hay, but did not draw it away, consequently it was much damaged by the recent storm of rain. Defendant was fined $5 and $2 damages to the hay.

A Runaway Girl.

A little 13 year old girl from the north end of the town left home clandestinely the other day and went to Port Hope, where she had relatives. Chief Roszel found out where she was and Chief Douglas sent her home on the 5.15 train on Tuesday. She did not go to the house, however, but went back to Port Hope on the night train. She was sent back again on Wednesday and taken home. She gave as her reason for leaving, that she was ill-treated at home.

T. V. C. Commission.

The Trent Valley Canal Commissioners, having completed their personal inspection of the northern waters, will meet in Peterborough on July 31st to proceed over the route of the canal from here to the Bay of Quinte or Lake Ontario. At the same time it is expected that they will fix the times and places for holding sessions to hear evidence, which will then be advertised. It is probable that the evidence will be heard during September.

Whether from swampy land or stagnant pool, or from the deadly gases of city sewers, malarial poisons are the same. Ayer's Ague Cure, taken according to direction, is a warranted specific for malarial disorders.

Brevities.

—A couple of drunks were run in by the police at noon.

—There was a regular drill of the canton at the rink last night.

—There was some lightning last night accompanied by very light thunder.

—There was another slight fall of rain during the night. More is yet required.

—Extra large quantities of general freight are being carried by the railways just at present.

—The bricklayers have nearly finished their work at the new Muckleston building, near the Post Office.

—Several canoes were shipped to Orillia, by the G. T. R. yesterday, for use at the coming A. C. A. meet.

—A young man named Richard Parnell had one of his fingers torn by a shaper at Baptie's planing factory.

—The regular weekly practise match of the members of the Rifle Association is in progress this afternoon.

—There was no parade of the Salvation Army last night, the members being at a soldiers' meeting at the Temple.

—Mr. M. Halpin has commenced the erection of a new hotel on the south side of Hunter-st. not far from the creek.

—The Toronto cricketers say that the Peterborough and Hamilton clubs are the strongest they met during the season.

—The boys detained in the cells did not all take to it kindly and the crying of one of them could be heard for some distance.

—It is altogether probable that the Fire Brigade band will attend the musical reunion at Pembroke early in August next.

—The Orillia and Riverside Lacrosse Clubs will play on the Riverside Park on he 26th. It will be a championship game —Bandmaster Miller has received some of the large bills advertising the Walkerton band tournament. Our band will not compete.

—There is considerable bitterness between the union and non-union bricklayers and "rats" and "scabs" are words frequently heard.

—The Central Exhibition Directors are making good progress in collecting special prizes. Several of them were at work yesterday.

—The Norwood and Y. M. C. A. Lacrosse Clubs will play a game on the P. A. A. A. grounds to-morrow evening, commencing at 6.30 o'clock —The bricklayers claim that out of sixty-six members who joined the Union only three have "ratted." This they claim is a splendid showing.

—Mayor Stevenson proposes to try the Staffordshire paving bricks, by laying down a walk in his garden. He wants to see how they will stand the frost.

—A traveller for a Toronto wholesale grocery has had a rather unfortunate experience in Peterborough this trip. He arrived on Monday. On Tuesday hired a livery horse and rig. While driving about town the horse ran away, tossed the driver out and smashed the buggy. On Wednesday while prowling about a local grocery he fell down the cellar stairs with a bottle of castor oil in his hand. Two steps and a landing were broken and the castor oil a total loss. It is understood that he has gone to the city for repairs.

While correspondents will be allowed space to discuss questions of public interest, the Review does not hold itself responsible for the opinions expressed.

An Unnecessary Sneer.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in the Examiner of last night a "personal" on Mr. T. S. Rubidge, who lately left town for Cornwall. I think that the editor of the Examiner ought to have been ashamed to publish such a notice, and if he couldn't say a good word for the ex-engineer of the T. V. C., he might, at least, have had the common decency to let him take his departure in silence. I can assure you that in his private life Mr. Rubidge had a large circle of friends, who resent such an ill-bred sneer as was displayed by your contemporary last night.

Yours,
ONE OF HIS FRIENDS.

The Frog Lake Bell.

The following letter regarding the Frog Lake bell which was brought to Millbrook, and about which there has been considerable talk, appears in the Port Hope Times:—

SIR,—As I did not wish to create an agitation, I had concluded not to say anything about the Frog Lake bell question, but as several prominent newspapers have published erroneous accounts of it, I now send you a true version of the whole affair.

In the spring of 1885, when the mounted portions of the North-West Field Force were hunting the Indians under Big Bear and Wandering Spirit, the Midland Battalion was ordered to Frog Lake to intercept them in that direction. They found what had once been a Hudson Bay Post and R. C. Mission, which included the R. C. church, two stores and several houses, had all been burned, the people murdered or carried off prisoners by the Indians. The half-charred remains of some of the victims were lying in the cellar of one of the houses; two other bodies were lying where they had been shot down on the prairie. All was desolation; the only thing left was a stockade fence around where the R. C. church had stood, and at the gate, two posts, on which was swinging a small bell, and as there was quite a craze for souvenirs, some of the men of my company, without my knowledge or any of the officers, took it down in the night, packed it in a box with some old clothing, and managed to smuggle it home, and presented it to the firemen of this village, who hung it on their fire hall, where it has been doing duty ever since, and is not, nor never has been on an Orange hall, nor have the Orangemen as a body anything to do with it. It now transpires that the bell belongs to Bishop Grandin, of the North-West, who has been looking for it ever since, unsuccessfully, until some person in Peterborough wrote informing him where it was. Bishop Grandin wrote the Minister of Militia asking him to get the bell for him, as he valued it very highly, on account of it having been presented to him by a gentleman in France, and as the good bishop had been loyal and had done a good deal to suppress the rebellion, the Minister felt anxious to oblige him, and so requested Mr. Ward (who being member for the riding was the proper person), to come to Millbrook to see if the firemen would not restore it. Mr. Ward before coming wrote asking me to meet him, and together we interviewed the Reeve, Chief Engineer and Captain of the fire brigade, who agreed to call a meeting of the firemen for the following Tuesday, which they did, when Mr. Ward again attended and explained the matter to them.

In the meantime quite a feeling had sprung up, which was fanned by some parties who wished to create a feeling against Mr. Ward, though every reasonable person will admit that he could not act otherwise than as he did. The meeting finally decided to lay the matter over for future consideration.

The assertion that the boys took the bell because it belonged to the R. C. church is false. They found it on the prairie and thought it would be a nice thing to bring home and hang on their fire hall as a souvenir of the campaign. My own opinion is, now that the firmen know who the bell belongs to and considering the associations connected with it, they would be doing a graceful act of justice by restoring the good Bishop his bell. But as I am not a fireman and had nothing to do with bringing the bell home, never having seen it until it was hanging on the fire hall in Millbrook, I have no voice in the matter.

Yours,
C. H. WINSLOW, CAPT.,
Late commanding D. Co., Midland Bat.

"Iget your idea," said Mr. Balltop to his wife. "Your reasoning is quite correct. Your experience is a safe guide. Quite so, decidedly so. You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. That is a very fair supposition and one, I may say, well grounded. We give up the idea of buying our supply of Fruit Jars in Toronto and hand an order to Wilson. I'll attend to it after Canton drill, this afternoon."

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

What a Time

People formerly had, trying to swallow the old-fashioned pill with its film of magnesia vainly disguising its bitterness; and what a contrast to Ayer's Pills, that have been well called "medicated sugar-plums"—the only fear being that patients may be tempted into taking too many at a dose. But the directions are plain and should be strictly followed.

J. T. Teller, M. D., of Chittenango, N. Y., expresses exactly what hundreds have written at greater length. He says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills are highly appreciated. They are perfect in form and coating, and their effects are all that the most careful physician could desire. They have supplanted all the Pills formerly popular here, and I think it must be long before any other can be made that will at all compare with them. Those who buy your pills get full value for their money."

"Safe, pleasant, and certain in their action," is the concise testimony of Dr. George E. Walker, of Martinsville, Virginia.

"Ayer's Pills outsell all similar preparations. The public having once used them, will have no others."—Berry, Venable & Collier, Atlanta, Ga.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

CHAPTER XXIV.—MAN PROPOSES.

Morning brought renewed spirit and fresh courage.

Mona could not help smiling at the singular combination of circumstances which brought her once more face to face with the man whose wife she had so nearly been. It was foolish to feel so uncomfortable about meeting him. As he was perfectly unembarrassed, she was resolved to imitate his composure, and treat him with friendly cordiality. He deserved consideration at her hands, for he had behaved to her with chivalrous forbearance.

Still, she did not leave her room quite so early as she usually did. She was determined to run no unnecessary risk of a tete-a-tete interview.

Uncle Sandy and Kenneth were already in the dining-room when she entered, and went through the ceremony of infusing the tea before her uncle began the long, rambling, extemporary prayer with which he always opened the day. They had hardly risen from their knees, when Waring came in and wished the party good-morning.

"I hope you rested weel?" said Uncle Sandy.

"I was extremely comfortable, but I dreamed furiously," he replied. "I seemed to have lived over my whole life since we parted last night. I hope the strain of Scotch blood in my veins has not developed a tendency to second sight, now that I am in my mother's native land, for I have had quite awful warnings in my visions. Some disaster hangs over me. However, that is nothing new, and I suppose I shall live through many more before I have done with things."

"Shall I give you tea or coffee, Mr. Waring?" asked Mona.

"Coffee, please."

He turned toward her, and suddenly meeting her eyes, the color rose in his brown cheek.

"Were your dreams in the morning?" she made haste to ask, anxious to hide her own confusion by speaking.

"Yes! It was daylight when I woke from the last and worst."

"Then be of good courage. The evil in your dreams will prove good in disguise, and you will get your wish."

"Thank you! I accept the omen from your lips."

"Are ye no for parritch?" asked Uncle Sandy. "It's varra wholesome and strengthnin'."

"Thank you, no. This hare pie is excellent."

"I wish Mary Black were here," observed Mona to Kenneth.

"She is a little witch for reading dreams and telling fortunes!"

"Ay, she's a witch! That is fery true, Mona."

"Uncle!" cried Mona, "may I ask Mary Black to come and stay here again? I have not seen a female face for months."

"Yes; you can ask her. She is varra welcome. It's a nice blithe lassie," explained Mr. Craig to Waring, "and sings as sweet a lilt as you'd hear anywhere."

"Sorry I have so little chance of seeing her, sir. My time grows short."

"Hoot, toot, mon! You can stay till next week."

"I am afraid I am too unfortunate to be able to accept your kind hospitality. I have business in London, and I want to take the Cunard boat on the 11th."

"I dinna like to let you go. We'll talk aboot it, you an' me! Keuneth, is it going to be fine the day?"

"I think there will be showers."

"You may be tolerably sure of that, Kenneth," said Mona.

"I want to tak' Mr. Waring round the place, and let him have a glint at Strathairlie."

"Strathairlie?" repeated Waring. "Had not Finistoun shooting hereabouts?"

"He has a deer forest—a great stretch of unreclaimed land, whaur hundreds of honest sheep ought to be grazing, instead of its being a playground for a hantle o' feckless nobles," quoth Uncle Sandy.

Waring, however, was too much occupied with his own thoughts to heed him.

"Didn't Finistoun marry one of the Everard's?" he asked—"a very pretty girl?"

"Weel, she is a bonnie wee wife," said Uncle Sandy; "and, though she is a bit feckless, I didna object to her coming to see Mona. But they are a cauld, stiff, upsettin' fam'ly! It was weel for Mona she found a gude, kind uncle to tak' her in when you Everard folk pit her oot!"

Waring glanced sharply at Mona, who colored with vexation, and said, haughtily—

"It is not necessary to trouble Mr. Waring with our family quarrels."

"What's wrang wi' ye?" asked her uncle in some surprise.

"You have capital sport about here, I suppose?" said Waring, as if anxious to change the subject.

"Yes—rod or gun, it's all the same. You can fish or shoot the livelong day!" cried Kenneth, enthusiastically. "Sir St. John Lisle said he never saw birds more abundant."

"Lisle?" repeated Waring, quickly, addressing Mona. "I thought he was in India!"

"He returned on the death of a relation, whom he succeeded," answered Mona, briefly.

There was a short pause. Then Kenneth proposed that he should take Mr. Waring for a round of the place, and along the road toward the Lodge, before dinner; and that after it uncle should show his guest the garden, the farm-yard, and the stables.

They were still discussing their plans when Mona rose to visit Phemie, and hold high counsel anent dinner. She felt it a relief to escape Waring's eyes, though he rarely looked at her; and his voice, which had in it, to her fancy, a tinge of melancholy, that filled her with self-reproach. So, having completed her task down-stairs, she went to her own room. Then, finding that the walking to and fro and sound of voices had ceased, she concluded the pedestrians had started, and went to the drawing-room, intending to dust some few pieces of old china she had persuaded her uncle to buy while they were on their travels, with her own fair hands.

She had hardly commenced when approaching footsteps startled her, and Waring came into the room, and closed the door behind him.

"I thought you had gone out with Kenneth," said Mona, laying down her duster, with a curious feeling of being caught.

"We were just starting when one of your uncle's tenants came to speak to him, and Mr. Macalister's presence was needed in what they called 'the museum.'"

Mona smiled.

"You have not seen our museum yet?"

"No," returned Waring, and there was a pause.

He stood looking at the fire, and she hesitated what to say next.

"I am glad to have this chance of speaking," resumed Waring, suddenly, and looking full at her, a kind expression in his handsome, soft, brown eyes, "for I want to explain that I would not have intruded on you had I had the least idea who the niece was about whom Mr. Craig spoke with such very justifiable pride. I am afraid that—that I cannot be a very welcome guest to you!"

Mona murmured a polite denial.

"If you would let me speak frankly to you, I should be so glad. I don't want to say anything that would displease you."

He colored slightly, but his eyes laughed.

"Oh! I am sure you would not!" cried Mona. "Yes! say anything you like."

She felt herself again.

"Thank you. Well, I am very glad to see you, and awfully glad you have found a friend in old Craig. He is a character—excuse me for speaking so unceremoniously."

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE MINISTER OF MARINE ENTERS UPON HIS DUTIES.

No Particulars of the Skeena River Troubles Received by the Militia Department—The Senate Committee's Report on the Sawdust Nuisance.

OTTAWA, July 19.—Hon. C. H. Tupper arrived in the city to day and entered upon his duties as Minister of Marine and Fisheries. This afternoon he paid his first visit to his department.

Appendix 29 of the annual report of the Department of Public Works has been distributed. It contains a large amount of valuable information relating to the public works of Canada, cost of construction, etc., carefully compiled by Mr. G. T. Baillairge, Deputy Minister, and will be an exceedingly useful book of reference.

The outport of Kentville, N. S., has been raised to a Customs port on account of increased business and F. C. Naud appointed collector.

On account of decrease of business the port of Cornwallis has been reduced to an outport.

The bush fires in the timber limits on the north shore of the Ottawa, covering an area of 300 square miles, were extinguished by yesterday's rain.

The Department of Militia has not received any particulars touching the Skeena River troubles in British Columbia. The scene of the outbreak is 500 miles beyond the reach of telegraphic communication. The Department expects, however, to receive by Saturday's mail official papers from the officer in command of C battery.

The plans of the new iron bridge at the Chaudiere to take the place of the present suspension bridge between Ottawa and Hull are ready and tenders will shortly be invited. The bridge will be 235 feet long and 45 feet wide.

The report of the Senate committee on the sawdust nuisance has been published. It makes a pamphlet of 77 pages.

Information was received yesterday that the action brought by Mr. Connee, M.P.P., to recover a deposit of $4000 placed by him in the Ontario Bank to the credit of the receiver-general had been decided in favor of the bank. It is alleged that Mr. Connee who was a contractor on the C.P.R. had two vessels which he used for bringing supplies into the country in violation of the customs laws. These were seized by the customs and only released on a deposit being given as before stated. The Department of Customs on enquiry confiscated the deposit in spite of the declaration of Mr. Connee that he had only made it on the understanding that an agent was to hold until a decision had been given. The bank declined to admit that it was a stake holder and an action for the recovery of the bond was brought with the result mentioned.

It is most probable that the official translators of the House of Commons and Hansard will be formed into a branch of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery so as to bring the whole business of publishing in both languages the Department and Parliamentary reports under one department.

William Carr, a farmer of Fitzroy Township, celebrated the twelfth of July at Carleton Place, and on his way home fired a revolver at William Smith's house, making a hole through a window, for which amusement he was yesterday fined $50.

At the Police Court this morning Napolean Clouthier was fined $5 for taking down a diphtheria card which the Health Officer had placed on his house where there was a case of the disease.

The people of Hull are a good deal divided about rebuilding the Roman Catholic Church destroyed by the recent fire. The greater portion of them are advocating the building of two small churches in different parts of the city instead of one large one in the centre. The Oblat fathers say they have no right to build more than one church. The matter will be referred to Archbishop Duhamel on his return here on July 17.

PROBABLE MURDER.

Napoleon Michell of Wolfstown Shot by His Brother-in-Law.

SHERBROOKE, Que., July 19.—Napoleon Michell of Wolfstown, Que., near Disraeli, on the Quebec Central Railway, was visited last night by his brother-in-law, Jerry Lamontagne, who fired three revolver shots at him, all three lodging in Michell's neck. Thinking then that he was dead Lamontagne removed him to a bed, placed over him a mattress and setting fire to this left the room at once.

Michell, however, recovered consciousness and made his way to the first neighbor's where he made his declaration before a priest. It is not thought possible that he can recover.

The cause of the attempted murder is still unknown.

Lamontagne has not yet been arrested.

Fatal Accident at Chatham.

CHATHAM, July 19.—A colored man named Chas. Johnston, engineer at A. Dallas' stave mill, was killed this afternoon by being caught in the belting. He died almost instantly.

Elected Orange Grand Master.

LONDON, July 19.—The Earl of Erne has been elected Grand Master of the Orangemen throughout the world.

The Phonograph Deal.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Rumors have been published that the Edison Phonograph Company had been sold to an English syndicate for $250,000. Jesse H. Lippincott, of this city and Pittsburg, has purchased the company for over a million dollars, with all improvements made by Mr. Edison for fifteen years to come. Mr. Lippincott has also become sole lessee of the American graphophone, and has organized a company to introduce the machines.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE TIMES' CHARGES.

A BATCH OF QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY MR. SMITH.

The Government Leader Responds to a Number of Interrogations Respecting Attorney-General Webster's Connection with the O'Donnell Case.

LONDON, July 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. W. H. Smith, the Government leader, replying to questions said:

The Government's offer of 1887 was that if members desired to take proceedings against The Times they could be taken in the name of the Attorney-General and could be conducted by any counsel the members might name. The offer was made with the Attorney-General's consent. It was not with the Government's assent or dissent that the Attorney-General was retained by The Times to defend the suit brought by O'Donnell. He was retained by The Times in his private character as counsel. The Government did not supply him with any material for his speech. I decline to make any statement of the course the Government will pursue in regard to consulting the Attorney-General. It will be in the power of The Times to engage the Attorney-General to attend the enquiries of the Commission in its behalf if it thinks best.

The Attorney-General had no information whatever from the Home Office.

Replying to Mr. Parnell, Mr. Smith said he was prepared to take the question on the bill between 8 and 10 o'clock Monday evening.

McKenna's Move.

LONDON, July 19.—Mr. Joseph Neal McKenna, the Liberal member for South Monaghan, has placed upon the paper in the House of Commons a notice that he will introduce a motion in opposition to the proposed appointment of a Judicial Commission to enquire into The Times' charges against the Irish members in Parliament. It is believed that he takes this action on his own responsibility and without the advice of the Liberal leader.

The Liberals will move an amendmant to the commission with the object of obtaining a definition of the phrase, "other persons."

The Local Government Bill.

LONDON, July 19.—In the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone described the Local Government Bill as an outline which it would be the duty of the Liberals hereafter to fill up. He thought that great credit was due to the Parnellites for not placing any obstacles in the way of its passage. He further thought the House would not permit the Commission to apply to any other persons than members of the House of Commons.

Fighting Eviction.

DUBLIN, July 19.—The work of the bailiffs engaged in making eviction at Kilrush, County Clare, is being obstructed by the population, who have cut all the bridges between Kilrush and Kilkenny and taken other measures to delay the progress of eviction. The chapel bells are tolling to warn the people of the approach of the officers. The plan of campaign has been adopted by the tenants on the Murphy estate at Tralee, County Kerry.

Dillon's Release to be Applied For.

LONDON, July 19.—It is understood that as a result of a visit of Mr. Dealy to Mr. Dillon a motion will be made for a writ of habeas corpus for Mr. Dillon's release.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Mrs. Lee, who was so brutally assaulted by her husband on the 12th, is now in the General Hospital. The medical staff is in hopes of her ultimate recovery.

Dr. Whiting of London, who was recently sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Central Prison, and 50 lashes for a criminal assault on his niece, a child of only eleven years of age, received his first instalment of 25 lashes this morning in that institution. Since his conviction it has been discovered that Whiting is a bigamist, and as soon as his present sentence expires, he will be rearrested and charged with bigamy.

Reuben S. Wilson, who has been in jail for some time pending an investigation into the charge of counterfeiting preferred against him, was up again at the Police Court yesterday. Evidence was forthcoming to show that the $5 bill uttered by him was a counterfeit United States note. Dominion Superintendent Sherwood gave evidence respecting compromising letters written by Wilson to W. H. Parsons at Sarnia. Parsons is now under arrest at Sarnia. Wilson was committed for trial and bail refused.

WELL AND TRULY LAID.

The Corner Stone of Hamilton's New City Hall in Place.

HAMILTON, July 19.—The corner stone of the new City Hall was laid at noon to-day. Addresses were made by Mayor Doran, Alex. McKay, M.P., Adam Brown, M.P., J. M. Gibson, M.P.P., Warden Flett and Ald. Moore. A lunch was given at the Royal Hotel, at which the usual toasts were responded to.

Wm. Waldhoff was charged by James Waldhoff with appropriating a horse. About four months ago the complainant gave his brother $15 to purchase a horse for him. The latter bought the horse with the money, got a receipt for $14 in his own name, and gave Jas. Waldhoff the $1 change. He would not give up possession of the horse, and has been using it ever since then. The case was enlarged until Monday. The magistrate advised the brothers to settle the matter among themselves in the meantime.

Robert Davis, 14 years old, was arrested this morning by Detective Mackenzie for committing an indecent assault on a couple of daughters of John Jackson.

William Loftus, Benjamin Scratch, James Loftus and Albert Whitney, the boys who were arrested for entering George M. Holmes' house on the beach road on Saturday last and stealing a bottle of whisky, besides a number of other articles, were tried by the police magistrate this morning. Scratch and William Loftus, were found guilty and each fined $3 or 30 days. The other two boys were acquitted.

THE SKEENA INDIANS.

Origin of the Trouble the British Columbia Militia Have Gone to Quell.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 19.—The Skeena river flows into Hecate strait, not far from the Alaska boundary, and about 90 miles south of Fort Simpson, the well-known Hudson's Bay post, Hazelton or Hezelton, where the Indian troubles have occurred, is a small settlement on the river about ten miles from its mouth, near what are known as the forks of the Skeena. The origin of the troubles is thus narrated:

Mr. Borland, a well-known packer, arrived from Hazelton on the steamer Boscowitz to confer with the Attorney-General regarding the state of affairs at Hazelton on the Skeena river. Last year an Indian named Kitwon Cool Jim murdered an Indian doctor at the forks of the Skeena. A posse of specials under Mr. Washburne was sent from this city to arrest the murderer. When they arrived at Hazelton it was discovered that Jim had gone to the mountains to elude the officers. The party consisted of Washburne, Loring, Greene, Holmes and Parker. They encamped at Hazelton and awaited the return of the murderer.

Early in June they received information that Jim was at a place called Kitangar, about fifteen miles below the Forks. On June 19 an Indian brought news that Jim was in a house at Kitangar. Early in the morning three of the party walked down to the house, which was occupied by twenty Indians. Jim was among the number and was called upon to surrender. He made a break for the door and ran towards the bush. Holmes fired a revolver over his head after calling upon him to surrender, but he still kept on. Green then raised a Winchester rifle and fired, striking him in the back, the bullet going clear through his body. Jim fell and expired in a short time. Washburne and Loring came to the scene of the tragedy an hour after the shooting and handed the body over to an Indian, who is acting as missionary. The latter told Washburne to take his specials to a place of safety on account of the threats made by Jim's friends to massacre the party. The specials then returned to Hazelton, where they are at present hemmed in by the hostile Indians. They have erected bastions of timber and bags of sand, and can hold out for a month if the Indians can be prevented from burning the place.

Borland is engaged in packing goods for the Hudson's Bay Company between Hazelton and Babine's Lake or Fort Babine. His freight train with five men are above Hazelton, and no freight can be carried up. He had great difficulty in coming down. His canoe was stopped by one party of Indians, and the occupants ordered to return. Borland was determined to get through, and at last convinced the natives that he was not connected with the specials. At every encampment his four Indians went ashore and held a conference with their brethren. Amongst the whites in the locality where the shooting took place are: Mr. Clifford and wife (in charge of the Hudson's Bay store,) Rev. Mr. Fields and wife, and Mrs. Haukin and family. They are very much troubled over the state of affairs.

The Indians demand Green to be handed over to them and one thousand dollars paid them. If the specials refuse to accept their demands they threaten to burn down the houses and murder every white person in the locality. An Indian trapper is still out in the mountains and a number of their men at work in the canneries. Indian women are calling on their warriors to avenge the death of Jim.

Borland says prompt steps should be taken by the Government. Should an uprising take place the lives of all will be sacrificed. The Indians will not allow another white person to come down the river, and unless a large party proceeds to Hazelton without a moment's delay the result will be the massacre of the specials. The river is not navigable for a man-of-war and the Government will probably send a small stern wheel steamer and a large force of specials up from here.

AN ANARCHIST'S CONFESSION.

Full Particulars of the Plot to Murder the Chicago Judges.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Frank Chleboun, the anarchist who with John Hroneck and Frank Chepak schemed to murder Judges Gary and Grinnell and Inspector Bonsfield, has made a full confession. His statement is to the effect that Hroneck unfolded his plans for revenge and told of a bomb which he had invented. It was no larger than a base ball and was to be loaded with dynamite and broken glass. It was denied by Chleboun that the plot was to murder the judges and Inspector, that is, he heard of no such scheme. They were talked of as was Capt. Schaack, and he understood that he was to pay more attention to the captain than to any one else. There was no concerted plan of action, but it was agreed that when all preparations were made he and two others were to be informed by Hroneck just what they were to do in the way of avenging the death of the martyrs.

He was visited by Hroneck who brought him two bombs of the broken glass variety and two sticks of dynamite from which he was to make bombs of gas pipe after the usual pattern. The other two men were also supplied with bombs and dynamite. He had the stuff in his house for about a week and then grew so afraid that it would be discovered that he made away with it by throwing it in a vault.

THE GRAVENHURST STRIKE.

Mill Hands Arrested, Charged with Trespass and Conspiracy.

GRAVENHURST, July 19.—Yesterday a considerable force of the striking mill hands visited the mills of Mickle, Tait and Chews. At the two latter a breach of the peace was committed and some of the employes were carried out in a rough manner.

Warrants were issued against eight or nine of the strikers on charges of trespass and conspiracy and the examination was begun this evening.

Fire at Formosa.

TEESWATER, July 19.—At Formosa, yesterday afternoon, J. H. Brick's grist and saw mills, with a large quantity of lumber, were completely destroyed by fire, which originated in the engine room. Loss about $10,000, insured for $2,000.

Another at Ailsa Craig.

AILSA CRAIG, July 19.—The grist mill owned by J. East and a private dwelling owned by Robt. Scafe were burned here this morning about 4 o'clock. The mill was fully insured.

Shooting at Wimbledon.

LONDON, July 19.—The shooting contest for the Elcho shield at Wimbledon resulted in favor of the Irish team. The scores were: Ireland 1632, England 1642, Scotland 1568.

The Canadian marksmen held a parting reception this evening. The Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne were present.

A Boston Sensation.

BOSTON, July 19.—A sensation to-day in medical circles was caused by the arrest of Dr. George R. Williams for malpractice on Mrs. Josephine W. Alden. The physician is at the head of the profession in Boston and Mrs. Alden is wealthy and highly connected.

The Kaiser and the Czar.

CRONSTADT, July 19.—At 4.30 o'clock this afternoon the German yacht Hohenzollern with Emperor William on board entered the roads amidst volleys and salutes from the war ships and forts. She was received by the Russian yacht Djerava on board of which was the Czar.

IT IS THOUGHT THAT STANLEY'S ALL RIGHT.

An Artist of Surprises and Catastrophes—The Prince of Explorers—Mohamedanism and Christianity—Religiosity in the Few and Hypocrisy in the Many.

PARIS, July 19.—I do not despair of Stanley, even if the mysterious white pasha of the Bahr El Ghazel should turn out to be Emin, which is probable. Stanley is an artist in the surprises, catastrophes and properties of a drama, as well as in its denouement. He is, in fact, a sort of a geographical Sardou and when the world pulls out its cambric handkerchief he will probably come up smiling and ask, "What the deuce is the matter?" I am a great admirer of Stanley. He is simply the prince of African explorers of this day or of any day. But as an administrator I rank him as below par, and the best proof of this is that of all the new stations he has founded on the Congo, at a cruel expense and waste of life and labor, as well as of gold, there is hardly one that has not been abandoned and left to fall in ruin.

On the present occasion his avowed object was the rescue of Emin Pasha, who was distinctly and determinedly declined to be rescued, but Stanley's real object was to divert the ivory trade from the long and expensive Zanzibar line to the cheap and safe waterway of the Congo. The idea is excellent. By this means Belgium recoups the millions wasted upon expeditions and stations. Zanzibar, also, under the unprejudiced annexionist, our cousins-german, can have the sole profit of the slave exportation; nor would a Teuton of them all raise a hand against what brings grist to their mills. Stanley has thus by one touch of his magic wand converted the Congo Free State, the happy hunting ground of Tippoo Tib and his merry Sawahili men—absurdly named Arabs—into a Congo Slave State par excellence. The great slave mines are now transferred from the Unyamwezi Country, the old Mountains of the Moon, to the Upper Congo. These fresh diggings remain to be exploited. Tippoo Tib is made Governor (God save the mark!) of those new slave reserves at a salary of £300 a year, where he can easily make £30,000 a year, and where his followers are pretty sure to shoot him if he talks any nonsense about the abolition of slavery.

You must not expect to hear any truths of this kind in England, where the imperious and tyrannical opinion of society subdues even the boldest spirit. A well-known administrator was sent to the Congo, and after a careful inquiry found Mohammedanism a grand and saving fact, and set down the Christian missionary as an utter humbug in all except being a doughty explorer, a laborious and useful linguist and an able collector of other men's money.

The administrator goes home fully resolved to state the facts uncompromisingly before the public of Great Britain; but, although the administrator is an honest man, the influence and association of old ideas trooping back into his brain so act upon him that so far from stating the facts he states clean to the contrary. He stands up and declares that missionaries are the cream of creation, and that the Gospels are overspreading the land, while, if he mentions Islam, it is in a patronising tone, as if Mohammed were a mere courier to the founder of Christianity.

All this is utterly unfair. It allows the unfortunate public no chance of learning the truth. The narrator may be honest and honorable, but he dare not state the facts, nor has he the courage of his own opinions. If he did, society would turn upon him with the usual "Oh, no, we never mentioned him!" and his name never would be heard unless accompanied by a snarl or sneer. The fact is, England's chronic disease is religiosity in the few and hypocrisy in the many.

RICHARD F. BURTON.

Arranging an Attack on the Mahdi.

LONDON, July 19.—A despatch to The Times says: Parties of pilgrims who arrived at Suakim on Tuesday declared that while passing through Dorofour they heard that a large force of foreigners and others, not natives of the Soudan, headed by an English pasha, were in the marshes of Bahr-el-Gahzelle. The Dorofour tribes were friendly, and were arranging with the strangers an attack upon the Mahdi.

The Report Ridiculed.

PARIS, July 19.—The Journal des Debats states that the Government has no information that the Emperor William will request the Czar's adhesion while at St. Petersburg to an agreement to impose disarmament upon France. The request will find no response in France. French political circles ridicule the report.

Milan and Natalie.

BELGRADE, July 19.—It is stated that King Milan is preparing an answer to Queen Natalie's statements for submittal to the Powers, and that in it he will deny that he has any intention of re-marrying, and will say that his main object in seeking a divorce is to remove his son from the influence of Queen Natalie.

Ismael Pasha Virtually a Prisoner.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 19.—The Sultan refuses permission to Ismael Pasha to go to Germany, which country he desires to visit on the plea of ill health. Ismael finds himself almost a prisoner, and his old friends have the greatest difficulty in gaining access to him.

A Fatal Explosion.

ROUEN, July 19.—Fire broke out to-day in the Spanish steamer Osturiano at this port from New York and caused a tremendous explosion, there being on board a cargo of 8840 barrels of petroleum. Eight of the crew were killed.

His Holiness Will Stay in Rome.

ROME, July 19.—The Pope in a conversation yesterday stated that he does not intend to leave Rome. He expressed regret that his last note to the Irish clergy in regard to the political situation should have been misinterpreted.

A Disastrous Wreck.

LONDON, July 19.—A despatch from Adelaide, Australia, says: The British ship Star of Greece, Capt. Harrower, from London, has been wrecked in Alfinger Bay and twenty persons were drowned.

Drowned in the Niagara River.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 19.—Mrs. Tully, the young wife of Manager Tully of the Feather Renovating Works, was drowned in the river to-day, her body being carried over the Falls.

COMBINES AND THE TARIFF.

THE Globe has been neatly caught. A coffee combine having been organized in the United States General Master Workman Powderly advised the Knights of Labor to boycott coffee and thus, by lessening the consumption of the article, work against the corner. The Globe thought this might be all very well, but it pointed out to Mr. Powderly a more rational and statesmanlike course, and that was to "strike at the root of the whole evil by reducing the tariff to a reasonable revenue basis." It told Mr. Powderly that so long as "the present oppressive tariff" continued combines were not only possible, but almost certain. The tariff gave the opportunity for "cornering" or forming a combine. The Globe's article was a strong argument for free trade, and it made the most of it. But there was one little weak spot in the argument, which the Hamilton Spectator has pointed out.

There is no duty on coffee entering the United States.

The Globe went further in its demonstration that without protection there could be no corners or combines. It referred to England, where the blessings of free trade are enjoyed, and showed how altogether unlikely it was that a corner could be operated there. The argument was supposed to be irresistible. Multitudes of workingmen in the United States, it declared, were coming to feel and understand this to an extend and in a way they never did before. But the cruel Spectator comes forward again and shows where there is another small weak spot in the Globe's argument.

Heavy duties are paid on tea and coffee entering Great Britain.

After all it seems that Mr. Powderly was as near right as the Globe, and it not so apparent that protection is necessary for the existence of combines or corners. The facts regarding coal and coffee point the other way.

IT is not just clear on what ground the Restrictionists claim a victory in Cumberland when it is remembered that there was no Reciprocity candidate in the field.—Toronto Globe.

Leaving aside the misapplication of terms, it may be remarked that in Cumberland, as in Pictou, a victory is claimed because the Liberals did not put forward a candidate. An election by acclamation is as complete a victory as one should want. Another reason is that in Cumberland the candidate whom the Liberal leaders in the county asked their party to support was defeated by over 750 majority. The Conservatives would feel quite satisfied if they always won even little victories like these.

THE London Advertiser closes one eye, looks quizzically at an exchange that suggests that the Senate be reformed, and remarks that "you can't reform a corpse." But you can bury it, and it is time the funeral procession began to move.—Cornwall Freeholder.

The Advertiser thinks so much of the foregoing paragraph that it has printed it twice. Mr. Mowat and the other members of the Interprovincial Conference proposed to "reform" the Senate, but it is apparent that there is a difference of opinion in the party on that question.

IN Cumberland two Conservatives were in the field—one was a prohibitionist, the other was the nominee of the Government. Both, however, were out as supporters of Sir John, and which ever one was elected would have voted with the Government.—London Advertiser.

So? How about the one who declared he would vote against every Government measure and for every non-confidence resolution?

IN his speech at the great Orange demonstration held in Port Hope on Thursday, Mr. John White, ex M.P., came out squarely in favor of unrestricted reciprocity with the United States.—Ottawa Free Press.

Did he? Mr. White said that Canada should not discriminate in her tariff against England, and he opposed commercial union because it involved discrimination. For the same reason he would be bound to oppose unrestricted reciprocity.

IN the dispute in the French Chamber of Deputies Gen. Boulanger called Premier Floquet a "badly educated school usher." Has the general been reading a file of the Globe and adapted an expression used by it towards the Hon. D. Mills?

BEATEN BY NINE WICKETS.

The Toronto Cricketers do up the Local Players in Great Style.

The Toronto cricketers, fresh from their victory at Ottawa on Wednesday, swooped down on Peterborough on Thursday and after a very poorly played game succeeded in scoring a victory with nine wickets to spare. Each club played twelve men.

The playing of the Torontos all around was excellent, particularly their fielding, which was like clock work. On the other hand, particularly during the first innings, the field work of the home players was execrable. No less than eight chances were missed. Fleury, Shanly and Guthrie were all missed on easy flies by some of Peterborough's surest men. In the second innings Fleury was also missed when he had made only four runs.

Captain Ray thought that his team would not be retired for less than a century and a half and the Toronto captain was of the same mind, but the bowling and fielding did the work, before they had got half the expected figure. As long as Toronto had on a fast bowler, Peterborough hit him safely, but when the slow and medium paced men got to work the local players could not find them to any extent, as will be observed from the number of round figures that appear after the names of the players.

Toronto went to bat first and owing to the muffing done by the fielders they made 133 runs. Fleury, of Aurora, who is looked on as one of the best bats in America, made 32, Guthrie 22, Shanly 28 and Collins "the Duke," were the chief scores.

Peterborough's first essay only brought 71. Stratton 36, not out, Hamilton 14 and Burnham and Parker with 7 each were the only players that made a stand at all, there being no less than five "ducks." "A follow on" was the result and this time they did somewhat better, the side being retired for 87. Stratton 32, not out again, Ray 20 and Parker 20 were the double figures obtained. This made a grand total of 158, leaving Toronto with 26 to make to win.

Toronto went in, and two wickets fell for one run, but Fleury again got his eye in and with a little help from the others, including the Peterborough fielders, who gave him a life and enabled him to make two extras, 27 runs were scored and Peterborough was defeated by ten wickets.

Stratton had his best innings on and was really, with the exception of Ray and Parker, the only one who made any show of playing cricket at all. The local men did not get a single extra of any kind, the fielding being too sharp, while the visitors only secured three, two from an overthrow and one from a passed ball.

The bowling of Logan and Day was simply great to see, and if they had received proper support in the field, victory would have perched on Peterborough's banner.

Collins, with his left hand, caught one of the prettiest and most difficult catches ever make on the grounds.

The following is the full score:—

GULLING THE PUBLIC!

IT WON'T WORK.

Why WYATT & TURNER, the Big Bargain Men of Peterborough, are not on Top of the High-Priced Heap, but Away Down in Price.

Why these Pushing, Energetic and Live Dealers do the Business!

IT IS A FACT WORTH KNOWING.

I. That they do not try to gull the public.

II. That they can and do, sell cheaper than others, and why? Because they buy right and are under no great expense. No big salaries or commissions to pay, thereby giving the buyer a great advantage.

III. That they carry one of the largest stocks in the Dominion of Canada.

IV. That they are young men not itching to get rich, but men who know the ropes of the Clothing trade, and are bound to keep big profits down.

V. That they throw out no baits to get you in and then try to sell you what you don't want.

VI. That they do not talk a man to death or try to make him believe black is white or vice versa. He gets what he wants and goes away happy and rejoicing, struck dumb with amazement at the great range of goods and prices he has seen.

We could give you figures here that would astonish you. But some people say "we don't take figures for facts." Well, don't my friend; just step in and see for yourself. We could tell you here, we are selling a $15.00 Suit for $7.95 or a $12.00 Suit for $6.25, etc., but you are sensible, you would not believe it, and you don't. We also might say "we sell our $8.00 Waterproof Tweed Suit at $3.75," but you would naturally say "too much Reduction there, it won't stand the broad light of day" and you are right. And so it is, it was ever thus.

DON'T BE GULLED

but come straight to the Big Bargain House and by the use of your own eyes, see a Bargain and grasp it. You will find the Prices Right in every case, the staff Courteous and Obliging. A Strike.

A couple of well-known amateur oarsmen were out for a spin in a pair oared shell on Thursday evening. They had been down the river and were on their way up. After portaging around the lock, they put on a full head of steam and started towards the lake. By some unknown means or another, they forgot about the new Grand Trunk bridge and its massive stone piers and abutments and suddenly their craft struck a pier with great force throwing the occupants out in the drink, but a remarkable fact is that their boat was not seriously injured and they rowed up home to the boathouse in it.

Police Court.

Thomas Brown, a genuine tough, was charged with vagrancy by Officer Adams. He admitted "bowling up" a little as he had many friends in town. He had just been liberated from gaol and celebrated his release by getting hilariously full. He pleaded for mercy and agreed to leave town within an hour, if permitted to wander. He was allowed to depart with the understanding that if he was not out of town by ten o'clock to-morrow morning he would be arrested.... Henry Slicer, who claimed to be a Green Mountain boy, from Vermont, was the next victim. Officer Adams found him lying on the sidewalk at ten o'clock last night abusing every person that came along. He was run in, and upon promising to get out of town at once he was given the same chance as his partner Brown.... J. Irving was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He admitted the drunk part, but had no recollection of the last portion of the charge. The statements of a person who witnessed the affair was heard and a fine of $5 without costs was imposed, and defendant was given ten days in which to pay it

Ferguson in Limbo.

The man referred to below as Greenfield is well known here under the name of John Ferguson. He was sent from here to penitentiary for burglariaing Mills Bros.' store. He was also arrested in Toronto, on suspicion of being one of the gang that attempted to blow the Dickson Co's safe. The Empire says:—"A man who gave his name as John Greenfield was arrested on Thursday, in Buffalo, N. Y. He had a quantity of gloves which he was endeavoring to sell. He told the officers that he was a Canadian convict, that he had been working for the Canadian Pacific railway and was arrested for breaking seals from cars and for larceny. He said his arrest took place in February last, and that he was sent to the Kingston penitentiary for four years, in addition to which he got six months in the Toronto Central Prison for the offence of larceny. He entered the Central prison on March 6th and escaped from it on May 2nd. He went to Buffalo on the propellor Oswego and from there he made a trip to and from Chicago. He went to Chicago again, and then to Barrie, Ont., where he burglarized a store and stole the gloves found upon him. He returned to Buffalo after the burglary by the Grand Trunk railway. He has a choice of returning to Canada or being tried in Buffalo on the charge of bringing stolen goods into the State of New York. It would appear that Greenfield is the same man who some time ago made his escape from the Central prison, and he looks like being in for the remainder of his term when he gets through with the authorities at Buffalo"

Bodily health and vigor may be maintained as easily in the heat of summer, as in the winter months, if the blood is purified and vitalized with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Every person who has used this remedy has been greatly benefited. Take it this month.

The Mother Goose Concert.

Those who attended the charming concert given under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., on Thursday night, enjoyed a treat in seeing the little folk take their part with aptness and a high degree of enthusiasm. The house was about two thirds filled, a very good audience considering that July weather is on. The stage was nicely arranged with a gigantic shoe in the foreground. In addition to the part of the programme taken by the children, Miss Howden and Mrs. Daly contributed vocal solos, and Miss L. Sanderson a recitation. Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., occupied the chair and pleasantly named—their being no printed programmes—the members as they came in rotation. Following is the list of children who took part in the Mother Goose episode:—

Mother Goose.....Miss Mary Fife
Jack and Jill....Master Percy Owens and Miss [Annie Belleghem
Red Ridinghood.....Miss Gertie Kendry
Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe...Miss Helen Hilliard
King Coal.....Master Eddie Walton
Humpty Dumpty.....Herbie King
Little Boy Blue.....Willie Stubbs
Goody Two-Shoes.....Miss Jennie Moyse
Blue Beard.....Master Thompson Lee
Bopeep.....Miss Alice Fife
Mother Hubbard.....Abbie Robinson
Jack Horner.....Master Evy Hall
Jack, Giant-Killer.....Roby Irwin

The performance opened with a short dialogue in verse by Mr. A. Clegg and Miss Sanders, introducing Mother Goose and her proteges. Then the little folks marched in from the ante-room and took places on the stage. A rousing chorus opened the piece and Mother Goose gave a brief address, and then called on her children to come forward and do their parts. It was very interesting and heartily enjoyable to hear the old nursery rhymes trilled out by the fresh and youthful voices, the chorus being sung with vigor, excellent time and with considerable attention to musical effect. The chorus was sustained by a number of older children seated on a raised platform, and who entered fully into the spirit of the occasion. We have not space to mention in detail individual performances, but all did very well indeed. The characters were dressed in quaint and queer costume and were amusingly like the picture book creations so familiar in every household. The performance by the children was heartily applauded. After a brief intermission Miss Howden sang a charming solo "Day Dreams," and in response to an encore again sang. Miss Lizzie Sanderson gave a well delivered recitation "Maid Martyr of Scotland." Miss Daly sang very sweetly "My Sailor Love," and bowed her recognition in response to a hearty encore. Miss Howden sang "When Sparrows Build," and received a hearty encore when she sang "Il Bacio," and made a marked impression by her brilliant rendering of this difficult selection. The usual votes of thanks to the performers, moved by Rev. M. L. Pearson and seconded by Mr. W. W. Johnston, was carried and the evening closed. To Mr. W. H. Dingle, organist George-st. Methodist church, is due much credit for admirable way in which the children had been trained and for much patient instruction.

THE FORESTERS' EXCURSION.

The Largest and One of the Most Successful of the Season.

As was confidently anticipated by the promoters, the picnic and excursion to Jubilee Point, per the Golden Eye, on Thursday, under the auspices of Court Peterborough No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, was the largest that has left town this year. Shortly after the advertised hour the steamer left her wharf packed from stem to stern. So large was the crowd on board that many who so desired, were not able to get on board and they had to make a pilgrimage to the locks, where a mammoth scow was in waiting. This was also soon filled and it is said that by actual count 537 men, women and children sailed for the Point. The logs in the river were thick and they gave considerable trouble on the trip down, but the fine fresh air and the fun furnished, amply made up for the drawback, and all went merry as a marriage bell. The Fire Brigade band orchestra was on board and at an early stage of the journey they were called upon to tune up and give the dancers a chance to exert themselves and from that time until the town wharf was reached on the return journey, the musicians were kept busy in order to keep the devotees of Terpsichore in good humor. The Point was reached in good time and here everything was found in readiness for the reception of the visitors. Tables were set throughout the shady grounds and probably as hungry a crowd as ever went down the river soon surrounded them. Huge and small baskets were produced and soon depleted of their contents, in order to satisfy the wants of the inner man. Many sought secluded nooks and had family parties. A few also pitched tents. After dinner, swinging, singing, boating, fishing and particularly dancing were largely indulged in, the pavilion being surrounded all afternoon by a large crowd. A boys' race brought out a goodly number of competitors and was well contested. The tug-of-war, Foresters vs. Outsiders, was won by the former after a hard pull. The 100 yards foot race, in heats, was a good one. It resulted as follows:—

Archie Moore	1	3	1
Clark	2	1	2
Albert Rose	3	2	3

The return journey was commenced about four o'clock. At Campbelltown the party disembarked and had tea and after a fine trip and a splendid day's outing, home was reached shortly before 11 o'clock. The committee of management richly deserve the encomiums that are passed on them from all who were down on the trip.

Masonic.

At the election of officers held on Thursday at the meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge, at Toronto, R. W. Bro. B. Shortly of Peterborough, was re-elected D.D. G. M. for Ontario District. The honor done R.W. Bro. Shortly is only a just recognition of the energy and ability he has shown in the discharge, during his term of office, of the various and responsible duties of the position. The brethern of the town and district will no doubt be pleased to know that matters in connection with the work and progress of the craft during the ensuing Masonic year will have so able and painstaking a director as R. W. Bro. Shortly has proved himself to be. It is very well known and generally recognized that often at much personal inconvenience he has made it a point to punctually attend the duties of the office and has earned the esteem and confidence of the members of all lodges within the district. At the Grand Lodge meeting W. Bro. H. Rush took a high place in the election for the office of Grand Junior Warden. Bro. Rush made a fine impression and will no doubt achieve a good position at next meeting.

The next meeting of the Grand Lodge will be held at Owen Sound.

The following were elected officers of the Grand Lodge:—

Most Worshipful Grand Master—Richard T. Walkem, Q. C., Kingston.
R. W. Deputy Grand Master—John Ross Robertson, Toronto.
Grand Senior Warden—J. K. Wills, Toronto.
Grand Junior Warden—Joseph Beck, Goderich.
Grand Chaplain—Rev. F. R. Stratton, Kingston.
Grand Treasurer—Ed. Mitchell, Hamilton.
Grand Secretary—J. J. Mason, Hamilton.
Grand Registrar—H. A. Mackelcan, Hamilton.

In brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver a misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happines to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

You say that if Mr. Wilson's goods are so good, as for instance this piece of China on the mantle, the other things which he sells are sure to be excellent. What a Time

People formerly had, trying to swallow the old-fashioned pill with its film of magnesia vainly disguising its bitterness; and what a contrast to Ayer's Pills, that have been well called "medicated sugar-plums"—the only fear being that patients may be tempted into taking too many at a dose. But the directions are plain and should be strictly followed.

J. T. Teller, M. D., of Chittenango, N. Y., expresses exactly what hundreds have written at greater length. He says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills are highly appreciated. They are perfect in form and coating, and their effects are all that the most careful physician could desire. They have supplanted all the Pills formerly popular here, and I think it must be long before any other can be made that will at all compare with them. Those who buy your pills get full value for their money."

"Safe, pleasant, and certain in their action," is the concise testimony of Dr. George E. Walker, of Martinsville, Virginia.

"Ayer's Pills outsell all similar preparations. The public having once used them, will have no others."—Berry, Venable & Collier, Atlanta, Ga.

MONA'S CHOICE.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER.

"Of course! He really is very good to me, and I am fond of him, as I ought to be! But it is not very lively at Craigdarroch in the winter! Now, Mr. Waring," coming over and standing by the fire-place, her hands clasped and dropped easily before her, "I am very pleased to see you again, and shall be so glad to be friends—quite good friends—again."

She smiled and blushed charmingly as she spoke.

"So shall I," very shortly. "Do you know I have thought and tormented myself a great deal about you. Oh, no!—not as I used, I mean; because I did not know what had become of you. I knew you did not stay on with the Everards. I am afraid they did not behave very well."

"I fear I deserved their displeasure."

"I don't think you did. How is Madame Debrisay?",

"Very well indeed, and no longer Madame Debrisay. She is married to General Fielden. I fancy you know him—an old artillery officer."

"No! Is it possible? I remember old Fielden. It will be very nice for him to have such a capital woman to jog on with for the rest of the road. I always liked her."

"Well, she returned the compliments."

"I am afraid she would not have thought much of me if our acquaintance had continued. I was very weak and reckless."

He looked steadily at her as he said this.

"I have heard something of the kind," murmured Mona, unclasping her hands, and putting back her hair with a pretty, troubled gesture, as she generally did when in any little difficulty. "And—and (we are to speak freely, you know) I was infinitely distressed. I feared I might in some measure—"

"No, no!" he interrupted. "I see what you mean. It is the thought of a kind heart; but you are in no way responsible. I ought to have been man enough to do right for right's sake. No one is to blame but myself. I let that passion for gaming, which I confessed to you once," he sighed, quickly, "quite overmaster me; in fact, it was a bad bit of my life just before that day I met you in Kensington High Street, walking with young Macalister. Then I had a severe attack of fever. I was all but gone. If I had been of any value to anyone, I should have died, no doubt. After that I came to my right mind, and determined to do what I could with the remains of my fortune. In so doing I lost more. Then I fell in with my present partner, and threw in my lot with his. The life is healthy and rather suits me. I shall stick to it, and, perhaps, make something of it. Do you know, it quite cheers me up to feel friends and all right with you, at any rate for the few hours I shall remain; and even after, though probably, we may never meet again, you'll give me a kind thought, and a good wish sometimes."

"I always thought kindly of you," said Mona, gently, while she felt the tears in her eyes. "You deserve so much from me! Yes, it is very nice to be good friends; and you must tell me all about your life in the wilds."

"I beg your pardon!" cried Kenneth, bursting into the room; "but I could not get away before. Come, we have lost too much time already."

"Would your cousin come with us?" asked Waring. "If she can walk so far. It is a fine morning. What do you say, Miss Craig."

"I should like to come very much," said Mona, frankly. She felt delightedly at home and at ease once more. "I must ask Uncle Sandy if he can spare me; and I can turn back when I have gone far enough, so as not to impede your progress."

She went swiftly away to seek her uncle. Waring walked to the window, and stood with folded arms in deepest thought, quite oblivious that Kenneth was talking to him.

But Mona soon returned to announce that she had permission to absent herself, and in a few minutes the trio were climbing the hill-side to gain the upper road by a short cut.

* * * * * * *

It was a very delightful expedition. Waring said the scenery surpassed all he had ever seen before for beauty, though he might have met with grander views. They found endless subjects for conversation, and when Mona proposed to leave them, both gentlemen decided that they would return with her, as it would be impolite not to return in time for dinner.

Mona was surprised at her own lightheartedness, at the delightful sense of harmony which soothed her spirit after her short confidential talk with Waring. How generous he was in exonerating her from all blame! How glad she was to be on frank, friendly terms with him! It was evident he had quite got over his old fancy for her, so they could enjoy each other's society with perfect safety for the little time he was with them. Alas! that it was so short. Well, let to-morrow take heed of itself, she would enjoy to-day.

And it went quickly—too quickly. Waring was shown everything about the place by Uncle Sandy himself, who generally bestowed a degree of attention and favor on his guest such as Mona had never seen bestowed on any other visitor. Then, in the evening, Waring seemed never tired of her songs—excusing his frequent demands on the score of his speedy departure to a land where the ditties of a cowboy, or the crack of his whip, were all the music he would hear.

Then came the inevitable hour of parting.

Waring had still some business to settle in Glasgow respecting the small sum he had inherited, and after a few days there he had to visit London, finally embarking at Liverpool.

Mona could hardly steady her voice to bid him good-bye. It seemed too cruel that he should be expatriated merely for a little—not a little—imprudence, and, say what he might, Mona could not but perceive that had she married him, he would never have committed the faults and follies which had changed his life.

Waring himself was quite calm and cheerful. He promised Uncle Sandy to write occasionally. He begged Kenneth to come and pay him a visit whenever it could be managed; and he looked for an instant, kindly and gravely, into Mona's eyes, holding her hand in a painfully tight grasp; then he mounted the phaeton in which Kenne... was already seated, and they drove off.

"Noo they are awa'," said Uncle Sandy, as he hobbled toward the library, followed by his niece, "we'll have yesterday's paper till the new ane comes. I read varra little."

Mona made no reply; she would have given anything for half an hour's private thought, and the relief of tears, but this need must be concealed at any cost.

"Eh," continued her uncle, falling into his chair, "yon's an uncommon fine young man. You see how the Scotch bluid tells in him. He was awfu' fulish an' led away for a bit, but he has come a' right, like a brave chiel; and he has his mother's eyes."

"Then the late Mrs. Waring must have had very fine eyes," said Mona, rousing herself to speak cheerfully.

"Ay, she had that—she had that. From a' young Leslie (I canna bide his ither name)—from a' he tells me, I'm thinking he'll do weel oot yonder. It's a rough life, but it's honest and healthfu', and he'll get mair goed oot o't than he'd find among a pack o' proud, upsetting fule-bodies in London." Then with a groan, "Eh, but my limbs are bad the day. Noo, my dearie, just look at the city article, an' after that, there's something aboot the colonies I want to hear."

So Mona put away the strange, passionate regret which had overwhelmed her, and read steadily for more than an hour, by which time she was completely herself. Then Uncle Sandy wished for a walk, and took her arm, pottering about till nearly dinner time, and still Kenneth did not re-

Run Over and Mangled.

WYOMING, July 19.—Last evening at 9 o'clock an old lady named Mrs. Carr, who was a passenger on the west bound express, stepped off at this station and was run over by the train, crushing one of her legs to pieces from the thigh downward. Dr. Harvey had her removed to Butler's hotel, where he amputated the limb and gave the patient every possible attention, but, her age being at least 70, it is doubtful if she can recover. She was on her way from her daughter's in New York to her son, named Richard Carr, who lives in Rochester, Minn.

The trial of the ... election protest is proceeding at Halifax.

The chairmen of the grievance committees of the various railroads at their meeting at Chicago yesterday asked the public to suspend judgment with regard to the dynamite cases.
